Changes in Classification

Order No. 3,144, March 19, 1930, directs:

In class 62, Refrigeration (Division 44), establish the following subclasses and definitions:

Refrigerators, ice
Display
37.1 Top ice cooled,
37.2 End ice cooled,
37.3 Bottom ice cooled.
Refrigerators
89.5 Display
89.6 Top cooling means,
91.5 Solidified gas.

37.1. REFRIGERATORS, ICE, DISPLAY, TOP ICE COOLED. Patents coming under subclass 37 in which the cooling ice is above the thing cooled.

37.2. REFRIGERATORS, ICE, DISPLAY, END ICE COOLED. Patents coming under subclass 37 in which the cooling ice is near one end of the refrigerator.

37.3. REFRIGERATORS, ICE, DISPLAY, BOTTOM ICE COOLED. Patents coming under subclass 37 in which the cooling ice is below the thing cooled.

89.5. REFRIGERATORS, DISPLAY. Patents coming under subclass 89 and having in addition structure or added means to display the contents.

Note.—See the search note under this class, subclass 89.

Note.—See this class, subclass 37, and the subclasses indented thereunder.

Note.—See class 312, SUPPORTS, CABINET STRUCTURES, subclasses 114. Show-case type, and the subclasses indented thereunder, and 165, With compartments, With refrigerator.

89.6. REFRIGERATORS, DISPLAY, TOP COOLING MEANS. Patents coming under subclass 89.5 and having cooling means above the thing to be refrigerated and displayed.

91.5. REFRIGERATORS, SOLIDIFIED GAS. Refrigerators cooled by a solidified gas other than water ice.

Note.—See search note under subclass 92.

The patents contained in subclasses 37.1, 37.2, 37.3, 89.5, and 89.6 have been taken from class 62, Refrigeration, subclass 37, Refrigerators, ice, Display, and those contained in subclass 91.5 have been taken from class 62, Refrigeration, subclass 92, Refrigerators, Liquefied gas.

In class 64, Pulleys and Shafting (Division 45), establish the following subclass:

Rotary shaft couplings
90.5 Speed controlled.

The patents contained in this subclass have been taken for the most part from class 64, Pulleys and Shafting, subclass 90, Rotary shaft couplings, Angular adjustment; class 123, Internal-Combustion Engines, subclass 117, Speed regulators, Automatically-controlled igniting device; and class 264, Speed-Responsive Devices, subclass 16, Centrifugal, Parallel pivot, and are directed to shaft-coupling devices in which the position of a driven shaft is controlled from a driving shaft in response to the speed of the latter. They are largely directed to spark advancing, and class 123, Internal-Combustion Engines, subclass 117, Speed regulators, Automatically-controlled igniting device, should be noted for combinations in which similar couplings are used.

Interference Notice

U. S. PATENT OFFICE, Washington, Mar. 19, 1930.

Washoff Products Company, its assigns or legal representatives, take notice:

An interference having been declared by this Office between the application of George A. Hornbecker, 99 Wheeler St., Waterville, Conn., for registration of a trade-mark and trade-mark registered October 28, 1924, No. 190,851, to Washoff Products Company, Lima, Ohio, and a notice of such declaration sent by registered mail to said Washoff Products Company, at the said address having been returned by the post office as undeliverable, notice is hereby given that unless said Washoff Products Company, its assigns or legal representatives, shall enter an appearance therein within 30 days from the first publication of this order the interference will be proceeded with as in case of default. This notice will be published in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE for three consecutive weeks.

WM. A. KINNAN,
First Assistant Commissioner.

DECISIONS IN PATENT AND TRADE-MARK CASES

U. S. Court of Customs and Patent Appeals

Stern and Heuther v. Schroeder and Wagner

No. 2,100. Decided December 19, 1929

1. Interference—Priority—Reduction to Practice.

The claim in issue Held to read upon a machine of a specifically different construction from that of their application, and S. and W. Held entitled to priority as the first to conceive the invention and the first to reduce it to practice by the building of such machine.

2. Same—Same—Concurrent Decisions of the Patent Office.

"It has repeatedly been held, in cases of this character, that when the tribunals of the Patent Office concur in findings of fact, such findings will not be disturbed by this court, unless the decision appealed from is manifestly wrong."

3. Same—Same—Patentability of the Claims Not in Issue.

"The question of patentability of the claims in the interference appears, if not actually, at least, inferentially, to have been raised. This question is not now before us."

Appeal from the Patent Office. Affirmed.

Mr. Hans V. Briesen and Mr. Fred A. Klein for Stern and Heuther.

Mr. Kenneth S. Neal for Schroeder and Wagner.

Hatfield, J.:

This is an appeal, in an interference proceeding, from a decision of the Board of Appeals affirming the decision of the Examiner of Interferences awarding priority of the invention to appellees.

The apparatus involved in the interference is used for scoring and slotting blanks of pasteboard in the production of folding boxes or cartons.

The counts of the interference read as follows:

1. In a rotary box blanking machine, means for slotting a blank on opposite edges, and means for creasing the blank between said slots, said slotting and creasing means being constantly interengaged and adjustable simultaneously for varying the distance apart of the slots and creases and for automatically maintaining the creases in alignment with the slots.

2. In a rotary box blanking machine, creasing means including a creasing roller, and slotting means for slotting the opposite edges of the blank, said slotting means including a roller having a groove therein, said roller being positioned so that the creasing roller will project into said groove whereby all of the parts are interengaged and are adjustable simultaneously for different sized blanks.

3. In a rotary box blanking machine, a plurality of sets of slotting members adapted to be adjusted toward and from each other, said slotting members having parts which interengage whereby the units are adjusted as one member, and a creasing roller for each of the slotting units, said creasing rollers continually overlapping part of the slotting structure whereby they are automatically shifted toward each other with the slotting structures.

Appellants, Stern and Heuther, filed their application (No. 677,227) on November 27, 1923.

Appellees, Schroeder and Wagner, filed their application (No. 732,847) on August 18, 1924.

[1] The Examiner of Interferences held that, as to the particular machines shown in the applications of both parties, and referred to in the record as the "four-bar type," conception had been established as follows: Appellants, April 9, 1923; appellees, June 1, 1923. He further held that, if appellees had established conception of this particular type of machine at an earlier date—to wit, in either 1920 or 1921—as was claimed—they were lacking in diligence with respect to such a machine just prior to and just after April 9, 1923, when Stern and Heuther had successfully used such a machine.

(It might here be said that, due to the state of the record, we do not consider, nor express any opinion upon the question of the diligence of appellees with respect to the "four-bar-type" machine.) However, priority of invention was awarded to appellees, Schroeder and Wagner, on the basis of a so-called "floating-ring type" of machine, differing somewhat in construction from the "four-bar type," but which, it was held, supported each of the counts in issue. The "floating-ring" machine was constructed and sold by Schroeder and Wagner some time during the month of September, 1922. The Examiner of Interferences went into considerable detail in explanation of his holding that the so-called floating-ring-type machine supported the counts in the interference. In view of the fact that this question is a highly technical one, we deem it advisable, although it may extend this opinion considerably, to quote that portion of his decision relating thereto:

In the machine in question there was a rotating male slotter above a rotating female slotter. The female slotter comprised two circular knives slightly spaced apart. Between those two blades was placed a ring of a diameter slightly greater than that of the female slotter. This ring was constantly urged upward by a spring pressed cradle on which it rested. The male slotting knife had two segmental knives attached to its periphery spaced 180 degrees apart. The slotting occurred when these knives cooperated with the two cutters of the female slotter. The rest of the time the male slotter presented a smooth cylindrical surface adjacent to the female slotter. The floating ring pressed against this cylindrical surface with sufficient force to crease the paper blank as it passed through the machine. Whenever one of the segmental cutters of the male slotter came opposite the female slotter it pushed the floating ring down into the groove of the female slotter.

From what has just been said it is believed to be fully apparent that the floating ring of the Schroeder and Wagner 1922 machine was a "means for creasing the blank between said slots." It is believed to be plain also that the slotting and creasing means were constantly interengaged and adjustable simultaneously, the male slotter engaging the female slotter only at times, namely, when the cutting segments of the male slotter entered the female slotter. Stern and Huether have shown the same relation and none other between the two slotters. The floating ring of the 1922 Schroeder and Wagner machine was so interengaged with the female slotter as to compel it to move along with the female slotter whenever the latter was adjusted along its shaft. The interengagement of the floating ring with the female slotter was due to the fact that the ring was in the groove of the slotter. The interengagement disclosed in Stern and Huether's application is likewise made between the single shiftable creasing element and the female slotter. The interengagement is of two kinds. The edge of the creasing disk passes within the groove of the female slotter. Besides this interengagement, the two are interengaged by means of a bar extending from the hub of one of the elements to the hub of the other. It is believed count 1 reads as well on the 1922 Schroeder and Wagner floating ring machine as it does on the two applications here directly involved.

Count two calls for creasing means including a creasing roller. Unless the floating ring of the 1922 Schroeder and Wagner machine can properly be called a creasing roller, that machine did not support count 2. Unquestionably the floating ring, whatever its position in the groove in the female slotter, was constantly mounted on its supporting cage so as to enable it to roll around and around on its cage. Its constant contact with the male slotter required that kind of movement. It is therefore held that, taking the word "roller" in its ordinary and proper meaning, it is properly applicable to the floating ring of the Schroeder and Wagner 1922 machine. It is believed to be plain from what has already been said that the female slotter which was "a roller having a groove therein" was so positioned that the floating ring "or creasing roller" projected into the groove of the female slotter and that as the result of this projection the creasing element moved with the female slotter on adjustment of the latter along its shaft. It is therefore held that the Schroeder and Wagner 1922 machine exemplified count 2.

As for count 3 the main point to be determined is whether the floating ring, that is the creasing roller, continuously overlapped part of the slotting structure. One definition of "overlap" as given in Webster's New International Dictionary is, "to lap over; to overlie; either, to extend over a part of; or, to extend over and beyond." Taking the last meaning, "to extend over a part of; or, to extend over and beyond," it is believed to be plain that the floating ring of the Schroeder and Wagner 1922 machine, whatever its position in the groove of the female slotter, in every case satisfied one or the other of the two parts of this definition. It is therefore held that the Schroeder and Wagner 1922 machine exemplified count 3 also.

An appeal was taken by appellants to the Board of Appeals, and it was there claimed, as it is claimed here, that the so-called floating ring type of machine constructed and sold by appellees in September, 1922, does not support the counts in issue; that appellants were entitled to a finding that they conceived and reduced the invention to practice as early as February 4, 1922; and that appellees could not claim the subject matter of the interference in their application if the counts in the interference "were readable on their original patent 1,493,404 issued May 6, 1924."

In explanation of the latter claim it may be said that appellees received a patent (No. 1,493,904), on the floating ring type of machine on May 6, 1924, on an application filed January 4, 1923.

The Board of Appeals affirmed the decision of the Examiner of Interferences, holding that appellants were not entitled to a finding that they conceived or reduced the invention to practice as early as February 4, 1922; that the so-called floating ring type of machine constructed and sold by appellees in September, 1922, supported the counts in the interference; and that appellees were entitled to an award of priority.

[2] The real issue before this court is whether the floating ring machine constructed and sold by appellees in September, 1922, conforms to the claims in issue. If it does, appellees were clearly entitled to the award of priority. We have studied the record with care, and particularly that portion of the decision of the Examiner of Interferences (affirmed by the Board of Appeals without extended comment) where the counts in issue were applied to the floating ring machine of appellees. The questions involved are highly technical. It has repeatedly been held, in cases of this character, that when the tribunals of the Patent Office concur in findings of fact, such findings will not be disturbed by this court, unless the decision appealed from is manifestly wrong. Jobski v. Johnson, 247 O. G. 279; 47 App. D. C. 230, and cases cited therein; Blaine v. White, 277 O. G. 787; 50 App. D. C. 38; 267 Fed. 34. See, also, Ruth v. Groch, 296 O. G. 839; 51 App. D. C. 226; 277 Fed. 861; and Oldroyd v. Morgan, 347 O. G. 4; 58 App. D. C. 78; 24 Fed. (2d) 1004.

[3] Counsel for appellants argue, however, that, even if this court should agree with the tribunals below on the issues of fact involved in the case, appellees are not entitled to a decision in their favor because of the principles announced in the case of Chapman et al. v. Wintroath, 272 O. G. 913; 232 U. S. 126. In that case the Supreme Court held that an inventor, whose original application fully disclosed but did not claim an invention which was later patented to another, was entitled under the law to a period of two years after the patent was issued within which to file either a divisional or other application for the invention. We are at a loss to understand how this decision, if it has any application to the issue at bar, can be helpful to appellants. The question of patentability of the claims in the interference appears, if not actually, at least, inferentially, to have been raised. This question is not now before use.

We are unable to hold that error has been committed in awarding priority of invention to appellees. Accordingly, the decision is affirmed.

Affirmed.

U. S. Court of Customs and Patent Appeals

STERN AND HEUTHER v. SCHROEDER AND WAGNER

No. 2,161. Decided December 19, 1929

1. INTERFERENCE—PRIORITY—RIGHT TO MAKE THE CLAIMS. S. and W. Held entitled to make the claim in issue in their reissue application in view of the disclosure of their original application.

2. SAME—SAME—QUESTIONS INVOLVED. The primary, perhaps the sole, question in an interference case is that of priority. "Such matters as 'intervening rights' and 'public use' appear to be so remote from this principal question as to have no proper bearing upon it."

3. SAME—SAME. Record reviewed and Held to establish that S. and W. were the first to conceive the invention and the first to reduce it to practice and as such entitled to the reward of priority.

APPEAL from the Patent Office. Affirmed.

Mr. Hans V. Briesen and Mr. Fred A. Klein for Stern and Heuther.

Mr. Kenneth S. Neal for Schroeder and Wagner.

GARRETT, J.:

This is an interference case relating to a machine for making box blanks from corrugated board, the blanks being afterwards folded and used for packing and shipping goods and merchandise.

Priority was awarded to Schroeder et al. on a single count of interference, on the basis of a reissue application filed September 10, 1925, Serial No. 55,634. This was an application for a reissue of their Patent No. 1,493,404, bearing date of May 6, 1924, granted upon their application filed January 4, 1923.

The application of appellants was filed on November 27, 1923, and was pending at the time of the reissue application of appellees.

The decision of the Examiner of Interferences awarding priority to appellees was rendered December 22, 1926. Appeal was taken to the Board of Appeals, which affirmed the decision of the Examiner November 1, 1927, and the case was then appealed to the court and so comes before us.

It appears that at one time during the pendency of the case in the Patent Office, a third application, that of Samuel M. Langston, was involved in the interference proceedings and parts of the record refer to it, but the Langston issue has been eliminated so far as this court is concerned, and the only controversy before us is that of Stern and Huether v. Schroeder and Wagner.

The count in issue is as follows:

In a paper machine, the combination of a pair of cooperating disks for slotting a blank, a scoring wheel for scoring said blank and means whereby said slotting disks and scoring wheel are connected to move in unison in axial directions.

This count originated in an application filed by appellants on November 27, 1923, which application was placed in interference with an original application of Schroeder and Wagner filed August 18, 1924. Later this particular interference was terminated and another declared with the reissue application of Schroeder and Wagner above referred to.

The matter with which we are concerned is that of priority. To determine this, it is necessary that we should first find whether the structure of Schroeder and Wagner is so similar to that of Stern and Huether as to read upon the count, and whether the Schroeder and Wagner patent upon which their reissue application was filed is sufficient to disclose the subject matter of the count.

[1] This technical issue seems to involve two questions: first, whether a certain ring referred to as a "floating ring," numbered 56 in the Schroeder and Wagner drawings, is the equivalent of the scoring wheel called for in the count.

Second, whether the reissue application discloses as a separate and distinct element "means whereby said slotting disks and scoring wheel are connected to move in axial directions."

The Law Examiner in the Patent Office passed upon these questions favorably to appellees, the Examiner of Interferences held likewise, and the Board of Appeals affirms these prior decisions. So three tribunals of the Patent Office have concurred upon the general issue of technique.

The decision of the Board of Appeals says:

In the Schroeder and Wagner construction the scoring member 56 is located in the groove in the female slotting disk and is urged upward into scoring position by the spring pressed cradle by which it is supported. The reason why the scoring member of Schroeder and Wagner is in ring form is that it is located in the peripheral groove of the lower slotting disk instead of on a separate shaft. It must be capable of floating movement to permit it to function as a scoring member while allowing cooperation of the slotting disks to slot the blank. In performing the scoring operation the member 56 functions as a wheel in that it rolls in contact with the upper cooperating slotting and scoring member. We agree with the holding of the Law Examiner that in a broad sense the scoring member 56 of the Schroeder and Wagner reissue application may be regarded as a wheel. The scoring member 56 of Schroeder and Wagner is mounted in the peripheral groove of the lower slotting member and as stated near the bottom of page 7 of the reissue specification moves along with the lower slotting member. It seems to us that Schroeder and Wagner just as clearly discloses the "means" of the count as do Stern and Huether in whose application the axial movement of the scoring wheel in unison with the slotting disks is secured by engagement of the periphery of the scoring wheel with the groove in one of the slotting disks. Our conclusion is that the interference count is properly supported by the Schroeder and Wagner reissue application.

The Law Examiner in his decision says:

The count originated with Stern and Huether, as their claim 2. In their disclosure the scoring wheel 35, Fig. 2, extends into groove 18ª of a slotting disk 17, and is a separate element from the slotting disks 17, 17ª.

In the reissue application of Schroeder and Wagner, the scoring "wheel" must be the floating ring 56, which, as shown in Fig. 3, is movable relative to wheel 33, being of larger diameter, and is depressed at times by blades 42 and 43 from the normal position in Figs. 5 and 7 to the position in Fig. 6 without interfering with the rotation of wheel 33. The wheels 32 and 33 may be adjusted longitudinally of the shafts 30 and 56, and the holder for ring 56 moves or shifts along with wheel 32 so that the floating ring is always in the same plane with the slotting knife segments 42 and 43.

The ring 56 may be considered a wheel in the broader sense. A wheel does not have to have a hub and spokes, and a disc wheel is practically an annulus or ring with a central opening for an axle or shaft. Incidentally, it may be noted that the patentee called member 33 a wheel or ring. If ring 56 may be described as a wheel it is a scoring ring or wheel and no new matter is introduced into the reissue application by giving the ring another name. Ring 56 is a separate element from the slotting disks of Schroeder and Wagner and may be properly included as a distinct element in the count. Even if the scoring ring or wheel plays a substantial part in the slotting it may be recited as a separate element (ex parte Duncan, Prichard, and Macauley, 1906 C. D. 348; ex parte Hammond, 1924, C. D. 43). The ring 56 moves along shaft 26 with disk 33 and hence with disk 32 when a slotting knife 42 or 43 is left in the groove of disk 33, so that the patent to Schroeder et al., No. 1,493,404, and the reissue application provide means whereby the slotting disks and scoring wheel are connected to move in unison axially.

From our examination of the specifications, drawings, and claims, aided by an inspection of numerous exhibits on file, it does not appear to us that these holdings of the Patent Office tribunals are erroneous, and we concur in their conclusion that the respective structures read upon the count in issue both as to the floating ring or wheel and as to the "means whereby the slotting disks and scoring wheels are connected to move in axial directions."

The member 56 of Schroeder and Wagner and the member 35 of Stern and Huether are so nearly similar, it seems to us, as to justify the holding, and certainly the means for movement in axial directions are quite as clearly disclosed by appellees as by appellants.

Appellants argue, however, that inasmuch as the Schroeder and Wagner application is for a reissue, this case falls within the doctrine laid down in Manly v. Williams, 168 O. G. 1034, 37 App. D. C. 194, 201; Hauss v. Merrell, 261 O. G. 956, 48 App. D. C. 433; and MacFarren v. Morgan, 375 O. G. 209, 24 F. (2d) 1003. This doctrine as stated in the Manly case and reiterated and followed in the others is—that attempts to enlarge the scope of an application once filed or of a patent once granted should be frowned upon, especially when the result would be the appropriation of an intervening invention.

In all three of these cases the Commissioner was reversed, but it should be noted that in each case the Appellate Court specifically found that the original application had failed to disclose the device or structure there in issue.

In the instant case it appears to us, as it did to the Patent Office tribunals, that the Schroeder and Wagner specifications and claims do disclose the features at issue, particularly under the application of the well-settled legal principle that in interference proceedings "the claims will be given the broadest interpretation which they reasonably support"

Lynch v. Headley, 307 O. G. 737, 52 App. D. C. 269, 285 Fed. 1003, 1004. What was said in Machine Co. v. Murphy, 97 U. S. 120, 125, seems apropos:

> • • • the court or jury, as the case may be, are not to judge about similarities or differences by the names of things, but are to look at the machines or their several devices or elements in the light of what they do, or what office or function they perform, and how they perform it, and to find that one thing is substantially the same as another, if it performs substantially the same function in substantially the same way to obtain the same result.

There is much argument by appellants to the effect that appellees did not in their reissue application disclose the idea of simultaneously shifting the slotting and scoring parts, but this argument apparently overlooks certain language of the original patent, No. 1,493,404, upon which the reissue application is based. In the specifications of that patent we find the following:

> It will be noted from Figure 4 that the wheel 32 is not only splined to the shaft 30 but is held in place by set screws so that it may be adjusted longitudinally of shaft 30 for spacing the slots 69 as desired. The wheel 33 is constructed in a similar manner as indicated in Figure 3 so that it may be correspondingly adjusted. It will be noted that the plate or holding structure 65 containing the supporting mechanism for the floating ring, also moves or shifts along with the wheel 32, so that the floating ring is always in the same plane with the slotting knife segments 42 and 43. This will automatically insure that the creases 70 are in perfect alignment with the slots 69 and 71.

It would seem that the language is sufficient to disclose to "one skilled in the art" an adequate showing as to the necessary action in operation. In any event the disclosure of Schroeder and Wagner upon this point is apparently quite as full as that of appellants. The specifications of both parties appear to assume, as we think they properly might assume, a knowledge upon the part of the persons operating the machine "that one of the male slotting blades should be engaged with the groove on the female slotting head or disk."

In view of this state of facts we do not feel that appellees can successfully invoke the principle declared in Otis v. Ingoldsby & Bowling, 154 O. G. 1108, 35 App. D. C. 102, wherein it was said:

> It is not the object of section 4916, Revised Statutes, relating to the reissue of a patent to encourage or permit the insertion of claims in the reissue application which involve an impractical mode of operation, or which are obviously inserted for the sole purpose of appropriating claims of other inventors.

In Pierce v. Bell, 239 Fed. 549, 554, cited by appellants, the United States District Court said:

> The introduction in a reissued patent of claims for invention which are described but which the patentee neither claimed nor intended to claim by the original patent is unauthorized and void. Ide v. Trorlicht, etc., Co., 115 Fed. 137, 53 C. C. A. 341; Clements v. Odorless Apparatus Co., 109 U. S. 641, 3 Sup. Ct. 525, 27 L. Ed. 1060.

These three cases were infringement cases, and the facts differed from those in the instant case.

The fourth assignment of error is:

> That Schroeder and Wagner never claimed the subject matter of the interference, abandoned it, if they ever were the inventors thereof, and that Stern & Heuther and their company had secured intervening rights which could not be dominated by Schroeder and Wagner more than two years after such rights had been established.

In support of this appellants invoke the doctrine laid down in the noted case of Chapman v. Wintroath, 272 O. G. 913; 252 U. S. 126, and we are asked to hold the principle there declared as being applicable to a divisional application to be also applicable to a reissue application. In the Chapman v. Wintroath case the court applied to a division application through which an interference was sought to be established the principle of R. S. 4886, U. S. C. A., title 35, section 31, which prohibits the grant of a patent where the subject matter of the application "had been in public use or on sale in his country for more than two years" before the filing of the application.

In argument appellants say:

> We can see no difference in principle between a divisional application and a reissue application particularly when the original patent and its application on which the reissue is based never contained a claim directed to the subject matter of the interference.

[2] We think this position is not tenable in an interference proceeding. Certainly the primary, perhaps the sole, question in an interference case is that of priority. There may be a number of subsidiary issues which the tribunals of the Patent Office and this court must pass upon in order to reach a conclusion upon the one question, priority, but these subsidiary issues must relate directly to the principal one, and such matters as "intervening rights" and "public use" appear to be so remote from this principal question as to have no proper bearing upon it. Even if the record in the instant case were in such a state as to present the questions of intervening rights and public use in a way that we could determine them, and even if that determination were to the effect that appellants had acquired such rights and that such public use was shown as that appellee would be barred from securing a patent, still such finding would not really aid in settling the issue of who was prior, the sole issue with which we are concerned in this proceeding.

The court decisions appear to be uniform in holding that questions of public use and intervening rights cannot properly be considered in interference cases. Earles & Lowe v. Gomber, 288 O. G. 287; 50 App. D. C. 389, 273 Fed. 353; Hayes v. Davison, 287 O. G. 593; 50 App. D. C. 361, 273 Fed. 325; Norling v. Hayes, 166 O. G. 1282; 37 App. D. C. 169, 1911 C. D. 347; Frost v. Chase, 169 O. G. 945; 37 App. D. C. 179, 1911 C. D. 347.

[3] The remaining subsidiary questions necessary to be determined are the respective (a) dates of conception and (b) reduction to practice.

Stern and Huether claim July 15, 1921, for conception and explanation to others; December 14, 1921, for first drawings; and about February 15, 1922, for completion and operation of the first machine.

Schroeder and Wagner claim the last week in June, 1920, for conception and first drawings; March 1, 1921, for completion and operation of their first machine; and about May 1, 1922, for first "written description of the invention."

Much testimony was taken by both parties and a large number of exhibits, such as drawings, samples of the corrugated paper boards, photographs, a pattern of a part, time cards of laborers in the factories, contracts, letters, bills, books, etc., were filed. So we presume the case to have been as fully presented by each party as the facts would warrant.

The finding of the Board of Appeals upon this phase is as follows:

> Grounds 2 and 5 of the Stern and Heuther appeal relate to questions of priority based on the testimony. Touching ground 2 of the appeal we are not satisfied that the evidence introduced in behalf of Stern and Heuther establishes a reduction to practice as early as February 4, 1922. The date urged for conception under ground 5 of the Stern and Heuther appeal is December 6, 1922. Even if this date were accorded to Stern and Heuther, and we think it has not been established, it is later than the date to which Schroeder and Wagner are entitled for actual reduction, September —, 1922, based on the construction and sale of a machine embodying the subject matter of the interference count.

We find no reason in the mass of testimony to disagree with this finding of the Board. To enter upon a complete written review of the evidence would draw this opinion out to an undue length and we forego so doing, feeling that it could serve no useful purpose. We have very thoroughly read and studied it in detail, having the benefit of the oral arguments as well as the careful analysis of it made in the respective briefs.

Upon the whole record in the case the tribunals of the Patent Office have concurred in affirming the right of Schroeder and Wagner to make the claim of the count and in according them priority. It is the established rule that such decisions will be accepted by the appellate court as binding unless palpable and manifest error has been committed. Oldroyd v. Morgan, 374 O. G. 4; 58 Appls. D. C. 78; 24 F. (2d) 1004, and cases therein cited.

We find no such error and accordingly the decision of the Board of Appeals is affirmed.

Affirmed.

Adverse Decisions in Interference

In interferences involving the indicated claims of the following patents final decisions have been rendered that the respective patentees were not the first inventors with respect to the claims listed:

Pat. 1,578,296, A. H. Taylor, Multifrequency crystal-controlled oscillator, decided January 13, 1930, claim 10.

Pat. 1,614,579, B. W. Twyman, Lifting jack, decided January 10, 1930, claims 1 and 2.

Pat. 1,727,865, H. Debottay, Process of utilizing carbonic acid, decided February 1, 1930, claims 1 and 2.

Final decision in interference has been rendered against the following trade-mark:

T. M. 148,241, Malt extract, M. C. Rosenfeld Co., of Boston, Massachusetts. Registered November 8, 1921. Decided February 10, 1930.

Adjudicated Patents

(C. C. A. N. Y.) Hermani patent, No. 1,267,409, for apparatus for applying hinge pintles for box-part blanks, claims 3, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 14, and 50 Held not infringed. (Id.)

(D. C. N. Y.) Armstrong patent, No. 1,322,511, for stable-surface alloy steel, claims 4 and 5 Held not infringed, the other claims valid and infringed. Ludlum Steel Co. v. Terry, 37 F (2d) 153.

(D. C. N. Y.) Johnston patent, No. 1,388,434, for method and apparatus for butt-welding thin-gage tubing, claims 1, 2, and 22 Held invalid; claims 4, 5, 10, 14, 16, 17, 19, and 26 Held valid and infringed. Steel and Tubes, Inc. v. Greenpoint Metallic Bed Co., 37 F (2d) 172.

(D. C. N. Y.) Johnston patent, No. 1,435,306, for butt-welded thin-walled tubing, claims 3, 5, 6, and 9 Held valid and infringed. (Id.)

(D. C. N. Y.) Armstrong patent, No. 1,456,088, for heat-treated stable-surface alloy steel, claim 4 Held not infringed, the other claims Held valid and infringed. Ludlum Steel Co. v. Terry, 37 F (2d) 153.

(D. C. N. Y.) Armstrong patent, No. 1,533,782, for valve for internal-combustion engines, Held valid and infringed. (Id.)

(C. C. A. N. Y.) George reissue patent, No. 14,393, for hinge-wiring machine, Held invalid. Tin Decorating Co. of Baltimore v. Metal Package Corporation, 37 F (2d) 5.

Disclaimers

1,332,793.—Leon Bloch, New York, N. Y. COMBINED WASTE AND OVERFLOW. Patent dated March 2, 1920. Disclaimer filed March 13, 1930, by the patentee and the exclusive licensee, The Republic Brass Company.

Hereby makes disclaimer of the subject matter of claim 1 except where the means permitting the withdrawal of the waste valve through the overflow pipe and elbow is limited to the proportioning of the valve, pipe, and overflow elbow, so as to permit such withdrawal, and where a flexible connection with the valve constitutes part of such means.

1,626,731.—Joseph Herman, New York, N. Y. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR SYNCHRONIZATION IN PICTURE TRANSMISSION. Patent dated May 8, 1927. Disclaimer filed March 12, 1930, by the assignee, American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Hereby enters this disclaimer to the said claim of said Letters Patent, which is in the following words, to wit:

"9. In a signaling system means for generating a sustained alternating current, means for continuously modulating said alternating current according to message signals, means for receiving said modulated current, and means for dividing said received current into message signal currents and into synchronizing signal currents."

1,647,317.—James M. Selden, Pittsburgh, Pa. PROCESS OF CARRYING ON CATALYTIC REACTIONS. Patent dated November 1, 1927. Disclaimer filed March 18, 1930, by the assignee, The Selden Company.

Hereby enters this disclaimer to the process of claims 1, 2, and 3 of said Letters Patent except when the "single body of fluid" is directed positively through a path of movement which includes a cooling zone partitioned off from the zone where the plurality of bodies of catalyst are situated and where the excess heat of the reaction is being produced and the cooling by a gaseous medium takes place in said partitioned off cooling zone and the cooled liquid is returned to the zone where the plurality of catalyst bodies are situated.

TRADE-MARKS

OFFICIAL GAZETTE, APRIL 1, 1930

[VOL. 393. No. 1]

The following trade-marks are published in compliance with section 6 of the act of February 20, 1905, as amended March 2, 1907. Notice of opposition must be filed within thirty days of this publication.

Marks applied for "under the ten-year proviso" are registrable under the provision in clause (b) of section 5 of said act as amended February 18, 1911.

As provided by section 1 of said act, a fee of ten dollars must accompany each notice of opposition.

CLASS 1

Raw or Partly-Prepared Materials

Ser. No. 272,126. BOKOSHE SMOKELESS COAL CO., Bokoshe, Okla. Filed Sept. 10, 1928.

Applicant disclaims the right to the exclusive use of the word "Bokoshe" apart from the trade-mark as shown in the drawing. The drawing is lined for red.

For Coal.

Ser. No. 289,128. JOHN PRYCE & CO., Batavia, Java, Dutch East Indies. Filed Aug. 28, 1929.

For Skins of Domestic and Wild Animals, Reptiles, and Fishes in a Raw or Partly-Prepared Condition.

Ser. No. 289,513. GOLDBERG SEED & FEED COMPANY, Fargo, N. Dak. Filed Sept. 9, 1929.

For Field, Garden, and Vegetable Seed.

Ser. No. 294,537. LOUISIANA FURS, INC., Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 8, 1930.

LAFI

For Pelts or Unfinished Furs, Such as Muskrat, Opossum, Mink, Raccoon, Otter, and Others.

Claims use since Jan. 1, 1930.

CLASS 3

Baggage, Animal Equipments, Portfolios, and Pocketbooks

Ser. No. 293,083. ELY & WALKER DRY GOODS COMPANY, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Nov. 29, 1929.

The words "Ely & Walker, St. Louis—Makers" are disclaimed as part of the trade-mark.
For Luggage—Namely, Trunks, Suitcases, Traveling Bags, and Hatboxes for Traveling Purposes.
Claims use since Oct. 1, 1929.

Ser. No. 294,808. KARI-KEEN MANUFACTURING CO., INC., Sioux City, Iowa. Filed Jan. 15, 1930.

Baggage Master

For Luggage Carrier in the Nature of a Trunk.
Claims use since about Dec. 12, 1929.

CLASS 4

Abrasive, Detergent, and Polishing Materials

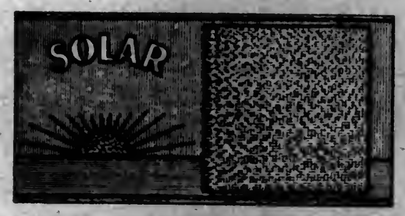
Ser. No. 291,216. THE GOODYEAR TIRE & RUBBER COMPANY, Akron, Ohio. Filed Oct. 18, 1929.

The line shading in the drawing denotes the color red.
For Automobile Top Dressing.
Claims use since July 15, 1929.

Ser. No. 294,918. W. P. FULLER & CO., San Francisco, Calif. Filed Jan. 18, 1930.

For Dry Cleaner for Fine Fabrics, Kid, Leather, Paintwork, Etc.
Claims use since Feb. 1, 1927.

CLASS 6



Chemicals, Medicines, and Pharmaceutical Preparations

Ser. No. 277,085. ROYAL BAKING POWDER COMPANY, Jersey City, N. J., and New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 21, 1928.

SOLAR

For Baking Powder.

Ser. No. 277,086. ROYAL BAKING POWDER COMPANY, Jersey City, N. J., and New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 21, 1928.

The lining on the drawing represents the colors red, blue, and yellow. No claim is made to the illustration of a label as such.
For Baking Powder.

Ser. No. 278,803. ANDREW A. OBETKOWSKI, doing business as Union Products Company, Detroit, Mich. Filed Feb. 2, 1929.

The protrait illustrated is merely fanciful, and the words "A Certified Quality Product" are disclaimed apart from the mark shown.
For Liniments in Liquid Form Applied Externally for Relief of Pain and Inflammation, Castor Oil, Cough and Cold Medicines, Epsom Salts.
Claims use since Jan. 3, 1929.

Ser. No. 279,887. FRANK X. SCHRAM, doing business as F. X. Schram Laboratories, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 25, 1929.

SALIS A COM

For a Medicinal Preparation for Removing Verruca and Papilloma, Callous, Nail Groove, and for Treating Soft Corns, Nervovascular and Vascular Corns.
Claims use since Dec. 13, 1927.

Ser. No. 285,582. MERKOLENE CHEMICAL CO., Charleston, W. Va. Filed June 14, 1929.

MERKOLENE

For Ointment for Treating Wounds, Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Chapped Hands and Lips, Skin Diseases, Hemorrhoids, Sunburns, Insect Bites, and Sores and for Preventing Blood Poison.
Claims use since Apr. 15, 1929.

Ser. No. 285,617. BABY HEALTH PRODUCTS, INC., Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed June 15, 1929.

Applicant is the owner of registered Trade-Mark No. 83,862.
For Talcum Powder for Babies.
Claims use since on or about Oct. 17, 1911.

Ser. No. 287,297. REBECCA HALIF, doing business as Madame Halif, Lynbrook, N. Y. Filed July 18, 1929.

THE MARVEL OF THE AGE-GUARANTEED
MADAME HALIFS

No claim being made to the exclusive use of the words "Guaranteed Madame Halifs."
For Preparation for the Treatment of the Scalp.
Claims use since May 31, 1929.

Ser. No. 287,536. LES GRANDS PARFUMS DE FRANCE, INC., New York, N. Y. Filed July 23, 1929.

The words "Parfums, Paris," and "New York" are disclaimed apart from the mark shown on the drawing.
For Perfumes.
Claims use since Mar. 10, 1929.

Ser. No. 288,076. THE KENDALL COMPANY, Boston, Mass., and Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 3, 1929.

El Gallo

For Corn and Bunion Plasters.
Claims use since on or about June 1, 1912.

Ser. No. 288,750. ADJUTOR J. LAMBERT, doing business as A. J. Lambert, Auburn, Me. Filed Aug. 20, 1929.

CANCER RELIEF

The words "Cancer Relief" appearing on the drawing are hereby disclaimed.
For Liniment Used Internally for General Relief of Cancer.
Claims use since Feb. 15, 1923.

Ser. No. 290,531. CALEB THOMPSON, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Oct. 2, 1929.

THOMPSON'S

HEALTH TONIC

No claim being made to the words "Health Tonic" nor to the surname "Thompson's" apart from the mark shown on the drawing.

For Tonic for Earache, Deafness, Nervousness, Blood Purifying, System Building, Weak Kidneys, Indigestion, and Lumbago.

Claims use since Feb. 1, 1929.

Ser. No. 291,455. HOUSEHOLD UTILITIES CO., Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 23, 1929.

LES FLEURS RENDEZVOUS

For Hand Lotion, Nail Polish, Liquid Cuticle Remover for Removing the Cuticle Around Finger Nails, Toilet Water, Perfume, Talcum Powder, Bath Salts, Cold Cream, Shampoo, Vanishing Cream, and Brilliantine.

Claims use since Oct. 4, 1929.

Ser. No. 292,452. LES PARFUMS DE MOLYNEUX, INC., New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 15, 1929.

Le Chic de Molyneux

The trade-mark "Le Chic de Molyneux" is in the actual handwriting of Edward Molyneux.

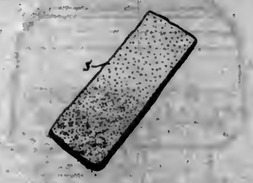
1,752,303. INTERFERENCE NEUTRALIZER FOR ALTERNATING-CURRENT TELEGRAPH SYSTEMS. LEO A. KELLEY, Elmhurst, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 24, 1930. Serial No. 423,218. 5 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)

1. The method of neutralizing interference in an alternating current telegraph receiving system, in which the normal movement of the armature of a receiving relay from one contact to another is controlled by rectified signaling currents representing marking and spacing impulses, which consists in transmitting a signal over or through a medium by means of a carrier frequency, which signal is exposed to interference from a source of disturbances, selecting and rectifying the said carrier frequency, and impressing the rectified current upon the receiving relay, also selecting and rectifying a portion of the disturbance having a frequency different from that used for the said signal, applying said rectified disturbance to the said receiving relay, and controlling the application of the said rectified disturbance by the received signal impulse to be protected against interference, so that the rectified disturbance will prevent the interference existing in the signaling channel from moving the armature of the receiving relay from that contact to which it has been moved by the signal impulse to be protected against interference.

1,752,304. FOLDING TABLE. JOHN KOVATS, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed June 6, 1929. Serial No. 368,814. 8 Claims. (Cl. 45—11.)

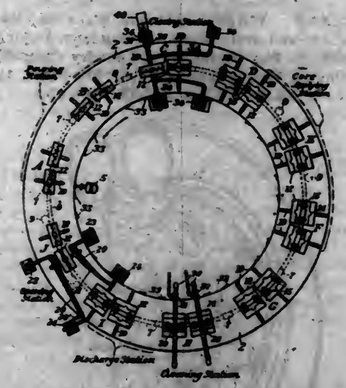
1. In a table, a plurality of supporting legs pivoted to the table on individual pivots arranged so that all the legs fold in the same direction with respect to the periphery of the table, guides at the corners of the table, a flexible cable running over these guides, a guide bar secured to the table adjacent each leg and provided with a guide way having an offset portion, movable blocks having guide means in said guide ways, there being a block for each leg, means for securing the blocks to the cable, a brace link pivoted to each leg, and a connecting link pivoted to each brace and to the adjacent block, the pivotal connection between the two links being guided in said guide way.

1,752,305. SOLUTION OF MEDICAMENT AND PROCESS OF PREPARING SAME. CARL LUDWIG LAUTENSCHLÄGER, Frankfort-on-the-Main, and MAX BOCKMÜHL and RUDOLF SCHWABE, Hochst-on-the-Main, Germany, assignors, by mesne assignments, to Winthrop Chemical Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 5, 1926, Serial No. 99,962, and in Germany Apr. 21, 1925. 5 Claims. (Cl. 167—65.)



1. A chemotherapeutic agent comprising a water-soluble derivative of a polyvalent alcohol in which at least one of the hydroxyl-hydrogens is replaced by an organic radicle, said derivative having in solution therein an organic medicament difficulty soluble in water.

1,752,306. FOLDING CHAIR. CLIFFORD J. MARSON, Cambridge City, Ind., assignor to The Standard Manufacturing Company, Cambridge City, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed June 10, 1924. Serial No. 719,078. 3 Claims. (Cl. 155—142.)



3. A folding chair, comprising front leg members, a back pivoted at its upper end to and between the upper end portions of the front leg members, rear legs pivoted at their upper ends to intermediate portions of the front leg members and being located at the inner sides of the same, a seat having its main body extending between and pivoted directly to the front leg members below the upper ends of the rear legs, said rear legs having longitudinal slots and the rear end of the main body of the seat being reduced in width and extending between the rear legs, said reduced portions having outstanding lugs slidable in the slots, the lower end of the back being reduced in width and extending between the upper ends of the rear legs above the seat, and sliding sleeve connections between the reduced lower end of the back and the upper end of the rear legs above the slots and the seat.

1,752,307. PLASTIC ARTICLE. RICHARD V. MATTISON, Ambler, Pa., assignor to Ambler Asbestos Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Original application filed Mar. 6, 1926, Serial No. 92,730. Divided and this application filed Dec. 22, 1926. Serial No. 156,428. 8 Claims. (Cl. 108—8.)

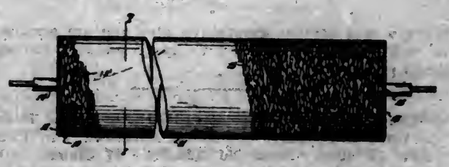
7. As an article of manufacture a plate consisting of a homogeneous mass of colloided cement deposited and set to form the entire thickness of the plate, and fibres distributed throughout the set cement, said fibres being matted by deposit with the cement in the course of manufacture whereby they are disposed in general parallelism with the plane of the plate, strengthening it against transverse stresses.

1,752,308. APPARATUS FOR MOLDING. CLIFTON D. PETTIS, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 17, 1925. Serial No. 63,032. 17 Claims. (Cl. 22—77.)

1. In a molding apparatus, a movable carrier, a plurality of molds thereon movable to open and closed positions, fluid pressure cleaning means cooperating with said carrier for cleaning the molds while in open position, and a movable mounting for said cleaning means, substantially as described.

1,752,309. LUBRICANT PRODUCT AND PRODUCING PROCESS. RUDOLPH R. ROSENBAUM, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 1, 1927. Serial No. 223,487. 3 Claims. (Cl. 87—9.)

3. A metal ricinoleate formed from a castor oil soluble in lubricating oil.



1,752,310. BRIEF CASE. LEO STEIN, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 5, 1927. Serial No. 203,582. 5 Claims. (Cl. 150—1.6.)

1. In a device of the class described, a brief case having a cover flap formed with spaced slots, a reinforcing element beneath said flap, spaced reinforcing elements in a line parallel to said first element and disposed upon the outer side of the flap, and means carried by the spaced elements, extending through the slots and engaged with the first element to connect said spaced elements with the first element, said means restraining the spaced elements against pivotal movement relative the first element.

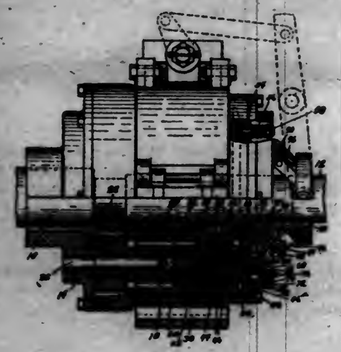
1,752,311. DANDY ROLL. WALTER KNOWLES TROTMAN, Holyoke, Mass. Filed Mar. 30, 1929. Serial No. 351,181. 2 Claims. (Cl. 92—48.)

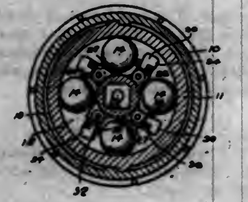
1. As an article of manufacture, a dandy roll in the form of a hollow cylinder, there being a plurality of wavelike slots in said cylinder, said slots extending substantially in the same direction, so as to simulate, when viewed collectively, a threadlike fabric appearance.

1,752,312. HINGE DEVICE. MAGNUS TURNQUIST, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 4, 1927. Serial No. 172,648. 3 Claims. (Cl. 16—140.)



1. A hinge device comprising swinging leaves and a plurality of members which are provided with means for causing them to slide lengthwise of one another, and causing them to move laterally when they are so slid lengthwise, said members having inclined abutting surfaces by which the lengthwise sliding and laterally projecting movement is secured; said means for causing initial lengthwise movement comprising a screw threaded member engaging one end of the said pin.

1,752,313. CLUTCH MECHANISM. HENRY A. TUTTLE, Upton, Mass.; Jennie L. Tuttle executrix of said Henry A. Tuttle, deceased. Filed Apr. 4, 1927. Serial No. 180,705. 6 Claims. (Cl. 192—69.)



1. Clutch mechanism including the combination of a casing having an end wall, clutch plates disposed therein on one side of said end wall, thrust pins associated with said clutch plates and extended slidably through said end wall, a ring opposed to said thrust pins and carried by said casing on the other side of said end wall and having an angularly-adjustable connection with said casing and having a continuous annular groove opposed to said thrust pins, and operating links having heads which are disposed between said annular groove and pins and are arranged to rock in said groove and to apply pressure on said thrust pins.

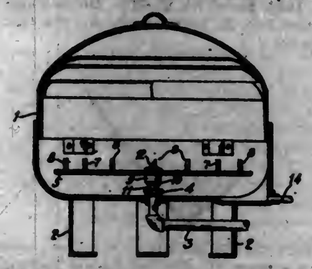
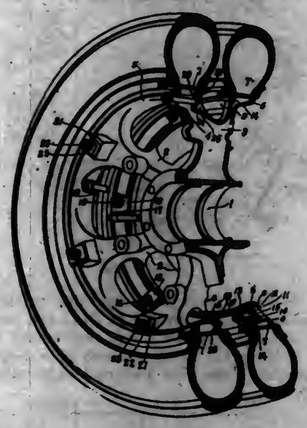
1,752,314. PULVERIZING OR GRINDING MILL. DAVID J. UHLS and JOSEPH V. DURWIN, Allentown, Pa. Filed Nov. 22, 1928. Serial No. 321,206. 17 Claims. (Cl. 83—45.)



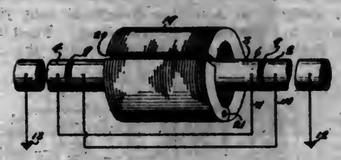
1. In a grinding mill, a casing, a grinding ring arranged within the casing, grinding balls operating upon the grinding ring, a drive shaft extending between the grinding balls, pusher elements having convex ball engaging surfaces spherically curved in all directions, and a support carrying the pusher elements and driven by the shaft.

1,753,315. SHELF RACK. WALTER N. VANCE, North Aurora, Ill., assignor to Lyon Metal Products, Incorporated, Aurora, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 15, 1929. Serial No. 347,241. 3 Claims. (Cl. 211—135.)



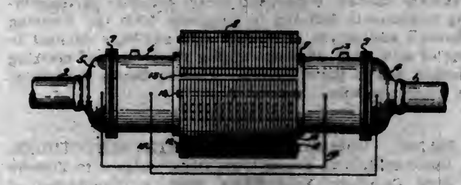
3. A divider support comprising a strip, spaced arched projections punched from said strip and in alinement with each other, a flat portion intermediate the ends of the arched projections for receiving a flange on a vertically arranged shelf divider, said strip being adapted for attachment to a face of a shelf member, whereby the flange of the divider will fit in the straight portion between the ends of the arched projections to hold the divider vertically in position between a pair of shelves and prevent lateral displacement of the divider.

1,752,316. NOZZLE FOR DISHWASHERS. HERMAN F. VOSHARDT, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Friedley-Voshardt Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 29, 1927. Serial No. 202,244. 2 Claims. (Cl. 299—69.)



1. In a dishwasher, the combination, of a nozzle, a water supply pipe leading to the nozzle, said nozzle being rotatably mounted upon the inner end of said pipe, said nozzle comprising an annular member, a hub, a plurality of radially extending arms connecting said hub and said annular member, there being passages through said hub leading to the interior of the arms and the annular member, and a plurality of discharge nipples mounted upon said annular member and said arms said nipples being inclined from the vertical.

1,752,317. WHEEL. GEORGE WALTHER, FRANK H. WALKLEY, and JOHN HENRY BORGHARDT, Dayton, Ohio, assignors to The Dayton Steel Foundry Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 18, 1923. Serial No. 632,826. 1 Claim. (Cl. 301—13.)

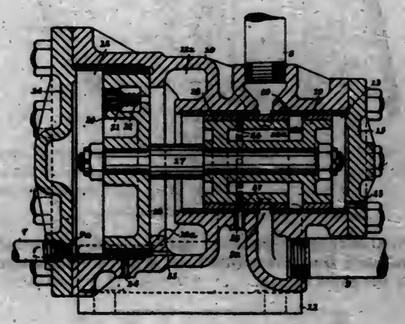


In a dual pneumatic wheel, a hub and main spokes, each main spoke having outer and inner spoke portions, outer and inner rims on said spoke portions, means for attaching demountable rims to the respective wheel rims staggered in relationship to one another, the retaining means on the inner rim being located between the spokes, and that portion of said outer rim between the spoke ends being so fashioned that the distance from the hub center to said retaining means on the inner rim is less than the distance from the hub center to the opposite inner circumference of the outer rim, whereby an operating tool may be used on said inner retaining means without interference from said outer rim.

1,752,318. APPARATUS FOR REDUCING SHEATH CURRENTS. FRANCIS J. WHITE, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to The Okonite Company, Passaic, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Original application filed Apr. 8, 1927, Serial No. 181,916. Divided and this application filed Feb. 28, 1928. Serial No. 257,679. 7 Claims. (Cl. 173—81.)

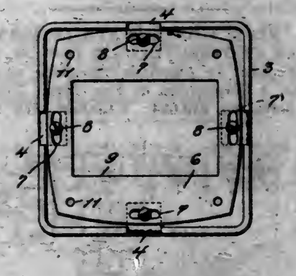
1. An insulated cable in which the sheath thereof is divided into discontinuous lengths insulated from each other, and conductors directly connecting the said sheath lengths so that the electromotive force induced in one length is opposed to the electromotive force induced in another length of the same sheath of the same cable.

1,752,319. APPARATUS FOR REDUCING SHEATH CURRENTS. FRANCIS J. WHITE, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to The Okonite Company, Passaic, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Original application filed Apr. 8, 1927, Serial No. 181,916. Divided and this application filed Feb. 28, 1928. Serial No. 257,680. 6 Claims. (Cl. 173—81.)



1. In combination a junction or joint box for connecting the conductors of two lengths of an electric cable, a section of said junction or joint box being insulated from adjacent sections of the junction or joint box and from the adjacent sheath of said lengths of electric cable, a core of laminated magnetizable material disposed about the insulated portion of said box and in inductive relation to the cable conductor therein, each end of said insulated section being connected by a conductor to the remote cable sheath.

1,752,320. APPARATUS FOR REDUCING SHEATH CURRENTS. FRANCIS J. WHITE, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to The Okonite Company, Passaic, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 8, 1927. Serial No. 181,916. 2 Claims. (Cl. 171—316.)

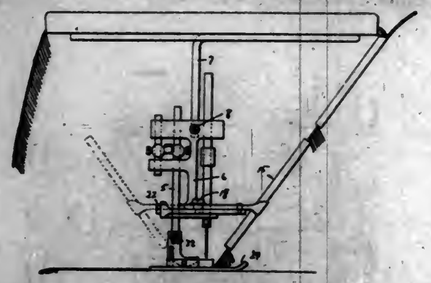


1. In combination, a conductor cable, a sheath or conducting covering therefor in discontinuous lengths, a core of magnetizable material applied about said cable and having an adjustable air gap and a winding for said core, the ends of said windings being connected to adjacent lengths of the sheath.

1,752,321. DRIFTING VALVE. DAVID T. WILLIAMS, Paterson, N. J. Filed Dec. 31, 1925. Serial No. 73,567. 3 Claims. (Cl. 121—137.)

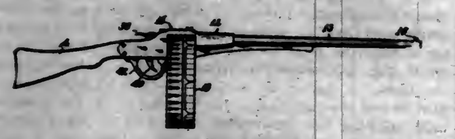
1. A drifting valve device for locomotive engines including a cylinder having an eduction port in its cylindrical wall forming with said cylinder a part of a passage for conducting fluid to the working space of the engine while the locomotive is drifting and a valve movable lengthwise of and in the cylinder to close off said passage, said device having means for venting from the cylinder fluid entering the latter when the valve is closed including a groove surrounding the valve at one side of said eduction port and a passage extending from said groove to the end of the valve at the other side of said port.

1,752,322. OUTLET BOX. FREDERICK B. ADAM, St. Louis, Mo. Filed July 3, 1924. Serial No. 724,015. 6 Claims. (Cl. 247—19.)



1. The combination of a receptacle, a finish plate, a contact device, carried by the finish plate, a substantially flat mounting enclosed by the receptacle and having an opening therethrough adapted to accommodate the contact device, and means including said mounting, and holding means associated therewith, for selectively locating the finish plate in variable angular relation to any wall of the receptacle.

1,752,323. GUIDE ATTACHMENT FOR PRESSER BARS. ROBERT BANKIER, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed June 29, 1928. Serial No. 289,275. 7 Claims. (Cl. 112—136.)



1. In combination with a needle head for sewing machines, a shank rising from the needle head, a guide plate supported on the shank and in a horizontal position, a guide trough leading downwardly from one end of the guide plate and inclined inwardly toward the presser foot bar, a guide plate bent over upon itself to be substantially U-shaped in formation, and means for supporting the guide plate from the needle head so as to be in alinement with the guide trough.

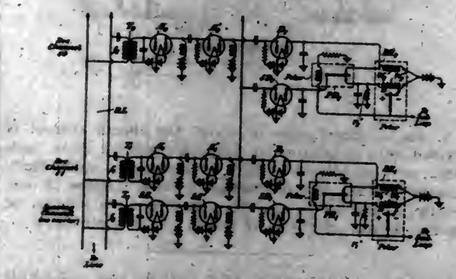
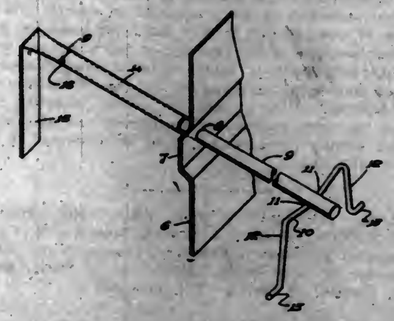
1,752,324. AUTOMATIC RIFLE. ANDREW BOCHNAK, Bobtown, Pa. Filed May 6, 1929. Serial No. 360,674. 3 Claims. (Cl. 42—59.)



1. In a rifle of the class described, a central casing with a cartridge wheel passage, an arm depending from the casing, a cartridge wheel mounted on the arm and formed with gear teeth, and means including the gear teeth for advancing the cartridge wheel a cartridge distance upon operating of a trigger of the rifle, said cartridge wheel being provided with means for holding cartridges against accidental displacement, including pivoted levers engageable with the cartridges.

1,752,325. REDUCTION OF STATIC INTERFERENCE IN CARRIER SYSTEMS. DAVID E. BRANSON, River Edge, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 15, 1928. Serial No. 319,654. 7 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)

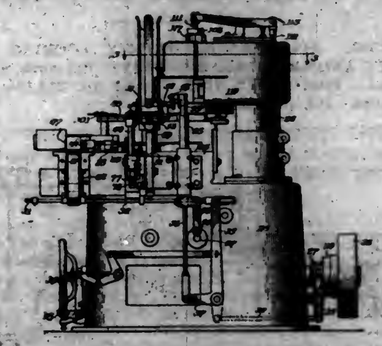


1. In a carrier system, a receiving channel comprising means to select an alternating carrier current, means to detect from said carrier current a telegraph signal, and a receiving relay responsive to said signal; auxiliary channel apparatus selective of components of interfering energy differing in frequency from the carrier waves to which the receiving channel is selective; and connections from said auxiliary channel apparatus to said receiving relay and controlled by said receiving relay to produce in said relay, in response to interference, electrical effects similar to but opposing those produced on said relay by the interference effect in said receiving channel.

1,752,326. REDUCTION OF STATIC INTERFERENCE IN CARRIER SYSTEMS. DAVID E. BRANSON, River Edge, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 15, 1928. Serial No. 319,655. 6 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)

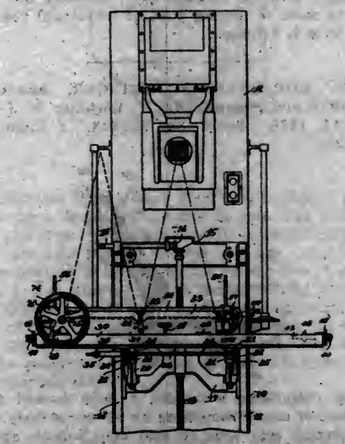
1. In a carrier system, a receiving channel comprising means to select an alternating carrier current, means to detect therefrom signaling impulses, and a receiving relay having an operating winding responsive to said impulses to shift the armature in one direction, and a biasing winding to shift the armature in the opposite direction; an auxiliary channel comprising means selective of interfering components differing in frequency from the receiving channel, and means to connect said auxiliary channel to one of said relay windings during the receipt of marking signals, and to the other relay winding during the receipt of spacing signals.

1,752,327. DOWEL FOR CONCRETE STRUCTURES. BERNARD BRODY, Youngstown, Ohio, assignor to Truscon Steel Company, Youngstown, Ohio, a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Oct. 11, 1928. Serial No. 311,872. 7 Claims. (Cl. 94—8.)



1. A dowel structure for concrete roads and the like, comprising telescoping sections, each adapted to be embedded in adjacent concrete slab members, and supporting members secured to said sections and constituting permanent anchors therefor in the concrete.

1,752,328. SQUARE-CAN CAP-SEAMING MECHANISM. WILLIAM CAMERON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Cameron Can Machinery Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Aug. 30, 1926. Serial No. 132,413. 20 Claims. (Cl. 113—14.)



20. In a can seaming machine the combination of a turret adapted to receive a can body and a cap therefor, seaming mechanism for attaching said cap to said body, a feeler finger, means for moving said finger transversely to the plane of a cap in said turret for detecting the presence or absence of a cap therein, and means controlled by said finger for rendering the machine inoperative in the event of the absence of a cap from said turret.

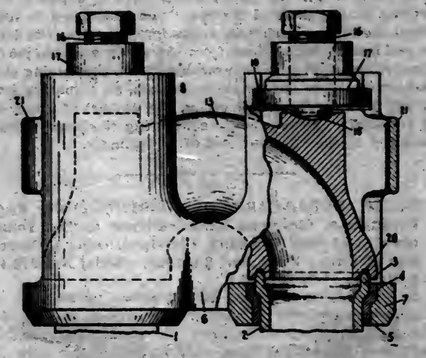
1,752,329. COPYHOLDER. ARTHUR W. CAPS, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Photostat Corporation, Providence, R. I., a Corporation of Rhode Island. Original application filed Jan. 20, 1927, Serial No. 162,257. Divided and this application filed Feb. 20, 1928. Serial No. 257,290. 15 Claims. (Cl. 88—24.)

1. In a photographic apparatus, the combination with a copyholder having a latch member projecting from an end thereof and adapted for reversible movement, of a buffer member adapted to contact with said copyholder to limit the movement of said copyholder and a collar mounted on said buffer member and adapted to cooperate with the latch member carried by said copyholder for locking said copyholder in contact with said buffer.



1,752,330. SUPPRESSION OF INTERFERENCE IN CARRIER TELEGRAPH SYSTEMS. ROBERT H. CLAFF, Ramsey, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 15, 1928. Serial No. 319,602. 6 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)

1. In a carrier telegraph system, a receiving channel including a receiving relay, means responsive to an interfering wave in said channel to produce a current impulse, and means controlled by the receiving relay to apply said current impulse to said relay so as to tend to hold its armature against the contact upon which it rests at the time the interfering wave occurs.

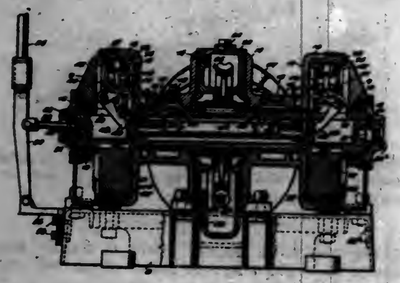
1,752,331. RETURN BEND. FRED C. FANTZ, Webster Groves, Mo. Filed Apr. 5, 1929. Serial No. 352,780. 6 Claims. (Cl. 285—20.)

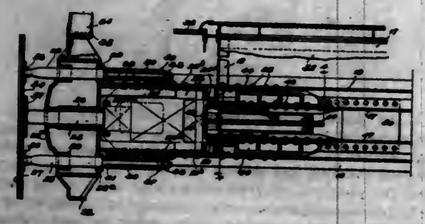


6. A connection for tubes for oil stills comprising a return bend, a housing therefor having annular portions formed thereon adapted to encircle the ends of a pair of tubes, upwardly extending side walls on said annular portions, means detachably secured to said side walls adjacent their tops and set screws mounted in said means, webs which connect said side walls and said annular portions, whereby the tendency of the said walls to spread when subject to pressure is overcome.

1,752,332. CLEAN-OUT ELBOW FOR CRACKING STILLS, ETC. FRED C. FANTZ, Webster Groves, Mo. Filed Apr. 12, 1929. Serial No. 354,461. 4 Claims. (Cl. 137—76.)

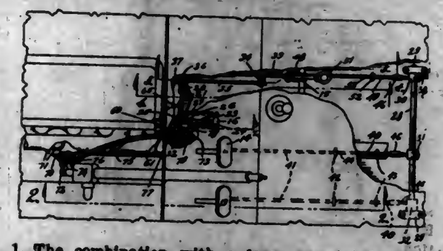
1. An elbow for cracking stills having an opening at the center of its outer bend, a plug to close said opening and adapted to provide a seal therefor, the sealing surface between the plug and wall of said opening being so shaped that the plug can be removed without any sliding movement between adjacent parts, upwardly extending arms at each side of said opening, there being arcuate recesses formed therein, means detachably mounted in engagement with said recesses and a set screw mounted in said means which engages said plug whereby the tightening of said set screw will cause said plug to seal said opening.

1,752,333. HAULAGE APPARATUS. OMAR E. CLARK, Denver, Colo., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Gardner-Denver Company, Quincy, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 16, 1925. Serial No. 30,729. 3 Claims. (Cl. 254—185.)



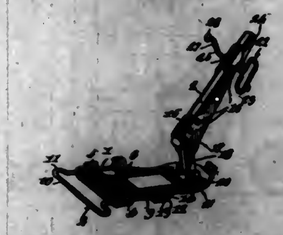
1. In a hoist, the combination with a support, of a driving shaft journaled thereon, drums journaled to rotate about the shaft, clutch mechanism for connecting the drums to and disconnecting them from the shaft, a clutch moving plunger longitudinally reciprocable within the driving shaft, and connected to the clutch mechanism, an actuating lever, means for mounting the lever on the support at either end of the shaft, and means for connecting the lever when so mounted to the adjacent end of the plunger.

1,752,334. HOUSE-CAR-DOOR CONSTRUCTION. FRANK DITCHFIELD, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Youngstown Steel Door Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 28, 1928. Serial No. 273,479. 8 Claims. (Cl. 20—26.)



1. In a house car door construction, the combination with a fixed wall member; of a door member; and devices providing a double seal between said members, said devices including: A sealing strip carried by one of said members, and cooperable means carried by the other of said members, said means having two separate sections each adapted to independently contact said strip on the same surface along spaced lines.

1,752,335. CAR CONSTRUCTION. OTHO C. DURYEA, Waterbury, Conn., assignor to O. C. Duryea Corporation, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 28, 1926. Serial No. 105,291. 16 Claims. (Cl. 213—8.)

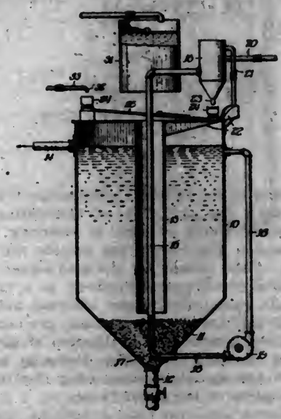


13. In a passenger coach, an underframe, draft and buffing mechanism carried by said underframe, a long travel center member mounted for movement relative to said underframe and normally having engagement with said mechanism, and draft and buffing mechanism secured to said center member, the travel of said last-named draft and buffing mechanism being less than the travel of said first-named draft and buffing mechanism.

1,752,336. ACCELERATOR SAFETY LOCKING DEVICE AND BRAKE ALARM. JOHN G. ELLINGER, Stout, Iowa. Filed July 1, 1929. Serial No. 375,144. 10 Claims. (Cl. 74—83.)

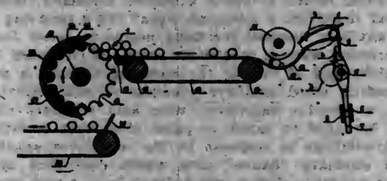
1. The combination with a lever associated with the operation of a motor vehicle and an accelerator member arranged for depression, of an accelerator locking mechanism, comprising a laterally projecting finger on said accelerator member, a locking lever having a part arranged to be moved beneath said finger, a spring tending to move said locking lever to locking position, a releasing member adapted for engagement with said locking lever to move it to inoperative position, a spring normally acting to hold said releasing member in engagement with said locking lever, and means connected with said vehicle operating lever for causing said releasing member to move out of engagement with the locking lever, whereby the locking lever may move to locking position when said vehicle operating lever is actuated.

1,752,337. MOP HEAD AND WRINGER. BENJAMIN L. FRIEDMAN and STEPHEN KOVAC, Roebling, N. J. Filed June 11, 1928. Serial No. 284,618. 1 Claim. (Cl. 15—120.)



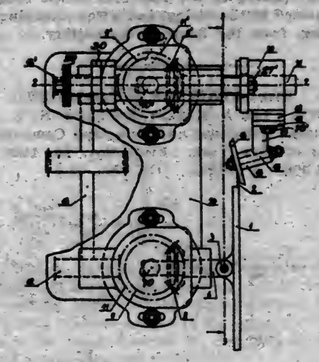
A mop comprising a handle, a head formed from a blank sheet of metal comprising an elongated body, means for connecting said body to said mop handle, upwardly extending apertured ears bent from the side edges of said body, lateral extensions rolled for a portion of their length and having their upper portions bent upwardly and outwardly along curved lines for producing sockets at the forward corners of the body, said body provided with arcuate recesses along the side edges thereof of material depth intermediate said ears and said lateral extensions, and a mop holding means formed from a single strand of wire having a pair of substantially parallel arms spanning said arcuate recesses and terminating in oppositely and outwardly extending ends adapted to extend through said apertured ears from the inside toward the outside thereof, said arms being adapted to swing under the inner faces of said lateral extensions for locking said mop holding means in engagement with said body, said recesses permitting the withdrawal of the outwardly extending ends from said apertured ears through the inward movement of said arms when gripped by the fingers of an operator.

1,752,338. THERAPEUTICAL INSTRUMENT. MOMOTARO FUJII, Tokyo, Japan. Filed May 31, 1924, Serial No. 716,857, and in Japan June 15, 1923. 2 Claims. (Cl. 128—44.)



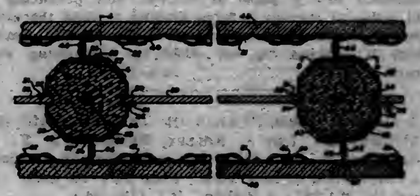
1. A therapeutical instrument comprising a barrel, a yieldingly mounted bristle carrier carried thereby, and a plurality of relatively long flexible bristles mounted in said carrier.

1,752,339. PROCESS AND APPARATUS FOR SOFTENING WATER. WALTER H. GREEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Permutit Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 19, 1924. Serial No. 726,980. 26 Claims. (Cl. 210—24.)



1. Apparatus of the class described, including a structure having a liquid passage therein extending first downwardly and then upwardly, means for permitting introduction of the liquid to be treated and the active seolites into the passage adjacent the top of the downwardly extending portion thereof, means for permitting withdrawal of the exhausted seolites from the passage adjacent the bottom of the downwardly extending portion thereof, and means for permitting withdrawal of the treated liquid from the passage adjacent the top of the upwardly extending portion thereof.

1,752,340. MEANS FOR COUNTER ROLLING A CIGARETTE PAPER. MAX PAUL ERNST HOHN, Dresden, Germany, assignor to the Firm Universelle Cigarettenmaschinen-Fabrik J. C. Muller & Co., Dresden, Germany. Filed Nov. 17, 1927, Serial No. 233,937, and in Germany Nov. 26, 1926. 7 Claims. (Cl. 131—39.)



3. Means for counter rolling a cigarette paper shell having an inserted mouthpiece spiral, comprising a pocket member adapted to receive a cigarette shell, spreading means associated with said pocket member and including means adapted to be inserted into the mouthpiece spirals in said shells, and external means cooperating with said last named means to produce a counter rolling effect.

1,752,341. SHARPENING-ROLLER ARRANGEMENT FOR THE REVOLVING SICKLE KNIVES IN CIGARETTE-ROD MACHINES. MAX PAUL ERNST HOHN, Dresden, Germany, assignor to the Firm "Universelle" Cigarettenmaschinen-Fabrik J. C. Muller & Co., Dresden, Germany. Filed Nov. 29, 1927, Serial No. 236,548, and in Germany Dec. 8, 1926. 7 Claims. (Cl. 131—37.)

1. Sharpening means for the revolving sickle knife of a cigarette rod machine, comprising a revolving carrier, a sharpening roller rotatably mounted on said revolving carrier, and means for causing said sharpening roller to come into engagement with the cutting edge of the revolving sickle knife in each revolution.

1,752,342. WALL CONSTRUCTION AND STRUCTURAL UNIT THEREFOR. MAXIMILIAN JABOSS, Jr., St. Albans, N. Y. Filed Oct. 7, 1926. Serial No. 139,990. 14 Claims. (Cl. 72—48.)

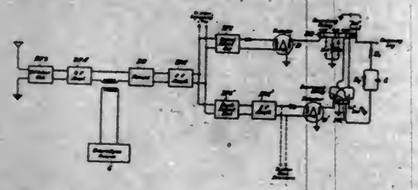
1,752,343. WORKER'S LAMP. LOUIS J. KANN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Dec. 24, 1928. Serial No. 328,146. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—59.)



1. In a lamp apparatus, a belt, a hollow sheet metal casing to which the belt is attached, the front of said casing being embossed outwardly to form a hollow bracket and having a battery receptacle fixed to the front of said bracket and communicating with the interior thereof through an opening in the rear side of the receptacle, a lamp supported by the casing, and wires extending through the opening, from the lamp to the battery.

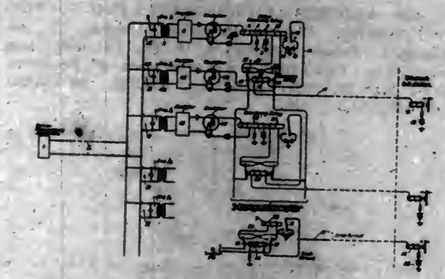
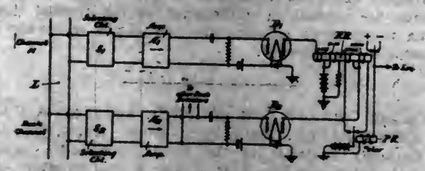
1,752,344. REDUCTION OF ATMOSPHERIC INTERFERENCE. LEO A. KELLEY, Elmhurst, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 26, 1928. Serial No. 321,996. 5 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)



1. In a high frequency telegraph system, the method of suppressing atmospheric interference which consists in selecting a band of frequencies corresponding to the desired signal while partially suppressing interfering frequency components lying without said band, stepping down the resultant frequency components to a lower range in the frequency spectrum, selecting the band corresponding to the desired signal in its lower range while practically suppressing frequencies outside the band, detecting from the selected band signal pulses to actuate a receiving relay, selecting from frequencies in the lower range a component corresponding to the interfering wave and having a frequency in the neighborhood of the desired signal band in the lower range, translating the selected component into a pulse of current, and producing by said pulse of current a force tending to hold the armature of the receiving relay upon the contact against which it happens to rest when the interfering wave occurs.

1,752,345. REDUCTION OF ATMOSPHERIC DISTURBANCE. LEO A. KELLEY, Elmhurst, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 26, 1928. Serial No. 321,997. 5 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)

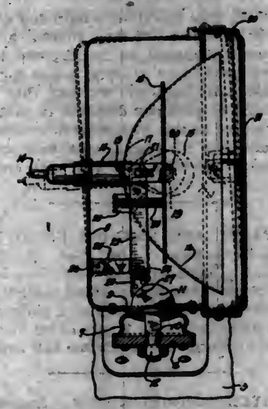


1. In a carrier telegraph system, a receiving channel including means to select a carrier frequency, means to detect therefrom a telegraph signal and a receiving relay, an auxiliary channel including means to select from an interfering wave a component having a frequency in the neighborhood of that of the receiving channel, means to translate said component into a pulse of current, a pair of oppositely poled auxiliary windings on said receiving relay, and means controlled by said relay to transmit said pulse through one of said windings during receipt of a marking signal and through the other of said windings during receipt of a spacing signal.

1,752,346. INTERFERENCE NEUTRALIZER FOR ALTERNATING-CURRENT TELEGRAPH SYSTEMS. LEO A. KELLEY, Elmhurst, and NEWTON MONK, New York, N. Y., and VAUGHN P. THORP, River Edge, N. J., assignors to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 1, 1929. Serial No. 336,884. 7 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)

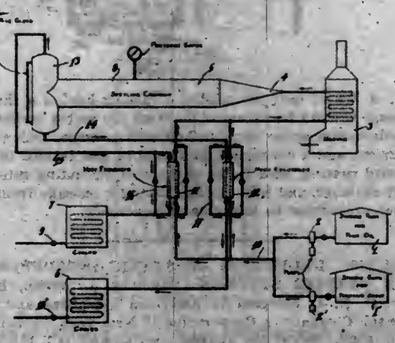
4. The method of substantially eliminating the effect of interference upon the reception of alternating current telegraph signals, which consists in selecting from the said interference a frequency lying outside the range of the frequency of the channel of the said signal, applying the said selected interference effectively to a translating device normally responsive to the marking and spacing impulses of the said transmitted channel, and automatically controlling the direction of application of the selected interference to the said translating device by and in accordance with the signal impulse being received at the instant of reception of the interference.

1,752,347. REDUCTION OF ATMOSPHERIC DISTURBANCE. FRANK A. LEIBE, Dunellen, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 26, 1928. Serial No. 322,007. 4 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)



1. In a carrier telegraph system, a receiving channel including means to select a carrier frequency, means to detect therefrom a telegraph signal and a receiving relay, an auxiliary channel including means to select from an interfering wave a component having a frequency in the neighborhood of that of the receiving channel, a pair of oppositely poled auxiliary windings on said receiving relay, a detector associated with said auxiliary channel and arranged to supply a pulse of current to either of said windings in response to the component selected by said auxiliary channel, and means controlled by said relay for transmitting said pulse to one of said windings during receipt of a marking signal and to the other winding during receipt of a spacing signal.

1,752,348. ELECTROLYSIS OF FERROUS CHLORIDE. STANLEY ISAAC LEVY, London, England. Filed Feb. 25, 1928, Serial No. 257,096, and in Great Britain Feb. 10, 1928. 2 Claims. (Cl. 204—1.)



1. A process for the recovery of electrolytic iron and chlorine from ferrous chloride, consisting in electrolyzing a concentrated solution of the ferrous chloride in an electrolytic cell having a cathode, on which the iron is deposited, and an anode of inert material, said anode surrounded by a concentrated solution of a chloride of a metal more electro-positive than iron and collecting the chlorine evolved at the anode.

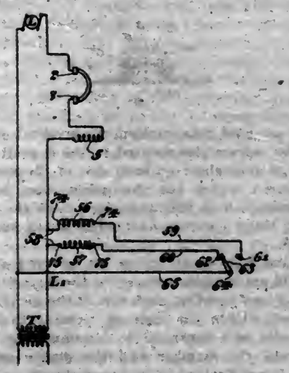
1,752,349. VEHICLE HEADLIGHT. ADOLPH C. MENNINGEN, West Allis, Wis. Filed Sept. 29, 1928. Serial No. 309,158. 7 Claims. (Cl. 240—41.)

1. A vehicle headlight, comprising a casing, a reflector movably mounted within the casing, a lamp bulb adjacent the reflector, means for adjustably connecting the casing to a vehicle, and a cam carried by said connecting means and adapted to coact with said reflector to maintain the same in a predetermined position of alinement with relation to the road travelled by the vehicle regardless of the position of the headlight casing.

1,752,350. APPARATUS FOR THE LYE TREATMENT OF PETROLEUM OILS. CHARLES K. PARKER, Richmond, Calif., assignor to Standard Oil Company of California, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 12, 1926. Serial No. 121,841. 11 Claims. (Cl. 196—46.)

10. An apparatus for the continuous separation of petroleum oil mixtures, comprising a substantially horizontal settling chamber provided with an inlet of gradually increasing cross sectional area, adapted to convert turbulent to straight line flow, a main middle section, and an outlet enlarged over said middle section.

1,752,351. DRY-CELL-BATTERY SEALING COMPOSITION. HARRY ROTHENBERG, West Norwood, N. J., and SAMUEL L. HENKEN, Bronx, N. Y., assignors to Henry Hyman, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Feb. 17, 1927. Serial No. 169,130. 1 Claim. (Cl. 106—13.)

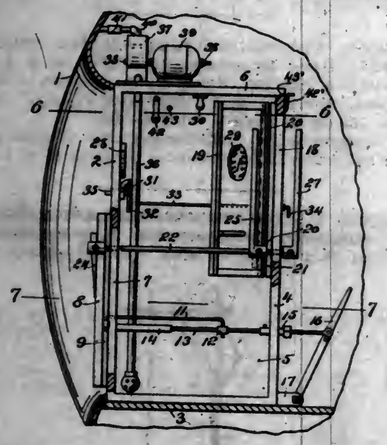


A composition for insulating dry cells comprising sulphur and rubber in the proportion for about 99 to 1.

1,752,352. CARTON-DISCHARGING DEVICE. AUGUST F. SCHMIDT, St. Petersburg, Fla. Filed Mar. 23, 1928. Serial No. 264,013. 9 Claims. (Cl. 221—11.)

1. A carton discharging spout comprising a frame, a spout on one face thereof having a self-closing lid, a carton cutting flange on the opposite frame face, and a spout locking member hinged to the spout and constructed to engage the inner face of the carton and outer frame face, and a fastening catch therefor.

1,752,353. CONTROL SYSTEM. WILLIAM M. SCOTT, Tredyffrin Township, Chester County, Pa. Filed Dec. 3, 1926. Serial No. 152,358. 33 Claims. (Cl. 175—294.)



1. A control system comprising non-closable switching mechanism including an operating structure, means operative for effecting an application of power to move said structure in one direction and thereafter in another direction to perform a circuit-controlling operation, and subsequently operative to change the magnitude of said power to effect thereby a different circuit-controlling operation, and means forming part of said first-named means and disposed in a region remote from said mechanism.

1,752,354. SAFETY APPARATUS FOR BOATS. FRED A. SIEVERLING, Great Bend, Kans. Filed Apr. 30, 1928. Serial No. 274,067. 7 Claims. (Cl. 114—16.6.)

1. In a safety apparatus for boats, a boat hull having a compartment, the outer wall of which is the wall of the hull, said outer wall and one of the inner walls of the compartment being provided respectively with doorways, two doors respectively closing said doorways, said compartment being air tight when both doors are closed, means operable from inside and outside the hull and from in said compartment for admitting water into said compartment, and means having starting and stopping means operable from in said compartment for pumping water from said compartment.

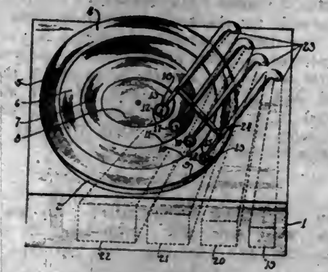
1,752,355. ROOF STRUCTURE FOR RAILWAY CARS. ARTHUR E. SMALL, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Union Metal Products Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Original application filed Apr. 19, 1926, Serial No. 103,069. Divided and this application filed Feb. 6, 1928. Serial No. 252,353. 8 Claims. (Cl. 105—355.)



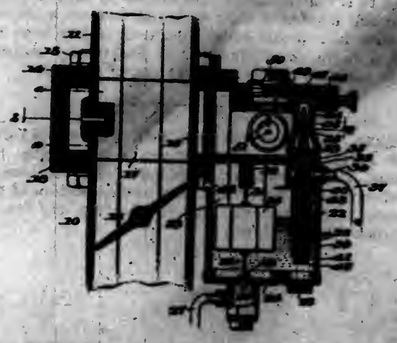
1. In a car roof construction, an inverted channel member with its extremities secured to the opposite side plates of the car, a roof sheet on each side of the member, and a device secured within the channel member and arranged to accommodate load lifting devices, both the member and the device being entirely above the lower surface of the roof sheets.

2. In a car roof construction, an inverted channel member with its extremities secured to the opposite side plates of the car, a roof sheet on each side of the member, and a device secured within the channel member to the opposite walls thereof and arranged to accommodate load lifting devices, both the member and the device being entirely above the lower surface of the roof sheets.

1,752,356. PROCESS FOR RECLAIMING BATTERY-PLATE MATERIAL. WALTER C. SMITH, Moylan, Pa., assignor to Primos Lead Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 14, 1927. Serial No. 161,234. 2 Claims. (Cl. 204—1.)

1. The process for reclaiming lead from lead bearing material which comprises crushing and screening the material to separate the metallic portions from the non-metallic portions, leaching the non-metallic portions with a caustic solution to dissolve the lead compounds therein, precipitating impurities from the solution by treatment with sponge lead, separating the purified solution, and electrically precipitating sponge lead from the solution.

1,752,357. PHONOGRAPH CONSTRUCTION. HUGO WIENER, Madisonville, Ky. Filed Aug. 31, 1928. Serial No. 303,846. 1 Claim. (Cl. 274—42.)

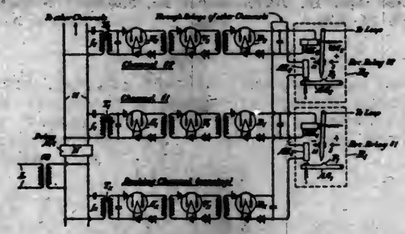


A device of the type described comprising a record having a plurality of sections of tone grooves, a plurality of reproducing units arranged to be disposed in operative engagement with said tone grooves, means for operatively connecting said units together, whereby they may be actuated in unison, diaphragms disposed in said units, said diaphragms varying in size with respect to each other, and horns communicating with said units, said horns varying in size with respect to each other and with respect to said diaphragms.

1,752,358. PAINT AND VARNISH REMOVER. OSCAR G. WINZER, Troy, Kans. Filed Nov. 16, 1928. Serial No. 320,001. 1 Claim. (Cl. 87—5.)

A solution of the character described consisting of a mixture of 16 parts of denatured alcohol, 2 parts of spirits of turpentine, 2 parts of benzol, 1 part of oil of wintergreen, and $\frac{1}{4}$ part of a solution of turpentine and permanent red.

1,752,359. HYDROCARBON MOTOR. LIONEL M. WOOLSON, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Packard Motor Car Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Oct. 16, 1919. Serial No. 331,041. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—122.)



1. A heater unit comprising a casting having a through passage therein for the mixture from the motor carburetor, a combustion space surrounding said passage, and a float chamber, and a carburetor arranged in and formed in part by said casting, said latter carburetor extending into said float chamber, and said casting having a passage from said latter carburetor to said combustion space.

1,752,360. REDUCTION OF STATIC INTERFERENCE IN CARRIER SYSTEMS. HERMAN A. AFFEL, Ridgewood, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 15, 1928. Serial No. 319,683. 9 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)

1. In a multiplex carrier system comprising a plurality of receiving channels each including a receiving relay, the method of reducing false signals due to interference, which consists in selecting from the interfering energy a component whose frequency differs from the carrier frequencies assigned to the channels, translating the energy of the selected component into mechanical energy, and applying said mechanical energy to restrain the movement of the armatures of the receiving relays of the channel.

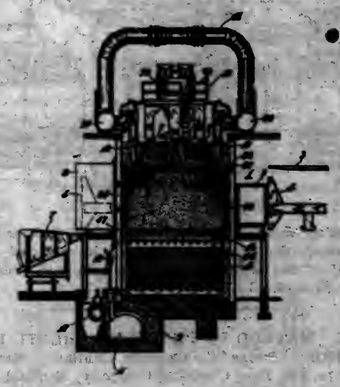
1,752,361. BRUSH HOLDER. HENRY C. AULWES, Hartford, S. Dak. Filed June 15, 1928. Serial No. 285,619. 2 Claims. (Cl. 91—63.)

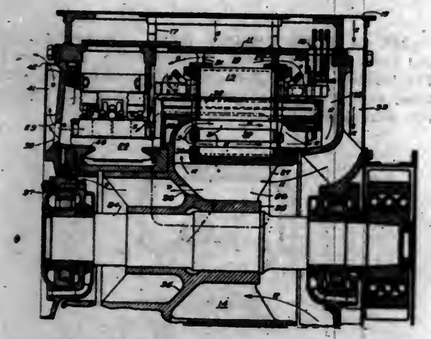


1. A paint brush preserving bucket comprising a cylindrical body, a vertically disposed partition formed therein to provide a pair of separate compartments, a centrally disposed post arranged in the body at one side of the partition, and a plurality of radially disposed brush supporting arms having their inner ends supported by said posts and their opposite ends supported by the outer cylindrical wall of the body.

1,752,362. RECORDING THERMOMETER. WELCH BARSTOW, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to Recording Thermometer Company, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of Washington. Filed June 8, 1922. Serial No. 566,740. 10 Claims. (Cl. 234—11.)

1. In a thermometer, the combination with a movable temperature indicating member; of two elements expansible by heat, each element comprising a coil including a plurality of convolutions, said coils being bodily wound and concentric, and each element being fixedly mounted at one end and both of said expansible elements having their free ends connected with said indicating member to actuate the latter in the same direction.

1,752,363. COKING RETORT OVEN. JOSEPH BECKER and JOSEPH VAN ACKEREN, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignors to The Koppers Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 27, 1926. Serial No. 137,859. 23 Claims. (Cl. 202—5.)



1. In a battery of coke ovens, the combination with a horisontally elongated coking chamber, of a cross-regenerator underneath said chamber and separated therefrom directly by the base and sole of the latter, two collecting mains connected to said chamber near its ends and regulating means for maintaining substantially constant pressure above atmospheric on said mains while withdrawing gas thereto from said chamber during the charging thereof.

12. In a method of charging coal into and coking the same in a battery of high-chambered horisontal coke-ovens of cross-regenerative type with withdrawal of distillate gases into a collecting main, the improvement which comprises: maintaining continuously a substantially constant pressure above atmospheric in the collecting main system into which the distillate gases are delivered from the hot oven chambers individually, said pressure being regulated to maintain a sufficient back-pressure on the oven-chambers to prevent the lower portions of the high chambers from exerting substantial suction, during the advanced coking stages, upon the masonry separating such chambers from the adjacent regenerative and other air and fuel-gas spaces and conduits; charging coal into the hot oven-chambers through their tops, and leveling the accumulating charges; forcing into the aforesaid pressure main system the smoke and gas evolved during charging, by withdrawing such smoke and gas from the oven tops by forced draft upon opposite sides of the accumulating charges; and controlling said forced draft individually for the ovens being charged, and to such degree as to overcome the aforesaid back pressure from the collecting system and at the same time maintain such a pressure balance in the tops of said ovens as substantially to prevent outflow of smoke or detrimental indux of air through the charging and other openings temporarily exposed to the atmosphere during the charging operations.

1,752,364. ARMATURE VENTILATION. PAUL BOLLINGER, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Feb. 6, 1929. Serial No. 337,954. 21 Claims. (Cl. 172—286.)

1. In a dynamo-electric machine, a machine casing provided with ventilating openings, a stator, a rotor comprising a spider member having longitudinal passages, an armature core having longitudinal passages, means for directing ventilating fluid entering said casing to the mouth of the spider passages, said spider having a radial-ly extending flange portion for causing the ventilating fluid passing through the spider to be directed to the inner end of the armature core and into said ventilating passages thereof.

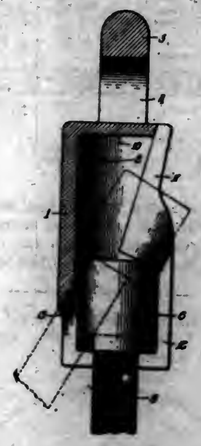
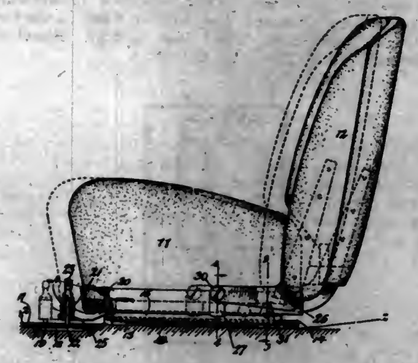
1,752,365. METHOD OF PURIFYING PHENYL ETHYL ALCOHOL. EDGAR C. BRITTON, Midland, Mich., assignor to The Dow Chemical Company, Midland, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed June 9, 1923. Serial No. 644,476. 6 Claims. (Cl. 260—156.)



1. A process of purifying synthetic phenyl ethyl alcohol, which comprises selectively converting the phenyl ethyl alcohol content of the impure crude alcohol into a monophenyl ethyl phthalate salt of an alkali-forming metal in water solution, washing such solution with an organic solvent in which the reactants are soluble but non-reactive therewith, and hydrolyzing the phthalate salt into phenyl ethyl alcohol.

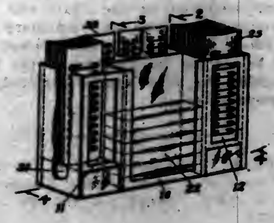
1,752,366. PUMP. FRANK G. BROWN, Detroit, Mich. Filed June 18, 1928. Serial No. 286,210. 7 Claims. (Cl. 103—87.)



1. In combination, a rotary shaft, a rotor loosely mounted thereon, a compressible packing surrounding said shaft at said rotor, and a cam connection between said shaft and rotor adapted to shift the latter on rotation of the shaft and thereby compress the packing.

1,752,367. CHOKER HOOK. WILLIAM CHARLTON BRUTON, Albany, Calif., assignor to American Manganese Steel Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Apr. 13, 1929. Serial No. 354,749. 8 Claims. (Cl. 24—123.)

1. In combination, a cable having an enlargement upon one end, a logging hook adapted to receive and seat the cable enlargement so that the pull on the cable is along the longitudinal axis of the hook, said hook comprising a body having an interior socket adapted to receive the cable enlargement, said socket being closed at its upper end but having a slotted opening in its lower end for the passage of the cable, said body having an angular opening for the axial admission of the cable followed by the cable enlargement, said body having another angular opening in the opposite side of the body and in line with the first mentioned angular opening adapted to permit the passage of the cable, said body having a connecting slot from the first mentioned angular opening to the slotted opening in the lower end of the body and connecting the second mentioned angular opening to the slotted portion in the end of the body.



1,752,368. SEAT MOUNTING FOR AUTOMOBILES. HERMANN A. BRUNN, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Brunn and Company, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 28, 1928. Serial No. 289,018. 2 Claims. (Cl. 155—14.)

1. A device of the character described, comprising longitudinal rails mounted on the floor of the car, a seat having runners slidable lengthwise on said rails, a back rest, and means for foldably connecting said back rest with said seat including arms pivoted on said runners, and stops arranged on said runners and adapted to be engaged by said arms.

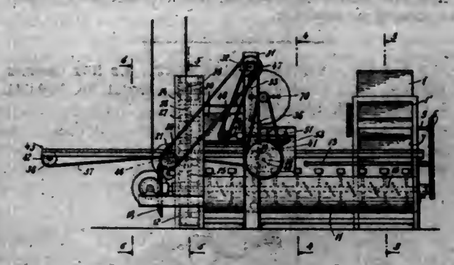
1,752,369. DISPLAY CABINET. ROMAINE CLARK CHAPMAN, Cheshire, Conn., assignor to Scovill Manufacturing Company, Waterbury, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Feb. 25, 1928. Serial No. 256,875. 7 Claims. (Cl. 211—156.)

1. A display case or stand comprising a main body piece formed to provide a bottom, front, and back, with wings forming the ends of the case and secured between the front and back, cutouts in the front, a supplemental front piece inset from the main front piece and forming an article holding compartment, narrower article holding compartments at each side of the supplemental front piece, and a compartment between the supplemental front piece and the back of the stand.

1,752,370. MULTIPLE-WALLED BAG. JOHN E. CONNELL, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Bates Valve Bag Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 15, 1925, Serial No. 37,014. Renewed Oct. 8, 1929. 2 Claims. (Cl. 150—9.)

2. A bag having walls comprising a plurality of layers of paper, one end of the bag being closed by folding upon each other flaps formed by the bag walls, the several layers of the wall forming the outer edge of the outer flap being secured together, and the several layers of the wall forming one of the inner flaps being free from adhesive and movable relative to each other, and said inner flap being suitable for forming a valve.

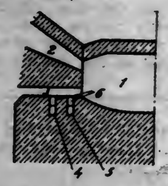
1,752,371. RECEPTACLE AND PROCESS FOR MAKING SAME. ANTHONY DANIELS, Newark, N. J. Filed Oct. 25, 1924. Serial No. 745,933. 5 Claims. (Cl. 150—1.)



1. An article of the character described comprising a seamless tubular body portion made of material composed principally of transparent nitro-cellulose and a metallic band secured at the interior of an end of the body portion.

1,752,372. FAN UNIT. GEORGE DE BOTHEZAT, New York, N. Y. Filed June 30, 1928. Serial No. 289,535. 1 Claim. (Cl. 98—94.)

In a ventilating system, the combination with a window frame, brackets secured to the top of said frame within the groove for the lower window sash, a panel removably secured to said brackets provided with a fan opening therein, a circular frame secured to said panel provided with an integral motor supporting table, a disk pressure fan within said circular frame, a motor secured to said supporting table adapted to rotate said fan, extensible end sections embracing the ends of said panel and slidingly adjustable thereover, the sections being adjustable to the width of said window frame and fitting snugly within the side grooves of the lower window sash, and fastening means passing through said panel and also through said end sections for securing said end sections and panel in adjusted relationship.



1,752,373. CONCRETE-BLOCK MACHINE. CHARLES DIETRICHS, Little Ferry, N. J., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Walker Cement Products, Inc., Union City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 6, 1922. Serial No. 566,390. 3 Claims. (Cl. 25—99.)

1. In a machine of the type described, the combination of a concrete mixing device, means for conveying molds through the machine over said mixing device, means for conveying the concrete to the molds above said mixing device, means arranged above said mixing device for tamping the concrete in the molds, and means for scraping the excess concrete from the molds and returning it to said mixing device.

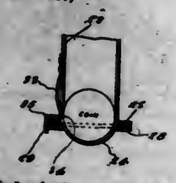
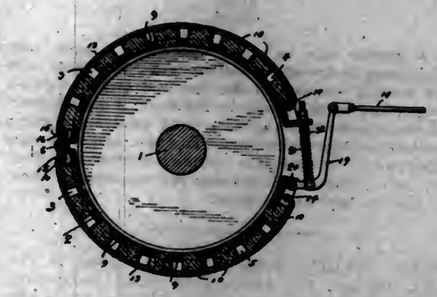
1,752,374. PROCESS OF PRODUCING STEEL IN AN OPEN-HEARTH FURNACE. ROBERT DURRER, Berlin-Wannsee; FRIEDRICH CARL SIEMENS, Berlin-Dahlem; and ARTHUR SPRENGER, Berlin-Charlottenburg, Germany, assignors to Friedrich Siemens Aktiengesellschaft, Berlin, Germany, a Corporation of Germany. Filed Jan. 28, 1927, Serial No. 164,257, and in Germany Sept. 26, 1925. 11 Claims. (Cl. 75—27.)



9. In a process of producing steel in an open hearth furnace, the method of protecting during a part of the process the melt against oxidation, consisting in forming a protective layer between the heating flame and the melt, said layer being composed of fuel gas only partly mixed with combustion air and sweeping the entire width of the melt, and of a layer of fine and coarse pulverized coal injected below the fuel gas layer, so that a protective pulverised coal atmosphere is formed between the gas layer and the melt.

1,752,375. PEANUT-PICKING MACHINE. COY M. DYKES, Ariton, Ala. Filed May 10, 1928. Serial No. 276,684. 12 Claims. (Cl. 130—30.)



1. A peanut picking machine comprising a pair of spaced apart horizontal screens, an endless conveyor passing over rollers at the end of the upper screen and having the opposite runs thereof travelling above the upper and lower screens, respectively, for moving the leguminous plants over said screens so that the pods may drop through the screens successively.

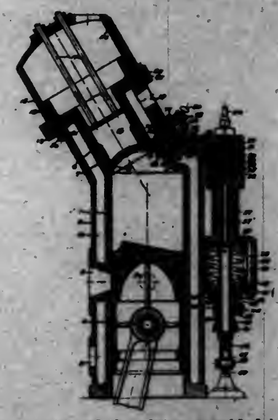
1,752,376. VENDING MACHINE. LE ROY GREENE, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 13, 1929. Serial No. 339,631. 1 Claim. (Cl. 194—39.)

A coin controlled ejector mechanism or slug vending machine of the character described comprising a guide plate having a coin receiving trough portion adjacent one end, said trough being provided with a coin discharge aperture adjacent one of its ends, channel forming flanges on the longitudinal side of the guide plate, one of said flanges having a detent receiving recess communicating with the channel at a point adjacent the trough and spaced longitudinally from the coin discharge opening in said trough, a spring controlled slug ejector slidably mounted on the guide plate having a coin receiving slot communicating with the trough and a detent recess in its longitudinal side for registry with the recesses in the flange, a coin delivery chute having its discharge end disposed for registry with the coin slot in the ejector and having a detent receiving recess in its lower end portion on the side adjacent the recessed side of the flange and ejector and a coin actuated resilient detent anchored on the chute and projecting through the recess therein and into said chute and terminating in an outwardly and downwardly turned latch portion adapted to seat in the recesses in the flange and ejector for locking the latter against longitudinal movement on the guide plate.

1,752,377. BRAKE. JOHN GLUECK, West New York, N. J., assignor of one-half to Rene Hunkle, Grantwood, N. J. Filed Feb. 5, 1927. Serial No. 166,166. 5 Claims. (Cl. 188—77.)

1. A brake band, friction blocks, compartments in said band for each of said blocks and a single band for retaining said blocks in said compartments.

1,752,378. AIRPLANE-WING SECTION. LEW WALLACE GOBBLE, Grand Junction, Colo. Filed Mar. 23, 1929. Serial No. 349,303. 7 Claims. (Cl. 244—12.)



1. A wing section for airplanes outlined by a substantially straight lower line; a relatively long undulating upper line; the undulations in said upper line comprising; a forward ridge; a rearward ridge separated by a relatively deep valley; and a relatively thin projecting leading edge extending beyond said forward ridge.

1,752,379. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. JOHN B. GOODWIN, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Nov. 9, 1925. Serial No. 67,738. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—192.)

An internal combustion engine comprising a working cylinder, a compensating cylinder, a wall enclosing a pressure chamber of greater diameter than the compensating cylinder, a piston within the compensating cylinder adapted to be acted upon by pressure within the working cylinder, a piston provided in said pressure chamber and secured to said first piston, and means for maintaining the pressure within said pressure chamber, said means including a by-pass formed in and providing communication thru said wall from one side of the piston provided in the pressure chamber to the opposite side thereof, a check valve secured in said wall and adapted to work in said by-pass, and an air inlet valve opening into the atmosphere from one side of the piston provided in the pressure chamber.

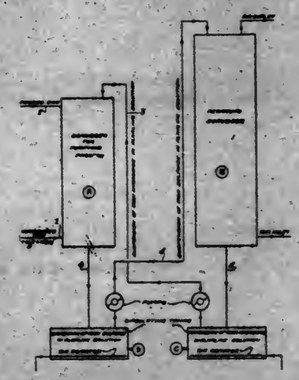
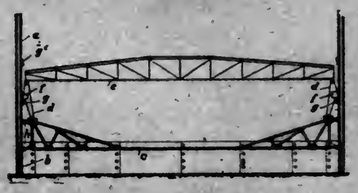
1,752,380. KEY AND LICENSE HOLDER. HENRY GRESS, South Ozone Park, Long Island, N. Y. Filed May 29, 1928. Serial No. 281,392. 3 Claims. (Cl. 40—10.)



1. In a key and license holder of the class described, a bar disposed between and attached on the sheets forming the holder, and formed with a forward bent end with a lateral free extremity, a projection spaced from the bent end and attached on the bar, the bent end and projection being formed with slots arranged to receive the edge of a license, guide rods extended between the projection and said end, a license clamp mounted on the guide rods, and springs on the rods normally urging the license clamp behind the said lateral free extremity of the forward bent end for preventing opening of the clamp.

1,752,381. AUTOMOBILE BUMPER. JAMES M. HOWE, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Eaton Axle & Spring Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Oct. 27, 1928. Serial No. 315,483. 13 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



1. A bumper comprising a supporting bar and a plurality of impact bars secured to said supporting bar, one of said impact bars having alternate forwardly and rearwardly extending bends formed therein and being tilted upwardly from a horizontal plane whereby said bar appears to have a plurality of vertically arched portions when the bumper is viewed from the front.

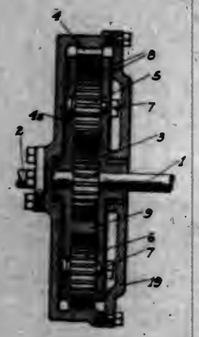
1,752,382. GAS-PURIFICATION PROCESS. DAVID L. JACOBSON, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to The Koppers Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Dec. 8, 1921. Serial No. 520,786. 2 Claims. (Cl. 23—3.)

1. In a process of purifying gases containing hydrogen sulphide, the combination of steps which consists in: washing the gas with an alkaline solution containing an iron compound having an affinity for sulphur; and then passing the spent wash-liquor through a plurality of successive differing regeneration treatment stages, in the first of which a body of said liquor is subjected to a preliminary agitation accompanied by regenerating aeration and is thereafter subjected to a regenerating aeration that effects a thorough and intimate contact of air with the flowing liquor.

1,752,383. GAS RESERVOIR. KONRAD JAGSCHITZ, Mainz, Germany, assignor to Maschinenfabrik Augsburg-Nuernberg A. G., Nuremberg, Germany, a Corporation of Germany. Filed Feb. 26, 1926, Serial No. 90,981, and in Germany Oct. 28, 1925. 2 Claims. (Cl. 48—179.)

1. In an arrangement for use in building gas reservoirs of the disk type, the combination of upright posts on which a shell is adapted to be built up in courses, a sealing disk vertically slidable in said shell and serving as a working scaffold for erecting the shell in progressive courses, said sealing disk being arranged to be raised to progressively higher levels as the erection of the shell proceeds, upright supporting members on said sealing disk, a roof structure adapted to constitute the roof of the completed reservoir mounted upon said supporting members and forming a protective covering for said sealing disk, holding members mounted on said upright posts, and suspending hooks carried by said supporting members and arranged to detachably engage said holding members for positively supporting said sealing disk and the roof structure at said progressively higher levels.

1,752,384. HYPODERMIC SYRINGE. WILLIAM F. JAMISON, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed July 2, 1928. Serial No. 289,904. 5 Claims. (Cl. 128—218.)



1. A syringe of the character described comprising a barrel adapted to receive an ampule, a head removably applied to the forward end of the barrel and having a sleeve slidably extending therethrough, a hypodermic needle extending through said sleeve and the head and provided near its inner end with a rigid seat engaging the inner end of said sleeve, a washer on the inner end of the needle at the inner side of said seat adapted to make fluid tight contact with the end of the ampule when the needle is adjusted inwardly and means to inwardly adjust said sleeve for correspondingly adjusting the needle.

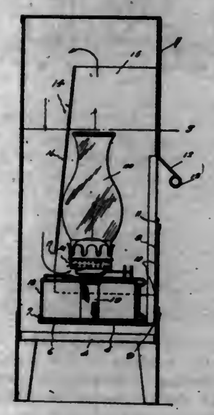
1,752,385. AUTOMATIC HYDRAULIC TRANSMISSION. ALFRED A. JOHNSON, Sacramento, Calif. Filed Aug. 31, 1929. Serial No. 389,849. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—34.)

1. A hydraulic-controlled transmission structure including alined drive and driven shafts, a gear on the drive shaft, an internal gear on the driven shaft, a pinion meshing with the gear, another pinion meshing with said first pinion and internal gear, plates between which said pinions are closely disposed and on which they are mounted, said plates being turnable about the drive shaft as an axis, the space between the plates forming an oil chamber, restricted oil passage means from said space to the intermeshing portions of the gear and adjacent pinion, another passage between both said intermeshing portions, a valve in said last named passage, and a spring resisting the opening of the valve.



1,752,386. FUEL PUMP FOR MULTICYLINDER INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. JOHANN MAHLER, Augsburg, Germany, assignor to the Firm: Maschinenfabrik Augsburg-Nuernberg Aktiengesellschaft, Augsburg, Germany, a Corporation of Germany. Filed Apr. 11, 1925, Serial No. 22,374, and in Germany May 10, 1924. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—140.)

3. A multi-cylinder fuel pump of the character described comprising a unitary pump block structure, a plurality of pump units within said structure for pumping fuel to the respective cylinders, injection pipes for connecting said several pump units with the respective cylinders, said unitary pump structure having a common suction chamber formed therein for supplying fuel to said plurality of pump units, a relief passage for each said injection pipe, said unitary pump structure also having a common relief chamber formed therein in communication with each of said relief passages, said common relief chamber being closed from direct communication with said common suction chamber.

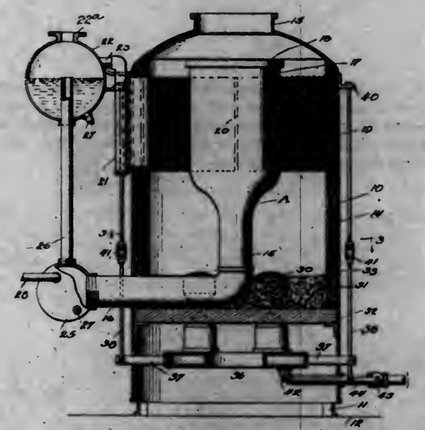
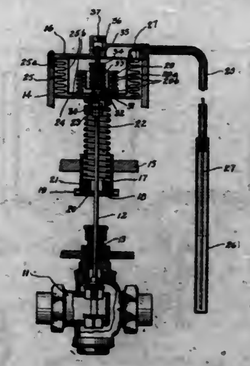
1,752,387. HEATING STOVE. HARRY L. MCKOWN, Wheeling, W. Va. Filed Mar. 30, 1929. Serial No. 351,360. 2 Claims. (Cl. 126—96.)



1. A stove of the character described comprising a casing, a shelf supported within the casing and adjacent the bottom thereof, a burner for disposition upon said support, a vertically disposed deflector wall supported within the casing and being spaced at its upper and lower edges from the top of the casing and the shelf respectively, said deflector wall comprising a single sheet of metal bent at its end portions to provide end walls for attachment to the inner side of the front wall of the casing.

1,752,388. CORE DRILL AND BIT. WILLIAM I. MCLAUGHLIN, San Francisco, Calif., assignor to Standard Oil Company of California, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 28, 1926. Serial No. 125,373. 5 Claims. (Cl. 255—72.)

1. A rotary core bit comprising a body member having a central bore, the lower face of the member having annular surfaces beveled upwardly away from the bore on two distinct angles to form a face corresponding generally to a pair of concentric intersecting cones forming a circular shoulder along their line of intersection.



1,752,389. BOILER. BARTHOLOMEW J. MORRISON, Baltimore, Md. Filed Jan. 23, 1928. Serial No. 248,748. 10 Claims. (Cl. 122—261.)

1. In a boiler, a water leg vertically disposed therein and having a connection at one end with an exterior source of water supply and having at its other end a portion of increased diameter and formed as a closed inverted bell, a heating coil comprising an elongated tube having a connection with and helically disposed about said inverted bell portion, a drum disposed beyond the heating zone of the boiler and receiving the heated fluid from said coil, and means to segregate the impurities from the fluid in the drum including a connection between said drum and the water leg, the increased diameter of the leg permitting and causing the fluid to expand therein, whereby a thermo-siphonic circulation is set up.

1,752,390. TEMPERATURE REGULATOR. ALBIN JOHN NELSON, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Apr. 21, 1928. Serial No. 271,757. 10 Claims. (Cl. 236—99.)

1. A device of the character described, including a valve for controlling the flow of a heating medium, a vessel having a flexible wall connected to said valve, a bulb in communication with said vessel, and a flexible walled relief chamber for the bulb in communication therewith, said bulb, said vessel, and said chamber being charged with an expansive fluid, said relief chamber being of smaller area than the vessel and expansible only after expansion of the vessel, said vessel and said chamber being in aligned relation and having a common wall therebetween, said wall having an opening affording communication between the vessel and chamber.

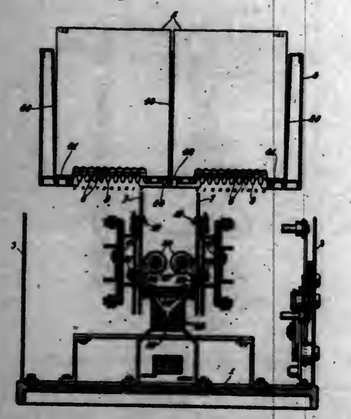
1,752,391. METHOD OF LOADING EXPLOSIVES. FREDRICH OLSEN, East Alton, Ill., and CLARENCE J. BAIN, Dover, N. J. Filed June 14, 1929. Serial No. 371,041. 3 Claims. (Cl. 86—20.) (Granted under the act of Mar. 3, 1883, as amended Apr. 30, 1928, 370 O. G., 757.)

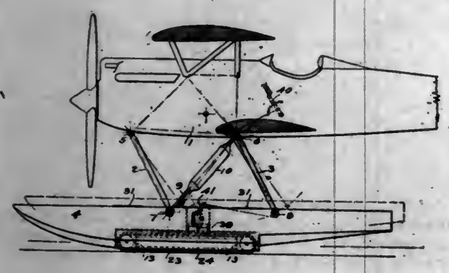
3. The method of loading explosives into a container which consists in pouring a molten explosive into the container and then adding pellets of ammonium nitrate.

1,752,392. PEN. WALTER C. PARMLEY, Upper Montclair, N. J. Filed Nov. 23, 1925. Serial No. 70,778. 6 Claims. (Cl. 120—114.)



1. The combination with a pen having a point and a tapering concave body, of a clasp having a sliding fit with the sides of the body and adjustable thereon to exert a varying pressure on the body to vary the stiffness of the point.

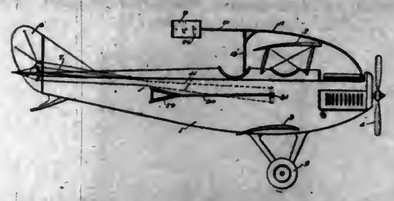
1,752,393. TOOTHBRUSH. RALPH E. RAWSON, St. Louis, Mo. Filed May 26, 1928. Serial No. 280,689. 3 Claims. (Cl. 15—172.)



1. A tooth brush comprising a handle having a flat terminal loop; a brush-holding clamp mounted upon one face of said loop; a spring-washer mounted upon the opposite face of said loop; and a pin having a head resting upon the outer face of said washer, said pin extending through said washer and loop, and fixedly mounted in said clamp.

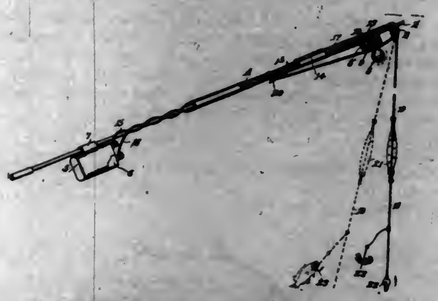
1,752,394. ACCOUNTING APPARATUS AND SYSTEM. EDWIN L. KELLER and VICTOR R. A. STROH, St. Louis, Mo., assignors, by mesne assignments, to Remington Rand Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 8, 1920. Serial No. 422,657. 26 Claims. (Cl. 129—16.1.)

22. An apparatus of the character described, comprising, a plurality of normally effective selector mechanism sections, and selective manipulative means adapted to render one or more of said sections ineffective.



1,752,395. LANDING GEAR. HOLDEN C. RICHARDSON, Washington, D. C. Filed Oct. 4, 1926. Serial No. 139,395. 2 Claims. (Cl. 244—2.) (Granted under the act of Mar. 3, 1883, as amended Apr. 30, 1928, 370 O. G., 757.)

1. In a seaplane, a body portion, pontoons carried thereby, shock absorbing mechanisms mounted between the body portion and pontoons and a speed retarding mechanism mounted in recesses in the pontoons, said mechanisms comprising endless belts, rollers over which the belts pass, guideways in the rollers, and means carried by one of the belts operable in the grooves for maintaining the belts in place.



1,752,396. STABILIZER FOR AEROPLANES. FRED RUMFORD, Jetmore, Kans., and HAROLD THOMAS HENRY, New York, N. Y. Filed May 19, 1928. Serial No. 278,952. 3 Claims. (Cl. 244—29.)

1. In an aeroplane having stabilizing ailerons thereon for maintaining the same in transverse balance, of automatic stabilizing means comprising an aileron control vane, vertically extended supporting means therefor pivotally supported upon bearings disposed in axial alignment with the longitudinal axis of the machine and connections from said supporting means to the ailerons, said connections including a releasable clutch device and manual means for actuating the clutch device for connecting or disconnecting the control vane for automatic or manual control of the ailerons as desired.

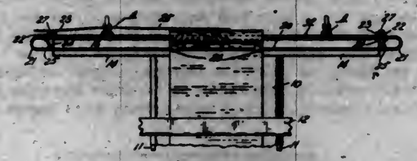
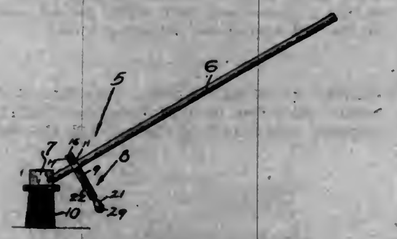
1,752,397. FISHING DEVICE. CYRUS V. SEE, Hardin, Mo. Filed Feb. 25, 1929. Serial No. 342,458. 4 Claims. (Cl. 43—17.)



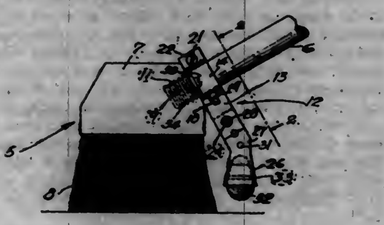
1. A fishing device comprising a pole, a metal contact member carried by the end of the pole, and a spring pressed contact ring receiving the contact member and normally held in spaced relation by said spring, and a fishing line extended through said ring.

1,752,398. OIL AND AIR MIXING DEVICE IN THE FORM OF VACUUM PUMPS. WILLIAM E. SHORE, New York, N. Y. Filed July 31, 1922. Serial No. 578,649. 4 Claims. (Cl. 48—187.)



1. An oil and air mixing device, comprising a casing formed with a cylindrical inner chamber having inlet and discharge chambers connected therewith, a rotor interposed between said inlet and discharge chambers, a bye-pass connecting said latter chambers, means unaffected by the pressure of discharge for controlling the pressure flow through said bye-pass, and means for feeding liquid fuel to the intake chamber along with a quantity of supporting air to effect their intimate association under conditions of vacuum and pressure in rapid progression and final discharge into said discharge chamber.

1,752,399. COPYHOLDER. GEOFFREY STEVENSON, Brookline, Mass. Filed Aug. 27, 1927. Serial No. 215,931. 17 Claims. (Cl. 120—28.)

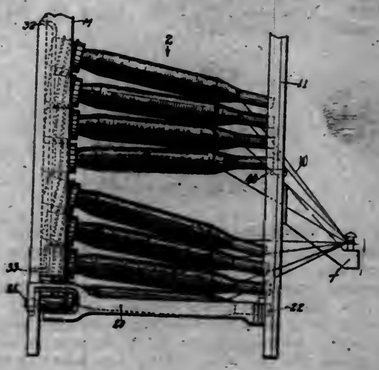


1. In a copy holder, a copy support, and means for holding a copy thereon, comprising a main clamp which is mounted to move towards and bear on said copy and also to move to release said copy, and a supplemental clamp which is mounted on said copy holder and is adjustable laterally thereof relatively to said main clamp and is constructed to engage said copy and cooperate with said main clamp in holding said copy on said support, said supplemental clamp being operable independently of said main clamp and having a part which is actuated by said main clamp to operate said supplemental clamp when the main clamp is operated.

1,752,400. BUMPER LEG FOR BROOMS. ALFRED D. SUND, Santa Rosa, Calif. Filed Feb. 24, 1928. Serial No. 256,557. 5 Claims. (Cl. 15—246.)

1. In a bumper leg for a broom handle, a bracket, adjustable means on the bracket for securing the same to the broom handle; and adjustable means for securing a bumper to the free end of said bracket.

1,752,401. BUMPER FOR BROOMS. ALFRED D. SUND, Santa Rosa, Calif. Filed June 27, 1928. Serial No. 288,654. 5 Claims. (Cl. 15—246.)

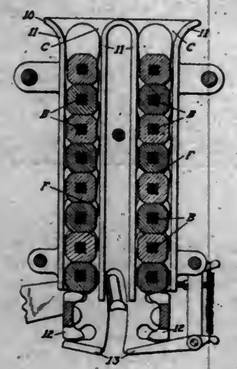


1. In a bumper leg for a broom, said broom having a handle thereon; an element secured to the broom head and extending at an angle to the broom head and to the broom handle; means on said element for clamping the broom handle and for obviating the movement of the handle relatively to the broom; and bumping means on the end of said element.

1,752,402. INLAID LINOLEUM AND PROCESS OF PRODUCING SAME. JOHN TOMEC and FRANK CUBEDA, Trenton, N. J., assignors to W. & J. Sloane Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed July 28, 1928. Serial No. 295,861. 21 Claims. (Cl. 154—26.)

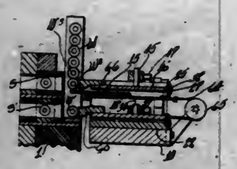
21. An inlaid sheet of linoleum or the like having consolidated tesserae separated somewhat from each other and embedded in a consolidated but somewhat soft base material and standing in relief with respect to interposed and exposed portions of the base material, and having visually-apparent irregularities of joint width and groove shape which are not necessarily reproduced in successive repeat areas.

1,752,403. WEFT-REPLENISHING MECHANISM FOR LOOMS. RICHARD G. TURNER, Worcester, Mass., assignor to Crompton & Knowles Loom Works, Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Sept. 12, 1928. Serial No. 305,480. 4 Claims. (Cl. 139—245.)



1. In a weft replenishing magazine operating with bobbins the butts of which are each provided with a non-cylindrical surface extending substantially parallel to the axis of the bobbins, the yarn on the bobbins being wound to a diameter less than the diameter of the bobbin butts, a guideway for the butts of the bobbins, a second guideway for the tips of the bobbins, the bobbins moving down the guideways by gravity, a device extending along the guideway for the butts to engage the non-cylindrical surfaces and prevent rotation of the bobbins about their axes, and stationary means located along the guideway for the tips of the bobbins to engage the tips and prevent such an inclination of the bobbins in the upper part of the guideways as would move the non-cylindrical surfaces of the bobbin butts away from the device.

1,752,404. MULTICOLOR MAGAZINE. RICHARD G. TURNER, Worcester, Mass., assignor to Crompton & Knowles Loom Works, Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Oct. 26, 1928. Serial No. 315,041. 2 Claims. (Cl. 139—245.)



1. In a weft replenishing mechanism, spaced walls forming a compartment along which bobbins may move towards transfer position and a plurality of superposed bobbins in said compartment, said bobbins being of non-circular section and when wound having outer yarn surfaces of similar non-circular outline engaging each other to resist relative angular movements in said compartment.

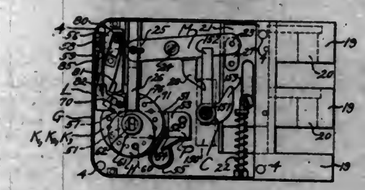
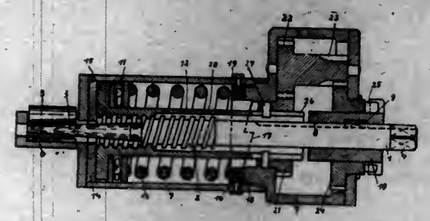
1,752,405. WEFT-REPLENISHING MECHANISM FOR DOUBLE-SHUTTLE LOOMS. RICHARD G. TURNER, Worcester, Mass., assignor to Crompton & Knowles Loom Works, Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Apr. 23, 1929. Serial No. 357,514. 8 Claims. (Cl. 139—242.)

1. In a double shuttle loom, a magazine having a single substantially vertical weft carrier compartment adapted to contain a plurality of superposed weft carriers, independently operable and horizontally movable transferrers for the upper and lower shuttles respectively, a supporting device effective to normally maintain the next to the lowest weft carrier in said magazine in horizoutal alignment with the upper shuttle, and means to withdraw said supporting device from operative position upon transfer movement of the lower transferrer.



1,752,406. BOAT HULL. PAUL WETCH, Waukegan, Ill. Filed June 11, 1929. Serial No. 370,119. 4 Claims. (Cl. 114—66.5.)

1. A step for boat hulls having a section collapsible toward the hull, and intercepting stop means for said section carried by the hull and arranged outwardly of said section and in the path thereof, said section providing a transverse air and water passage across the bottom of the hull.



1,752,407. COMBINATION KEY AND DIAL LOCK. JOSEPH ZAPERT, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Feb. 19, 1929. Serial No. 341,114. 4 Claims. (Cl. 70—63.)

1. The combination in a lock casing which houses a bolt and a returning spring therefor; of a pivoted rocker arm one end connecting with the bolt and the other end having a dog in operative relation with a series of slotted discs; said series of slotted discs revoluble on shiftable carrier mechanism, the outside disc having a contact pin; said shiftable carrier mechanism for said series of slotted discs and for a dog; said dog pivoted to the shiftable carrier mechanism and having a slotted jaw spaced outside of said outside disc; means operative from the back of the casing to move the shiftable carrier mechanism, dog and series of discs axially; a revoluble operating cam having a turning slot and so positioned as to engage the dog and having an inside pin in position to engage said outside contact pin or the jaw of the dog according to the position of the shiftable carrier mechanism; and a barrel at the front which is marked with dial numbers, said barrel being turnable only by a key which fits pins inside the casing, and having a turning rod fixed to the barrel and which enters the turning slot in said cam; together with a knob turnable from the back of the lock casing carried by a spindle which extends inside the casing and has a finger so positioned as to move the rocker arm into a substantially dead center position and thereby hold the bolt against the returning spring.

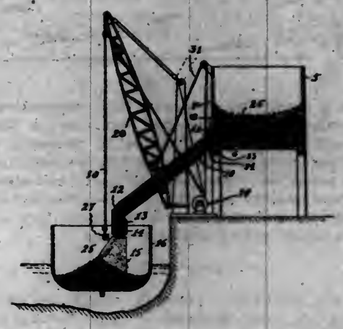
1,752,408. TUBE EXPANDER. OTTO ZEIN, Berlin, Germany. Filed Feb. 10, 1928, Serial No. 253,512, and in Germany June 1, 1927. 7 Claims. (Cl. 153—82.)

1. A tube expander comprising in combination a housing, several rollers mounted radially displaceably, a cage containing said rollers, a conical mandrel being enabled to be drawn between said rollers so as to spread them apart, a spindle bearing at its one end said mandrel and being provided with a thread, a nut guiding said mandrel spindle and mounted rotatably in said housing, a spring producing a counter-pressure on said nut, means for driving said mandrel spindle during the rolling-in feed-motion and during the return motion permanently in the same direction of rotation, and means for imparting to said nut during the rolling-in operation a relative movement with regard to said spindle so as to control the axial displacement of said mandrel during the working stroke.



1,752,409. HYDRAULIC REBOUND DEVICE. ERNEST W. ACKERMAN and GRIFFITH C. NICHOLSON, Monroe, Mich., assignors to The Hydro-Check Corporation, Monroe, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Jan. 18, 1928. Serial No. 247,591. 8 Claims. (Cl. 267—8.)

7. A rebound take up device comprising a housing having a cylinder therein provided with a head spaced from the housing, a piston in said cylinder movable toward and from said head, there being a port in said head and a registering opening in the housing, a combined check and relief valve fixed in said head port, and adjusting means in said housing opening for the relief valve.

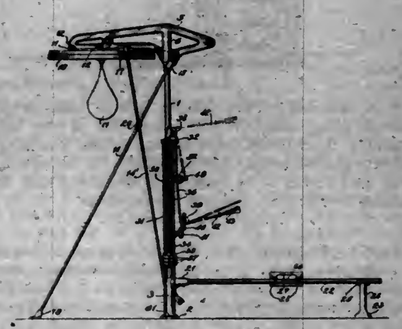
1,752,410. BARGE COAL-LOADING APPARATUS. HENRY ADAMS, Plainfield, N. J., assignor to Adams Coal Machinery Company, Plainfield, N. J., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Apr. 6, 1927. Serial No. 181,452. 8 Claims. (Cl. 214—14.)

1. An upwardly tapering trapezoidal loading chute, having thereon a means for connecting the same to a hoisting mechanism, thereby being adapted to be lowered and hoisted, said chute comprising vertical side walls, forming a narrow enclosure which is open at the bottom and one side thereof, and a means for rigidly connecting said side walls to each other.



1,752,411. DRIVING MECHANISM FOR MACHINES. GEORGE H. AMONSEN, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed June 9, 1928. Serial No. 284,123. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—50.)

8. Mechanism of the class described comprising a rotatable shaft, two clutch devices each having a member loose on said shaft and a member fast on said shaft, a counter shaft, driving means between one of said loose members and said counter shaft for rotating the latter in one direction, driving means between the other of said loose members and said counter shaft for rotating the latter in the opposite direction, a transverse shaft connected to and driven by said rotatable shaft, a crank arm secured to said transverse shaft, a rod attached to the outer end of said crank arm, a rock shaft, an arm secured to said rock shaft and through the outer end of which said rod passes slidably, two-coiled springs surrounding said rod and engaging opposite sides of said arm respectively, means on said rod for restraining the outer ends of said springs, a forked arm secured to said rock shaft, a slidable member on said rotatable shaft interposed between said clutch devices and engaged by said forked arm, and connections between said slidable members and said fast members whereby the latter are connected to said loose members in alternation.

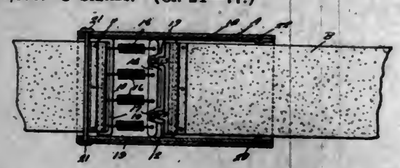
1,752,412. EXERCISING APPARATUS. HARRY BLICKMAN, New York, N. Y., assignor to S. Blickman, Inc., Weehawken, N. J., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 20, 1927. Serial No. 162,259. 5 Claims. (Cl. 272—78.)

4. In home exercising apparatus, a pair of standards, means for supporting the standards in upright spaced position, a bar journaled transversely of the standards, and having its middle in position to be grasped, thereby to turn the bar in wrist development exercises, a pair of grips, and counterpoise mechanism supported by the standards, and having means for detachably engaging the grips or the bar, the bar corrugated intermediate its ends, the corrugations extending annularly of the bar to provide a roughened surface for abdominal and lumbar massage.

1,752,413. SIGNALING CABLE. OLIVER E. BUCKLEY, Maplewood, N. J., assignor to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 31, 1928. Serial No. 296,539. 4 Claims. (Cl. 178—45.)



1. The method of reducing losses in the loaded material of a long loaded signal conductor which comprises obtaining the desired inductance at a terminal section where heavy currents are transmitted while, at the same time, reducing the flux density below a value at which large losses occur by loading the terminal section uniformly, and concentrating the loading of a section more remote from that terminal and which section transmits relatively small currents at spaced points in said more remote section.

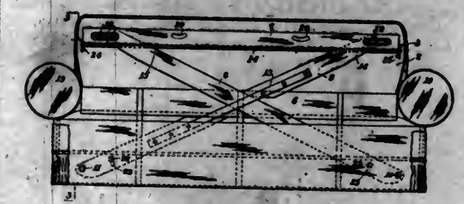
1,752,414. BELT BUCKLE. CLARENCE H. BURNETT, Crothersville, Ind. Filed July 12, 1929. Serial No. 377,891. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—77.)

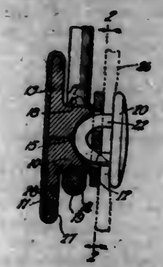
1. A belt buckle comprising a pair of transversely extending loops connected with the ends of the belt, an attaching bar, headed studs carried by the attaching bar, coil springs connecting the attaching bar to one of said loops, and socket arms carried by the other loop for detachable connection with said headed studs.

1,752,415. FOLDING MACHINE. SAMUEL J. CAMPBELL, Green Bay, Wis., assignor to Hudson-Sharp Machine Company, a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Feb. 6, 1929. Serial No. 337,752. 18 Claims. (Cl. 270—82.)



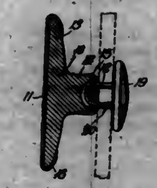
1. In a folding machine, the combination of coacting roller elements, each roller element being constructed in sections, means for driving one set of coacting sections of the respective roller elements at one rate of speed, and means for driving other coacting sections of the respective roller elements at a different speed to cause a turning or skewing movement of material fed through the roller elements.

1,752,416. SKI PEDESTAL FOR AEROPLANES. SILAS A. CHEESMAN, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, assignor to Northern Aerial Minerals Exploration Ltd., Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed May 29, 1929. Serial No. 367,058. 8 Claims. (Cl. 244—2.)



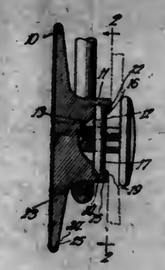
1. A ski pedestal for aeroplanes comprising a metal casing having a flanged base to secure to the ski runner, and elastic means mounted in pedestal for supporting the aeroplane.

1,752,417. CONVERTIBLE BED SETTEE. DIGBY RICHARD NUGENT CHRISTOPHERS, South Kensington, London, England. Filed Oct. 7, 1929, Serial No. 397,974, and in Great Britain Sept. 24, 1928. 5 Claims. (Cl. 5—12.)



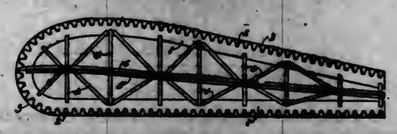
1. In a convertible bed settee, the combination with a seat section, of a back section comprising a supporting frame and upholstery, and means for releasably securing the upholstery to the said frame whereby said upholstery may be moved into superposed position on said seat section, and means whereby said frame may be collapsed to permit the same to be lowered below the upholstery when the latter is superposed on said seat section.

1,752,418. BUTTON. JOHN M. CLARK, Detroit, Mich., and IRA D. FORD, Roseland, Ontario, Canada, assignors to Universal Button Fastening & Button Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed July 20, 1929. Serial No. 379,839. 8 Claims. (Cl. 24—95.)



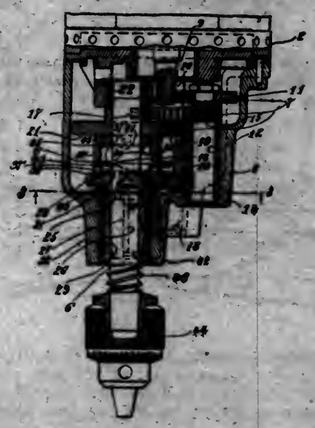
1. A metal button of the character described comprising in combination, a solid metal button body shaped to provide a head and a shank of relatively small diameter having a curved recess in the end thereof, a button base member welded to said shank and perforated to receive a pronged fastener, said recess being constructed and arranged to upset the fastener to secure attachment, said base being relatively large in diameter compared to that of said shank whereby to provide an adequate cloth engaging base and permit the use of a button with a relatively thin shank.

1,752,419. BUTTON. JOHN M. CLARK, Detroit, Mich., and IRA D. FORD, Roseland, Ontario, Canada, assignors to Universal Button Fastening & Button Co., Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Sept. 26, 1927, Serial No. 221,891. Renewed Aug. 16, 1929. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—95.)



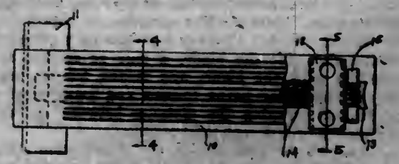
1. A solid metal button for overalls and the like comprising in combination a die formed body having an integral head and solid shank, said head having a superficial covering, the end of said shank having a semi-spherical, open recess formed therein and a transverse wire bar welded in said recess, the inner surface of said recess being curved to provide a die for bending the prongs of a double pronged fastener over said bar.

1,752,420. BUTTON. JOHN M. CLARK, Detroit, Mich., and IRA D. FORD, Roseland, Ontario, Canada, assignors to Universal Button Fastening & Button Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Sept. 30, 1929. Serial No. 396,061. 9 Claims. (Cl. 24—94.)



1. A button of the character described comprising in combination, a solid metal body having a head and a shank of relatively small diameter, the latter recessed at its extremity to provide a surface for upsetting an attaching fastener, said recess being shaped with a shoulder, and a fastener engaging element seated against said shoulder.

1,752,421. AEROPLANE-WING CONSTRUCTION. WALTER M. CROSS, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Jan. 12, 1929. Serial No. 332,085. 4 Claims. (Cl. 244—31.)

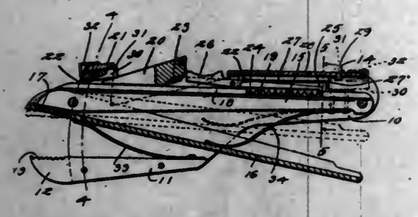


1. An aeroplane wing construction comprising a skeleton frame made up of former members which define the outer contour of the air foil, braces intermediate the former members, and a reinforcement covering, said frame separable through the braces to facilitate the assembly of the frame subsequent to the application of the reinforcement covering, said separable sections of the frame having apertured meeting members adapted to be brought into alignment and rods threaded through the apertures adapted to unite the sections subsequent to the application of the wing covering.

1,752,422. PORTABLE ELECTRIC TAPPER. ALONZO GALLOWAY DECKER, Baltimore County, Md., assignor to The Black & Decker Manufacturing Company, Towson, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Mar. 15, 1926. Serial No. 94,881. 3 Claims. (Cl. 10—186.)

1. In a portable power driven tapper, a tool casing, a motor therein, a spindle mounted to rotate in the casing, tapping in and tapping out gears mounted to rotate on the spindle and relatively thereto, said gears having clutch members, the spindle being mounted to slide and having a clutch member between the gears, means spacing the gears apart, a means tending to move the spindle to one end of its traverse, bringing the clutch member thereon into cooperative relation with the clutch member on one gear at one end of its traverse, the pressure of the tool against the work serving to return said clutch member, bringing it into engagement with the clutch member on the other gear at the other end of said traverse, and means connecting said motor to said tapping in and tapping out gears comprising a shaft having an elongated bearing in the frame, two pinions on the shaft, one said pinion meshing with one said gear, an idler meshing with the other of said pinions and with the other said gear, a gear for driving said shaft and means driving said latter gear from the motor.

1,752,423. DOORCHECK. FLOYD K. EASTMAN, Kokomo, Ind., assignor to The Concealed Door Check Co., Kokomo, Ind., a Corporation. Filed Sept. 2, 1927. Serial No. 217,089. 3 Claims. (Cl. 16—82.)



1. A check strap for limiting the opening movement of a door comprising a wire fabric strap formed of a plurality of diagonally disposed wires arranged to permit longitudinal resiliency thereof, a cross head secured at one end thereof, an anchor plate engaging the other end thereof, and a rubber covering therefor adapted to protect said strap while permitting of its longitudinal resiliency.

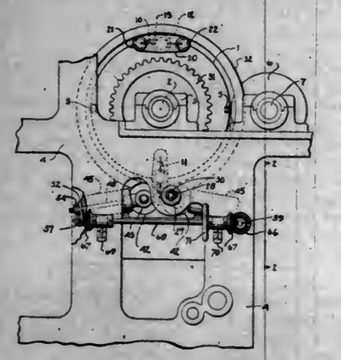
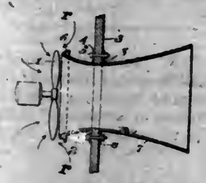
1,752,424. SEED DISINFECTANT. MAX ENGELMANN, Wilmington, Del., assignor to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 15, 1927. Serial No. 184,187. 10 Claims. (Cl. 167—38.)



1. A substantially dry seed disinfectant which comprises a mercury compound and a substance which in the presence of water will cause the disinfectant and the seed to readily become wet.

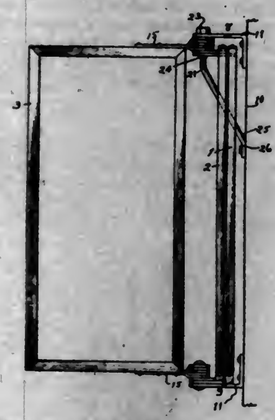
1,752,425. WRENCH. AMOS K. ERSLAND, Manhattan Beach, Calif. Filed Apr. 22, 1929. Serial No. 357,193. 4 Claims. (Cl. 81—78.)

1. A wrench including a pair of pivotally connected jaws, means for adjusting one of the jaws toward and away from the other jaw, a jaw face on said adjustable jaw, and a lever for moving the jaw face independently of the jaw.



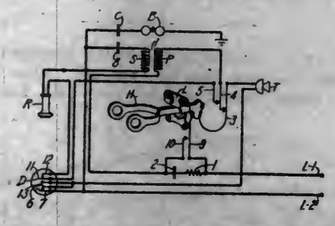
1,752,426. FOLDING MECHANISM. WILLIAM EVENSEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Goss Printing Press Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 16, 1923. Serial No. 625,577. 19 Claims. (Cl. 270—76.)

11. A printing press folding mechanism including in combination a rotary folding member, a rotary tucker blade carried thereby, a rotary cam having a plurality of actuating slots for the blade, a pair of folding rollers cooperating with the blade, and means for moving the rollers in rectilinear paths toward and away from each other, thereby varying the distance between the rollers to fold papers of different thicknesses.



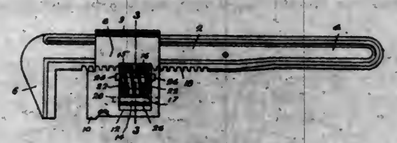
18. In a printing press folder, the combination with the folding cylinder and its blade, of a pair of folding rollers independently mounted, and means for simultaneously adjusting both rollers equal distances in opposite directions.

1,752,427. DEVICE FOR IMPROVING THE AERODYNAMIC EFFICIENCY OF AN EXHAUSTER FAN. ELISHA N. FALES, Dayton, Ohio. Filed June 9, 1923. Serial No. 644,517. 7 Claims. (Cl. 230—120.)



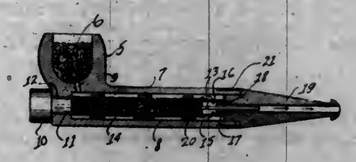
1. In a device of the class described, a rotatable exhauster fan, a member forming a fluid duct disposed with its inlet end adjacent to the fan at its delivery end and being smaller in internal diameter than the external diameter of the fan, and a tapered guiding surface provided on the outside periphery of the duct-forming member surrounding the inlet end.

1,752,428. HINGE. JONATHAN FARVER, Shipshewana, Ind. Filed Dec. 7, 1928. Serial No. 324,856. 2 Claims. (Cl. 16—162.)



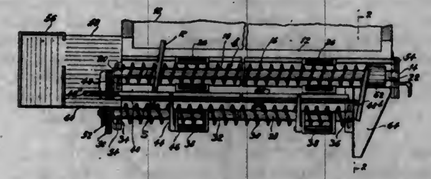
1. In a hinge, the combination of an L shaped hinge bracket, a combined hinge pintle and brace connected with said bracket, and a plurality of hinge arms pivotally connected with the pintle portion of said combined pintle and brace.

1,752,429. TELEPHONE SET. CLARENCE B. FOWLER, Queens Village, N. Y., assignor to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 9, 1928. Serial No. 284,225. 7 Claims. (Cl. 179—81.)



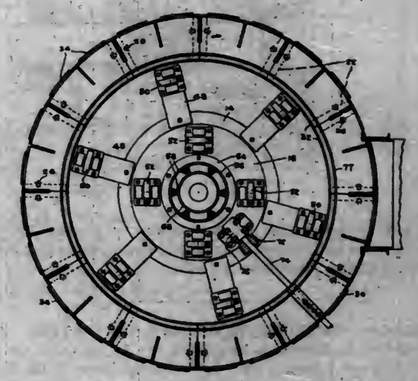
1. In a telephone set, a monitoring latch, an impedance, switchhook contacts for connecting said impedance in series with said set, and additional switchhook contacts responsive to said monitoring latch for shunting said impedance.

1,752,430. WRENCH. CHARLES B. GARTRELL, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Nov. 26, 1928. Serial No. 322,040. 2 Claims. (Cl. 81—158.)



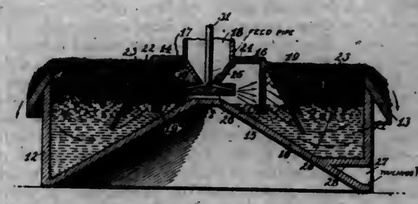
1. A wrench consisting of a threaded portion having a fixed jaw at one end and a handle at its opposite end, a housing slidably mounted upon the threaded portion of the wrench and provided with a jaw and an opening, a nut having external threads for engagement with the threaded portion of the wrench, a shaft extending axially through said nut, a U-shaped member carrying said shaft and operably mounted in the opening in the housing so that it may carry said nut in and out of engagement with the threaded portion of the wrench, said U-shaped member having two resilient arms for frictionally engaging the adjacent sides of the housing opening to hold the nut in engagement with the threaded portion of the wrench, and a member projecting from one of said arms for engaging the housing and checking the movement of the U-shaped member after the same has been adjusted to carry the nut into engagement with the threaded portion of the wrench.

1,752,431. TOBACCO PIPE. SKÚLI GUNNLAUGSSON, Rio Vista, Calif. Filed Sept. 21, 1927. Serial No. 221,029. 2 Claims. (Cl. 131—12.)



1. A tobacco pipe comprising a bowl, a tubular portion having a chamber formed therein and in communication with the bowl, a centrally bored stem detachably secured to one end of said tubular portion, a plug removably secured in the opposite end of said tubular portion, a wire secured to said plug and extending longitudinally of the tubular portion, an absorbent loosely mounted on said wire and secured at one end to said plug, and a perforated cap mounted on said stem and adapted to contact the free end of said absorbent.

1,752,432. CONVEYER FOR USE WITH FURNACES. WILLIAM M. HEPBURN, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Surface Combustion Company, Inc., Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 1, 1928. Serial No. 309,529. 7 Claims. (Cl. 198—218.)

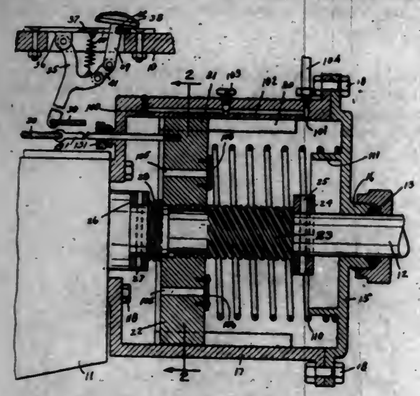


1. In a conveyer, the combination of a longitudinally extending object-supporting member, a shaft alongside of said member in such a plane that an elongated object may be disposed crosswise of the shaft and member for support, a second shaft alongside of said member in such a plane that the adjacent end of the object may abut the shaft below the top thereof whereby to prevent longitudinal displacement of said object in one direction, and a spiral guideway on each of said shafts adapted to shift said object axially of the shafts as the latter are rotated.

1,752,433. ROTARY FORGING FURNACE. RICHARD M. HORTVET, Minneapolis, Minn., assignor to Mahr Manufacturing Company, Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation. Filed June 15, 1928. Serial No. 285,687. 3 Claims. (Cl. 263—7.)

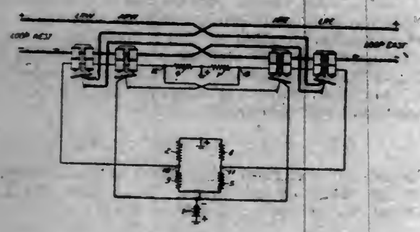
1. In a rotary forging furnace, the combination of a foundation, a circular series of castings mounted around said foundation in spaced relation to each other, a furnace wall supported by said castings, a turntable within said wall, operating mechanism for said turntable underneath the latter, and sealing means between the interior of the furnace and said operating mechanism.

1,752,434. FLOTATION MACHINE. ALBERT L. HOWARD, Hollis, Territory of Alaska. Filed May 18, 1927. Serial No. 191,245. 8 Claims. (Cl. 261—123.)



1. A flotation machine comprising a cell, a rotatable head having a plurality of radial passages disposed in the cell above the level of the liquid in the cell, means for supplying pulp to the head, a cup-shaped member embracing the head and provided with a plurality of openings adjacent the radial passages in the head for directing the pulp into the cell.

1,752,435. BACKING STOP FOR VEHICLES. EDWARD S. HUTTON, Miami, Fla. Filed Mar. 11, 1929. Serial No. 346,175. 7 Claims. (Cl. 188—30.)



1. Means for stopping the backward movement of a motor vehicle having a drive shaft, including a threaded portion on the drive shaft, a fluid-tight housing surrounding the same, a nut associated with the housing and the threaded portion of the shaft and constituting a piston in said housing, and yielding means interposed between the housing and the nut normally resisting threading movement between the nut and shaft.

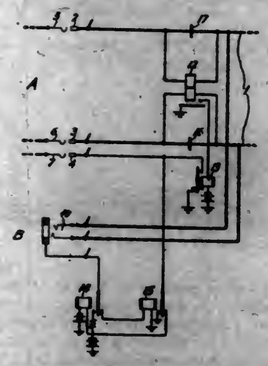
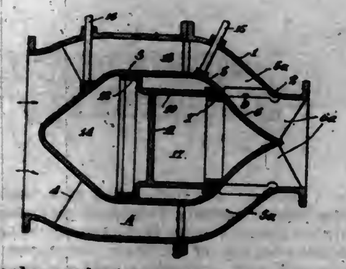
1,752,436. TELEGRAPH REPEATING SYSTEM. FULLERTON S. KINKEAD, New York, N. Y., assignor to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 14, 1928. Serial No. 292,701. 3 Claims. (Cl. 178—71.)

1. A telegraph repeater for repeating between two closed, non-polar telegraph circuits each containing a source of current, comprising a first and a second polar relay means, each having a first and a second independent actuating winding and a first and a second pair of contacts, the first winding of said first means being connected through the first set of contacts on said second means to one line section and the first windings of said second means being connected through the first set of contacts on said first means to the other line section, means comprising a single source of electromotive force of constant polarity, a first resistor, and the second pair of contacts on one of said relay means, for supplying a current to the second winding on the other relay means opposite in effect to the normal line current in the first winding of said other relay means, and means comprising said source of electromotive force, a second and a third resistor for supplying a current to the second winding in the same sense as the normal line current, independently of the second pair of contacts on the other relay.



1,752,437. BRAIDING MACHINE. RAY CHARLES KIVLEY, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 27, 1927. Serial No. 208,673. 5 Claims. (Cl. 96—5.)

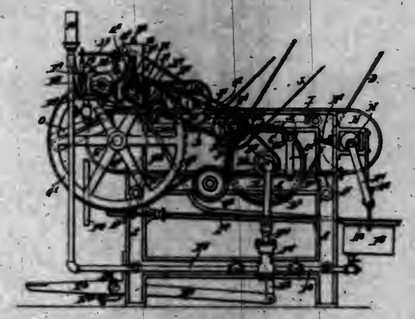
1. In a braiding machine, a plurality of sets of strand supplies rotating in opposite directions about a common axis, and a plurality of stationary U-shaped and inverted U-shaped members arranged in series about said axis for deflecting the supply strands of one of the sets in and out around the strand supplies of another set.



3. In a braiding machine, a plurality of strand supplies rotating in opposite directions about a common axis, means for shifting the strands of the supplies rotating in one direction in and out around the strand supplies rotating in the opposite direction, and an arcuate member associated with each of the shifted supply strands for maintaining a uniform tension therein.

1,752,438. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. FRANKLIN A. KORN, Elizabeth, N. J., assignor to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 29, 1929. Serial No. 350,887. 6 Claims. (Cl. 179—27.)

1. In a telephone system, a switch, an operator's position, a trunk, and means responsive to the passage of current over said trunk for establishing and maintaining a busy condition at the operator's position and a holding circuit for the switch regardless of subsequent changes of current over said trunk.



1,752,439. SLEEVE VALVE. CHESTER W. LARNER, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to I. P. Morris and De La Vergne, Inc., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 14, 1926. Serial No. 141,452. 11 Claims. (Cl. 137—139.)

1. A valve mechanism comprising inner and outer casings spaced to form a relatively smooth fluid passage-way therebetween, said outer casing having a seat formed thereon, a sleeve disposed within the interior casing and having a closed partition and an open downstream end and means for effecting movement of said sleeve including the operating element movabel therewith.

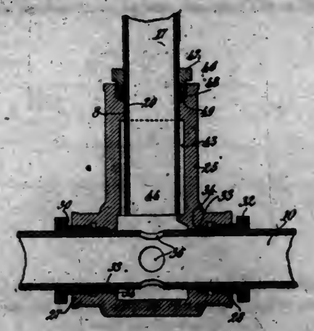
1,752,440. APPARATUS FOR SEASONING SKINS. HARRY B. LAYTON, Wilmington, Del., assignor to G. W. Baker Machine Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 28, 1927. Serial No. 208,913. 2 Claims. (Cl. 91—40.)

1. A seasoning machine having in combination an endless bolster adapted to support and transport a hide during the seasoning operation, drums over which the bolster extends, reversible means for driving one of the drums in opposite directions, a brush for applying seasoning compounds located above and near the feed end of the bolster, means for rotating said brush in the direction in which skins are fed to the machine and means for feeding seasoning to the brush.



1,752,441. CONVERTIBLE AUTO SEAT. FRANK N. LEE, Dupont, Ga. Filed Aug. 6, 1928. Serial No. 297,719. 1 Claim. (Cl. 155—7.)

A vehicle seat comprising a seat section, a back section pivotally connected to the seat section, a front section pivotally connected to the seat section, bars secured to the back section and extending downwardly below the back section, a horizontal bar connecting the downwardly extended bars, pivoted leg members secured to the front section, a rod connecting the leg members, links connecting the horizontal bar and rod to move the leg members and back section simultaneously, and said leg members adapted to support the front section in a horizontal position.

1,752,442. FITTINGS AND PIPE SYSTEM FOR SOOT CLEANERS. FREDERICK W. LINAKER and THEODORE M. BRUBACK, Du Bois, Pa. Filed Jan. 22, 1923. Serial No. 614,177. 6 Claims. (Cl. 122—392.)

1. A soot cleaner system for boilers, comprising a main header pipe, branch pipes leading therefrom and pipes forming cleaner elements communicating with said branch pipes and entering the interior of the boiler setting, said system having threaded connections forming the junction of the header pipe and branch pipes, at least one of said connections comprising a branch portion adjustably engaging an elongated threaded end portion of the branch pipe.

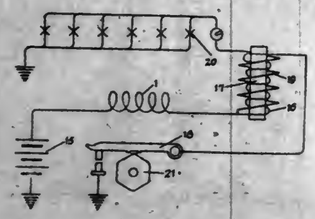
1,752,443. STEEL LAY BRACE. CARL J. LINDGREN, Providence, R. I., assignor to Crompton & Knowles Loom Works Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed May 3, 1929. Serial No. 360,190. 8 Claims. (Cl. 139—188.)

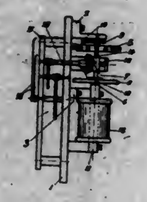
1. In a loom lay having a beam and swords, and operating with a picker stick, a lay end formed of sheet metal and having parallel spaced ribs extending perpendicularly from the body of the lay end to define a picker slot, and elongated guides pressed out of the plane of the body portion of the lay end and extending farther from the lay end body than do the ribs to prevent engagement between the ribs and the picker stick, the guides stiffening the lay end.

1,752,444. KEY CASE. CHARLES LORBER, Bloomfield, N. J. Filed Sept. 7, 1928. Serial No. 304,555. 7 Claims. (Cl. 150—40.)



1. In combination, a key plate having a transverse slot therein, swivel rings each having a portion passing through the slot to secure the ring to the plate and being slidable along said slot, and key hooks each carried by a respective ring.

1,752,445. CURRENT CONTROLLER FOR ENGINE-IGNITION SYSTEMS. MARION MALLORY, Toledo, Ohio. Filed May 18, 1929. Serial No. 364,142. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—148.)



1. In an ignition system for internal combustion engines, a primary circuit and a secondary circuit, a circuit closer connected to the ignition system, a resistance element, whose resistance increases as its temperature is increased, connected in the primary circuit, and means operated by the engine for directing a fluid against the resistance element to vary the resistance of the resistance element.

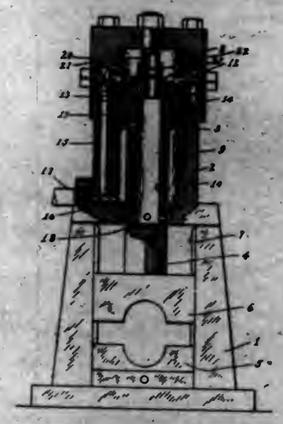
1,752,446. ELECTROMAGNETIC IMPULSE TIMEPIECE. FRITZ MARTI, La Chaux-de-Fonds, Switzerland. Filed Nov. 26, 1927. Serial No. 235,927. 2 Claims. (Cl. 58—28.)

1. An electro-magnetic impulse time-piece comprising an escapement wheel actuating the movement, and a rotative arbor on which are mounted a balance, an electro-magnetic impulse flange acted upon by an electro-magnet and impulse pallets to actuate said escapement wheel, the escapement wheel and the impulse pallets being connected in circuit with the electro-magnet so that the circuit is made and broken between the impulse pallets and the escapement-wheel.



1,752,447. RAKE. GEORGE HENRY MAUS, Amsterdam, N. Y. Filed Feb. 17, 1928. Serial No. 255,089. 1 Claim. (Cl. 55—10.)

A rake comprising strips of material arranged in superimposed relation to one another at their inner ends and diverging therefrom to their outer ends, the said strips being provided with teeth at the said outer ends, a handle with relation to which the superimposed ends of the strips are assembled, a clamp embracing the handle and the superimposed strips at the inner ends of said strips, the ends of the clamp extending beyond the said assembled elements, and a member extending through the said ends and adapted to exert force on said ends, tending to draw them together to bind the clamp against the handle and the strips.

1,752,448. PNEUMATIC HAMMER. JOHN THOMAS MCGRATH, Bloomington, Ill. Filed Mar. 5, 1929. Serial No. 344,155. 3 Claims. (Cl. 121—130.)

1. In a pneumatic hammer comprising a closed cylinder, a piston mounted for reciprocation therein, a piston rod thereon passing through one end of the cylinder, a central cavity formed in said piston and piston rod opening through said piston into the cylinder thereabove and having a port in said piston rod adapted to exhaust into the atmosphere as the piston rod approaches the outward limit of its stroke, normally closed automatic air inlet valves between the open side of the piston and adjacent end of the cylinder adapted to be opened by the piston approaching that end of the cylinder in its upward stroke and an air port opening into the cylinder on the other side of the piston adjacent that end of the cylinder, and means connecting said air inlet and air port to a source of air under pressure, the combination with an automatic exhaust valve between the piston cavity and the adjacent end of the piston, including a stationary hollow member entering the piston cavity and a sleeve mounted to reciprocate thereon with the piston.

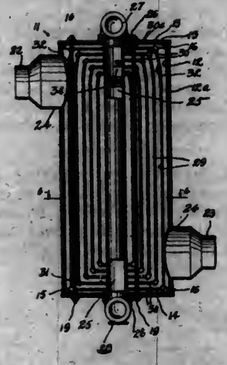
1,752,449. MANUFACTURE OF BITUMINOUS EMULSIONS. JOHN STROTHER MILLER, Jr., Rahway, N. J., assignor to The Barber Asphalt Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed July 17, 1920. Serial No. 397,027. 10 Claims. (Cl. 134—1.)

1. The process of preparing an aqueous emulsion of natural solid bituminous base self-emulsifying by reason of native impurity which consists in finely grinding such base, in its solid native state, with water and continuing the grinding until a water external phase emulsive combination is effected.

1,752,450. RAIL AND TIE PLATE FASTENER. GEORGE W. MULLER, Washington, D. C., assignor to Muller Railway Track Systems, Incorporated, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 29, 1928. Serial No. 281,568. 10 Claims. (Cl. 238—352.)

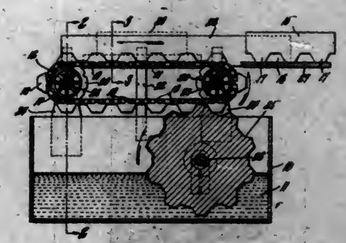


1. In a rail and tie plate fastener, the combination with a tie and tie plate, of a rail on the tie plate, holding keys engaging the flange of the rail and the tie plate, and spike pins passing through the tie plate, said spike pins including means to prevent their withdrawal from the tie plate, the said pins and the said holding keys having correspondingly curved surfaces in contact whereby the pins secure the keys.

1,752,451. BASE PLATE FOR RAILROAD-TRACK STRUCTURES. GEORGE W. MULLER, Washington, D. C. Filed Aug. 20, 1928. Serial No. 300,807. 3 Claims. (Cl. 238—304.)

1. A base plate of the character described adapted to be secured upon a series of succeeding cross ties and having spaced upstanding portions near the edges of the plate, the surface between the said up-standing portions being canted and concave and extending longitudinally.

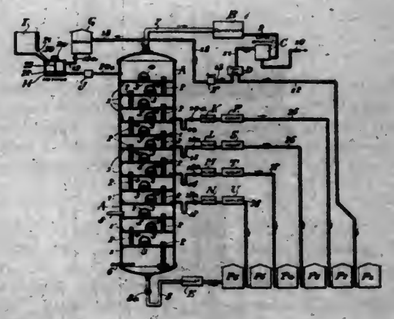
1,752,452. ECONOMIZER. JOHN R. NASON, Auburn, Me. Filed May 28, 1928. Serial No. 281,109. 9 Claims. (Cl. 257—224.)



1. A device of the character described, including a chamber through which hot flue gas is adapted to pass, a main water tube of comparatively large diameter extending through said chamber, a series of circulatory tubes of relatively small diameter communicating at their ends with the main tube, and means to restrict the flow of water through the main tube between the points of communication aforesaid, the circulatory tubes being disposed in angularly spaced relation and in spaced concentric circles, the outer tubes being longer than the inner tubes enclosing the same.

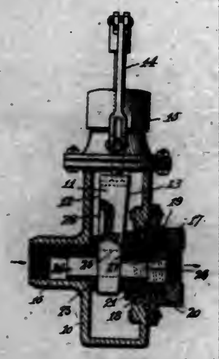
1,752,453. COAL-LOADING DEVICE. JAMES A. O'NEIL, Hanna, Wyo. Filed Nov. 16, 1928. Serial No. 319,877. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—14.)

A device for changing uniform rotary motion into variable reciprocating motion which comprises, in combination, a housing having two opposed sides, a shaft extending transversely through the housing near one end thereof, said shaft being mounted for rotation about its axis, a gear carried by the shaft, the housing being provided with opposed parallel slots (40) a bearing slidably mounted in each slot, a shaft rotatably mounted in the bearings, a gear wheel nonrotatably mounted on the shaft in eccentric relation therewith, said gear having a concentric hub on each side, the diameter of said hubs being greater than twice the distance from the center of the gear wheel to the center of the shaft about which it rotates, plus the diameter of the shaft, a link connecting each hub with the first mentioned shaft for holding the two gears in mesh, and a crank secured to the outer end of the second shaft.



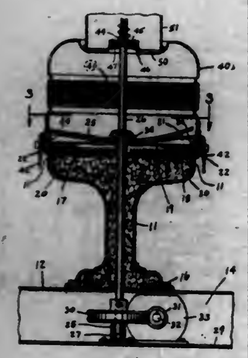
1,752,454. METHOD OF AND MACHINE FOR EDGE COATING ROOFING ELEMENTS. FREDERICK C. OVERBURY, Hillsdale, N. J., assignor to The Patent and Licensing Corporation, Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Dec. 20, 1926. Serial No. 155,820. 10 Claims. (Cl. 91—68.)

1. The method of coating the butt edges of a roofing element, which comprises forming a layer of coating material on a surface complemental to said edges, moving the element in the direction of its length and applying the coated surface to the edges while the element is thus in motion.



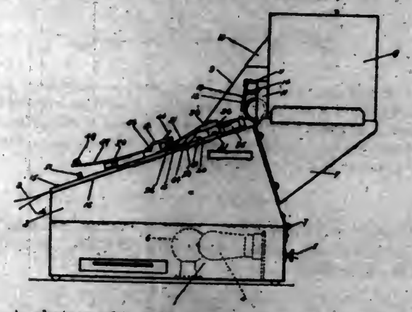
10. Apparatus for coating edges of roofing strips comprising means for moving roofing strips in the direction of their length when presented thereto, said means including a flexible endless member having a surface complemental to the edges to be coated, and means for covering said surface with a film of coating material prior to its engagement with strip edges, whereby coating material is applied to said edges as the strips are moved along in contact therewith.

1,752,455. REFINING SYSTEM. ALBERT G. PETERKIN, Jr., Bryn Mawr, Pa., assignor to The Atlantic Refining Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 8, 1926. Serial No. 100,477. 5 Claims. (Cl. 196—96.)



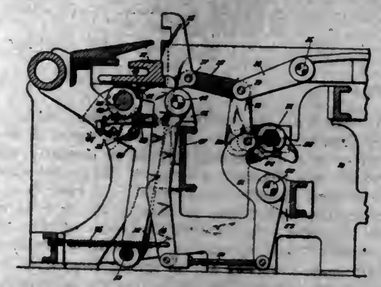
2. A method for simultaneously fractionating and purifying the vapors of hydrocarbon oil, which comprises passing the vapors upwardly in contact and interchange relation with descending liquid reflux oil, removing liquid fractions of the oil from the fractionating zone, suspending a solid purifying agent in at least a portion of a fraction so removed, and passing the oil containing the suspended material in fractionating relation with at least a portion of the ascending vapors.

1,752,456. GATE VALVE. CHRISTOPHER A. PILLATT, Joliet, Ill. Filed Apr. 1, 1929. Serial No. 351,765. 3 Claims. (Cl. 251—60.)



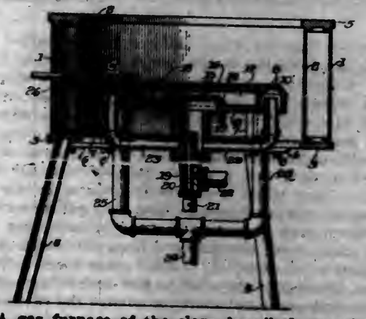
1. In a gate-valve structure, a casing having an inlet at one side and an outlet at the other side, a gate lying within the casing and connected with means for raising and lowering it, said gate having a straight working-face and also an inclined face at the outlet side, this gate being provided with a water-passage and also a sediment-pocket formed in the working-face, a valve-seat arranged around the inlet-nipple, and a spring-actuated thrust-block or ring arranged to have its entire bearing-face press against the inclined face of the gate at the outlet side in its open as well as its closed position.

1,752,457. POP-CORN MACHINE. JAMES H. REICHART, Muncie, Ind. Filed Sept. 15, 1928. Serial No. 306,175. 12 Claims. (Cl. 53—4.)



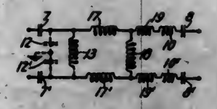
1. A corn popping machine including a support provided with a heater element, and a popping plate thereon with a marginal downwardly extending flange overlapping and extending beyond said support so that material discharged over the margin of the popper plate will not come in contact with the said support.

1,752,458. PHOTOGRAPHIC PRINTER. JOHN J. RISDON, Binghamton, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Agfa Ansco Corporation, Binghamton, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 20, 1927. Serial No. 220,788. 7 Claims. (Cl. 95—75.)



1. A photographic printer comprising a printing light and exposure station, means for moving a negative strip and a positive strip to position over said station, said means including separate shifters for so moving each of said strips, and said shifters being adjustably secured together for simultaneously moving said strips.

1,752,459. LAY-DRIVING MECHANISM FOR LOOMS. WILLIAM W. ROBERTSON, Worcester, Mass., assignor to Crompton & Knowles Loom Works, Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 15, 1928. Serial No. 261,992. 10 Claims. (Cl. 139—190.)

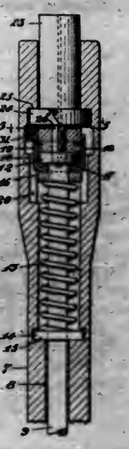


1. In a loom, a lay, means to move the end portions of said lay positively forward to beat up the cloth, and simultaneously acting means to move the middle portion of said lay positively forward, said latter means being operative only at the beat up.

1,752,460. GAS FURNACE. CHARLES E. SCHULTZ, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 15, 1927. Serial No. 205,910. 5 Claims. (Cl. 158—108.)

3. A gas furnace of the class described comprising, in combination, a combustion chamber, means including a pair of substantially flat plates vertically spaced apart to form a circular and relatively shallow mixing chamber, the upper one of said plates having a plurality of discharge ports communicating with said combustion chamber, the lower one of said plates having a central opening therein, a discharge head fitting into said opening and projecting into said mixing chamber, said head having a series of spirally disposed jet orifices discharging laterally into said mixing chamber, said head further providing below said lower plate a preliminary mixing chamber, an outer circuitous air chamber disposed within the combustion chamber adapted for connection on the one hand with a source of air under pressure and on the other hand with said preliminary mixing chamber, and means connected with a source of fuel gas under pressure for discharging the same into said preliminary mixing chamber.

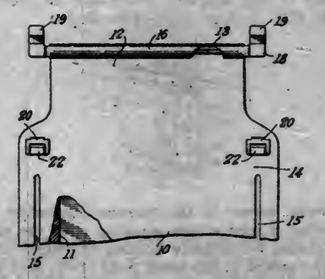
1,752,461. TRANSMISSION NETWORK. TIMOTHY E. SHEA, Rutherford, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 24, 1925. Serial No. 45,792. 2 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)



1. In a wave filter adapted to transmit selectively a pre-assigned broad band of frequencies, a condenser included in a series branch of the filter and having stray capacity in shunt to the filter, and a star connected group of inductances adjacent to said condenser, said inductances being proportioned with respect to the capacity of said condenser and to the pre-assigned range of frequencies to maintain the desired selective transmission characteristics, and being proportioned also with respect to said stray capacity to provide a substantially neutralising reactance therefor throughout the preassigned frequency range.

1,752,462. NONTARNISHING METALLIC INK. WALTER F. SMITH, Kingsport, Tenn., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Kingsport Press, Inc., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 16, 1927. Serial No. 233,746. 6 Claims. (Cl. 134—35.)

1. An ink having a metallic pigment coated with nitrocellulose (pyroxylin) and a vehicle therefor comprising a resinous substance and terpineol as a solvent for the resinous substance.



1,752,463. LEVER LOCK. FRANK E. SMYTHE and ALBERT Q. SMYTHE, San Diego, Calif., assignors of one-half to Andy Atleson and May Atleson, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Sept. 7, 1927. Serial No. 218,002. 4 Claims. (Cl. 70—132.)

1. In a lever lock, the combination of a lever, a push rod carried by said lever, a spring normally maintaining the push rod in a retracted position, means operable by said push rod when in its retracted position to hold the lever against movement in at least one direction, a turnable push button operable on being depressed to effect advance of said rod in opposition to said spring, said push button being formed with a key-receiving slot, and key controlled mechanism interposed between said push button and push rod operable to prevent actuation of the push rod through said push button, and adapted to be turned by a key inserted through the push button to permit actuation of the push rod through said push button.

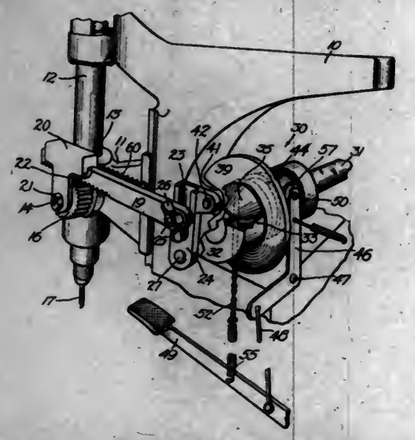
1,752,464. WATERPROOF-CLOSURE FASTENER. HARRY C. SPECTER, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 19, 1928. Serial No. 313,421. 2 Claims. (Cl. 150—8.)



1. The combination with a bag having flexible walls, an extending neck and sides, and a split tube in which the neck is engaged and on which it may be rolled, of looped clips fixed on the bag sides, and means at the ends of said tube to engage said clips.

1,752,465. FEEDING DEVICE FOR DRILLING MACHINE SPINDLES. FRANK CALVIN SPENCER, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 27, 1925. Serial No. 39,900. 2 Claims. (Cl. 77—33.)

1. The combination with a drill press including a drill spindle, of means for imparting vertical movement to the spindle comprising a clutch mechanism including driving and driven members, one of said members having an external slot therein, resilient means for maintaining the driving and driven members normally separated, manual means for engaging said members, a cam associated with and operated by the clutch mechanism, a rack reciprocated by the cam to impart a longitudinal motion to the drill spindle, means to disconnect the manual means after the drill spindle has been moved a predetermined distance, means to adjust said last mentioned means to vary the predetermined distance, a member wound in the slot by the rotation of the clutch mechanism and a spring attached to the last mentioned member for storing energy during the winding operation to co-operate with the resilient means for returning the clutch members and all associated mechanism to their starting position upon the operation of the disconnecting means.

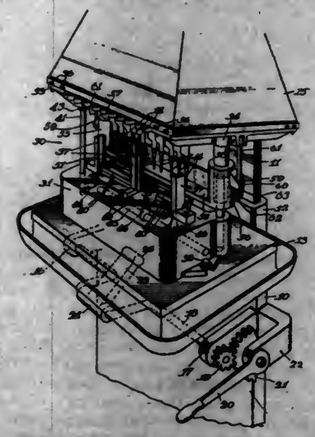
1,752,466. ROLLER SCREEN. WILLIAM E. STEVENS and CHARLES B. JAY, Raymond, Wash.; said Stevens assignor to Ray Stayles. Filed Apr. 21, 1927. Serial No. 185,437. 1 Claim. (Cl. 156—39.)

In a roller screen of the character described having a spring roller, a wire screen mounted upon the said roller, suitable guides for slidably holding the edges of the said screen, and means at the lower ends of the said guides for holding the said screen downward; a spring roller tensioning device comprising a casing having a slot in one end extending downward from the upper side, said slot having an enlarged notch about midway thereof, a movable cover plate with a vertical slot extending downward to the lower edge thereof at the end of the said casing forming an inclosure for the slot in the end of the casing, said slot in the movable plate also having an enlarged notch therein, and a handle extending from the end of said roller through the slots in the end of the casing and movable plate.



1,752,467. GARDEN IMPLEMENT. THOMAS C. STRAWN, Salem, Ohio. Filed Oct. 3, 1927. Serial No. 223,525. 2 Claims. (Cl. 55—68.)

1. A garden implement comprising a tubular staff, a member formed of sheet metal providing a scoop-like jaw at its lower end, and an integral split collar with parallel flanges at its upper end, said flanges having aligned bolt holes, a plurality of bolts engaged through said flanges for clamping said collar about the lower end of said staff, a movable jaw member having a scoop-like shape at its lower end and having a flattened extension at its upper end received freely between said flanges and pivotally mounted on the lower of said bolts, a coil spring abutting the lower end of said staff and the upper portion of said movable jaw, and normally pressing said movable jaw outwardly, and an operating rod within said staff and passing through said spring and engaging directly with the flattened portion of said movable jaw opposite the pivot end thereof.

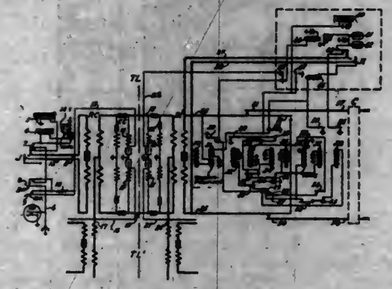
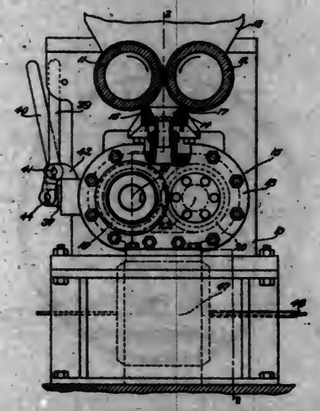
1,752,468. WORK-FEEDING DEVICE FOR DRILLING MACHINES. JOHN STANLEY STULL, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 22, 1925. Serial No. 51,763. 9 Claims. (Cl. 77—63.)



1. The combination with a drill press comprising a drill, operating means for the drill, a work table, means for positioning work on the table, a yielding member for engaging work in the working position, a pin for supporting said member, and a cam member engaging the pin for adjusting the position of the pin to accommodate different sizes of material to be worked.

1,752,469. CONNECTION BLOCK. JOHN WILLIAM TENNANT, Middlesex, England, assignor to Radio Corporation of America, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 16, 1925, Serial No. 15,734, and in Great Britain Mar. 21, 1924. 7 Claims. (Cl. 200—51.)

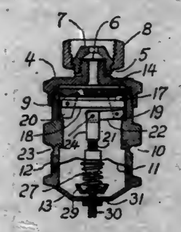


1. A connection block for use with coils of the plug-in type comprising an insulating base, a plurality of contacts on said base including a pair of plugs and a pair of sockets for connecting two coils in circuit with each other, a double-pole double-throw switch on said base, and electrical connections between said switch and said contacts for reversing the connections of one of said coils, and an additional contact on said base whereby the connections between the first mentioned contacts may be short-circuited.

1,752,470. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. VICTOR S. THARP, Elmhurst, Ill., assignor to Reserve Holding Company, Kansas City, Mo., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 9, 1928. Serial No. 291,176. 11 Claims. (Cl. 179—27.)

1. In a telephone system wherein two-way manual to manual telephone connections are established over a two-way trunk line comprising only two conductors connecting a first and a second exchange, a control circuit including only one of said conductors, and means controlled over said control circuit whereupon operators at said exchanges can call each other in initiating the manual to manual telephone connections and can signal each other on answering and disconnecting on such calls.

1,752,471. EXTRUSION MACHINE. BRUNO MAX ALFRED TREBES, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 24, 1924. Serial No. 715,650. 10 Claims. (Cl. 18—12.)



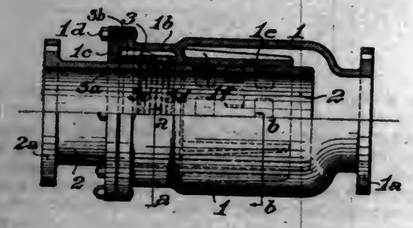
7. In an extrusion machine, an extruding head, and a gear pump for forcing plastic material therethrough, comprising a casing, a pair of gears rotatably mounted therein, meshing with each other, the gears being composed of a plurality of laminations, means for selectively engaging or disengaging the laminations with or from each other, means for locking the disengaged laminations, and means for rotating the gears.

1,752,472. SUPPORTING BAR. KARL H. WHITNEY, Kirksville, Mo., assignor to Whitmanis Manufacturing Company, Kirksville, Mo., a Corporation of Missouri. Filed Mar. 3, 1928. Serial No. 260,153. 4 Claims. (Cl. 211—128.)

3. A supporting bar comprising a first bar section having a shoe member at one end thereof, a second bar section having a shoe member at one end thereof, a telescopic joint intermediate of said shoe members, an actuating lever located intermediate of the side walls of one of said telescopic joint members and pivotally supported upon a pivot pin mounted transversely of said telescopic joint and supported at opposite ends in the side walls of one member of said telescopic joint, said actuating lever serving to engage the opposite telescopic joint member and forcibly adjust said telescopic joint members endwise thereof to cause said shoes to be engaged with and disengaged from supporting abutments.

1,752,473. REDUCING VALVE. AUGUSTUS L. ANDERSON, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Presto Primer and Reducing Valve Corporation, a Corporation of Delaware. Continuation of abandoned application Serial No. 112,890, filed June 1, 1926. This application filed June 24, 1927. Serial No. 201,211. 5 Claims. (Cl. 50—26.)

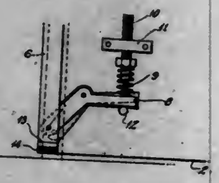
1. A reducing valve comprising a cylindrical casing and screw caps at opposite ends of the casing, a diaphragm extending across said casing and secured in position by one of said caps, a disk secured in position by the other cap and forming the interior of the casing into two chambers, said disk having an opening forming an inlet nozzle extending from one chamber to the other; a closure for said nozzle, levers mounted on said disk for operating said closure and a detachable connection between said levers and diaphragm.



1,752,474. METHOD OF TREATING METALS. CARTER HENRY ANDERSON, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 31, 1927. Serial No. 180,066. 12 Claims. (Cl. 22—200.)

1. A method of treating metals, which consists in melting a metal in the presence of a reducing material, allowing the metal to solidify, and remelting the metal in the presence of a non-reducing material.

1,752,475. STEAM-PIPE EXPANSION JOINT. GEORGE B. ASHWORTH, Amsterdam, N. Y. Filed Jan. 14, 1928. Serial No. 246,727. 1 Claim. (Cl. 285—163.)



A steam pipe expansion joint comprising an outer section having a stuffing-box, and an inner, perforated bearing sleeve of annular cross section, integrally joined at one end only to the wall of the section, and spaced therefrom to form a steam chamber; an inner tubular portion passing through the stuffing box and slidably engaging the bearing sleeve, said sleeve being of substantial length to afford a support for the tubular portion; packing means in the stuffing box; means for adjusting the packing to take up wear thereof and means for joining the outer section and the tubular portion respectively to adjacent pipes.

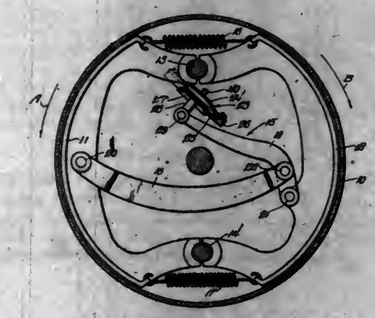
1,752,476. SAFETY DEVICE FOR ELEVATOR CAGE AND SHAFT DOORS. FRANZ A. BONDTCHER, Bergenfield, N. J., assignor to Otis Elevator Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Feb. 15, 1928. Serial No. 254,335. 4 Claims. (Cl. 268—55.)

1. In an assembly of the character described, a door, an actuating bar extending vertically along the free edge of the door, a link connection between the door and the bar to provide for relative movement between the bar and door, means for normally maintaining the links of such connection in inclined relation, and a braking device associated with one end of the bar, whereby, when the door moves into a position to strike an obstruction in its path, the bar will be engaged and swung on its link connection to partake of vertical movement for the purpose of bringing the braking device into engagement with a suitable stationary part to brake the door against further closing movement.



1,752,477. CAMERA FOR COLOR CINEMATOGRAPHY. PERCY D. BREWSTER, Newark, N. J. Filed Mar. 14, 1921, Serial No. 452,160. Renewed Oct. 27, 1928. 9 Claims. (Cl. 88—16.4.)

1. In a color camera, the combination with a lens, a film-gate in rear of the lens to support a negative film in position for exposure, a plane mirror extending between the lens and said film-gate and occupying a plane at an angle to the axis of the lens, said mirror having at least one light-passing opening, means for revolving the mirror in its own plane, a film-gate arranged to support a negative film in position to receive light reflected by the mirror, means for feeding films through the film-gates simultaneously step-by-step, a shutter for exposing both films at each period of rest thereof, and means for actuating the mirror, the shutter, and the film-feeding means in harmony with each other.

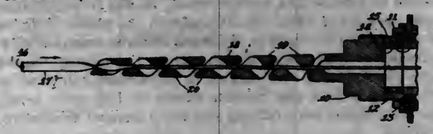
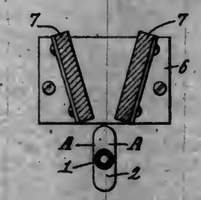
1,752,478. BRAKE CONSTRUCTION. ADIEL Y. DODGE, South Bend, Ind., assignor to Bendix Brake Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 10, 1924. Serial No. 697,982. 16 Claims. (Cl. 188—78.)



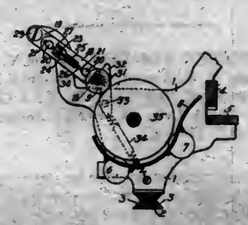
1. A brake comprising, in combination, a drum, a plurality of shoes engageable with the drum and individually shiftable to anchor at opposite ends according to the direction of rotation of the drum, and means acting on the shoes and bodily movable to exert a balanced spreading pressure on the shoes to apply the brake.

1,752,479. BOTTLED-BEVERAGE-VENDING MACHINE. HERBERT F. DOTSON, San Antonio, Tex. Filed Sept. 8, 1927. Serial No. 218,164. 5 Claims. (Cl. 312—36.)



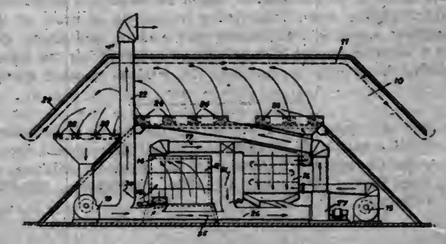
1. In a vending machine, a curved way slotted in its outer side, and an ejector pivoted concentric with the way and having a laterally extending element adapted to pass through the slotted side of the curved way to engage an article deposited in the way and travel from end to end of the way for delivering the engaged article therefrom.

1,752,480. MECHANISM FOR WORKING PULPOUS MATERIAL. JOSEPH WILLIAM FAY, Villa Park, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 6, 1925, Serial No. 41,605. Renewed Jan. 17, 1929. 9 Claims. (Cl. 92—41.)



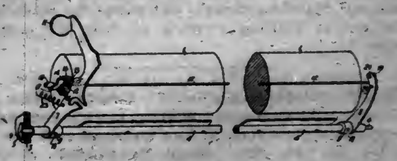
9. In a mechanism for working pulpous material on a moving core, a forming member having pulp engaging portions designed to direct the core through a tortuous path.

1,752,481. METHOD OF MAKING FLAT BOTTLES. CHARLES B. GARWOOD, Linthicum Heights, Md., assignor to Carr Lowrey Glass Co., Baltimore, Md. Filed Nov. 20, 1928. Serial No. 320,641. 4 Claims. (Cl. 49—79.)



4. The herein described method of producing glass bottles having flat faces free from specks and liver spots which includes the steps of rotating a partially blown gather within a trough-shaped marver to impart a substantially cylindrical form to the gather, thereafter impressing opposed portions of the gather upon carbon surfaces to produce flat faces, and subsequently placing the flattened partially blown gather in a mold with the flat faces out of contact with the mold.

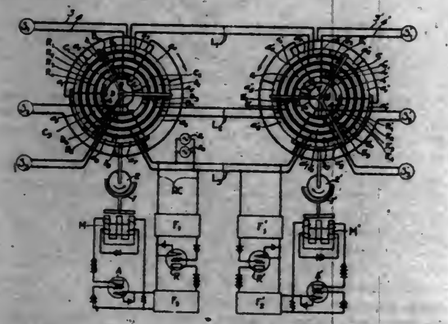
1,752,482. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. GEORGE G. GOING, Middletown, Conn., assignor to Remington Typewriter Company, Ilion, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed May 2, 1927, Serial No. 188,243. Divided and this application filed Dec. 17, 1927. Serial No. 240,734. 8 Claims. (Cl. 197—138.)



1. The combination of a carriage, a platen carried thereby, a pair of supporting arms pivoted at their forward ends on the carriage near the ends of the platen and when in the normal position extending substantially radially of the platen, a pair of carrying arms connected to said supporting arms to slide longitudinally lengthwise thereof, a spindle connecting the rear ends of said carrying arms, paper feed rollers carried by said spindle, and a pair of springs connected to the two pairs of arms and each exerting its force to slide the associated carrying arm longitudinally towards the free end of its companion supporting arm and thus exert the force of said springs on the feed rollers to apply them to the platen substantially radially thereof.

1,752,483. OVEN HEATING AND CIRCULATING SYSTEM. BURT S. HARRISON, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed July 6, 1928. Serial No. 290,842. 17 Claims. (Cl. 34—12.)

1. A method of heating consisting in providing a volume of products of combustion of desired temperature, using said products to raise a supply of air to a given temperature, circulating the products of combustion within a desired area, circulating the supply of air within another area and recirculating the products of combustion and air.



1,752,484. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. FREDERICK A. HART, New Britain, Conn., assignor to Remington Typewriter Company, Ilion, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed Oct. 22, 1926, Serial No. 143,382. Divided and this application filed Dec. 13, 1927. Serial No. 239,706. 8 Claims. (Cl. 197—137.)

1. In a typewriting or like machine, the combination of a platen, a fine wire line indicator, supporting means for supporting said indicator for movement to and from indicating position, and means for adjustably securing said indicator on said supporting means comprising releasable clamping jaws by and between which one end portion of the wire indicator is held, on the wire indicator enabling it to be adjusted relatively to said jaws and the printing line.

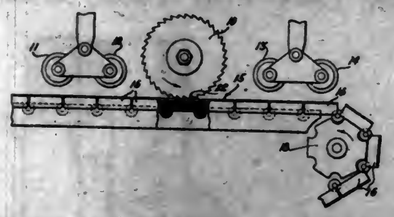
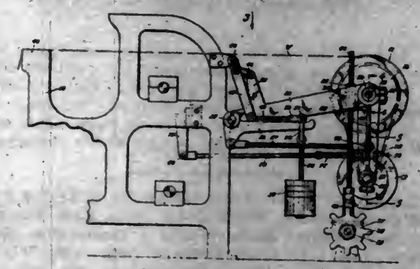
1,752,485. SECRECY SYSTEM. RALPH V. L. HARTLEY, South Orange, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 29, 1925. Serial No. 65,505. 10 Claims. (Cl. 179—1.)

1. The method of securing secrecy in the transmission of telephone messages over a signaling system employing a plurality of transmission paths, which method comprises dividing different telephone message waves into fragments on an arbitrary predetermined time basis, interchanging the fragments of the different messages between the different paths in such a manner that a substantially continuous unintelligible wave comprising fragments of each of the original waves is transmitted over each of said paths, and at a receiving point separating and recombining the transmitted fragments to reproduce the original message waves.



1,752,486. MAGNETIC DEVICE. RALPH V. L. HARTLEY, South Orange, N. J., assignor to Bell Telephone Laboratories Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 30, 1926. Serial No. 145,143. 9 Claims. (Cl. 179—114.)

1. An electromagnetic device comprising a flux path, a coil for variably energizing said flux path, means in said path traversed by the variable flux therein for limiting the maximum flux therethrough, and means for rendering ineffective the limiting property of said last mentioned means.



1,752,487. SAWING MACHINE. CHARLES IRVING HOAG, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 28, 1927. Serial No. 243,047. 5 Claims. (Cl. 143—49.)

1. In a sawing machine, a saw, a feed chain comprising a plurality of interconnected blocks, each of the blocks being provided with a removable insert having a groove for receiving the saw, a resilient means mounted in the block and positioned between the block and the insert for normally pressing the insert upwardly against the underside of the material being sawed.

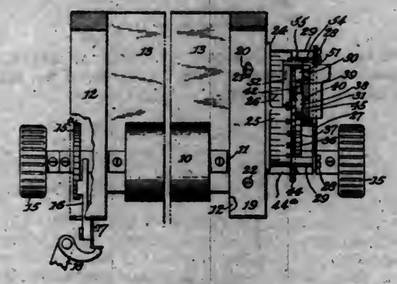
1,752,488. LET-OFF MECHANISM FOR LOOMS. ELBRIDGE R. HOLMES, Worcester, Mass., assignor to Crompton & Knowles Loom Works, Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Dec. 6, 1927. Serial No. 238,151. 11 Claims. (Cl. 139—109.)

1. Loom let-off mechanism comprising a warp beam, means to tension the warp thereon, means to progressively raise said warp beam transversely to the plane of delivery of the warp to maintain the warp threads substantially in a predetermined plane of delivery as the size of the warp beam is reduced, and means to simultaneously and progressively adjust the tension means as the warp beam is raised, thereby maintaining the warp tension substantially uniform.

1,752,489. WRAPPING APPARATUS. RALPH JONGEDYK, Hinsdale, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 11, 1927. Serial No. 225,441. 6 Claims. (Cl. 242—6.)



1. In a wrapping apparatus, means arranged to be interlinked with an annular object for applying a wrapping thereto, means for supporting and advancing the object to cause the wrapping to be applied spirally thereto, manually controlled means for predeterminately positioning the object in operative relation with its advancing means, and a mechanism connected thereto for maintaining the same in either its operative or inoperative positions.

1,752,490. PROCESS FOR CHANGING THE PROPERTIES OF SILICON STEEL. JOHN CLARENCE KARCHER, Montclair, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed Sept. 19, 1924, Serial No. 738,714, Patent No. 1,677,139. Divided and this application filed May 4, 1928. Serial No. 275,262. 9 Claims. (Cl. 148—13.)

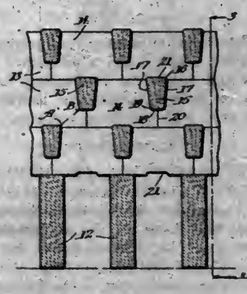
1. A process for increasing the permeability of silicon steel, which consists in heating the silicon steel at a temperature between 1000° C. and 1250° C., cooling at a rate of not more than 10° C. per minute to a temperature between 550° C. and 800° C., and then cooling the steel slower than quenching in water but faster than quenching in open air.

1,752,491. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. ALFRED G. F. KUROWSKI, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Underwood Elliott Fisher Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 28, 1926. Serial No. 118,990. 12 Claims. (Cl. 197—117.)

1. In a platen-control mechanism, in combination, a platen, a ratchet-wheel, an operating handle having an inwardly-directed hub on which said ratchet-wheel is revolubly mounted, a guide-wheel on the end of said hub, means on the handle for driving the ratchet-wheel, a spring on said guide-wheel, and rotating connections between the ratchet-wheel and the platen.

1,752,492. PROCESS OF MAKING QUINALDINE. LUCAS P. KYRIDES, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to National Aniline & Chemical Co., Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 16, 1923. Serial No. 651,964. 8 Claims. (Cl. 260—38.)

1. An improved process of manufacturing quinaldine from aniline and one member of the group comprising the two compounds, aldol and crotonaldehyde, in the presence of mineral acid which comprises heating one of the organic reacting ingredients to or near its boiling point and then adding the other ingredient thereto while maintaining the reaction mixture at or near its boiling temperature.



1,752,493. RAILWAY SIGNALING. FREDERICK C. LAVARACK, Montclair, N. J., and DANIEL W. RICHARDS, Roanoke, Va. Filed Aug. 4, 1925. Serial No. 48,030. 2 Claims. (Cl. 248—82.)

1. As a cable support adapted to hold a cable firmly to a rail, the combination of a clip adapted to engage a flange of a rail of a hook bolt adapted to be held in place on one edge of the opposite flange of a rail by the clip and oppositely disposed orificed clamping plates holding a cable therebetween and against the other edge of the rail flange by having the hook of the bolt pass through both the orifices formed in one end of the plates and the orifices formed in the other end of the plates said hook bolt adapted to have the end of the hook rest on the upper face of the flange of the rail.

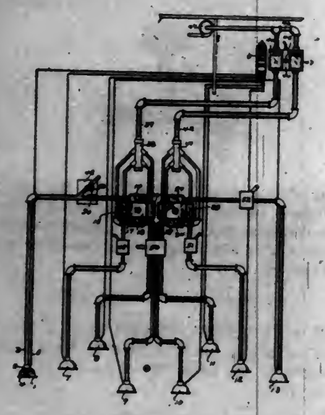
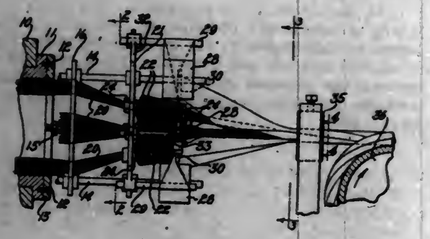
1,752,494. CHECKERWORK FOR FURNACES. FRED H. LOFTUS, Aliquippa, and THOMAS N. KURTZ, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Jan. 31, 1929. Serial No. 336,375. 13 Claims. (Cl. 72—15.5.)



1. In checker-work, the combination of a series of tiles having tapered bodies providing inclined end portions in planes at right-angles to the vertical longitudinal plane of the tile and laid end to end to provide tapered seats between the adjacent ends of the tiles, and heat exchangers tapered in transverse cross section seated in said tapered seats.

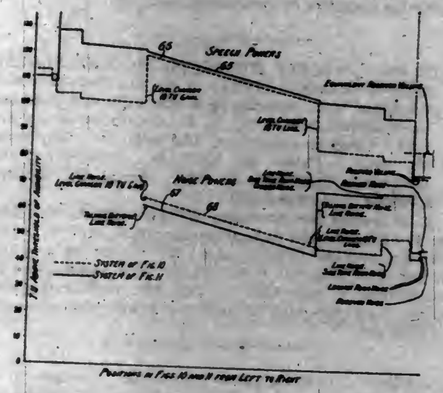
1,752,495. STRAP-STRETCHING DEVICE. CHESTER M. MACCHESNEY and RALPH H. NORTON, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Acme Steel Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Oct. 26, 1925. Serial No. 64,732. 8 Claims. (Cl. 254—71.)



8. A device for holding and stretching a strap, comprising a frame member, a rack bar movable longitudinally of said frame member, gripping means carried by said rack bar, other gripping means carried by said frame member, a lever pivoted on said frame member, a pawl actuated by said lever for engaging said rack bar, and means tending normally to return said pawl and said lever to their inoperative positions.

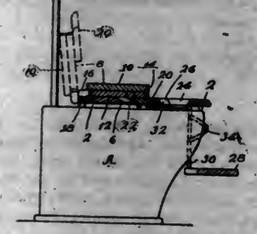
1,752,496. FIRE-DETECTING APPARATUS. GEORGE M. MABE, New York, and ARTHUR PHELPS MABE, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Dec. 14, 1926. Serial No. 154,839. 13 Claims. (Cl. 116—114.)

1. A fire detecting apparatus comprising a primary smoke observation station and a secondary smoke observation station and means for connecting them, reflecting surfaces in both said stations and means for causing smoke to pass over said reflecting surfaces.



1,752,497. APPARATUS FOR PRODUCING ELECTRICAL CABLES. HENRY ROGERS MASSINGHAM, La Grange, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 19, 1926. Serial No. 123,329. 4 Claims. (Cl. 117—34.)

1. In an apparatus for forming telephone cables, a rotary member, a plurality of sleeves mounted therein and adapted to carry cops of binding material in fixed relation thereto, means for supplying to the interior of each of said sleeves a group of conductors to be bound, said means including a rotary disk having groups of guiding apertures therein for the conductors and means for serving the material to the group of conductors.



1,752,498. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. ROBERT C. MATHES, Wyoming, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 21, 1927. Serial No. 193,242. 7 Claims. (Cl. 179—1.)

1. A telephone system comprising telephone exchanges, subscribers' lines connected to said exchanges, trunk circuits extending between said exchanges, means included in said exchanges for connecting said subscribers' lines to said trunk circuits to form telephone transmission circuits, and means for maintaining a lower signal energy level on said subscribers' lines than on said trunk circuits, whereby advantage is taken of lower noise energy level on the subscribers' lines than on the trunk circuits, said last mentioned means including energy level changers and means for bringing said energy level changers into the telephone transmission circuits when a subscriber's line is connected to a trunk circuit.

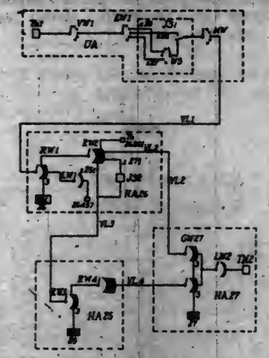
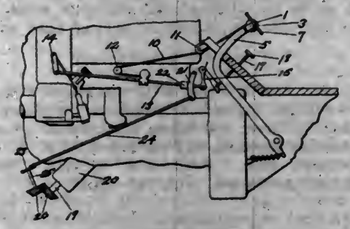
1,752,499. TOILET SEAT. CAMPBELL A. MEATH, Neodesha, Kans. Filed Nov. 26, 1928. Serial No. 322,033. 2 Claims. (Cl. 4—235.)



1. A toilet seat having an opening, a lid arranged to cover and uncover said seat and consisting of front and rear sections hinged together so that one may be folded upon the other, and a filler block secured to the under side of and projecting forwardly from the rear section and arranged to fit within and partly close the opening in the seat.

1,752,500. MULTIOFFICE TELEPHONE SYSTEM. WILLY MÜNCHENHAGEN, Berlin-Tempelhof, Germany, assignor to Siemens & Halske Aktiengesellschaft, Wernerwerk, Siemensstadt, near Berlin, Germany. Filed Aug. 12, 1927, Serial No. 212,433, and in Germany Dec. 2, 1926. Renewed July 8, 1929. 29 Claims. (Cl. 179—18.)



1. In a telephone system, a first exchange, a second exchange, an impulse sender in said first exchange, automatic switches in said second exchange, a trunk line connecting said exchanges, means in said first exchange for seizing said trunk line over any one of a plurality of paths, and switching means in said first exchange automatically operated only in case the path over which said trunk line is seized designates said second exchange as an intermediate exchange for automatically operating said impulse sender to automatically position said switches in said second exchange.

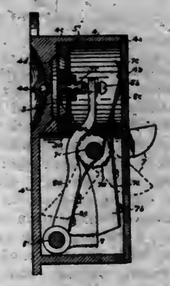
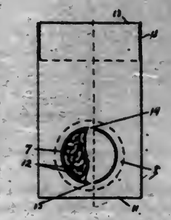
1,752,501. ACCELERATOR CONTROL. HUBERT A. MYERS, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Jan. 17, 1928. Serial No. 247,328. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—39.)



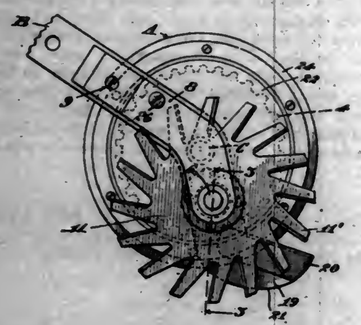
4. In a controlling mechanism for carburetors on automobiles, a roller rotatably supported by and located within the brake pedal of the automobile, the axis of rotation of the roller being parallel to the pressure face of the pedal, the side of the roller protruding slightly from the pressure face of the pedal, and a member connected to the rotatable member and to the throttle valve of the carburetor for operating the valve by rotative movements of the roller.

1,752,502. BOTTLE CONTAINER. CONRAD T. NEITZEL, Dallas, Tex., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Hogan-Oliver, Little Rock, Ark. Filed Aug. 22, 1927, Serial No. 214,524. Renewed Dec. 12, 1929. 4 Claims. (Cl. 232—41.)



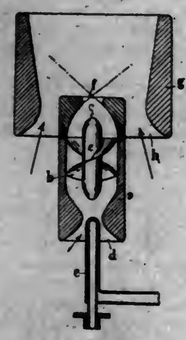
1. In a bottle container, a pair of vertical compartments, vertical fronts for the compartments hinged at their lower ends to the compartments, bottle supporting yokes mounted on the inner side of each front, a lock bar hinged in each compartment in the path of a bottle carried by the yoke and having an apertured free end, an arm mounted between the compartments and having a cross-head on one end with projections to enter said apertured ends and fingers on the other end, the cross-head projection engaging the lock bar in one compartment while one of the fingers extends into the other compartment to interlock with its front, a shiftable shaft attached to the arm, and vertically movable rods pivotally attached to the fronts and having their upper ends located to be projected into the paths of the fingers when the fronts are swung outwardly.

1,752,503. RELEASE MECHANISM FOR FIRE EXTINGUISHERS. HOWARD W. PARTLOW, Utica, N. Y. Filed Aug. 31, 1928. Serial No. 303,233. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—93.)



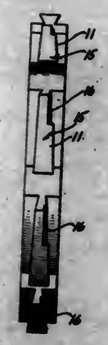
1. In a release for tiltable containers of automatic fire extinguishers, a box, a shaft passing transversely through the box and supporting an external trip arm to which the head of the container may be detachably connected, a pendant lever supported by said shaft within the box, a diaphragm above the pendant lever, a rockable member pivoted below said shaft having a tooth movable into the path of and adapted to engage the pendant lever for holding the container head elevated, said member having a long arm that overlies the diaphragm, and means to rock said member by the flexing of the diaphragm to break the engagement of said tooth with said pendant lever for effecting the release and tilting of the container.

1,752,504. PACKING CARTON. GEORGE G. PENROSE Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 28, 1927. Serial No. 236,072 1 Claim. (Cl. 206—44.)



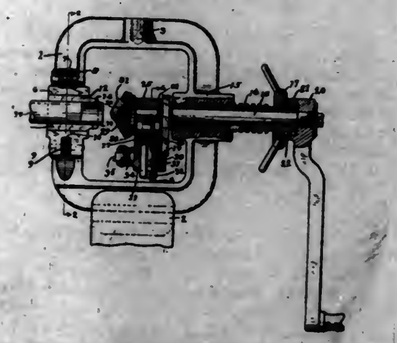
A carton having an opening in the wall thereof; and a closure for said opening, said closure consisting of two flat rings having perforations corresponding to the perforation in the carton wall and a transparent sheet interposed between said rings the edges of said sheet being hermetically sealed between said rings and the outer of said rings being adhesively secured to the inner wall of said carton around the opening therein.

1,752,505. LAWN EDGER. OLIVER B. PICKETT, Long Beach, Calif. Filed June 18, 1927. Serial No. 198,360. 5 Claims. (Cl. 97—227.)



1. In a lawn edger, in combination, a traction wheel having internal gear teeth, a handle member on which said wheel is rotatably mounted, said handle member having an extension which projects below the axis of rotation of said wheel, a pinion shaft mounted in said extension, a pinion gear fixed to one end of said shaft and meshing with said internal gear teeth, a toothed cutting disk fixed to the other end of said pinion shaft, a foot-piece formed as a downward continuation of said extension of the handle member, a cutting blade carried by said foot-piece to cooperate with the teeth of said cutting disk, a screw on said handle member, and means engaged by said screw connected to said pinion shaft operable to vary the pressure of the cutting disk against said cutting blade.

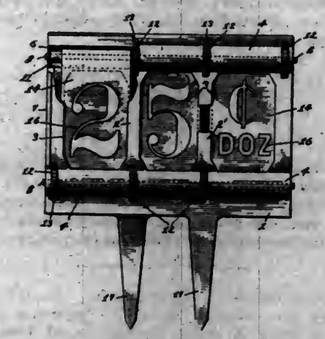
1,752,506. CARBURATION DEVICE. FERNAND CHARLES FREDERIC PORTAIL, Gennevilliers, France, assignor to Société Anonyme le Carbone, Gennevilliers, France. Filed Nov. 2, 1926, Serial No. 145,800, and in France Nov. 28, 1925. 2 Claims. (Cl. 261—79.)



1. In a carburation device, a fuel nozzle, an atomizer located in advance of the nozzle in the path of the fuel and consisting of a tubular body in the lower end of which the nozzle opens and through which enters only the air adapted to atomise the fuel, a screw mounted on an extended core in the tubular body, the upper end of the core and the outlet opening of the tubular body being so shaped as to cause the atomised fuel to issue therefrom in the form of a flattened conical sheet, and a main air supply tube provided with an opening arranged and shaped so that the main air supply passes through the aforesaid flattened conical sheet of fuel.

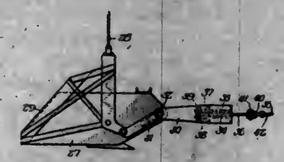
1,752,507. SHAPING TOOL. WILLIAM RUTHVEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 15, 1926. Serial No. 141,708. 3 Claims. (Cl. 29—103.)

1. In a shaping tool, a rotary cutter having a plurality of peripheral teeth, each of the teeth having similar continuous working surfaces extending between the front and rear portions thereof, a portion of the working surface of each tooth being similarly mutilated at a point which marks the minimum safe extent to which the stock of the individual tooth may be reduced upon sharpening.



1,752,508. METHOD OF AND MACHINE FOR FLANGING PIPES. CHARLES F. SCHULTIS, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of one-fourth to Isadore Herzbrun and one-fourth to S. W. Goldman, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Aug. 9, 1927. Serial No. 211,718. 10 Claims. (Cl. 153—81.)

1. A tube flanging machine comprising a spindle, means for rigidly holding a tube in axial alinement with said spindle, a plurality of flanging rolls carried by said spindle, means for rotating the spindle, and means for simultaneously adjusting one roll inwardly to tube engaging position and another outwardly out of tube engaging position.



10. The herein described method of forming on relatively thin stiff-walled metal tubing, a reversely curved hook flange having an outer face which conforms to a transversely concave annular seat on one coupling member and whose inner face conforms to a transversely convex annular seat on a complemental coupling member which comprises expanding an end of the tubing and rolling the expanded end portion against an annular die encircling the tubing inwardly of the expanded end portion and having a flange engaging face corresponding in size and shape to the convex annular seat of the last mentioned coupling member with a roller whose surface has a longitudinal curvature corresponding to the transverse curvature of the concave annular seat of the first mentioned coupling member.

1,752,509. PRICE TAG. SAMUEL SINGER, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Feb. 11, 1928. Serial No. 253,726. 4 Claims. (Cl. 40—86.)

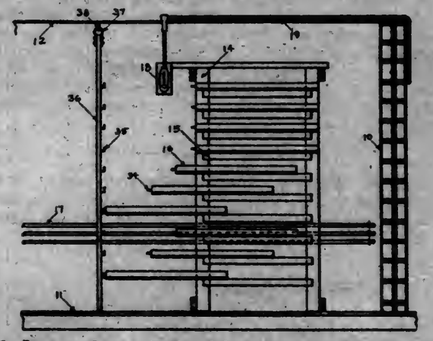
1,752,510. BUCKET EXCAVATOR. EARL P. SHNABLE, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 12, 1927. Serial No. 190,745. 6 Claims. (Cl. 37—135.)

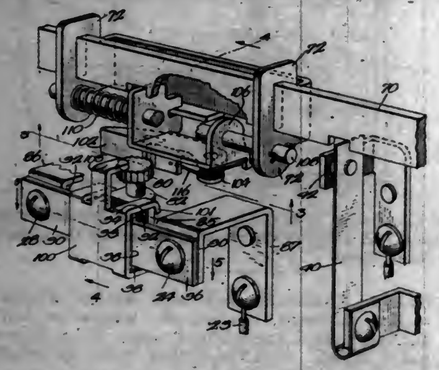
2. A draft device for buckets comprising a bail adapted to be attached to a bucket, said bail including a rigid member, a draft member pivotally secured to said rigid member at a point behind the place of connecting said rigid member to the other portions of the bail.

1,752,511. CONVERTIBLE BODY. HINSDALE SMITH, Springfield, Mass., assignor to Inglis M. Uperco, New York, N. Y. Filed July 14, 1927. Serial No. 205,728. 9 Claims. (Cl. 296—46.)

1. The combination with a door and window slidable with respect thereto, of a guide pivoted to said door, means separate from the window for swinging said guide to a guiding position, the said guide and window provided with an interfitting flexible tongue and groove whereby the window is guided in its raising or lowering movements, and a flexible closure strip carried by the guide at a side thereof.

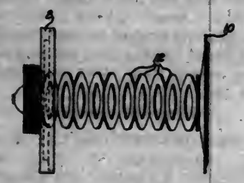


1,752,512. COMBINED MOP AND BRUSH HOLDER. WALTER A. SMITH, Freeport, Ill., assignor to Stover Manufacturing & Engine Co., Freeport, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 6, 1928. Serial No. 283,154. 6 Claims. (Cl. 15—148.)



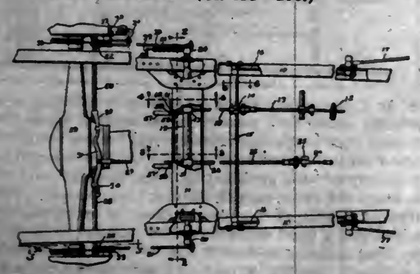
1. A combined mop and brush holder having a mop head jaw provided with a handle spindle socket formed by semi-circular strap portions pressed in opposite directions from the jaw, and a brush holding part adapted to seat against the jaw having semi-circular strap portions complemental to those of the jaw.

1,752,513. SEED-CORN-TESTING LABORATORY. OTTO P. TIEMANN, Bloomington, Ill. Filed May 14, 1927. Serial No. 191,309. 3 Claims. (Cl. 47—16.)



1. In a seed corn testing laboratory comprising a compartment sealed in a manner to maintain a substantially constant high temperature therein and having temperature control means therefor; a support in said compartment, a plurality of seed germinating trays disposed as a stack one above the other on said support in a manner to permit withdrawal thereof for the purpose of applying water thereto, and a rigid upright member adapted to be detachably fixed opposite said stack and having portions adapted to engage a plurality of said seed germinating trays when withdrawn to thereby co-operate with said support in maintaining the trays in upright position.

1,752,514. THERMAL OVERLOAD RELAY. HERMON L. VAN VALKENBURG, Wauwatosa, Wis., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Square D. Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Oct. 19, 1926. Serial No. 142,625. 20 Claims. (Cl. 200—124.)

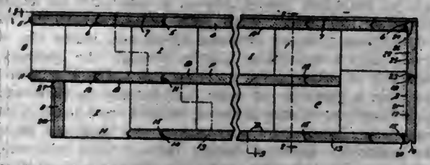


1. A device of the class described having a movable circuit controlling element, a rotatable detent for holding it, a vertical solder cup, fusible alloy therein, and means for heating the alloy, the detent having a stem extending down into the cup and having a step bearing in said cup and a lateral bearing in the sides of the cup.

1,752,515. SOUND OR VIBRATION TRANSMITTING APPARATUS. EARL WENSLEY, Cicero, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 10, 1928. Serial No. 276,656. 8 Claims. (Cl. 179—180.)

8. In a transmitter, a diaphragm, a rigid member, a conical member containing comminuted resistance-varying material, and a plurality of superimposed interconnected annular leaves between the rigid member and the conical member for damping vibrative responses of the diaphragm and for preventing leakage of the comminuted matter from the conical member.

1,752,516. BRAKE. JOHN J. WHARAM, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Ford Motor Company, Highland Park, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 10, 1927. Serial No. 218,619. 5 Claims. (Cl. 188—106.)

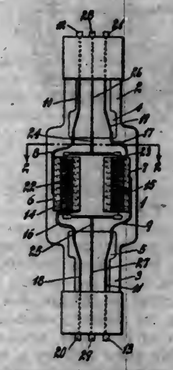


4. In a brake system, a vehicle having front and rear wheel brake drums, an expanding brake for each of the front brake drums, an expanding brake and a contracting brake for each of the rear brake drums having an equalizer operatively connected therebetween, a foot pedal arranged to operate both pairs of said expanding brakes, and a hand lever arranged to operate both pairs of said rear brakes through said equalizer.

1,752,517. SECURING CLIP FOR METALLIC LATH. WILLIAM F. ZABRISKIE, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Gabriel Steel Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Feb. 20, 1928. Serial No. 255,849. 4 Claims. (Cl. 72—118.)

3. A clip for securing an open mesh fabric to a supporting member comprising a wire bent to form substantially parallel prong portions, return bent loops extending oppositely from said prongs and obliquely thereto and a central portion connecting said loops for the purpose described.

1,752,518. COMBUSTION CHAMBER. HIRAM B. CANNON, Midway, Ky., assignor to The Carborundum Company, Niagara Falls, N. Y., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 15, 1925. Serial No. 50,399. 11 Claims. (Cl. 110—86.)

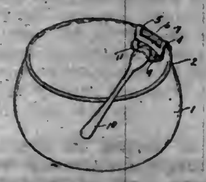


1. A combustion chamber having top, bottom and side walls and an end wall made from tiles of refractory material having high heat-radiating qualities, the sides comprising each an upper and a lower course of tiles interlocked at their front and rear edges, a partition formed of tiles and interposed between the top course of tiles and the bottom course of tiles of each side wall, the tiles comprising the partitions being interlocked with each other and also being interlocked with the tops of the tiles therebelow and with the bottoms of the tiles therebeneath, the tiles at the top and bottom of the chamber being also interlocked with the tiles constituting the sides, and the tiles constituting the rear wall of the chamber being interlocked with each other and with the tiles in the top, bottom and sides.

1,752,519. DISPLAY HOLDER FOR BAR CANDY OR THE LIKE. GEORGE H. CARDINET, Oakland, Calif. Filed Feb. 27, 1928. Serial No. 257,439. 1 Claim. (Cl. 211—157.)

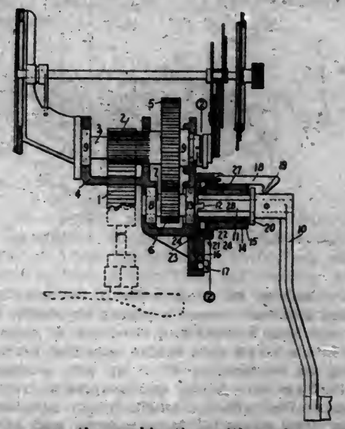
A display holder of triangular cross-area for bar candy and the like, comprising a blank of flexible board cut away at opposite intermediate parts to provide a narrow connection at the middle part of the blank, the blank being folded transverse of its middle across the narrow connection to provide the converging sides of the holder with the narrow connection at the apex of the holder, said sides having the same contour with their upper edges curved outwardly and downwardly from the narrow connection at the apex of the holder to impart a rounded effect to the upper part of the holder, the end parts of the blank being bent transversely to provide narrow flaps that project inwardly and overlap to form a narrow base to the holder, and means for securing the flaps together.

1,752,520. RADIOTUBE. HERBERT C. COLBURN, San Leandro, Calif. Filed Aug. 18, 1924. Serial No. 732,683. 2 Claims. (Cl. 250—27.5.)



1. A radio tube having two thermionic translating units each comprising a plate, a grid and a filament, presses within said tube at opposite ends thereof for supporting the elements of said units, the grid of each unit being supported on a press different from that on which the plate of the same unit is supported.

1,752,521. METHOD OF DEHYDRATING CHEESE. ALVA G. DAY, South Edmeston, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to K-P-C Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 17, 1927. Serial No. 176,035. 7 Claims. (Cl. 99—5.)



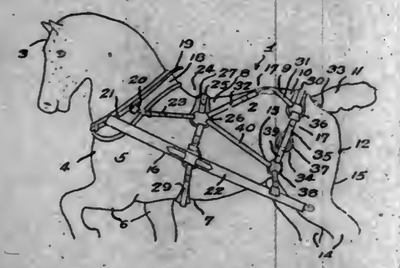
5. The method herein described of dehydrating cheese, which consists in subjecting the cheese, while freshly ground and rather moist, to the action of hot air in motion, and meanwhile agitating the cheese thus treated, in order to prevent the same from cohering into nodules.

1,752,522. SPOON-HOLDING CLIP. ALBERT J. ECKELMAN, Portland, Oreg. Filed Jan. 12, 1929. Serial No. 332,219. 2 Claims. (Cl. 65—65.)

1. In a device of the class described, the combination in a metallic body member of upwardly extending arms disposed at either end of the body member, each arm terminating in a hook like end, a ledge inwardly extending from the body member, said ledge having its front edge upwardly extended to form an inverted V-shape centrally thereof adaptable for limiting the movement of the stirring element placed thereupon and a cut out disposed within the ledge between the body element and the outer rim of the ledge through which the stirring element may be placed to maintain the stirring element in placed position, substantially as shown and described and for the purpose set forth.

1,752,523. LIQUID-MEASURING PUMP. EARL E. EICKMEYER, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The National Recording Pump Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 9, 1925. Serial No. 1,836. 15 Claims. (Cl. 188—82.)

3. In a pump, the combination with a piston actuating device, a rotatable handle, and a connection between said handle and said actuating device, of a structure mounted in fixed relation to said actuating device, comprising a bearing and having an annular cavity at the inner end of said bearing, a support for said handle rotatably mounted in said bearing and having a head arranged in said annular cavity, a clutch ring interposed between said head and the circumferential wall of said cavity, a clutch member arranged to engage said clutch ring and hold the same against movement in one direction, plungers slidably mounted in the head of said support and springs for forcing said plungers into frictional engagement with said clutch ring.



1,752,524. DRILL. THOMAS GRANT, Gillespie, Ill. Filed June 28, 1928. Serial No. 288,861. 2 Claims. (Cl. 255—69.)

1. A drill of the class described, comprising a head having a central threaded axial socket and individual multiple sockets inclined to the central axis and intersected for part of their diameter by said axial socket forming apertures in its wall, multiple cutters slidably mounted in said inclined sockets with portions of their inner ends extending through said apertured wall into said axial socket, and a screw mounted in said axial socket and having the circumferential corner edge of its inner end engaged with the side face of the portion of each cutter extending into said axial socket, substantially as described.

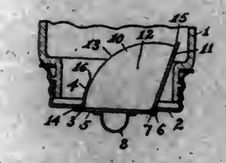
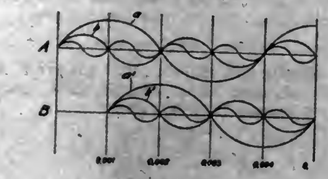
1,752,525. HARNESS. HOWARD V. HANSON, Walla Walla, Wash. Filed Feb. 2, 1929. Serial No. 337,086. 2 Claims. (Cl. 54—1.)



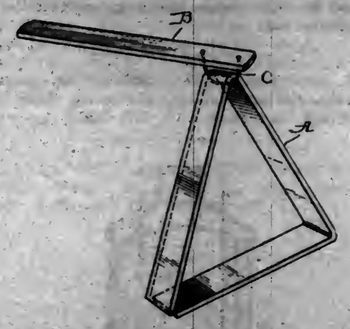
1. In a harness for draft animals, including a collar and traces attached thereto, a tripurpose member forming a part of a field harness and providing to convert said harness into a single or a double breeching harness, and consisting in combination of a hip pad provided with means to form side joints, and adapted to rest across the croup of the animal, a longitudinally movable double breeching ring suspended from each of said joints and positioned to avoid the hips, and adapted to receive a breeching fold in a manner to form with the hip pad a sling, rigidly positioned single breeching rings suspended from the double breeching rings and positioned normally in line with said double breeching rings and said side joints, and adapted to receive a single breeching in a manner to communicate the load directly to the croup, and providing means cooperable with the single and double breeching rings to support said traces according to the respective harness arrangements.

1,752,526. SOUND AMPLIFIER. FRANK C. HINCKLEY, Stratford, Conn., assignor to Columbia Phonograph Company, Inc., Bridgeport, Conn., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 3, 1926. Serial No. 120,433. 9 Claims. (Cl. 181—27.)



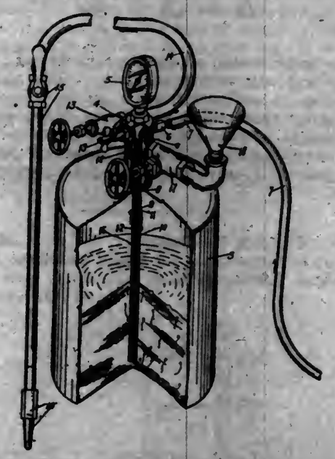
4. A sound amplifier comprising an entrance throat, a member receiving sound from said throat and dividing it into two columns, a pair of horns one for each of said columns and receiving sound from said member, a dividing board spaced from one of said horns and said member and embracing the other of said horns, said last-mentioned horn abutting said member, and a pair of tone chambers one at each side of said dividing board and into which the respective horns discharge.

1,752,527. MEASURING DEVICE. ALBERT P. HOWARD, Norwalk, Ohio. Filed Feb. 15, 1928. Serial No. 254,891. 6 Claims. (Cl. 221—98.)



1. In a measuring device, the combination of a cover for a receptacle, the cover being provided with an opening, a partition at one end of the opening extending within the receptacle and curved on the arc of a circle, a closure plate for the opening, the closure plate being pivotally supported to the outside of the cover, sides and a rear plate carried by said closure plate forming a compartment, the side being curved to conform to the curve of said partition, and means for limiting the movement of said compartment.

1,752,528. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR COMPARING AND ADJUSTING THE ELECTRICAL LENGTH OF PATHS FOR THE TRANSMISSION OF ELECTRICAL ENERGY. FRANCIS ALLEN HUBBARD, Teaneck, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 4, 1919. Serial No. 321,512. 4 Claims. (Cl. 177—386.)

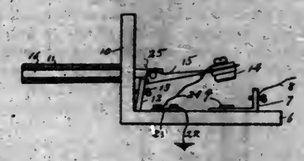


3. Apparatus for locating the direction of a source of sound, comprising a pair of sound responsive current varying devices and a pair of translating devices connected by a pair of transmission lines, means to adjust the electrical length of one of said transmission lines to compensate for differences in time of arrival of a sound wave at said sound responsive devices, and means associated with said compensating means for indicating the direction of the source of sound.

1,752,529. TONE-PRODUCING TRIANGLE. CYRUS KITCHING, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 9, 1928. Serial No. 268,671. 1 Claim. (Cl. 84—402.)

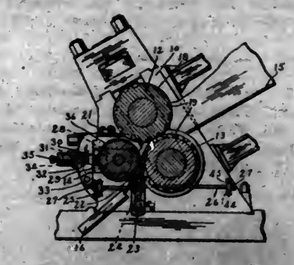
A tone producing instrument comprising a triangle formed from a flat metal bar, and a handle having a relatively short flexible loop adapted to support said triangle in suspended position from an apex thereof and against rotation when the same is struck.

1,752,530. PRESSURE-LUBRICATING APPARATUS. JOHN S. LYNN, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to The Vesuvius Corporation, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 2, 1928. Serial No. 266,644. 7 Claims. (Cl. 299—89.)



5. In combination, a closed container for fluid mixture, means for agitating the mixture in said container including a pipe extended thereinto to discharge a jet of air under pressure above the fluid level, a pipe extended into the bottom of said container through said fluid mixture and having its upper end open adjacent said first pipe to receive said forced air jet whereby air in the upper part of said container is entrained by said air jet into said pipe and discharged in the bottom of said container for agitating said fluid mixture, and outlet means from said container for said fluid mixture.

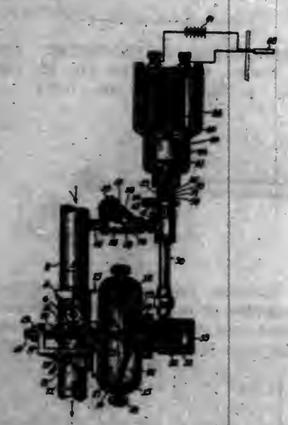
1,752,531. COMPOSITION OF MATTER AND METHOD OF ITS PREPARATION. FRANK SIGFRID MALM, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 20, 1928. Serial No. 327,487. 13 Claims. (Cl. 18—50.)



11. A method of producing a rubber material which has stable electrical properties when submerged under sea bottom conditions, comprising the steps of solidifying and heat treating rubber in the presence of a salt solution, said rubber containing a solid, natural, nitrogenous substance, followed by a process of washing and drying the material, said step of heat treating serving to render the nitrogenous substance soluble in water by subjecting the rubber in the solution to a temperature of more than 100° C. and said washing serving to remove a considerable portion of said substance rendered soluble and contained in the solidified material.

1,752,532. ELECTRICAL THERMOSTAT. JOB FORDYCE MALSBARY, Fresno, Calif. Filed Jan. 29, 1929. Serial No. 335,895. 2 Claims. (Cl. 200—137.)

1. In an electrical thermostat the combination of a member susceptible of expansion and contraction by applying heat and cold thereto, a bar having less expanding characteristics than said member, said member being attached at one end to said bar and at the other end to a base, adapting said bar to have a movement parallel with said member as the member expands or contracts, an arm having a contact point at one end, an angular extension at the opposite end, and a catch thereon on the side opposite to the angular extension, said arm being pivotally connected with the non-expanding bar and adapted to be moved therewith, stop means adapted to engage the catch in its path of travel, and a fixed contact point positioned to engage the contact point on said arm when the arm is in a predetermined position.



1,752,533. CANE MILL. FRANCIS MAXWELL, Wallington, England. Filed June 23, 1927. Serial No. 200,890. 4 Claims. (Cl. 100—47.)

1. In a cane mill, a pair of cooperating cane crushing rolls and a cane shredding roll, said rolls being mounted in a standard with the axes of said shredding roll and one of said crushing rolls disposed substantially in alignment horizontally and below the axis of the other crushing roll, and the axis of the upper crushing roll being disposed substantially intermediate the axes of said shredding roll and the lower crushing roll, whereby cane passing between said crushing rolls may be directed against the periphery of said shredding roll intermediate the same and the lower crushing roll, and a scraper bar having an edge adapted to bear against said lower crushing roll and having its upper surface substantially tangent with the periphery of said shredding roll to cooperate therewith to shred cane passing therebetween, the point of cooperation between said shredding roll and said scraper bar being intermediate the axes of said shredding roll and the lower crushing roll, and substantially in alignment with the direction of flow of the cane emerging from between said crushing rolls whereby said shredding roll and said scraper will act upon such cane before the same has appreciably expanded from its crushed and pressed condition caused by said crushing rolls.

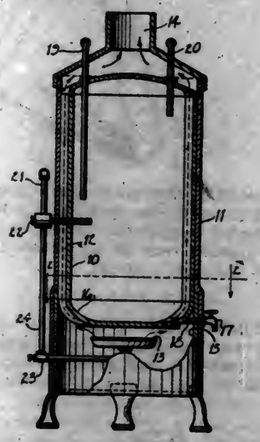
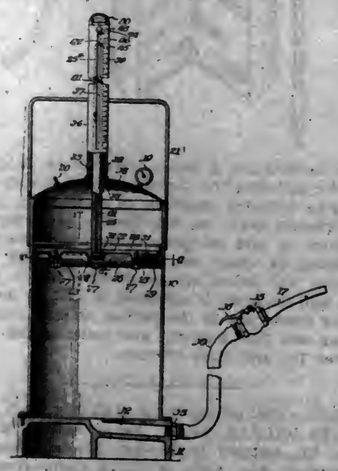
1,752,534. CONTROL DEVICE. GARNET W. MCKEE, Rockford, Ill. Filed Mar. 22, 1926. Serial No. 96,407. 9 Claims. (Cl. 236—80.)



1. A control device having, in combination with a supply pipe, a butterfly valve in said pipe and having a stem projecting from one side thereof, a casing, a pressure responsive member in said casing and dividing said casing into a chamber open to the atmosphere, and a pressure chamber, means operatively connecting said member to said stem, means tending to move said member into said pressure chamber to open said valve, by-pass means connecting said pipe with said pressure chamber, a port in said last mentioned means for permitting the escape of pressure fluid and thereby tending to prevent pressure from building up in said pressure chamber, and manually adjustable means for adjusting the effective opening through said port to control the pressure in said pressure chamber.

1,752,535. CONTINUOUS-ROLL LABEL. JAMES H. MILLHOLLAND, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Sandura Company, Inc., Paulsboro, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 23, 1928. Serial No. 280,044. 3 Claims. (Cl. 206—59.)

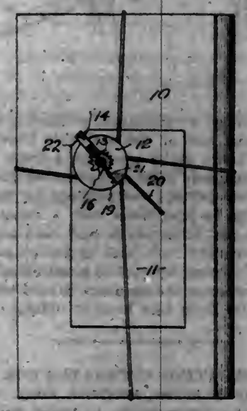


1. A roll of piece-goods fabric having rolled up therewith a like length of label stripping one edge portion of which is provided with an adhesive whereby it is pasted lengthwise to the surface of the fabric and the remaining width-portion of which is free of adhesive throughout its length and provides a loose hand-grip wherever the fabric is straightened out.

1,752,536. STATIONARY WATER HEATER. ARTHUR L. MITCHELL, Dallas, Tex. Filed June 25, 1928. Serial No. 287,956. 2 Claims. (Cl. 122—156.)

1. In a water heater, an upright tank having the body of its vertical wall corrugated for its entire length and merged into top and bottom walls, an open bottom supporting jacket surrounding and closely fitting said tank and forming in conjunction with the corrugations thereof vertical heating flues, said jacket extending below the tank to provide a heating chamber communicating with said flues.

1,752,537. GREASE DISPENSER. ROLLIN H. MOULTON, Berwyn, Ill. Filed Jan. 12, 1927. Serial No. 160,607. 20 Claims. (Cl. 221—47.2.)



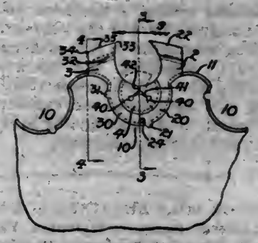
1. Grease dispensing apparatus comprising in combination, a casing, a movable piston in said container comprising a head and a hollow rod, a hollow member connected to said casing within which said hollow rod extends, a valve member connected to said rod, a sliding valve mounted in said hollow member and adapted to engage said valve member to normally close the passage in said rod, and lubricant discharge means connected to said container, the said piston head being composed of a pair of spaced plates, one of said plates having an opening therethrough whereby communication is established between the hollow piston rod and the space in the piston head formed by the spaced plates.

1,752,538. ARTIFICIAL TOOTH. SIMON MYERSON Cambridge, Mass. Filed Apr. 13, 1928. Serial No. 269,696. 2 Claims. (Cl. 32—9.)

1. An artificial tooth comprising a body containing a narrow slot having a mouth opening on and wholly interrupting one of its faces, and a closed end spaced from the opposite face, two intermediate faces of the body being partly interrupted by the slot and provided with recesses which are wider than the slot, the closed end of the slot being spaced from the mouth thereof, a distance much greater than the width of the slot, and a metal plate fitting the slot and having a narrow exposed outer end, substantially flush with the face containing the mouth of the slot, an inner end abutting the closed end of the slot, and flanged opposite exposed edge portions fitting said recesses and substantially flush with the intermediate faces of the tooth, the closed end of the slot being so spaced from the mouth thereof, that the plate has an area sufficient to tie together the flanged edge portions and confine the same against spreading or outward sidewise displacement in the recesses.

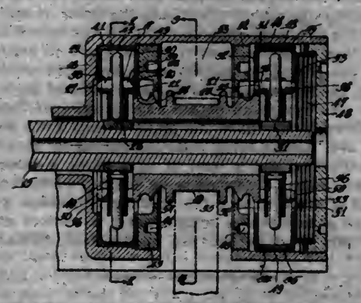
1,752,539. SHIPPING TAG. SHUHEI NOGUCHI, Stamford, Conn. Filed Aug. 28, 1928. Serial No. 302,451. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—20.)

1. A shipping tag comprising a card body having a string receiving and holding means on each side of the tag, said means united by a bridging member, and a cutting device overlying said holding means on both sides of the tag.



1,752,540. AUTOMATIC COUNTING AND GROUPING MECHANISM FOR CONVEYERS. SAMUEL OLSON, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Samuel Olson & Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Nov. 2, 1927. Serial No. 230,577. 15 Claims. (Cl. 198—34.)

1. In combination with a conveyer, automatically actuated means positioned for arresting the movement of a predetermined number of successive loads on the conveyer for grouping the same, and means operable in correlation with said arresting means for releasing said group of loads for continued movement as a unit.



15. In combination with a conveyer, an automatic stop positioned in the path of travel of loads thereon for arresting a number of successive loads to form a group, automatic starting means positioned for actuation by the last load of the group for initiating further movement of the group as a unit, and means for adjusting one of said automatic devices along the path of travel of the loads for varying the size of the group at will.

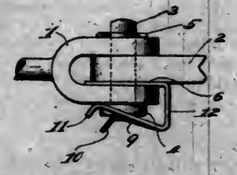
1. A circular saw having tooth receiving recesses, compleinental teeth for each recess and teeth locking means, the tooth which is positioned ahead of its mate having peripheral cutting edges on the plane of its side faces and inclined slightly to the path of movement to thereby produce a draw cut, the following tooth of the pair being a raker tooth positioned to act close behind its companion and projected in a radial direction to cut to approximately the same depth as the side cutting tooth.

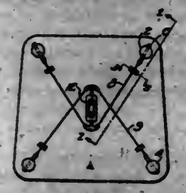
1,752,542. DRIVE FOR HIGH-SPEED SPINDLES. CLIFFORD T. RAULS, Brookline, Pa. Filed Oct. 7, 1926. Serial No. 140,036. 24 Claims. (Cl. 74—34.)



1. In a drive or a spindle, a spindle, a pulley about the spindle, a set of wheel-and-axle roller bearings spaced about the spindle between it and the pulley making rolling engagement with the spindle and rolling axle engagement with the pulley and a fixed bearing member cooperating with the axle.

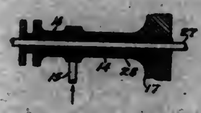
1,752,543. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. LEONARD L. RUGGLES, Wheaton, Ill., assignor to Reserve Holding Company, Kansas City, Mo., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 20, 1927. Serial No. 199,917. 39 Claims. (Cl. 179—27.)

2. In a telephone system, a telephone exchange terminating metallic magneto lines of the local-battery type, automatic switching mechanism in said exchange, and means including operator signalling and operator controlled means for effecting and releasing connections between said lines including said mechanism and exclusive of manual switching equipment, while maintaining said lines free of holding current and ground connections.



1,752,544. PIN OR BOLT RETAINER FOR BRAKE RIGGING. WILLIAM T. SPARROW, Hampton, Va., assignor of one-third to E. Hayward Fairbanks, Merchantville, N. J. Filed Sept. 30, 1926. Serial No. 138,722. 1 Claim. (Cl. 85—5.)

A pin retainer, comprising two members resiliently connected and converging towards each other, the top one of said members being bifurcated and the lower of said members having an obtuse angled terminal flange deflected downwardly from said top member and adapted to engage the face of the pin carrying member to lock said retainer in position, and a resilient tongue formed in said lower member and also having an obtuse angled terminal flange deflected downwardly below the plane of said lower member, both of said flanges being deflected outwardly in substantial parallelism, and a wall of said lower member from which said tongue is formed being adapted to contact with the head of a pin to lock the retainer in position and the inner wall of said tongue being adapted to contact with the end of said head to prevent longitudinal displacement thereof.



1,752,545. BRACE FOR WINDSOR CHAIRS AND THE LIKE. THEODORE H. WITTLIFF, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Apr. 23, 1925. Serial No. 25,341. 7 Claims. (Cl. 155—197.)

1. An apparatus of the character described, having in combination a base, a plurality of supports secured to said base, a terminal element secured to each support, a tensioning device positioned beneath said base, supporting members adjacent said supports, connections between said tensioning means and said terminal elements cooperating with said respective supporting members to apply tension to said respective supports in a direction upwardly and toward the center of said base member.

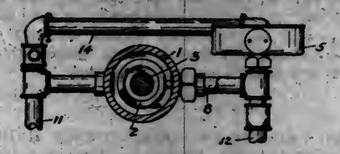
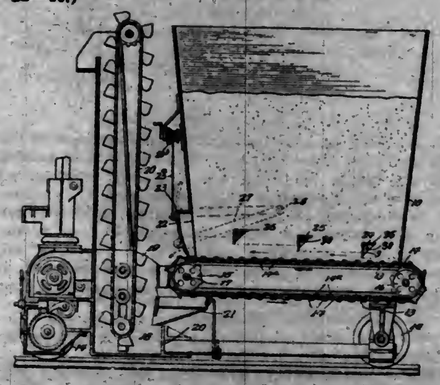
1,752,546. PUMP. ROBERT W. ALLBATON, South Orange, N. J., assignor to Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Aug. 12, 1924. Serial No. 731,539. 8 Claims. (Cl. 286—27.)

1. A pump for hot liquids having a chamber enclosing the plunger rod with provision for flow of liquid from said chamber to the plunger chamber, means for supplying liquid to said rod chamber under pressure, a non-return check valve for preventing the return of the liquid from the plunger chamber, and a valve for regulating the supply to the rod chamber.



1,752,547. WASHING MACHINE. ALPHEUS W. ALTORFER, Peoria, Ill., assignor to Altorfer Bros. Company, East Peoria, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 5, 1927. Serial No. 203,393. 14 Claims. (Cl. 210—75.)

1. In combination, a centrifugal extractor, a stationary head at the upper end of the extractor provided with a plurality of discharge outlet openings, a drain board pivotally supported from said head to receive the discharge from one of said outlet openings and adapted for lateral swinging movement to be positioned over a receptacle or receptacles, and a pan rotatable in said head adapted to receive water discharged from said extractor and having a discharge outlet opening adapted to be selectively positioned over one or the other of the openings in said head, whereby to discharge water from said head at different points.



1,752,548. REGULATING APPARATUS FOR OIL BURNERS. ARTHUR J. BAIRD, Portland, Oreg., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Baird Automatic Pre-Heater Co., a Corporation of Oregon. Filed Oct. 27, 1927. Serial No. 229,149. Renewed Aug. 24, 1929. 5 Claims. (Cl. 126—271.)

1. A fuel oil heater for oil burners comprising a casing having a chamber through which the fuel oil passes to the burner nozzle, a steam heating coil in said chamber, a thermostatically controlled switch subject to the temperature of the fuel in said chamber, and an electric heater in said chamber connected electrically in series with said switch.

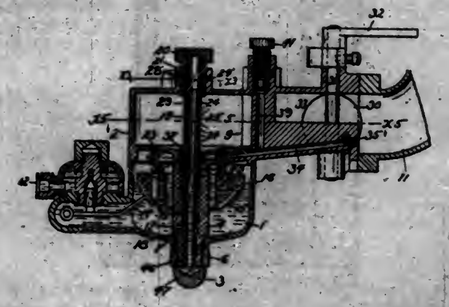
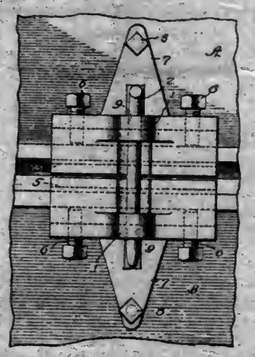
1,752,549. SAND-FEEDING MECHANISM FOR MOLDING MACHINES. ELMER O. BEARDSLEY and WALTER F. PIPER, Chicago, Ill., assignors to The Beardsley & Piper Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Oct. 19, 1928. Serial No. 313,619. 9 Claims. (Cl. 22—40.)



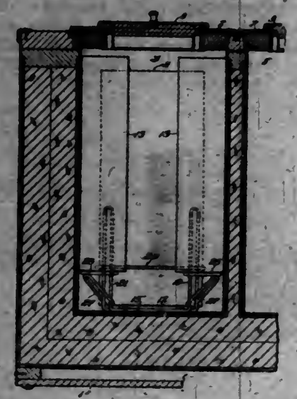
1. In sand feeding mechanism, the combination of a reservoir having an open bottom and a discharge opening adjacent the bottom and at one end thereof, an endless conveyor at the bottom of the reservoir, for discharging sand through said opening, mechanism for driving the conveyor, and a series of baffles extending across the interior of the reservoir, said baffles being progressively spaced from the conveyor so as to retard the sand above consecutive portions of the conveyor in different quantities.

1,752,550. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. JOSEPH W. DEHN, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 21, 1927. Serial No. 193,146. 7 Claims. (Cl. 179—27.)



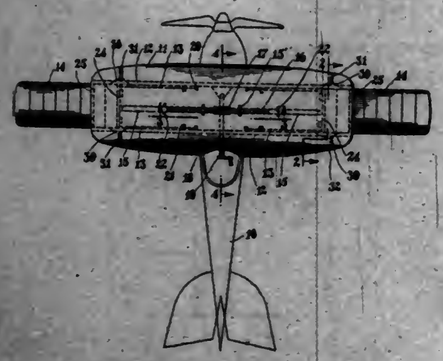
1. In a telephone system, two stations, a line connecting said stations, battery supply at each station, means for supervising a connection established over said line from either station with the battery supply for said supervision furnished from the call originating station which may be either station.

1,752,551. CARBURETOR. ROY FRANCIS ENSIGN and ORVILLE HIRAM ENSIGN, Pasadena, Calif., assignors to Ensign Carburetor Company, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed May 19, 1921. Serial No. 470,829. 8 Claims. (Cl. 261—41.)



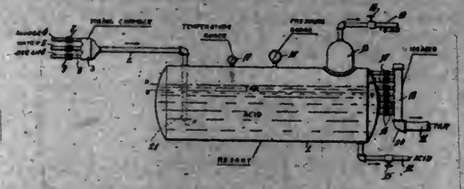
6. The combination of a cylindrical mixing chamber having a tangential air inlet and a tangential mixture outlet; a throttle in said mixture outlet; a constant level fuel chamber below the level of said mixing chamber provided with a well that is supplied with fuel through a submerged orifice; a tube fitted in said well and adapted to open and close said submerged orifice; said well being enlarged at its upper end above the fuel level to form a space around such tube open to the mixing chamber; said space being connected to a point beyond the throttle by a duct; a passage leading from said duct to the atmosphere; and a valve to control said passage.

1,752,552. PIN PLATE FOR MOLDING FLASKS. CLARENCE H. ESTES, Chicago Heights, Ill., assignor to American Manganese Steel Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Mar. 30, 1928. Serial No. 265,857. 5 Claims. (Cl. 22—109.)



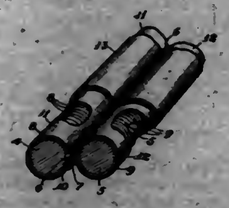
1. A separately formed pin plate for application to a molding flask, said pin plate being constructed with jaws providing between them a receiving space for a portion of a flask upon which the pin plate is to be mounted, and with a tipping bracket extending from said jaws in position to coact with another portion of the flask when the pin plate is applied; said bracket being provided with means for developing a tipping moment of the jaws relatively to the portion of the flask occupying the receiving space.

1,752,553. REFRIGERATION CABINET. HENRY C. FOLSOM, Waltham, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Waltham System, Inc., Waverley, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed June 17, 1927. Serial No. 199,588. 2 Claims. (Cl. 62—75.)



1. A rack for introduction into a refrigerator compartment to support an ice cream can and refrigerating cartridges of triangular prism form, comprising transversely related base members, each adapted to extend between diagonally opposite corners of the compartment, uprights rising from the base members, adjacent to the corners and adapted to receive the can between them, and rests projecting from the uprights toward the corners and adapted to receive the cartridges, said uprights being adapted to hold the cartridges in the corners and spaced from the can.

1,752,554. TAKE-OFF AND LANDING DEVICE FOR AEROPLANES. WILFORD B. GERBRACHT, Ames, Iowa. Filed Aug. 23, 1927. Serial No. 214,852. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—12.)



In an airplane, a main wing having transversely disposed spars, said wing having an aperture extending transversely therethrough between said spars, guide members extending transversely of said wing and located at the front and rear ends of the aperture in said wing and secured to said spars so as to have a slight transverse horizontal movement with respect thereto, air foils disposed within the aperture in the wing at the ends of the wing and slidably supported by said guide members for movement longitudinally of said wing, a rack secured to one of said foils and having downwardly disposed rack teeth, a second rack secured to the other of said foils and having upwardly disposed rack teeth, said racks being in vertical alignment and being disposed in the upper and lower portions respectively of said apertures and extending inwardly to the center of said wing, a pinion disposed midway between said rack bars and engaging the teeth of both of them for simultaneously extending and retracting said air foils, and springs mounted on said spars and pressing said guide members against said foils so as to hold said foils in position by friction.

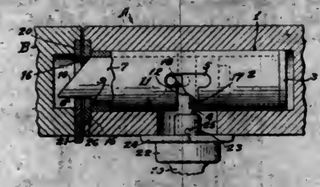
1,752,555. PROCESS OF CONTINUOUSLY HYDROLYZING ACID SLUDGE. RALPH A. HALLORAN, Berkeley, WILLIAM N. DAVIS, Oakland, and GEORGE A. DAVIDSON, Berkeley, Calif., assignors to Standard Oil Company of California, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 15, 1926. Serial No. 148,486. 4 Claims. (Cl. 23—173.)

1. A process of hydrolysing acid sludge obtained in the acid treatment of petroleum oil, which consists in passing said acid sludge and water into a chamber wherein the materials are maintained at a hydrolysing temperature and withdrawing the produced separated acid and tar from said chamber, a volume of separated acid in the chamber being maintained sufficiently in excess of the volume of separated tar so that the acid is subjected to hydrolysing temperature for a substantially greater period of time than the tar.

1,752,556. MAGNETIC LOADING FOR TWIN CONDUCTORS. WALTON HARRISON, New York, N. Y. Filed July 14, 1923. Serial No. 651,572. 15 Claims. (Cl. 178—45.)

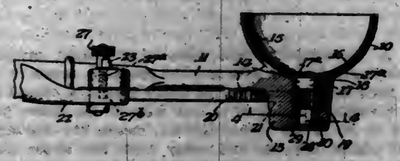
1. The combination, with a pair of continuous twin conductors in which a flow of current through one is accompanied by a similar flow of current in the opposite direction through the other, of a pair of twin loading strips made of magnetic material, one of said loading strips being disposed adjacent each conductor and magnetized thereby, said loading strips being electrically insulated from each other and located sufficiently near each other to permit the passage of magnetic flux from one of said loading strips to the other.

1,752,557. CEMENT AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME. LEON J. D. HEALY, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to The Fisk Rubber Company, Chicopee Falls, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Feb. 13, 1925. Serial No. 8,936. 5 Claims. (Cl. 87—17.)



2. A cement comprising substantially 12% degradated crepe rubber, substantially 87.5% rubber solvent and substantially .5% colophony.

1,752,558. BRICK-WALL CONSTRUCTION. WILLIAM C. HECKEROTH, Erie, Pa., assignor to Erie City Iron Works, Erie, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 31, 1924. Serial No. 689,657. 8 Claims. (Cl. 72—102.)



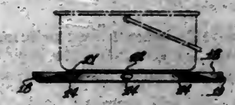
1. In a brick wall construction, the combination of two wall sections; two blocks in one wall section having opposing lips on the blocks inwardly faced with the blocks in place forming an undercut channel; and a block in the opposing wall having outwardly and opposingly faced lips interlocking with the lips forming the channel.

1,752,559. CUPBOARD LATCH. CHARLES BOSTICK HURD, Santa Ana, Calif. Filed Apr. 21, 1927. Serial No. 185,500. 3 Claims. (Cl. 292—169.)

1. A latch comprising a cylindrical tubular casing having a bayonet slot, a substantially cylindrical bolt slidably mounted in the casing, and having a notch in its side and a cutaway intersecting the notch, a shank for extension into said cut-away, a pin carried by the shank for engagement in said notch; and a spring for normally holding the bolt to a position seating said pin in the bayonet slot.

1,752,560. ICE-CREAM DISHER. THOMAS JAMESON, Newark, N. J., assignor to The Gilchrist Company, Newark, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Feb. 1, 1926. Serial No. 85,154. 9 Claims. (Cl. 107—48.)

1. In an ice-cream disher, the combination of a bowl, a handle for the bowl, a scraper mounted to rotate in the bowl, means for rotating the scraper in the bowl comprising a finger lever adjacent the handle, means for shifting the scraper axially away from the bowl during rotation thereof in one direction, and means for positively returning the scraper to the bowl during rotation thereof in the opposite direction.



1,752,561. PROCESS OF PRODUCING INSULATING SHEETS. RUDOLF KARÉ and JOSEF WEISS, Lucerne, Switzerland. Filed Sept. 27, 1927, Serial No. 222,803, and in Switzerland Oct. 4, 1926. 2 Claims. (Cl. 92—21.)

1. A process for producing insulating sheets, which consists in placing a vegetable fibre in a solution of kieserite and magnesite and causing said fibre to take up a proportion of the solution, removing the fibre from the solution and draining therefrom any surplus solution, and molding the sheet from the so treated fibre in a mold perforated to permit evaporation of the moisture in the fibre.

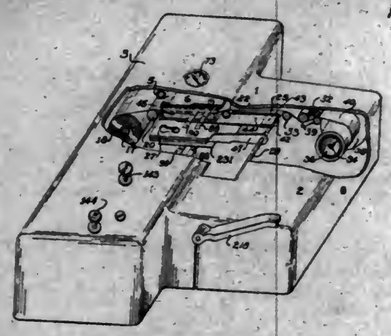
1,752,562. SAFETY STAND FOR USE WITH GAS STOVES. SAMUEL M. KASS, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed May 23, 1928. Serial No. 279,914. 3 Claims. (Cl. 126—215.)

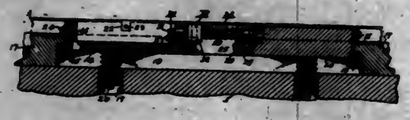
1. A safety device for supporting a pot above a gas burner, shielding the burner from any liquid boiling over from the pot, comprising an upwardly converging hollow truncated cone having a catch gutter around its base, upward indentations at circumferential intervals around the top of the cone adapted to engage the bottom of a pot supported upon the device and supporting strips across the cone at the middle with openings between the strips.

1,752,563. PENCIL TIP. FRANK J. KRISTOFEK, St. Paul, Minn., assignor to Brown & Bigelow, St. Paul, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed Apr. 27, 1925. Serial No. 26,122. 5 Claims. (Cl. 120—18.)



3. A pencil tip including a core member adapted to receive a thin shell-like facing tip portion to rigidly support the same, the tip portion covering the core member, having a different outer face metal than the core member and an annular shoulder on said core member over which said facing engages.

1,752,564. MEANS FOR RECORDING TIME AND PERIOD VALUES. WILLIAM J. LOVE, Jr., Piqua, Ohio, assignor of one-fifth to Ralph W. Carnahan, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Nov. 6, 1924. Serial No. 748,165. 2 Claims. (Cl. 234—41.)



1. In a device of the type described, a printing member bearing characters lineally arranged thereon, an endless band movable during part of its travel adjacent said printing member, an indicator carried by said band past said characters, means for intermittently moving said band, a tape movable beneath said printing member, and mechanical means for advancing the tape to and from a printing position thereunder for the purpose specified.

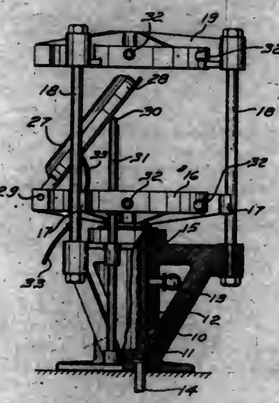
1,752,565. EDITION-PRINTING-SLUG HOLDER AND DEPRESSIBLE MARGIN BAR. FREDERICK LAMATSCH, Grantwood, N. J., assignor to R. Hoe & Co., Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 5, 1925. Serial No. 6,936. 3 Claims. (Cl. 101—374.)

1. In a printing machine, the combination of a cylinder, a margin bar in the cylinder wall, a longitudinal recess in the bar, a printing slug in the recess having an opening, a groove in the bar registering with the opening, and means for locking the slug in the recess.

1,752,566. RAIL JOINT. ARCHIE W. MCCLARY, Oakland, Calif., assignor to Welding Service Inc., San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Dec. 10, 1928. Serial No. 324,856. 8 Claims. (Cl. 238—150.)

1. A rail joint comprising a pair of rails having abutting ends, said rails having ball and web portions, and means for securing said rails together, the end faces of the ball portions of said rails being cut away near their upper edges, the remaining faces of said ball portions being in abutting contact when the rails are fully expanded.

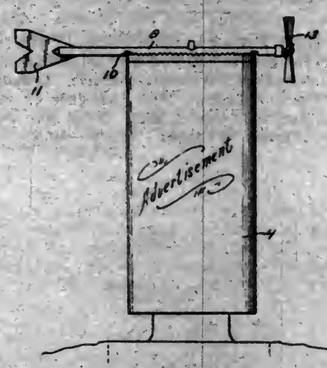
1,752,567. METHOD OF CUTTING LAMINATED GLASS. PETER A. MCCULLOUGH, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Oct. 2, 1928. Serial No. 309,898. 5 Claims. (Cl. 49—48.)



5. The method of cutting sized pieces from laminated glass formed from a plurality of layers of glass having a flexible binder interposed between adjacent surfaces, comprising forming scored lines of weakness on the outer surface of a sheet of said glass, cooling said glass to render said binder brittle, and while cooled breaking the glass along said lines of weakness.

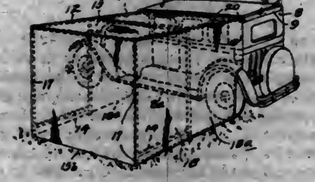
1,752,568. DRUM. JULIUS A. MEYER, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Aug. 25, 1927. Serial No. 215,461. 3 Claims. (Cl. 84—411.)

1. A drum comprising a shell having an enlarged intermediate portion to serve as a resonating chamber, heads stretched over the margins of the shell, counter-hoops engaging the margins of the heads, a plurality of tension screws carried by the counter-hoops, and a sectional reinforcing ring within the resonating chamber for receiving the tension screws.



1,752,569. VULCANIZING PRESS. THOMAS MIDGLEY, Hampden, Mass., assignor to The Fisk Rubber Company, Chicopee Falls, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed May 31, 1927. Serial No. 195,494. 2 Claims. (Cl. 18—19.)

1. A vulcanizing press comprising heated horizontal platens each formed with a mold receiving recess, a mold half fixed in the recess of the upper platen, a second mold half pivotally connected at one side to the lower platen so as to lie in the recess thereof, means for moving the lower platen towards and away from the upper platen, fixed rods passing through the lower platen, and rolls secured on the rods and bearing against the lower mold half at a point remote from the pivot whereby the lower mold half will be tilted from a horizontal towards a vertical position as the lower platen descends.



1,752,570. ADVERTISING APPARATUS. JAMES C. MITCHELL, Joplin, Mo., assignor to C. E. Russell, Joplin, Mo. Filed Aug. 17, 1928. Serial No. 300,317. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—39.)

An advertising apparatus comprising a support, a hollow rotary member mounted on and turnable about the support and having a flange of annular form at its upper end, means on the support and bearing against the inner side of the hollow rotary member to prevent deflection of the latter, a pivot post carried by the support and extending upwardly through the rotary member, a diametrically disposed member arranged above the rotary member and supported by and turnable about said post, and having a vane at one end and also having kerfs enabling it to clear the flange of the rotary member, a shaft journaled in the opposite end portion of said diametrically disposed member and extending from said member, a windwheel fixed to said shaft, and a wheel also fixed to the shaft and engaging with the flange of the rotary member.

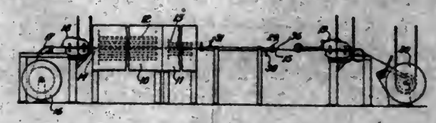
1,752,571. AUTOMOBILE CAMP SHELTER. NICHOLAY J. NORMAN OLSON, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Sept. 14, 1927. Serial No. 219,447. 6 Claims. (Cl. 135—4.)

1. In combination with an automobile, structure of the class described comprising a frame section having a connection with the top of the automobile for disposition in said top and for projection from one side thereof, another frame section hinged at said first mentioned frame section along one of its edges and foldable thereagainst, a pair of oppositely foldable side sections hinged to said last mentioned frame section along the sides adjacent said hinged edge, said side sections being foldable within said last mentioned section, foldable wall material connected to said first mentioned frame section and being adapted to cover the top of the structure and the space at the rear between said side sections, and foldable wall material covering the sides of the frame structure, said frame sections and side sections together with said wall material being compactly foldable into a relatively thin bundle connected with the top of the automobile and adapted to be carried thereupon.



1,752,572. MAUSOLEUM CONSTRUCTION. HARRY J. PERSON, Lansing, Mich., assignor to Harry J. Person & Son Incorporated, Lansing, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Dec. 8, 1927. Serial No. 238,492. 4 Claims. (Cl. 72—7.)

1. A structure including spaced apart walls formed entirely of separate hollow units for the reception of human bodies, said walls forming side walls extending from end to end of the structure and a corridor therebetween, the upper surface of said upper units being inclined laterally of each wall, a roof member covering said corridor and supported directly upon the upper units of said walls, and a facade structure adjacent to and supported independently of the ends of said walls formed by said hollow units and provided with an entrance to said corridor.

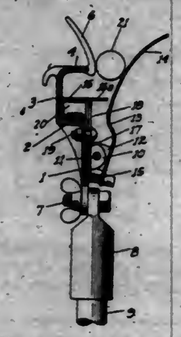
1,752,573. APPARATUS FOR HEAT-TREATING METALS. HARRY DENTON PIPER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 14, 1922, Serial No. 600,864. Renewed July 28, 1927. 9 Claims. (Cl. 266—3.)

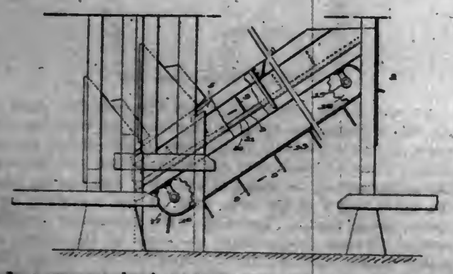


1. An apparatus for processing material subsequent to heat treatment comprising inner and outer receptacles, the inner receptacle supporting and physically engaging the material for substantially the entire length of the receptacle, a heat conducting metallic member within the inner receptacle also engaging the material, and a cooling fluid in the outer receptacle for conducting the heat from said inner receptacle and said metallic element as received from said material.

1,752,574. EGG CARRIER. CLARENCE L. RICE, Delta, Iowa. Filed Apr. 27, 1928. Serial No. 273,312. 1 Claim. (Cl. 217—36.)

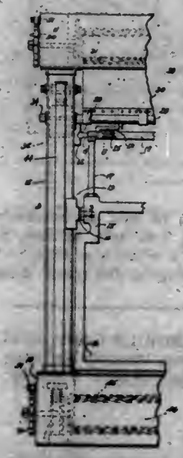
An egg carrier comprising a box like container open at its top, a removable cover fitting down between the side walls of the container, transverse cleats carried by the outer surface of said cover and having their end portions extending beyond the edges of the cover and resting upon the upper edges of the side walls of the container, said cleats being further provided with transverse notches formed thereon intermediate the ends of the cleats together with a substantially U-shaped bail, the downturned end portions of which are slidably engaged with the container and whose bight portion is receivable in said notches.

1,752,575. FUSE-HANDLING TOOL. FREDRICK H. ROSELLE, Turlock, Calif. Filed Dec. 17, 1927. Serial No. 240,839. 6 Claims. (Cl. 81—3.8.)



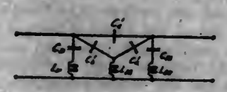
1. A fuse handling tool comprising a body member having a horizontal recess in one side to receive a fuse, a plate in the recess spaced from and parallel to the upper wall thereof, spring means pressing said plate toward the said upper wall, and means for initially engaging a fuse on opposite sides thereof to guide the same toward the open side of the recess.

1,752,576. MOSS FEEDER AND CLEANER. JOHN W. ROSSON, Morgan City, La. Filed Mar. 11, 1929. Serial No. 346,235. 8 Claims. (Cl. 19—66.)



1. A device of the class described comprising a casing, a slotted partition therein, means for feeding the material to be treated into the front end of the casing under the partition, an outlet at the other end of the casing, a slatted frame slidably supported under the partition and receiving the material introduced into the casing, means for oscillating the frame, a frame supported for oscillatory movement in upper and lower planes in the upper part of the casing, said frame carrying a plurality of rows of prongs, with portions of the frame extending through the slots in the partitions as the frame is moving on its lower plane whereby the prongs will engage the material on the slatted frame and means for actuating the prong carrying frame whereby said frame and its prongs will move rearwardly when in its lower plane.

1,752,577. FEEDING DEVICE FOR THRASHING MACHINES. FRANK PITTIS RYDER, Niagara Falls, N. Y. Filed July 20, 1928. Serial No. 294,207. 1 Claim. (Cl. 198—168.)

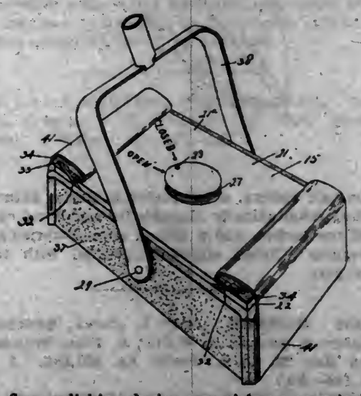


In a conveyor having a bottom plate provided with slots and conveyor arms movable in said slots, upwardly extending guards arranged along the edges of the slots consisting of angle irons having their vertical flanges extending upward along the edges of the slots and their horizontal flanges secured to the bottom plate.

1,752,578. DEVICE FOR PROTECTION OF GOODS DISPLAYED IN SHOW WINDOWS AGAINST THEFT. MAX D. SCHNEYER, Windsor, Ontario, Canada, and SOLOMON COCHIN, Detroit, Mich., assignor of one-third to Nathan Shifrin, Fordson, Mich. Filed Mar. 24, 1928. Serial No. 264,491. 2 Claims. (Cl. 20—40.4.)

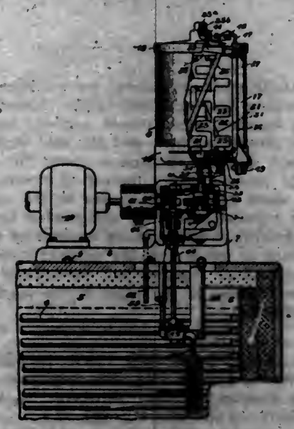
1. Means for protecting wares displayed in display windows against removal through breaches in the latter, said means comprising a frame adapted to be mounted behind the glass of said window and comprising hollow cross members at the top and bottom thereof, hollow side members therefor and a second frame supported by and movable in the first frame, transparent material in said second frame, a metal curtain normally concealed in one of said hollow cross members, means carried by the outer frame tending normally to extend said curtain to cover the area included within said first frame, and means releasable by movement of said second frame to release said extending means to permit said curtain to be extended over said area.

1,752,579. WAVE FILTER. TIMOTHY E. SHEA, Rutherford, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 27, 1926. Serial No. 91,219. 1 Claim. (Cl. 178—44.)



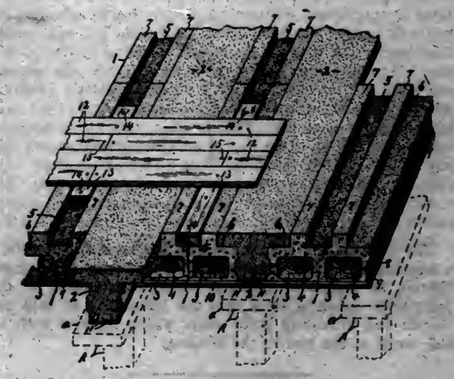
A wave filter network having a pair of input terminals, a pair of output terminals, and two line paths therebetween, said network including three inductive impedance paths arranged in shunt relation to said line paths, a delta connected group of three capacities included in one line path each terminal of said group being connected respectively to one of said shunt impedances, and said network being electrically equivalent to a prototype wave filter network comprising three filter sections of series-shunt type which are dissimilar to each other in their structure and transmission characteristics.

1,752,580. MOLDING COMPOUND AND ITS METHOD OF PRODUCTION. HARRY STERLING SNELL, La Grange, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed Nov. 8, 1924, Serial No. 748,525. Divided and this application filed Feb. 28, 1927. Serial No. 171,724. 12 Claims. (Cl. 106—38.)



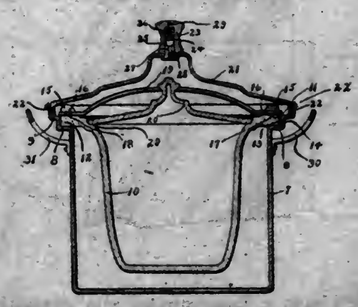
2. A method of producing a molding compound which consists in precipitating simultaneously and jointly by a common precipitant a water insoluble caseinate and an insoluble salt capable of waterproofing the compound, washing and drying the precipitate, and adding furfural to the dried product.

1,752,581. FLOOR WAXING AND POLISHING DEVICE. ALOIS F. STEIBT and OSCAR W. LINKE, Philadelphia, Pa., assignors to S. L. Products Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 6, 1925. Serial No. 67,243. 11 Claims. (Cl. 91—39.)



1. A floor polishing device comprising a receptacle having a discharge port, applicators resiliently held against a side of said receptacle, and a strip of material covering the working faces of said applicators and portions of the receptacle with the ends of said strip clamped between the applicators and the coacting face of the receptacle.

1,752,582. ICE-CREAM FREEZER. CHARLES TAYLOR, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Taylor Freezer Corporation, Beloit, Wis., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 16, 1926. Serial No. 155,281. 11 Claims. (Cl. 259—102.)



1. An ice cream freezer having a freezing chamber, a dasher frame therein comprising upper and lower heads and connecting bars, means connected to the lower of said heads for rotating said dasher frame, beater shafts journaled in said heads, the upper of said heads providing an enclosed gear case, a fixed pinion mounted in said gear case in non-rotatable relation to said chamber, pinions mounted on said beater shafts and in mesh with said fixed pinion and beater blades on said shafts arranged in staggered relation and adapted for rotation across the center line of the chamber.

1,752,583. BUILDING FLOOR. GORDON A. WRIGHT, Syracuse, N. Y. Filed Jan. 3, 1928. Serial No. 244,194. 4 Claims. (Cl. 72—66.)

2. In a composite flooring, a substantially rectangular concrete block elongated in one direction and having its upper longitudinal corners rabbeted from end to end and its intermediate portion provided with a lengthwise channel parallel with the rabbets, said block having interior lengthwise chambers extending laterally under portions of the channel and rabbets, and a partition directly under the channel and separating said chambers.

1,752,584. STEAM COOKER. HENRY C. BIETTE, Detroit, Mich., assignor of twenty per cent to John S. Langtin, Wyandotte, Mich. Filed Nov. 21, 1927. Serial No. 234,675. 1 Claim. (Cl. 53—1.)

A steam cooker of the class described, comprising: an outer container; a pair of outwardly projecting superimposed shoulder forming flanges on said container; an inner container adapted for positioning in said outer container; lugs on said inner container engaging the lowermost of said shoulder forming flanges and retaining said inner container in spaced relation to said outer container, the outer edges of said lugs being curved to conform to the curvature of said outer container surrounding the same; an upwardly projecting portion on the outer end of each of said lugs and provided with a passage extending therethrough; a bail; angularly turned ends on said bail, said ends being adapted for removably engaging in said passages.

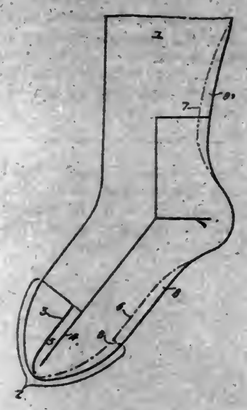
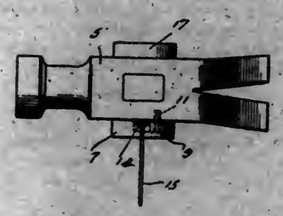
1,752,585. CORD FASTENER. HARRY I. BEARDSLEY, Chatham, and HARRY R. CLARKE, East Orange, N. J., assignors to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 31, 1926. Serial No. 98,644. 1 Claim. (Cl. 173—322.)



The combination with a housing having a slot therein of a bushing surrounding an insulated conductor and secured thereto by means of crimped portions extending at diametrically opposite sides into the insulation of said conductor and providing guide ways which register with the side walls of the slot in the housing.

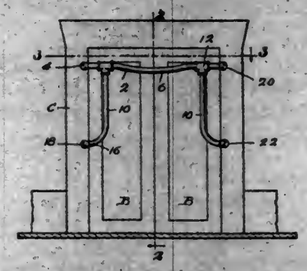
1,752,586. SAW BLADE. ERIK AUGUST BOLINDER, Stockholm, Sweden. Filed Oct. 8, 1928, Serial No. 311,207, and in Sweden Feb. 25, 1928. 3 Claims. (Cl. 143—133.)



1. In a saw, a blade provided with corrugations extending across the blade throughout the width thereof, at least two of such corrugations extending to the lateral surfaces of each tooth of the blade between the point of the tooth and the rear edge thereof, so that the corrugations will impart to each tooth a rigidness laterally that even with thin saw blades the setting of the teeth will remain against the influence of lateral pressure acting on the teeth.

1,752,587. STOCKING. WALTER D. BUTZ, Norristown, Pa., assignor of one-half to Louis N. D. Williams, Elkins Park, Pa. Filed Jan. 17, 1928, Serial No. 247,412. Renewed Mar. 16, 1929. 9 Claims. (Cl. 66—180.)

1. In knit hosiery, a toe pocket having a natural gore extending longitudinally through its center on each side of said toe pocket, and a second gore comprising a line of irregular stitches extending parallel with the said natural gore.



1,752,588. HAMMER. JOHN L. CLARK, Scottdale, Pa., assignor of one-half to Walter A. Yobo, Scottdale, Pa. Filed May 29, 1928. Serial No. 281,540. 3 Claims. (Cl. 145—30.)

1. A nail gripping attachment for hammers at one side of the striking face and rearwardly thereof, comprising a pivoted segment, a stationary segment interposed between the pivoted segment and the said striking face of the hammer whereby to form a guard for the pivoted segment to prevent injury thereof by accidental contact with the work during normal use of the hammer, said stationary segment having its edge nearest the said striking face rounded to deflect blows received by the segment, spring means at one end of the segment yieldably urging their opposite ends together and cooperating nail receiving grooves formed in the edges of the segment at said last named ends.

1,752,589. HANDRAIL FOR FIRE ESCAPES. RALPH W. DOWNES, Kansas City, Mo., assignor to Nate W. Downes, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Apr. 17, 1929. Serial No. 355,919. 5 Claims. (Cl. 227—7.)

5. In combination with a fire escape having an entrance thereto, a hand rail extending across said entrance and which is bent backwardly near its ends and secured to the opposite sides of the entrance, and two hand rails secured at their upper ends to the first-mentioned hand rail and which are bent backwardly at their lower portions and secured to opposite sides of the entrance.

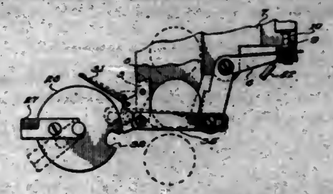
1,752,590. MAGNETO CONTACT PLUG. THOMAS DUFLO, Croghan, N. Y. Filed Jan. 29, 1927. Serial No. 164,500. 1 Claim. (Cl. 173—324.)

In a magneto contact, a coil spring rigidly supported at one end and having its other end yieldingly held against the magneto lead, the helices adjacent the contact end of the coil being rigidly connected to each other by a covering of insulating material leaving the contact point free from insulation.

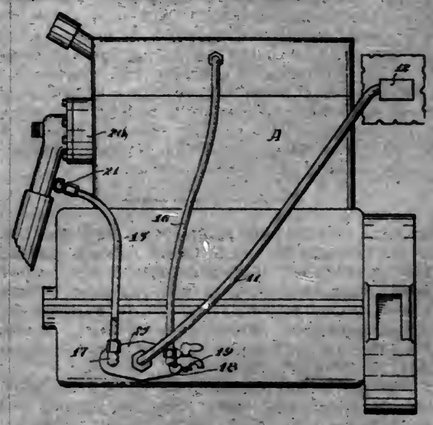


1,752,591. SIGN HOLDER FOR AUTOMOBILE BODIES. ARTHUR H. ELLIS, Rochester, Minn. Filed Apr. 14, 1928. Serial No. 269,995. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—125.)

1. A device of the character described comprising a sign having a horisontally elongated supporting flange substantially co-extensive in length therewith and projecting downwardly for reception throughout its length in a gutter along a longitudinal edge of a vehicle top, the lower edge of said flange being adapted to engage and rest on the bottom of the gutter, and clamping means connected with and disposed at the outer side of said flange for coaction therewith in clamping said flange to the outer side wall of the gutter, said clamping means projecting downwardly below said flange and being curved to hook under the gutter, holding the entire device against upward shifting.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY OF ATLANTA

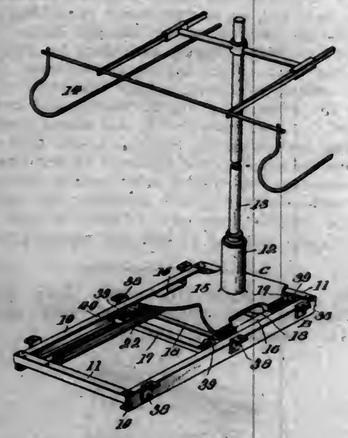
1,752,592. COIN-CONTROLLED SWITCH-OPERATING MECHANISM. ROY O. GILBURG, Wausau, Wis., assignor to Marathon Electric Mfg. Co., Wausau, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Oct. 17, 1928. Serial No. 313,050. 4 Claims. (Cl. 194—9.)



1. In a coin-controlled switch-operating mechanism of the class described, an electric circuit comprising a main switch and an auxiliary switch shunted across the terminals of the latter, a timing mechanism for periodically opening the main switch, actuating mechanism for said auxiliary switch, comprising a lever susceptible to movement by the weight of a coin for closing said circuit independently of said main switch, and means operable by said timing mechanism for releasing a coin from engagement with the latter, a link connected to said means and lever respectively for opening said auxiliary switch, said circuit being retained closed thereafter by said main switch for effecting continued rotation of said timing mechanism and resetting of said coin releasing means.

1,752,593. TILE-ROOF CLOSURE. JOHN GIORDANO, San Francisco, Calif. Filed June 30, 1928. Serial No. 289,442. 3 Claims. (Cl. 108—1.)

1. In combination with a tile roof, a closure plate for an open end thereof having a base plate resiliently fastened to the bottom edge, so as to allow the closure plate to be partly collapsed upon the base plate for insertion into the opening and to automatically rise into active position after insertion.



1,752,594. CRANK-CASE HEATER. THOMAS P. HANNIGAN, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Apr. 18, 1929. Serial No. 356,157. 4 Claims. (Cl. 219—38.)

1. A device of the character described, comprising a container mounted in the crank case of an internal combustion motor, a pair of water outlets from said container passing through the wall of said container, sealing means surrounding said outlets and engaging the crank case wall to form a water and oil tight seal therewith, and a pair of tubes from said outlets connected to the water circulating system of said motor.

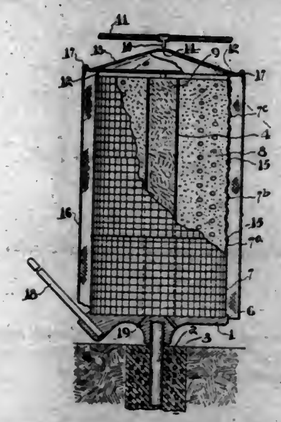
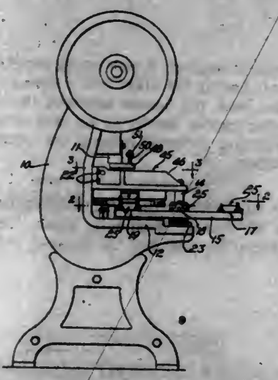
1,752,595. DISPLAY RACK. WILLIAM T. HORMES, Baltimore, Md. Filed Aug. 23, 1928. Serial No. 301,637. 5 Claims. (Cl. 312—133.)



1. A display rack of the character described comprising a reciprocably mounted carriage, a rotatable rack supporting shaft carried thereby, a notched locking disk rotatable with said shaft, a rigidly supported control bar extending parallel with the line of reciprocation of said carriage, a lever pivotally supported by said carriage, a roller concentric with the pivot of said lever and engaging said control bar, a control member on one end of said lever also engaging said control bar, a locking member carried by said lever, means for yieldably holding said locking member in engagement with the periphery of said disk so that it will enter either notch thereof when in register therewith to prevent rotation of said shaft, said control bar having cutaway portions located in predetermined positions with respect to the movement of the carriage, so that while said locking member and said control member are in register with said cutout portions, said lever may be rocked by rotating said disk, said lever being held against pivotal movement at all other times by said control member.

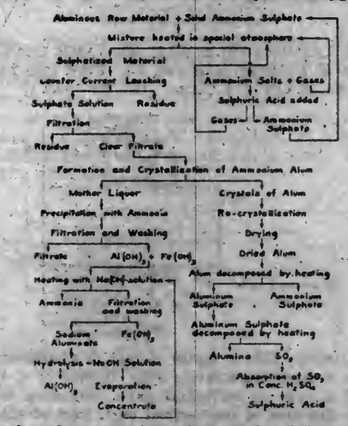
1,752,596. PROCESS OF REPLACING THE WATER IN A WATER-MOIST CELLULOSE BY AN ORGANIC LIQUID AND THE PRODUCT THEREOF. EMIL HUBERT, ALEXANDER RÖST-GRANDE, and ERICH CORRENS, Elberfeld, Germany, assignors to I. G. Farbenindustrie Aktiengesellschaft, Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany. Filed Mar. 16, 1927, Serial No. 175,921, and in Germany Mar. 17, 1926. 11 Claims. (Cl. 260—101.)



1. The process for impregnating water-moist cellulose with an organic liquid, which comprises pressing water-moist cellulose into a cake and forcing out the water by acting upon said cake with an organic liquid under pressure.

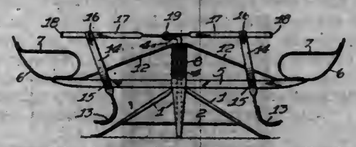
1,752,597. VEGETATIVE DEVICE. MAUNSELL B. JACKSON, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed Apr. 1, 1927. Serial No. 180,301. 2 Claims. (Cl. 47—38.)

1. A vegetative device including turnable means for carrying soil; a cover for protecting the top of the said coil and the plants from the weather elements; and a removable side cover adapted to shield the soil and the young plants from the weather elements.



1,752,598. ELECTRIC WELDING. EDMUND NIELS JORGENSEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 24, 1925. Serial No. 58,247. 11 Claims. (Cl. 219—4.)

1. In an apparatus for simultaneously welding a plurality of parts to a member, a frame for positioning and clamping the parts and the member, an electrical circuit including a plurality of independently operable welding electrodes adapted to engage the parts, means for causing a relative movement between the parts and the electrodes to cause the electrodes to contact with the parts under pressure, and means for distributing the pressure equally upon said parts.



1,752,599. METHOD OF TREATING ALUMINOUS MATERIALS FOR THE PRODUCTION OF ALUMINUM SULPHATE AND ALUMINA THEREFROM. BENGT RAGNAR FRITIOV KJELLGREN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Aug. 17, 1925, Serial No. 50,848, and in Sweden June 27, 1925. Renewed July 22, 1929. 19 Claims. (Cl. 23—143.)

11. In the process for production of aluminum compounds the steps of sulphatizing the aluminous raw material with anhydrous ammonium sulphate by heating the mixture in an atmosphere substantially consisting of one or more gases formed by the dissociation of ammonium sulphate and containing substantially no oxygen, and decomposing the ammonium alum produced from the sulphatized material to form aluminum sulphate by heating the alum in an atmosphere substantially consisting of one or more gases formed by the dissociation of ammonium sulphate and containing substantially no oxygen.

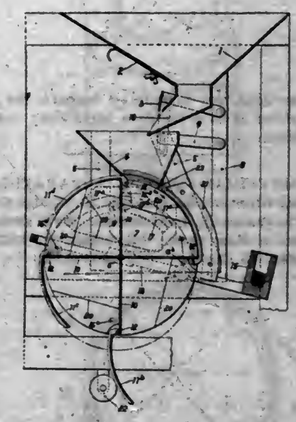
1,752,600. ROUNDABOUT. DELL J. LAHAY, Carney, Mich. Filed Mar. 21, 1927. Serial No. 177,101. 2 Claims. (Cl. 272—33.)



1. A roundabout comprising a base, a vertically extending shaft carried by said base, a crank arm carried by said shaft, a frame having spaced-apart side members, means for joining said side members together, said frame being rotatably mounted upon said shaft, seats disposed between and secured to the side members of said frame, a pair of supporting levers pivotally mounted upon said frame substantially adjacent said seats, the lower ends of said levers being arcuate shaped, footrests secured to the arcuate-shaped portions of said levers, said levers extending inwardly and upwardly from said frame whereby the upper ends of said pairs of levers may be disposed in close proximity to each other, pull rods having their inner ends pivotally connected to said crank arm and their outer ends provided with handle portions, and means for connecting the upper ends of the pairs of levers together and for pivotally securing said pull rods to said pairs of levers.

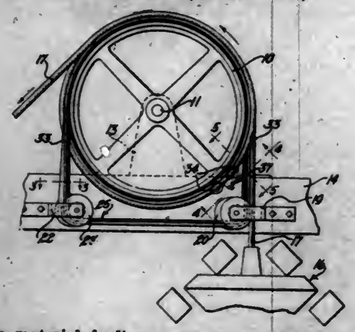
1,752,601. WOODEN CIGAR BOX. HENRY LEIMAN, Tampa, Fla. Filed May 10, 1928. Serial No. 276,677. 1 Claim. (Cl. 217—2.)

A wooden box having the top, back, bottom and front thereof formed from an unsevered blank, the inner end edges of which are square rabbeted to form seats for the ends of said box, rectangular ends seated in said rabbeted seats, the inner top edge of the front of said box being square rabbeted and the front inner edge of said top being correspondingly rabbeted to make an air tight joint with the top edge of said front when the box is closed whereby when the top, back, bottom and front are folded into assembled relation the ends may be inserted into and removed from their rabbeted seats without disturbing the assembly.

1,752,602. APPARATUS FOR AUTOMATICALLY COUNTING THE VOLUMES OF GRANULOUS MATERIALS PASSING THROUGH THE SAME. ALBERT LETREUX, Constantine, Algeria. Filed July 18, 1927. Serial No. 206,769. 1 Claim. (Cl. 73—187.)

An apparatus for automatically measuring grains comprising in combination, a drum subdivided into several buckets of predetermined volume and having inclined portions in the corners for ensuring the complete filling, a hinged door for each bucket closing a portion of this bucket in leaving the other portion always open, sectors for maintaining said doors closed during a part rotation of the drum, a scale beam on one arm of which said drum is mounted, an adjustable counter weight arranged on the other arm of said scale beam for maintaining said drum in the raised position, a distributing hopper above the open portion of that bucket which is actually in the upper portion of the rotating drum, two frames supporting said distributing hopper and loosely mounted upon journals of said drum, hinged connecting rods supporting said frames in upright position so that they can ascend and descend with said drum, a charging hopper above said distributing hopper and designed to supply material to the latter, a fixed cam having a groove with a steeply inclined branch, rollers fixed on one side of the drum and designed to engage with said cam groove for stopping the drum for the filling of a bucket, a counter mechanism, and an arm operated by each of said rollers and designed to operate said counter mechanism.

1,752,603. BOTTLE CLOSURE. WESLEY W. MASON, Baltimore, Md. Filed Feb. 28, 1929. Serial No. 343,380. 8 Claims. (Cl. 215—45.)



1. A closure for containers comprising a preformed non-resilient flexible covering to seat over the mouth of a container said covering having downwardly extending portions, a non-resilient metallic element attached to and carried by one of said portions and foldable therewith when said portions are contracted beneath the container mouth, the other of said portions completely covering the said attachment.

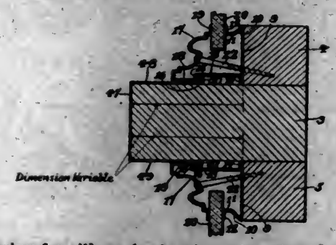
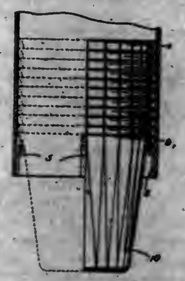
1,752,604. MATERIAL-FEEDING APPARATUS. HENRY ROGERS MASSINGHAM, La Grange, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 28, 1927. Serial No. 171,584. 13 Claims. (Cl. 254—176.)



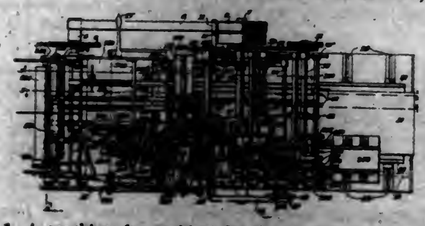
1. In material feeding apparatus, a driving member, a material receiving conveyor, and supporting means therefor of substantially circular cross-section movable with a face of the driving member in the direction of travel of material associated therewith and making a rolling contact with the face of the member in a direction transverse to the movement thereof.

1,752,605. INTERLOCKING SILL OR JAMB COVERING. EDWARD F. MCHUGH, Kingston, Pa. Filed July 24, 1928. Serial No. 294,996. 5 Claims. (Cl. 20—56.4.)



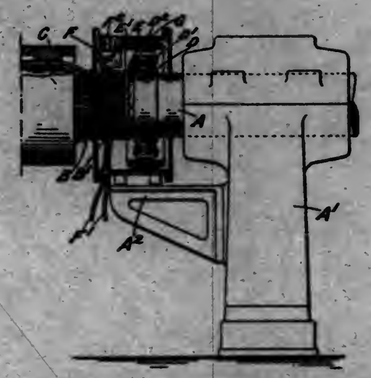
1. A sill or jamb covering including two parts disposed at right angles to each other, one of said parts extending rearwardly from the other and having its rear formed with a flange consisting of a vertical and a forwardly directed horizontal leg providing a horizontally disposed pocket for receiving means to couple the covering with the rear element of a metallic sash.

1,752,606. ADJUSTABLE SILL OR JAMB COVERING. EDWARD F. MCHUGH, Kingston, Pa. Filed July 24, 1928. Serial No. 294,997. 1 Claim. (Cl. 20—56.4.)



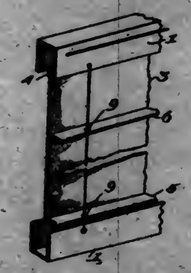
A covering for sills or jambs of varying dimensions comprising a unitary imperforate body formed of a vertical part and a pair of horizontal parts extending at right angles to the ends of the vertical part, each of said horizontal parts having the free end thereof formed with a vertically extending right angularly disposed flange for slidably connecting said body to a pair of metallic sashes connected to a sill or jamb whereby said body can be adjusted to cover sills or jambs of varying dimensions.

1,752,607. DRINKING-CUP DISPENSER. HAROLD A. MILLER, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. Filed Jan. 21, 1929. Serial No. 333,957. 4 Claims. (Cl. 312—43.)



4. A cup dispenser comprising a container, a plurality of rigid retainer members carried in spaced relationship around the inner surface of said container adjacent the discharge end thereof, the upper portion of each of said retainer members providing a resting base for the cups, the said members being provided with inwardly projecting portions contoured to fit the outer surfaces of the lips of the cups to be dispensed.

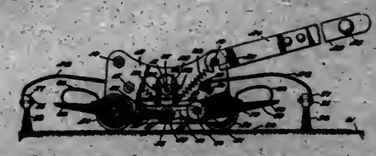
1,752,608. ENVELOPE MACHINE. ALBERT OLGAY, Glen Ellyn, Ill., assignor to Gaw-O'Hara Envelope Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 3, 1926. Serial No. 91,905. 73 Claims. (Cl. 93—61.)



1. A machine for making double envelopes comprising in combination, means for feeding major and minor envelope blanks in substantially parallel paths for a part of their travel to a predetermined position, and means at said position for combining said blanks to form a double envelope.

1,752,609. THERMOELECTRICALLY-OPERATED DEVICE FOR THE PROTECTION OF ROTARY DYNAMO-ELECTRIC MACHINES. HERBERT BRYAN POWDRILL, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England, assignor to Electrical Improvements Limited, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England, a Company of Great Britain. Filed Dec. 12, 1928, Serial No. 325,574, and in Great Britain Jan. 3, 1928. 4 Claims. (Cl. 171—252.)

1. In a thermo-electrically-operated device for the protection of a rotary dynamo electric machine, the combination with the rotor of the machine, of thermocouples rotating therewith, a coil also rotating therewith and in electrical connection with said thermocouples and forming an inducing winding, and a fixed coil forming a winding in inductive relationship with said rotating coil.



1,752,610. AWNING OR CURTAIN. WALKER B. MCSPADDEN, Fort Collins, Colo., assignor of one-half to Henry K. Mayer, Fort Collins, Colo. Filed Nov. 28, 1928. Serial No. 322,419. 14 Claims. (Cl. 156—16.)

5. In a device of the class described, the combination of a curtain, double folded slats on said curtain with double folds of the curtain in each slat, and means for lifting the curtain.

1,752,611. THREAD CUTTER. THEODORE F. NAUMANN, Pawtucket, R. I., assignor to Seekonk Lace Company, a Corporation of Rhode Island. Filed Apr. 27, 1929. Serial No. 358,668. 13 Claims. (Cl. 26—11.)

1. A portable self-contained apparatus for cutting bridge threads, embodying a frame mounted for longitudinal reciprocation comprising sides and cross bars, a pivot shaft supported in the sides, nonfrictional means for supporting the sides, a plurality of forwardly directed arms upon the shaft, rearwardly directed arms upon the shaft, and longitudinally disposed upright cutting blades fixed to the ends of all the arms.

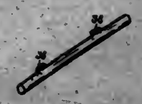
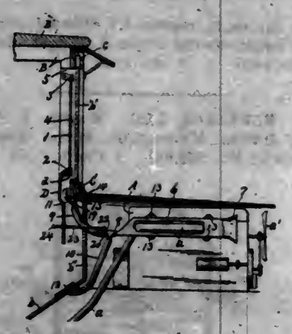
1,752,612. ELEVATOR LEG. ROBERT J. OWENS and JOHN L. OWENS, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Apr. 20, 1929. Serial No. 356,641. 1 Claim. (Cl. 198—206.)



A device of the class described comprising a casing, and a sheet metal partition dividing the casing into upper and lower compartments and having formed therein longitudinally extended corrugations affording rails on which the flights of an endless conveyor travel during their return movement, said rails being laterally spaced to leave a passageway for the belt of the conveyor, and of such height as to hold said belt out of contact with the partition.

1,752,613. SWITCH LOCK. VLADIMIR V. PROFFEN, Seattle, Wash. Filed May 6, 1929. Serial No. 360,842. 4 Claims. (Cl. 70—14.)

1. A device of the class described comprising a jaw, a pair of bars extending from the jaw, a casing, said bars being slidably mounted in the casing, said casing having a wall forming a jaw, pawls in the casing, ratchet teeth on the bar, means normally urging the pawls into engagement with the ratchet teeth, said pawls having spring shanks, means for anchoring the spring shanks in the casing, a slide, key actuated means for moving the slide, frames on the shank, arms extending from the slide, and having fingers engaged in the frames so that movement of the bars will cause disengagement of the pawls from the ratchet teeth.



1,752,614. DEVICE FOR HOLDING PRINTED MATTER. ARTHUR ANSGAR RING, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Filed Dec. 12, 1927. Serial No. 239,482. 3 Claims. (Cl. 40—86.)

1. A device for displaying a strip of printed matter, comprising a casing having a vision opening therein through which the printed matter on said strip may be viewed; rotatably mounted spools on which said strip is wound; guide rods over which said strip is trained and spurs carried on said rods to properly align said strip in registration relative to said opening.

1,752,615. WINDSHIELD CLEANER AND HEATER. HAROLD C. ROOF, Adams Center, N. Y. Filed Jan. 24, 1928. Serial No. 249,024. 3 Claims. (Cl. 20—40.5.)

1. In a device for supplying heated air to windshield plates of motor vehicles, the combination with a transparent windshield plate, an extra transparent plate across the rear face of the windshield plate in spaced relation thereto to form an intervening chamber, said extra plate having its upper and lower longitudinal edges spaced from the windshield plate to form an inlet and an outlet opening for said chamber, said openings extending substantially the full length of the extra plate, a distributing head extending approximately the full length of the extra plate positioned in a plane below the lower edge thereof and provided with an opening in its upper surface extending from end to end for discharging heated air through said chamber, and means for introducing a heating medium into said head.

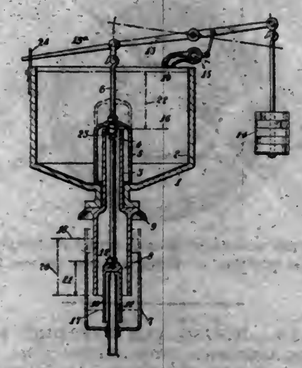
In a roller bearing of the character described, the combination with a plurality of rollers arranged in uniformly spaced relation circumferentially about an axis and having their opposite ends reduced to form cylindrical supporting members or trunnions, of a pair of axially spaced coaxial end rings continuous throughout their circumferential lengths, annular channels in their inner ends for receiving the reduced cylindrical end portions of the rollers for supporting said rollers, the outer ends of said rings being provided with relatively small rectangular radially disposed openings therethrough midway between the inner and outer peripheries of said rings, the radial depth of said openings being greater than their circumferential width and less than the radial distance between the walls of said annular channels, spacer bars interpositioned between the rollers having substantially the same circumferential width as the corresponding openings and their opposite ends reduced in radial width corresponding to the radial depth of the openings and secured therein to hold the rings in axially spaced relation parallel with each other.

1,752,617. PROCESS FOR THE AMINOALKYLATION OF AMINES. WILHELM SCHULEMANN, Vohwinkel, near Elberfeld, and FRITZ SCHÖNHÖFER and AUGUST WINGLER, Elberfeld, Germany, assignors to Winthrop Chemical Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 12, 1928, Serial No. 246,382, and in Germany Jan. 25, 1927. 7 Claims. (Cl. 260—128.)

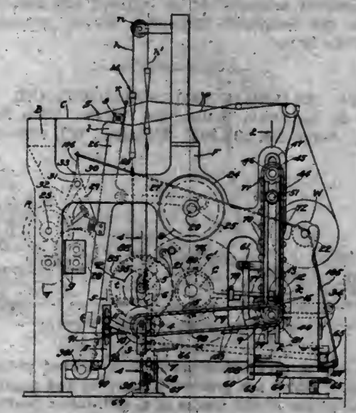
1. In the process for the amino-alkylation of amines the step which comprises treating a primary aromatic amine with a compound of the general formula: $\alpha.R_1$ in the form of its salts wherein α represents halogen or the residue of an aromatic sulfonic acid and R_1 the residue of a tertiary amine.

1,752,618. BACK-UP BRAKE FOR VEHICLES. JOHN A. SMITH, Cornwall, Ontario, Canada. Filed May 2, 1929. Serial No. 359,879. 7 Claims. (Cl. 188—30.)



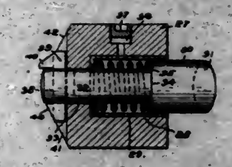
1. In combination, a shaft, a brake drum on the shaft, a brake band disposed about the drum, a casting on one end of the brake band, a bell crank lever pivotally engaged with the said casting, a link pivotally engaged with an intermediate portion of the bell crank lever, means pivotally mounting said link, an adjustable link engaged with the other end of the band and pivotally engaged with the intermediate portion of said first mentioned link.

1,752,619. RELEASE SNAP CONSTRUCTION. ALBERT SUMMERFELD, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada. Filed Jan. 14, 1929, Serial No. 332,314, and in Canada Oct. 31, 1928. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—201.)



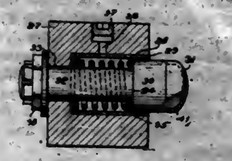
1. A snap comprising an engagement member, consisting of a twisted loop of wire having closed looped ends and an engageable member consisting of a twisted wire having one closed looped end and its other end looped, the ends of the wire forming the extremities of said other looped end crossing each other, said ends projecting in oppositely curved relationship to the body portion of the loop from which they are formed.

1,752,620. SIPHON. NORMAN SWINDIN, Acton, London, England. Filed May 3, 1927, Serial No. 188,544, and in Great Britain May 3, 1926. 6 Claims. (Cl. 137—106.)



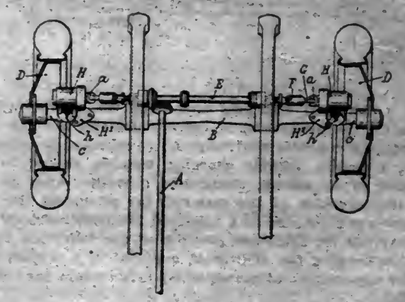
1. A siphon comprising a down-flow pipe, a bucket associated with the lower end thereof to form a liquid seal therefor, means for lowering the bucket to prime the siphon, a bell enclosing the upper end of the down-flow pipe to constitute an up-flow pipe and an operative connection between the bucket and bell whereby the bell is raised and lowered with said bucket.

1,752,621. LOOM. JOSEPH THEXTON, Jr., and HENRY TOMLINSON, Fall River, Mass., assignor of one-fourth to Joseph E. Freeling and one-fourth to Frank Riley, Fall River, Mass. Filed Feb. 1, 1928. Serial No. 251,151. 12 Claims. (Cl. 139—24.)



1. In combination with a loom for weaving plain cloth, an attachment for said loom comprising a pattern-controlling chain and a pair of sprockets therefor, shafts on which said sprockets are mounted, a series of cams mounted on said chain arranged in predetermined number and spacing according to the pattern to be woven, a treadle connected with the harnesses, a rotary shaft, cams mounted on said shaft adapted to engage the treadle to actuate the harnesses, a ratchet mounted on one of the sprocket shafts of the pattern chain, a pawl which engages with said ratchet, and an eccentric mounted on the cam shaft having driving connection with said pawl to drive the pattern chain.

1,752,622. PULVERIZING OR GRINDING MILL. DAVID J. UHLE and JOSEPH V. DURNIN, Allentown, Pa. Filed Mar. 30, 1928. Serial No. 266,030. 7 Claims. (Cl. 83—45.)

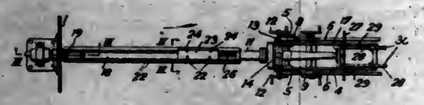


1. In a grinding mill, a casing, a grinding ring arranged within the casing, grinding balls operating upon the grinding ring, a drive shaft extending between the grinding balls, a yoke carried by the drive shaft and embodying generally radial arms having transverse openings, longitudinally slidable pusher elements mounted to slide within the transverse openings and having faces to contact with the grinding balls, and springs within the openings and engaging the pusher elements to force them forwardly.

1,752,623. PULVERIZING OR GRINDING MILL. DAVID J. UHLE and JOSEPH V. DURNIN, Allentown, Pa. Filed Nov. 22, 1928. Serial No. 321,207. 6 Claims. (Cl. 83—45.)

1. In a grinding mill, a casing, a grinding ring arranged within the casing, a rotatable support arranged within the casing, reciprocatory pusher elements carried by the support and having convex faces to engage with the grinding balls, and yielding means to oppose the longitudinal movement of the pusher elements in one direction.

1,752,624. STEERING MECHANISM FOR MOTOR VEHICLES. CHARLES RAYMOND WARRICK, Rueil, France, assignor to Henri et Maurice Farman, Billancourt, France. Filed June 18, 1927, Serial No. 199,610, and in France July 1, 1926. 4 Claims. (Cl. 280—87.)



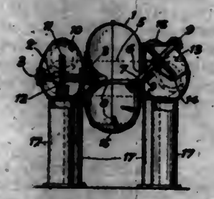
1. In a steering mechanism for motor vehicles the combination with each steering pivot of a worm of variable pitch mounted on the steering axle and adapted to be operated by the steering shaft and a member mounted on the corresponding steering pivot and engaging said worm, the variation in the pitch of said worm being so predetermined that both steering wheels are adapted to rotate about a centre which is substantially situated on the centre line of the nonsteering axle when the vehicle is steered to the right or left.

1,752,625. CRANK-SHAFT ASSEMBLY. GEORGE D. WILSON, Berkeley, Calif., assignor to American Meter Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 18, 1928. Serial No. 247,692. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—38.)

A crank shaft assembly for operatively mounting the pitmen of valves for meter boxes, comprising a shaft provided with a reduced end portion so as to form a shoulder, said reduced end portion being axially recessed so as to provide a bendable wall, a crank plate provided with a pair of apertures, said plate of lesser thickness than the axial length of the reduced portion of the shaft and being snugly fitted thereover to extend laterally therefrom with the reduced portion of the shaft in position through one aperture, a crank pin provided with a reduced end portion constructed similar to the reduced end portion of the shaft and extended through the other of the apertures in said plate in a direction reverse to the direction of extension of the shaft, the reduced portions of said shaft and crank pin made operatively integral and resistably with said crank plate by being swaged respectively thereto, said crank pin provided with a cylindrical axially aligned body having a transverse opening therethrough adjacent its free end and adapted to receive and releasably hold a locking key, the said crank shaft assembly being mounted rotatably by a bearing engagement of the shaft and having its crank and crank pin portions free of bearing.

1,752,626. DEVICE FOR THE PRODUCTION OF TUBES, POLES, AND THE LIKE FROM REENFORCED CONCRETE CENTRIFUGALLY. PAUL ZEHNDER, Lucerne, Switzerland, assignor to the Firm Internationale Siegwartbalkengesellschaft in Lusern, Lucerne, Switzerland. Filed Mar. 27, 1929, Serial No. 350,255, and in Switzerland Jan. 24, 1929. 5 Claims. (Cl. 25—30.)

1. A material charging apparatus for moulds of devices for the production of tubes, poles and the like from re-enforced concrete centrifugally, comprising in combination, a mobile, tiltable charging member shaped in the manner of an oblong, trough-like container open on top for the reception of the material for producing the wall of uniform thickness of a tube and the additional amount of material for thickened portions of the tube, and means for discharging the additional material in a certain part of the apparatus and consequently in a certain part of the mould.



1,752,627. DEVICE FOR PRODUCING REENFORCED-CONCRETE TUBES BY THE ACTION OF CENTRIFUGAL FORCE. PAUL ZEHNDER, Lucerne, Switzerland, assignor to the Firm Internationale Siegwartbalken-Gesellschaft in Lusern, Lucerne, Switzerland. Filed Mar. 27, 1929, Serial No. 350,256, and in Switzerland Jan. 24, 1929. 3 Claims. (Cl. 25—30.)

1. In a device for smoothing the interior walls of concrete tubes during their production by centrifugal action, the combination of a material charging member adapted to receive the material, a smoothing member rotatably mounted on said material charging member, and means for moving the smoothing member from its inoperative into an operative position in which it acts on the interior of the tube.

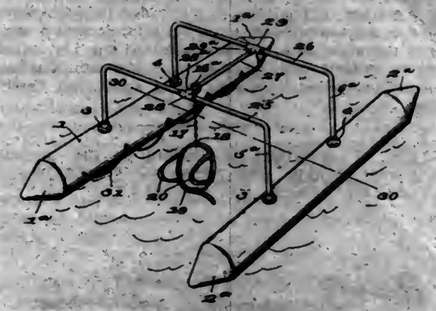
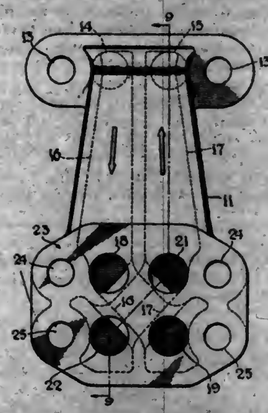
1,752,628. MIXING AND KNEADING MACHINE. FRIEDRICH ARSCHBACH, Aarau, Switzerland. Filed July 15, 1929, Serial No. 378,490, and in Switzerland June 13, 1929. 12 Claims. (Cl. 259—85.)



1. A mixing and kneading machine, particularly for treating doughy substances, in combination, a receptacle for receiving the substances to be treated and turnably mounted about a horizontal axis, and a mixing and kneading implement arranged at an inclined axis and projecting into the receptacle through a central opening in a wall of the latter.

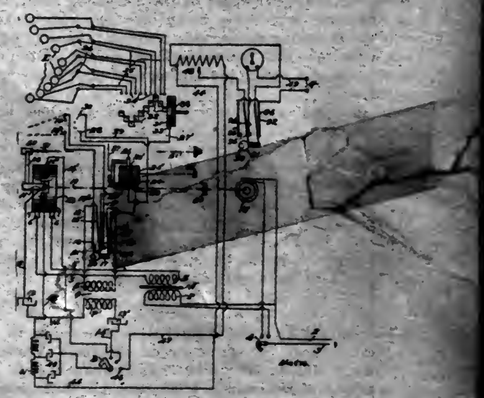
1,752,629. RAILROAD-RAIL STRAIGHTENER. CLARENCE D. BALDWIN, Bellingham, Wash. Filed July 16, 1928. Serial No. 293,208. 1 Claim. (Cl. 153—38.)



In a rail straightening machine, a curved press beam the ends of which are grooved to bear on and engage with the head of one of the tracks of a railroad, a bearing centrally disposed in said curved beam with its axis in the plane thereof, a press nut, two arms integral with said press nut disposed on opposite sides of said track rail having openings in the ends thereof, a plate to bear on the bottom of said track rail having openings therethrough to register with said openings in the ends of said arms, pins extended through said registering openings to engage said plate with said arms, a press screw engaged with said press nut having a cylindrical shank to mount for rotation in said beam bearing, a turret head of larger diameter than said screw shank fastened on the end thereof to bear on the outer end of said beam bearing, and a strut pivotally connected with the walls of said beam bearing and releasably fastened to the head of the other rail of said track.

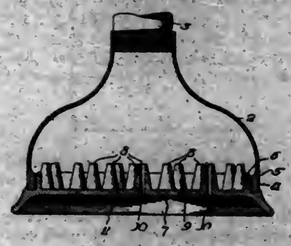
1,752,630. SWIMMING CATAMARAN. MAURICE M. BROWN, Washington, D. C. Filed May 1, 1929. Serial No. 359,531. 3 Claims. (Cl. 9—21.)

1. A device of the class described, comprising a pair of light cylindrical tubular metal floats or pontoons, clamping sockets rigidly secured fore and aft upon said pontoons, tubular metal frame members or risers having their lower and outer ends clamped in said sockets, an overhead metal frame member comprising a longitudinal rod or runway with clamping sockets integrally secured upon it and adapted to receive the upper and inner ends of said frame members or risers, and a flexible suspension device depending from said overhead frame member with means at its lower end to secure it to a swimmer and a ring or traveler at its upper end adapted to travel on said rod or runway fore and aft.



1,752,631. FEED-VALVE MOUNTING. CHARLES A. CAMPBELL, Watertown, N. Y., assignor to The New York Air Brake Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Jan. 29, 1929. Serial No. 335,957. 5 Claims. (Cl. 303—1.)

1. A feed valve mounting comprising a member having a supply passage and a discharge passage; and a ported reversing member capable of assembly with the first named member in two relations, in one of which its ports establish direct connections, and in the other reversed connections with said supply and discharge passages.



1,752,632. APPARATUS FOR PRODUCING ELECTRIC WAVES. JULIEN DE BEAUMONT, Huntington Park, and EDWARD H. BLUM, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Mar. 28, 1927. Serial No. 177,669. 14 Claims. (Cl. 250—36.)

1. In combination, a closed core, static transformer, an alternating current rectifying means, a wave discharging air core transformer, a condenser means receiving the current from the rectifying means and discharging waves to the latter transformer, and adjustable operative means for varying and rhythmically increasing and decreasing the electromotive force from the rectifying means.

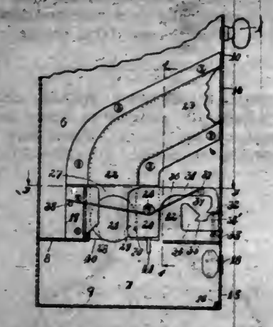
1,752,633. TUBULAR SHOWER HEAD. CHARLES R. CRANE, 2d, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Crane Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 17, 1928. Serial No. 278,579. 4 Claims. (Cl. 299—141.)

1. In a shower head, a plate having a plurality of teats secured to and projecting from its inner surface, each of said teats and said plate having water passages therethrough, and the outer walls of said teats converging toward their inner ends.

1,752,634. SAFETY LOCKING MECHANISM. FREDERICK K. FILDES, Altoona, Pa. Filed Nov. 9, 1928. Serial No. 318,204. 7 Claims. (Cl. 105—366.)



1. In combination with a portable container having a door in one side, bolts mounted in the inside of the container and adapted to be projected into locking engagement with the door and to be retracted therefrom, a vertically slidable bar mounted on the inside of the container having cam slots engaging said bolts to effect their operation, a shaft rotatably and slidably mounted under the bottom of the container at right angles to the plane of said door having a polygonal extremity adapted to project from the container and to be retracted within the plane of the front wall thereof, a collar rotatable on said shaft having a crank connected to said vertically slidable bar, lock mechanism mounted in the outer end of said shaft comprising a bolt adapted to be projected into a recess formed in a relatively stationary part of the container when the shaft is retracted, said sleeve being provided with sockets and said shaft having projections adapted to engage said sockets when the shaft is unlocked and moved to its projected position, and a spring for moving said shaft to its projected position.

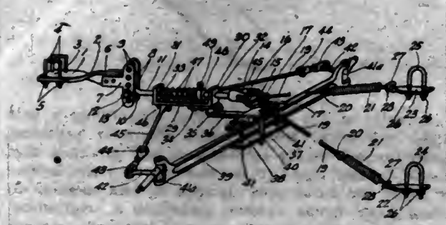
2. In combination with a portable container having a door in one side, means for locking the door, operating mechanism for said means comprising a shaft mounted under the bottom of the container for rotary and longitudinal sliding movements, said shaft extending transversely to the plane of the door, means for rendering said shaft ineffective to operate said locking means when said shaft occupies a retracted position in which its outer extremity is inaccessible, and a key lock for holding said shaft in said retracted position.

1,752,635. VENDING CABINET. DOUGLASS C. FONDA, West Orange, N. J., assignor to Nixon Vending and Change Making Machines, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 11, 1927. Serial No. 174,549. 9 Claims. (Cl. 194—92.)

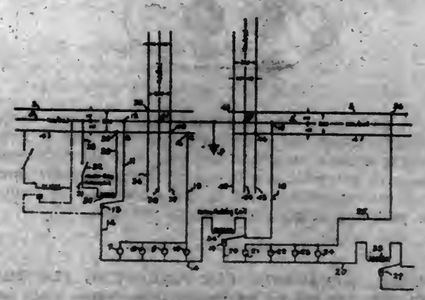
1. A vending cabinet having a door attached thereto for opening and closing movement and provided with a catch piece; and a coin holding pocket structure within the cabinet including a swingable end wall having thereon a projecting hooked arm adapted to rest upon said catch piece to maintain said end wall in place for admitting a coin into said pocket structure when said door is closed and adapted also to be itself maintained in position from where it will automatically interlock with said catch piece consequent upon the opening movement of said door, substantially as described.

1,752,636. DEVICE FOR MANUFACTURING A TAPE HAVING BRAIDLIKE WRINKLES OR PLAITS FROM SOLIDIFIABLE VISCOUS SOLUTION. TORAZO IZUMI, Tokyo, Japan. Filed Aug. 17, 1928. Serial No. 300,607. 1 Claim. (Cl. 18—14.)



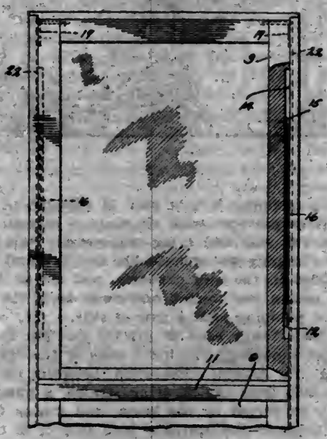
A process for manufacturing an ornamental tape from viscous solidifiable solutions with any known tube-making machine, comprising the steps of forcing a viscous solution from an horizontally disposed tube-making nozzle, sticking together the walls of the outcoming tube in a downward direction, and receiving the flattened braided tube upon a flat surface for drying purposes.

1,752,637. AIRCRAFT COVERING. ISADORE M. JACOBSOHN, Chicago, Ill., and STARR TRUSCOTT, Birmingham, Ohio. Filed Mar. 5, 1926. Serial No. 92,645. 3 Claims. (Cl. 91—68.)



2. A method of rendering a fabric flexible and impermeable to gases consisting in coating a fabric with a mixture of cuprammonium cellulose-latex, bathing the coated fabric in sulfuric acid, washing to remove any reaction products, immersing in a plasticizing agent, and finally drying.

1,752,638. FOUR-WHEELED TRAILER HITCH. JOSEPH B. JOHNSON, Alfalfa, Okla. Filed Dec. 8, 1928. Serial No. 324,647. 3 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.9.)

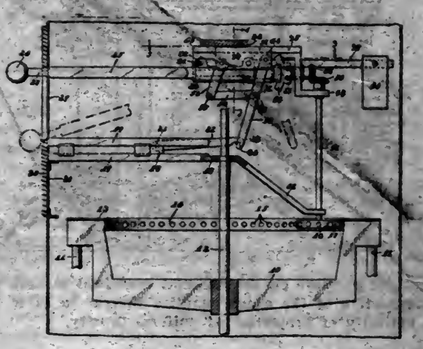


3. A device of the class described, comprising means for fastening to a drawing vehicle, for drawing a trailer, having a beam-clevis connected therewith, a shaft adapted to fasten to said beam-clevis and extending horizontally therefrom for pulling a trailer and for fastening to a ring holding means, a ring holding means, extension rods and expansion springs means for connecting said holding means being adapted for connecting the rear axle of said trailer, U-strap means movably mounted on said shaft, tongue means pivotally fastened thereto adapted for fastening to the front axle of a trailer, tie-rod means for fastening movably adjacent the front end of said U-strap and connecting vertically and laterally moving bifurcated couplings said coupling being pivotally anchored on an arm rigidly attached to the respective knuckles of the front axle of said trailer for movement on said U-strap, tongue member, and front wheels of said trailer, a compression coil spring encircling said shaft within said U-strap being anchored to said shaft in differently adjusted positions by a collar and set-screw, said compression coil spring and its co-acting parts reciprocatingly acting with said expansion springs and their co-acting parts for holding said drawing automobile and said trailer in alined position and to take up the slack and lost motion between them.

1,752,639. ELECTRICAL CIRCUIT. FRANK S. JONES, Seattle, Wash. Filed Feb. 12, 1927. Serial No. 167,729. 3 Claims. (Cl. 171—97.)

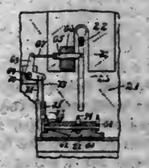
1. In an electrical circuit of the character described, multiple distribution lines one of which is a neutral conductor; a plurality of current consuming means having individual circuit connections with said distribution lines and neutral; a coil and a relay switch operatively disposed between the circuits of said current consuming means, said coil having a line connecting one terminal thereof to the neutral line of one circuit and a line connecting its other terminal to the neutral line of the adjacent circuit and said relay switch being operatively disposed with respect to said coil and disposed in the neutral line of the adjacent circuit, said relay being operable by a current of less magnitude than is required to operate said current consuming means whereby an interruption in the current consuming means circuits which will cause the said means to be inoperative, results in a circuit being established through said means and through said coil to one of the lines of the circuit of the second current consuming means, whereby said coil operates said relay which in turn provides an interruption in the second current consuming means circuits.

1,752,640. SCREEN AND WINDOW. OSCAR KARLSLYST, Sacramento, Calif. Filed June 8, 1928. Serial No. 283,854. 3 Claims. (Cl. 20—42.)



1. In a device of the class described, a frame including stiles and abutments, closures located in a common plane in the frame, an arched spring bearing at its ends on the closures, and means for securing the intermediate portion of the spring to the frame whereby the closures may be moved transversely with respect to each other and slid longitudinally to locate one closure in front of the other, the spring constituting means for pressing the closures against the abutments both when the closures are located in a common plane and when the closures are arranged one in front of the other.

1,752,641. METHOD OF TREATING ALUMINOUS MATERIALS. BENGT RAGNAR FRITIOF KJELLGREN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Aug. 23, 1924. Serial No. 733,852. 18 Claims. (Cl. 23—123.)

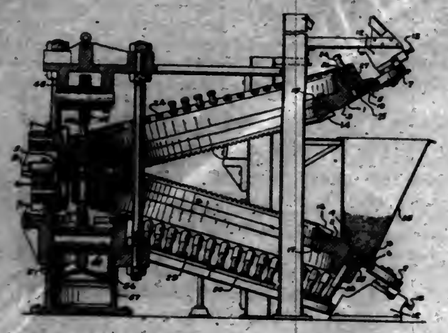


2. A method of treating an aluminous material for the recovery of aluminum sulphate therefrom, comprising the steps of producing ammonium alum, and decomposing the alum to form aluminum sulphate.

1,752,642. TRANSMISSION MECHANISM FOR VENDING OR LIKE MACHINES. LOUIS H. LARSEN, Union City, N. J., and SAMUEL C. MCKEOWN, Mount Vernon, N. Y., assignors to Nixon Vending and Change Making Machines, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 2, 1928. Serial No. 266,798. 16 Claims. (Cl. 74—89.)

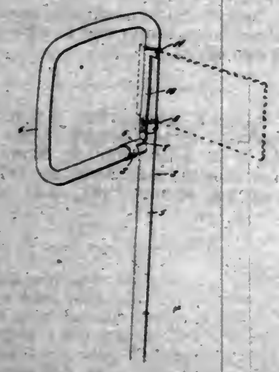
1. Transmission mechanism for the purpose indicated comprising a handle mounted for both rotary and rocking movements; an element to be rotated; and a transversely extending sliding connection between said handle and said element arranged to transmit the rotary movement of said handle to said element and to allow free rocking movement of said handle.

1,752,643. HANDLE-ARRESTING MECHANISM FOR COIN-CONTROLLED MACHINES. LOUIS H. LARSEN, Union City, N. J., and CLIFTON W. NIXON, New York, N. Y. Filed June 21, 1928, Serial No. 287,294, and in Great Britain July 14, 1927. 19 Claims. (Cl. 194—72.)



1. In a coin-controlled machine provided with a longitudinally movable coin holding unit and operating means for moving said unit longitudinally; movable arresting means, separate from said unit, normally limiting the operation of said operating means; and means controlled by said unit, adapted to be operated on the longitudinal movement thereof, controlling the movement of said arresting means to permit full operation of said operating means.

1,752,644. COAL-BRIQUETTE MACHINE. HENRY GRANT LAYNG, deceased, Chicago, Ill., by Rosa Anna Layng, executrix, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed July 19, 1927. Serial No. 206,941. 1 Claim. (Cl. 25—76.)



In a briquetting machine two rotary rings set at an angle to each other, a series of molds formed in one of said rings, a series of oppositely placed pairs of plungers carried on said rings and movable endwise in the molds, a feed hopper adapted to load material into the molds, means for removing excess material, and means for operating the plungers whereby they are caused to exert a uniform pressure on the material contained in each mold irrespective of the exact quantity thereof so as to form a plurality of briquettes of uniform density.

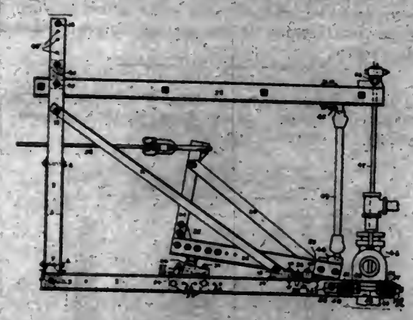
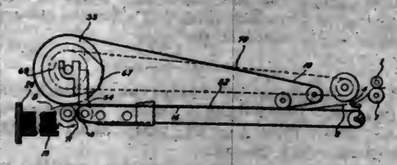
1,752,645. HOLDER. RILEY EDMOND LONG, Clark, Va. Filed Feb. 16, 1929. Serial No. 340,429. 1 Claim. (Cl. 258—3.)



A clamp for train order hoops comprising an angularly bent plate, a collar at each end of the plate for engaging right angular portions of the hoops, and a spring finger extending from one end of the plate for tensional engagement against said hoop for holding a train order, said collars being split with their ends disposed in overlapped relation and thus secured together.

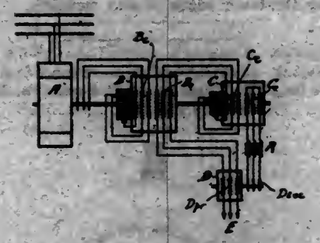
1,752,646. APPARATUS FOR STRENGTHENING THE HEADS OF RAILWAY RAILS. JAKOB LUKASCZYK, Rosenberg, Oberpfalz, Germany. Filed Feb. 25, 1927. Serial No. 170,967, and in Germany Feb. 23, 1926. 1 Claim. (Cl. 266—6.)

Apparatus for strengthening the heads of railway rails, comprising, a supporting device, a longitudinal girder connected with the supporting device, a saddle on said longitudinal girder, a tongs mechanism adapted to grip the upper face of the base and the web of a rail and to press the lower face of the base of the rail firmly against said saddle, and a lifting device adapted to drive said tong mechanism.



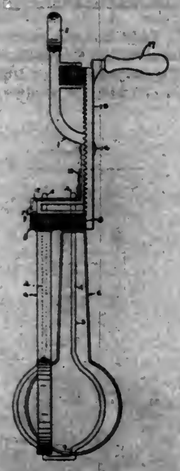
1,752,647. JACK FRAME FOR WELL PUMPS. JOSEPH R. MAHAN and JOHN B. PICARD, Toledo, Ohio, assignors to The National Supply Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 30, 1928. Serial No. 250,422. 10 Claims. (Cl. 74—5.)

1. In a pumping jack, a pair of sills having their opposing sides provided with channels, a clamping jaw secured to the sills and lying transversely thereof and a movable clamping jaw opposite the first jaw and having its ends guided in the said channels, and means for adjusting the second jaw toward and away from the first jaw.



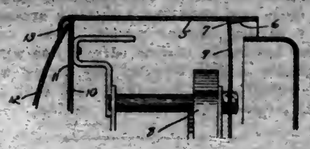
9. In a pumping jack, a pair of sills, a pair of uprights having their lower ends in pivotal relation to the sills, abutments supporting the lower ends of the uprights, and relieving the pivotal connection between the uprights and the sills from the shearing strains, a pumping beam pivotally supported by the beam, and means for adjusting the angle of the uprights with respect to the sills.

1,752,648. FEEDING AND STACKING MACHINE. LOUIS L. MATTHEWS, Westerly, R. I., assignor to Charles B. Maxson and Julian W. Maxson, Westerly, R. I. Filed Aug. 28, 1928. Serial No. 302,611. 11 Claims. (Cl. 271—86.)



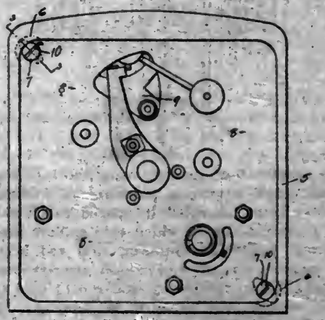
1. A machine for feeding sheet material into a lay-boy and stacking the sheets therein having, in combination, means for feeding the material past a predetermined point, means for feeding the sheets away from the point at increased speed to separate each sheet from the next-following sheet and so as to feed the sheets singly and unrestrained into the lay-boy at a speed so high that the sheets have a tendency to buckle and fly about therein, and a roll cam for slowing down the speed of travel of each sheet in the lay-boy after the head has entered the lay-boy and for feeding the tail of the sheet into the lay-boy before the head of the next-following sheet has entered the lay-boy.

1,752,649. SYSTEM OF CONNECTIONS FOR COMPENSATING. JOHANN OSSANNA and HANS GRAMEL, Munich, and FRITZ HOFMANN, Munich-Talkirchen, Germany, assignors to Siemens-Schuckertwerke Aktiengesellschaft, Berlin-Siemensstadt, Germany, a Corporation of Germany. Filed Dec. 23, 1927, Serial No. 242,198, and in Germany Dec. 15, 1926. 3 Claims. (Cl. 172—274.)



1. In an electric circuit carrying alternating currents of variable frequency in combination, a self-inductive winding, a commutator machine connected in circuit with said winding, an exciter winding on said commutator machine, a transformer connected with its primary winding in circuit with said self-inductive winding so that the current in said primary winding is proportional to the current in said self inductive winding, and means for feeding the exciter winding of the commutator machine from the secondary winding of the transformer, said transformer being dimensioned in size, and being phase-adjusted in its secondary winding so that the voltage, supplied by the transformer to the variable frequency circuit through said commutator machine, compensates the self induction voltage produced in said self-inductive winding.

1,752,650. DEMOUNTABLE EGG BEATER. JULIAN A. PARDINI, San Francisco, and ITALO ANDREOTTI, Nevada City, Calif. Filed June 15, 1927. Serial No. 198,941. 6 Claims. (Cl. 259—131.)



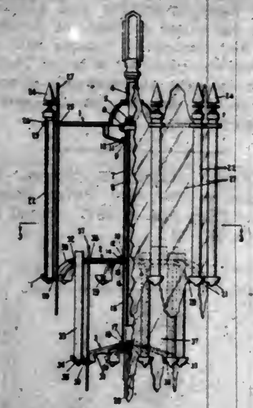
1. In a beater comprising a main body portion, a rotatable beater mechanism, means consisting of a spring actuated latch for detachably connecting said body portion with said beater mechanism, and means in geared co-operation with the beater mechanism mounted on said body portion whereby said beater mechanism may be operated.

1,752,651. CLOCK. WILSON E. PORTER, New Haven, Conn., assignor to The New Haven Clock Co., New Haven, Conn. Filed Apr. 4, 1927. Serial No. 180,708. 4 Claims. (Cl. 58—53.)

1. A clock having a case-unit open at the back, a time-unit adapted to be inserted into the said case-unit through the open back thereof, a forwardly-yielding assembly-member carried by the time-unit at the rear end thereof, and an assembly-abutment located near the rear end of the case-unit and projecting thereinto, the said forwardly-yielding assembly-member and abutment-member being relatively positioned so that the former is sprung over the latter and tensionally engaged with the forward face thereof when the time-unit is in its "home" position in the case-unit, whereby the time-unit is normally held under tension in the case-unit by the said forwardly-yielding assembly-member.

1,752,652. CLOCK. WILSON E. PORTER, New Haven, Conn., assignor to The New Haven Clock Co., New Haven, Conn. Filed Apr. 4, 1927. Serial No. 180,709. 3 Claims. (Cl. 58—53.)

1. A clock, comprising a case-unit, a time-unit, a crystal, a stop-abutment carried by the case-unit for limiting the forward movement of the said crystal and time-unit therein, a forwardly-facing locking-abutment carried by the case-unit for acting in opposition to the said stop-abutment, a free-edged assembly-plate located at the rear end of the time-unit and having capacity for having its edge forwardly-flexed bodily, and a turn-button mounted upon the said flexible free edge of the said plate for engagement with the forwardly-facing locking-abutment of the case-unit when the edge of the said plate is forwardly-flexed for the purpose.



1,752,653. CUTTING TOOL. JOHN E. RIDLER, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Jan. 7, 1926. Serial No. 79,787. 7 Claims. (Cl. 29—98.)

1. A tool of the kind described, comprising an elongated mounting adapted to be inserted in the tool post of a machine, said mounting having a bore extending lengthwise therethrough and a slot opening outwardly from said bore, a tool-carrying member having a head bearing against one end of said mounting and a spindle extending from said head and rotatively arranged within said bore, a cutting element carried by said tool-carrying member and having its cutting edge in line with the axis of said spindle, and a retainer key fitting within said slot and adapted to be forced against said spindle for holding the latter in any adjusted position.

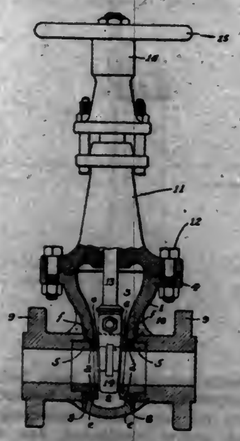
1,752,654. LIGHTING FIXTURE. ISIDOR ROSENBLATT, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Globe Lighting Fixture Mfg. Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., a Copartnership composed of Isidor Rosenblatt, Max Rosenblatt, and Louis Lobel. Filed May 14, 1929. Serial No. 362,953. 9 Claims. (Cl. 240—78.)

6. The combination, in a lighting fixture, of a plurality of spiders, each having a plurality of radiating arms, said spiders being mounted in spaced relation one above another, a central rod on which said spiders are mounted, a cylindrical spacer surrounding said rod between each pair of spiders, the ends of which spacers bear against said spiders, means carried by said rod to hold the spiders rigidly in position, the upper spider having a hole in the end of each of its arms, a socket adjacent the end of each of the arms of the other spiders, there being a hole in each arm of the upper and the intermediate spider which registers with the socket on the end of each arm of the spider next below, rods slidably mounted in said holes and adapted to rest in said sockets, and a plurality of glass panels detachably mounted intermediate said rods.

1,752,655. PACKAGE-DISPLAY DEVICE. JOHN J. SCHEROTTO, Union City, N. J., assignor to Snyder & Black, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 5, 1928. Serial No. 244,701. 1 Claim. (Cl. 211—157.)



A package display device including in combination front and back members of similar shape articulated along their upper edges, there being an opening through each of said members for the reception and support of a package or the like, the lower edges of said members being curved for affording surfaces upon which the device is adapted to rock from side to side when in use, the lower edges of the openings being located well below the center of curvature of their lower rocker edges, a member connecting said edges to form a package support and means for separating the lower edges of said members.

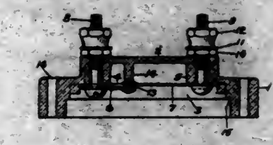
1,752,656. FISHING TOOL. FERDINAND J. SPANG, Butler, Pa. Filed Oct. 2, 1928. Serial No. 309,825. 6 Claims. (Cl. 294—93.)

1. In a fishing tool, the combination with a hollow body, of an elongated bored expansible gripping member having a portion entered in and cooperating with the body, and an expanding member disposed in the gripping member and positioned for actuation by a movement of the body.

1,752,657. GATE VALVE. STANLEY W. SPARKS, Summit, N. J., assignor to The Columbus Machine Company, Columbus, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Nov. 20, 1925. Serial No. 70,208. 4 Claims. (Cl. 251—167.)

1. In a valve, the combination comprising a valve body member having opposing lateral apertures adapted to receive internal bushing members, the outer walls of said valve body being provided with a marginal annular recess, adjacent said apertures, flanged internal bushings fitted into said apertures and projecting outwardly therefrom, hub members fitted to the outer ends of the respective bushings and tapered, metallic compression sealing rings tightly fitted into said recesses and substantially completely filling the same.

1,752,658. LIGHTER. ANICETO R. VISITACION, New York, N. Y., assignor of one-fourth to General William Weigel and one-half to Louis G. Weigel, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 1, 1928. Serial No. 258,217. 4 Claims. (Cl. 67—4.1.)



4. In a device of the class described, a two-part pear shaped metal casing, one of said parts being movable relative to the other part, a container adapted to carry an inflammable liquid and a wick, said container being resiliently held in one of said movable parts, a lug on said container adapted to engage a hook on the other part to hold the parts in closed position, a spring mounted on said other part and normally tending to force the movable part outward, and means to automatically ignite the wick when said movable part is released and forced outward by the spring.

1,752,659. PLATE-REGISTERING MEANS. WILLIAM H. BANZETT, Bergenfield, N. J., assignor to American Lithographic Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 2, 1929. Serial No. 337,044. 6 Claims. (Cl. 101—415.1.)

1. That improvement in plate registering means including in combination a bed, a printing plate thereon, means for securing one end of the plate to the bed, a plurality of clamps mounted and adapted for engaging and stretching the other end of the plate on said bed, one of said clamps being constrained against transverse movement, another of said clamps being mounted for transverse movement and a slit in said plate extending inwardly of said plate away from its transverse edge, said slit being located between said clamps, whereby, by moving the transversely movable clamp away from the first mentioned clamp, those portions of said plate on either side of said slit are separated.

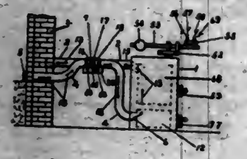
1,752,660. LIGHTNING ARRESTER. LEON S. BRACH, East Orange, N. J. Filed Feb. 14, 1929. Serial No. 339,755. 7 Claims. (Cl. 175—30.)

1. In a lightning arrester, a pair of electrodes anchored at one end and having their free ends arranged in overlapping relationship, and a circular piece of carborundum supported by and between said overlapping ends which are formed to contact with the carborundum over a certain portion of its surface and then gradually deflect from the carborundum to form auxiliary air gaps around the carborundum.

1,752,661. ELEVATOR-CAB CONSTRUCTION. CHESTER C. CAMPBELL, West Orange, N. J., assignor to Otis Elevator Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 8, 1928. Serial No. 298,360. 6 Claims. (Cl. 189—1.)

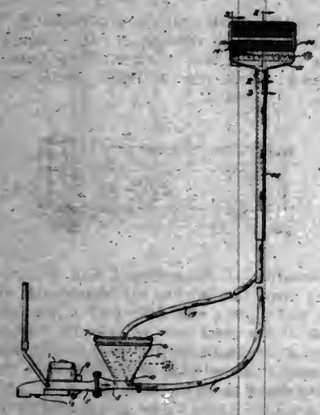
1. An elevator cab comprising a wall, a strip fastened on the face thereof parallel to the bottom edge and spaced therefrom and a plate with a lip portion bent at an angle to the face of the plate secured over the bottom portion of the face of the wall between the bottom edge of the wall and said strip, said lip portion abutting the face of the wall just below the metal strip.

1,752,662. DECORATIVE LIGHTING OUTFIT. REUBEN ECKSTEIN, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 1, 1928. Serial No. 323,116. 4 Claims. (Cl. 173—340.)



1. In a portable electric lighting outfit of the character described formed with flexible conductors having insulating coverings, a lamp socket comprising an insulating casing, a contact shell mounted in the casing, a center contact insulated from said shell, resilient contact members connected to the said shell and center contact, prongs piercing the insulating coverings electrically connecting the conductors to said resilient contact members and means for clamping the socket to the conductors.

1,752,663. HEAT-CONTROL APPARATUS. JOHN J. FAGAN, Bayonne, N. J. Filed Jan. 20, 1929. Serial No. 333,946. 5 Claims. (Cl. 236—16.)



1. An apparatus of the class described, comprising a manifold pipe box connecting the combustion air pipe and the smoke pipe, a door within the manifold pipe box, electric means for moving the door to alternate open and closed positions within the said combustion air pipe, an electric circuit for such means and means for controlling the circuit automatically from a distant point.

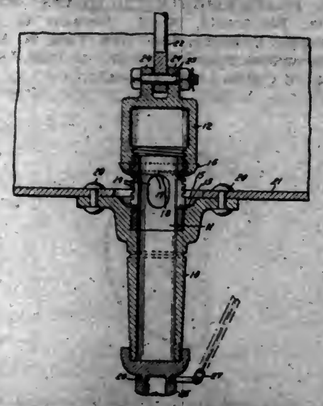
1,752,664. APPARATUS FOR CLEANING WALLS. GEORGE J. FORCINE, Lakewood, Ohio. Filed July 27, 1929. Serial No. 381,577. 4 Claims. (Cl. 51—8.)

1. A cleaning apparatus comprising a hopper for containing cleaning material, a head having a mouth for application to the surface being cleaned and discharge and return passages communicating with said hopper and mouth, spring shutters at the mouth, adapted to be opened by pressure of the head against said surface, and means to cause a blast of air through said passages.

1,752,665. PROCESS FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF SENSITIZED VELVET PAPER FOR PHOTOGRAPHICAL USES. DANIEL FRIEDLÄNDER, Brussels, Belgium, assignor to Messrs. A. Meursing and E. J. Gratama, Amsterdam, Netherlands. Filed July 7, 1927, Serial No. 204,152, and in Germany July 7, 1926. 1 Claim. (Cl. 91—69.)

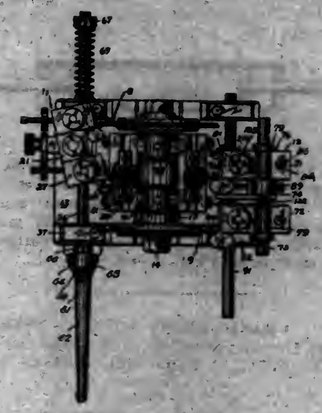
The process of making sensitised velvet paper for photographic use consisting in coating a well-sized sheet of paper with an adhesive material that does not readily dissolve in water then spreading over the surface a fine fibrous organic dust, drying the aforesaid material and removing the excess dust and finally sensitising the paper over the dull velvety surface thus produced.

1,752,666. PROTECTIVE SYSTEM FOR TRANSMISSION CIRCUITS. FRAZER W. GAY, Newark, N. J. Filed Sept. 19, 1928. Serial No. 306,898. 9 Claims. (Cl. 172—287.)



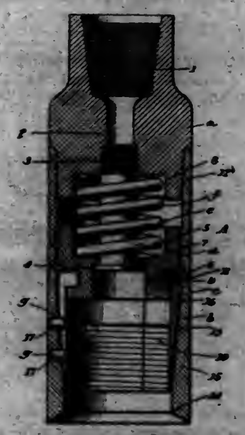
1. In an electric power distribution system, a three phase dynamo, a circuit for said dynamo, a three phase transformer, said transformer having a three phase star connected low voltage winding connected in said dynamo circuit and a three phase high voltage winding with a grounded neutral, and conducting means connected to the neutral of said transformer low voltage winding causing the free flow of triple harmonic current from said neutral.

5. In an electric power distribution system, a three phase transformer having a plurality of star connected windings, one of said windings having its neutral solidly grounded, a dynamo, a circuit for said dynamo, said dynamo circuit including another of said transformer windings, and impedance means in said dynamo circuit, said impedance means offering a substantially negligible impedance to three phase current flowing in said winding having its neutral grounded but acting to limit the single phase current induced in said latter winding and flowing to ground.



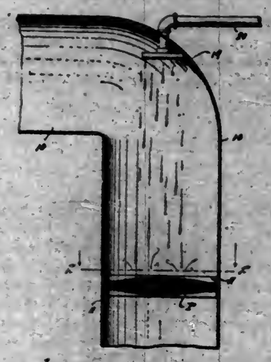
9. In an electric power distribution system, a three phase dynamo, a circuit for said dynamo, a three phase transformer, said transformer having a three phase star connected low voltage winding connected in said dynamo circuit and a three phase high voltage winding with a grounded neutral, and conducting means in shunt across each phase winding of said low voltage transformer winding, said conducting means serving to freely pass triple harmonic current.

1,752,667. VALVE. JOSEPH L. HUTCHINGS, Olean, N. Y. Filed Nov. 2, 1927. Serial No. 230,419. 2 Claims. (Cl. 251—29.)



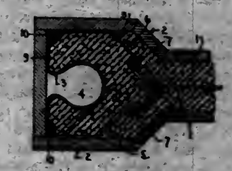
1. A valve comprising a substantially tubular body member having an annular recess formed in an end thereof, a portion of the outer wall of said recess being formed to provide a valve seat, an externally threaded nipple projecting from the recessed end portion of said body member, an internally threaded closure member mounted on said nipple for movement into contact with said body member, said closure member having a surface for engaging said valve seat, and an annular row of teeth carried by said closure member and adapted to enter said annular recess as the closure member is moved into contact with the body member.

1,752,668. KEY DUPLICATOR. EDWARD JOHNSON, Oakland, Calif. Filed Sept. 10, 1925. Serial No. 55,450. 5 Claims. (Cl. 90—13.2.)



1. In a key duplicator, a rotatable disc cutter having a cutting surface provided thereon, a key-blank support arranged for movement in a fixed plane to permit the presentation of the bit portion of the blank against said cutting surface to cause the notching thereof, means arranged for adjusting the angular relation of said support to said cutting surface whereby said cutting surface will be maintained in adjusted angular relation to the finished portions of the surface of a notch, and means manually operable in a fixed vertical plane perpendicular to said first plane for disposing the uncut portions of said key blank against said cutting surface.

1,752,669. FISHING TOOL. WINFIELD S. JONES, Brea, Calif., assignor of fifty per cent to Elmore D. Jones, Long Beach, Calif. Filed June 4, 1928. Serial No. 282,791. 3 Claims. (Cl. 294—102.)



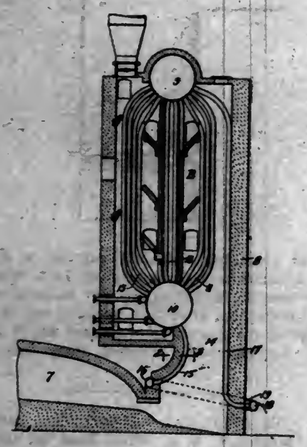
1. In a fishing tool, a bowl, a sub connected therewith, an annular collar within the bowl, a circulation tube secured to the sub and carrying said collar when the collar is in one position, a coil spring surrounding the circulation tube and lying between the sub and the said collar, and slip members arranged in annular formation within said bowl and carried by the collar.

1,752,670. HEAT-ABSORBING MEDIUM. RUSSELL B. KINGMAN, Orange, N. J., assignor to Metal Textile Corporation, West Orange, N. J., a Corporation of Rhode Island. Filed July 1, 1927. Serial No. 202,841. 3 Claims. (Cl. 257—263.)

1. A heat absorbing medium permeable to fluids, comprising a spongiform body consisting in a mass of thin ribbon-like metallic filaments the flat faces of which provide a maximum area of contact surface, said mass having enclosing outer cover sections of knitted flat metallic wire, said cover sections being stitched along their marginal edges.

1,752,671. STRUCTURAL ELEMENT. HERBERT M. KNIGHT, Montclair, N. J. Filed June 24, 1927. Serial No. 201,075. 5 Claims. (Cl. 72—106.)

1. In a pre-cast slab the combination of a plate as a key-way forming means, lugs on said means, a reinforcing element, and means engaging said lugs and said element.



1,752,672. PISTON. EMIL KOTTUSCH, Detroit, Mich. Filed June 15, 1928. Serial No. 285,548. 3 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)

1. A piston including a skirt portion formed with outwardly yielding tongues integral with the skirt at one end and with said tongues extending in a direction at right angles to the skirt axis, means adjacent the free end of each tongue for detachably holding said tongue with its free end depressed inwardly, said means comprising a removable pin extending transversely of the free end portion of each tongue and with said pin extending parallel with the skirt axis to engage said piston at points above and below said tongue end.

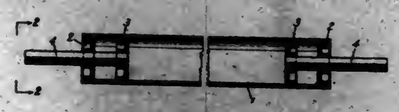
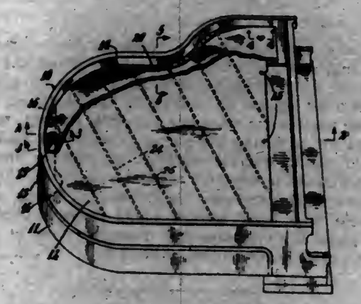
1,752,673. WASTE-HEAT BOILER. GEORGE T. LADD, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Ladd Water Tube Boiler Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 20, 1926. Serial No. 97,504. 1 Claim. (Cl. 122—7.)



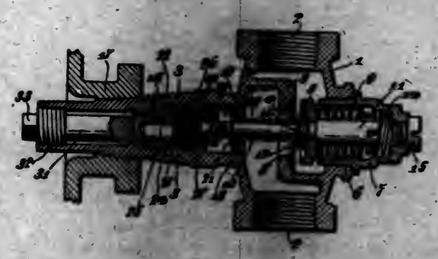
In combination, a furnace from which waste heat is to be derived, an off-take therefor having a throat, a boiler in the off-take above the throat including an upper drum and a lower drum and connecting vertically disposed tubes, downcomer tubes within the throat and leading from the lower drum downwardly, a header for said tubes located exterior of the throat, upcomer tubes within the off-take connected to the upper drum at one end, a header to which the other ends of said tubes are connected, and means for connecting the headers.

1,752,674. CHECK PROTECTOR. MICHAEL T. LAPPIN, New York, N. Y. Filed June 14, 1929. Serial No. 370,785. 5 Claims. (Cl. 101—24.)



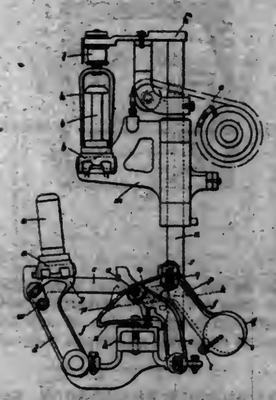
1. A check protector comprising a pair of co-operating abrading rollers between which a check is adapted to be passed, a frame for supporting said rollers, one of said rollers being tubular and adapted to surround the body of a writing implement and rotate about the same.

1,752,675. KILN ROLLER. OSCAR E. LARSON, Lancaster, Ohio, assignor to The Hermann Manufacturing Company, Lancaster, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed May 17, 1927. Serial No. 192,127. 2 Claims. (Cl. 193—37.)



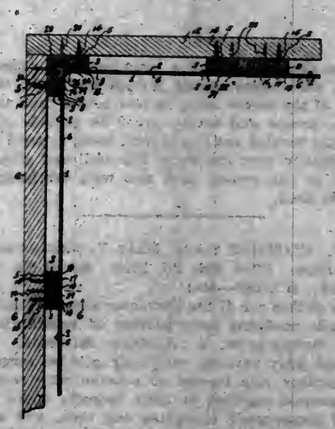
1. In a roller structure, a body portion having a hollow end, a stub shaft forming a journal for such body portion and a plurality of spaced resilient members U-shaped in cross-section for embracing said journal and fitting within the hollow end of the body portion to hold said stub shaft in such hollow end.

1,752,676. GRAND-PIANO-BODY CONSTRUCTION. CHARLES LOITSCH, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 26, 1925. Serial No. 64,717. 1 Claim. (Cl. 84—184.)



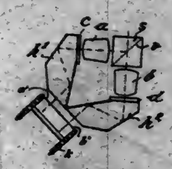
In a grand piano, a lateral extension projecting from a vertical portion of a cross beam secured across a piano frame, and a string plate supported on the said lateral extension so that vibrations from the string plate are indirectly transmitted to the piano frame.

1,752,677. AUTOMATIC GAS SHUT-OFF VALVE. LUTHER D. LOVEKIN, Wynnewood, Pa. Filed Mar. 8, 1928. Serial No. 259,979. 10 Claims. (Cl. 137—162.)



2. An automatic gas shut-off valve, comprising a valve casing having a passageway therethrough, a valve in said casing for controlling the flow through said passageway, means normally urging said valve to closed position, a tubular extension on said valve casing, means for adjustably mounting a fusible disc in said extension, a rod interposed between said valve and said fusible disc and operating to hold said valve in open position, and a partition between the valve passageway and the interior of the said extension.

1,752,678. DOFFING MECHANISM FOR SPINNING, TWISTING, AND LIKE MACHINES. JOHN PRINGLE MACKIE, Belfast, Ireland, assignor to James Mackie and Sons, Limited, Belfast, Ireland, a British Company. Filed Aug. 29, 1928, Serial No. 302,808, and in Great Britain Nov. 10, 1927. 6 Claims. (Cl. 118—18.)



1. A doffing motion for spinning, twisting and like machines, comprising in combination, a pair of interchangeable bobbin rails, a support for same comprising a rocking frame pivotally mounted on the machine framework, mechanism for swinging said rocking frame so as to carry said rails between the forward or doffing position and the rear position, and a pair of pivoted supporting members operatively related to said rocking frame so as to receive said bobbin rails in their rear position and to retain same at their highest position, clear of said rocking frame when the latter is in its rear position.

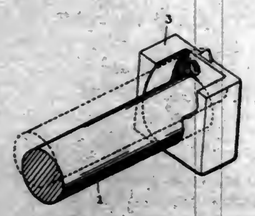
1,752,679. DECORATIVE WALL STRUCTURE. CHARLES E. MAIER, Newark, N. J. Filed Nov. 29, 1927. Serial No. 236,442. 4 Claims. (Cl. 72—19.)

1. A wall structure comprising a backing structure, a plurality of aligned sheet metal panels having offset securing elements fastened to said backing structure, said aligned panels having intermediate spaces, a cementitious material in said spaces, anchoring means in said backing structure embedded under said cementitious material, and an intermediate panel extending across the space between said adjacent panels and having lateral anchoring elements embedded in said cementitious material.

1,752,680. OPTICAL MEANS FOR PRODUCING COLOR CINEMATOGRAPHIC PICTURES. KARL MARTIN and PAUL TIETZE, Rathenow, Germany. Filed Apr. 19, 1927, Serial No. 185,033, and in Germany Apr. 24, 1926. 1 Claim. (Cl. 88—1.)

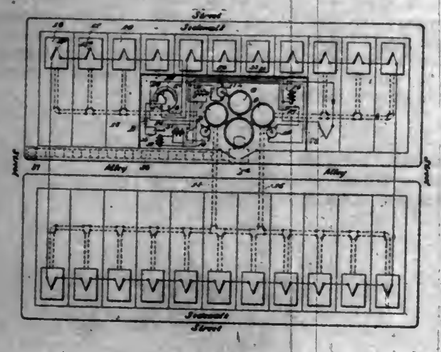
In a device of the class described, a ray-dividing device comprising a partly light-pervious mirror, a pair of objectives arranged upon axes perpendicular to one another and positioned so that one objective receives directly the rays reflected from said mirror, while the other objective receives directly the rays transmitted through said mirror, means for passing a film perpendicular at its midline to the plane of said mirror, and optical means for turning the rays from said objectives into parallel contiguous paths registering respectively with the two halves of said film.

1,752,681. FEEDING AND STACKING METHOD AND MACHINE. CHARLES B. MAXSON, Westerly, R. I., assignor of one-half to Julian W. Maxson, Westerly, R. I. Filed Aug. 28, 1928. Serial No. 302,566. 15 Claims. (Cl. 271—76.)



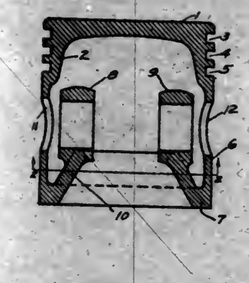
1. A method of feeding sheet material into a lay-boy and stacking the sheets therein comprising feeding the head of each sheet into the lay-boy unrestrained at a speed so high that if the whole sheet were delivered unrestrained into the lay-boy at the said speed the sheet would have a tendency to buckle and fly about therein, and engaging the tail of each sheet after its head has entered the lay-boy unrestrained to slow down the speed of travel of the sheet in the lay-boy.

1,752,682. ROLLER ATTACHMENT. GRANT W. MCCONNELL, Dorset, Ohio. Filed Feb. 9, 1923. Serial No. 618,107. 3 Claims. (Cl. 301—39.)



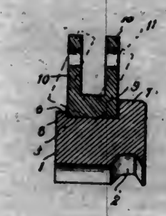
2. The combination with the rim of a traction wheel and a tubular roller sleeved thereover, said rim provided with projecting cleats on its outer periphery, of spaced angular lugs secured to the inner surface of said roller against which one edge of said rim rests, clamping means upon the other side of said rim, wedge members inserted between said cleats and roller, said wedge members saddled over said projecting cleats, and bolts passing through said lugs, clamping means and wedges.

1,752,683. SOCKET BLOCK FOR POLES. JOSEPH H. MEAGHER, Rochester, N. Y. Filed Aug. 22, 1928. Serial No. 301,340. 1 Claim. (Cl. 248—20.)



A block having a socket opening in the side thereof and extending to the top thereof, the lower portion of the socket being a concave semi-cylindrical in shape, said semi-cylindrical portion ending with a shoulder on one side and on the other side ending with a concave merging therewith of longer radius than the radius of the lower sockets and concentric with said shoulder, the first named side having a concave above the shoulder of substantially the same radius as the lower concave and sloping away therefrom, the opening at the top being of a width substantially the same as the diameter of the lowest concave, the socket being adapted to receive a pole through the top thereof by a twisting movement around either side of the opening and being adapted to receive a pole in the lowest concave by a twisting movement around the shoulder.

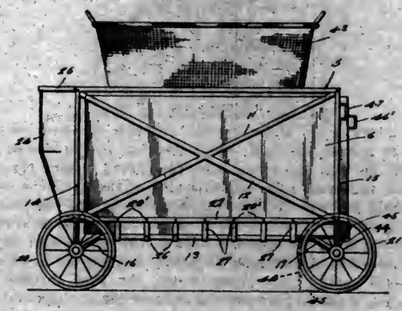
1,752,684. CENTRAL HEATING SYSTEM. EDWARD SHERWOOD MEAD, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed July 12, 1927. Serial No. 205,161. 5 Claims. (Cl. 237—13.)



1. In combination, a central heating plant, a plurality of buildings, means for conducting heating fluids from said central heating plant to said buildings, temperature responsive means in each of said buildings, means controlled by all of said temperature responsive means in accordance with the average temperature in all said buildings and means controlled by said last mentioned means for automatically controlling the operation of said central heating plant.

1,752,685. PISTON. COURTNEY N. MITCHELL, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Mar. 16, 1928. Serial No. 262,078. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)

1. A piston having a cylindrical body, a conical section adjoining the open end of said cylindrical body, and wrist pin bosses attached to the portion of said conical section farthest removed from the cylindrical body of said piston.

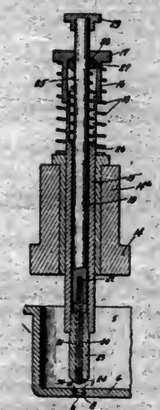


1,752,686. LOCOMOTIVE BRAKE SHOE. EDWARD NAGLE, New Philadelphia, Ohio, assignor of one-half to Charles C. Davis, Uhrichsville, Ohio. Filed June 14, 1928. Serial No. 285,416. 1 Claim. (Cl. 188—254.)

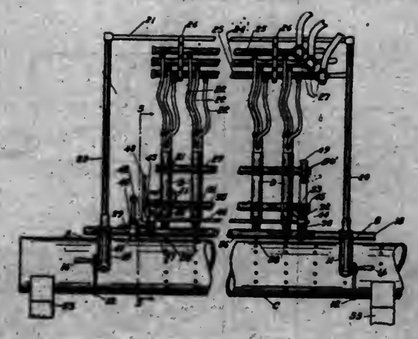
A brake shoe comprising a body having a recess in its rear face, said recess having beveled end walls, the outer side wall of the recess being of less height than the inner side wall thereof and being curved to provide a stop, a head having beveled ends, said head being capable of being moved laterally over the outer side wall and stop for engagement in the recess, said end wall overhanging the ends of the head.

1,752,687. CLOTHES CAR. MARY V. NEWHOUSER, Anadarko, Okla. Filed Feb. 26, 1929. Serial No. 342,868. 3 Claims. (Cl. 280—50.)

1. In a clothes car of the character described comprising a receptacle confining body portion of substantially rectangular configuration, a receptacle detachably confined within said body portion, said body portion formed of a pair of unitary side frames of substantially rectangular contour secured together at their opposite upper ends by a pair of transversely extending end rails, and said side frames secured together adjacent the bottoms thereof by a strap co-extensive with said frames and the forward end of said body portion, a plurality of spaced, transversely extending, substantially U-shaped cross bars secured to the sides of the strap to form a cradle for reinforcing the bottom of said body portion, the bottoms of said pair of side frames being upset with respect to the lower extremities of the ends thereof to form angularly disposed axle supporting brackets integral with said side frames at the opposite ends thereof, and a pair of axles extending transversely of and rigidly secured to adjacent axle brackets at the opposite ends of said frames, a pair of wheels journaled on the free ends of each axle laterally of said side frames, a plurality of longitudinally extending, substantially yoke-shaped spaced bars having the opposite legs thereof rigidly supported on said axles and the bight portions thereof supported on the cross bars of said cradle, and a plurality of longitudinally extending spaced slats secured to and extending between said end rails to provide a support for a second receptacle.

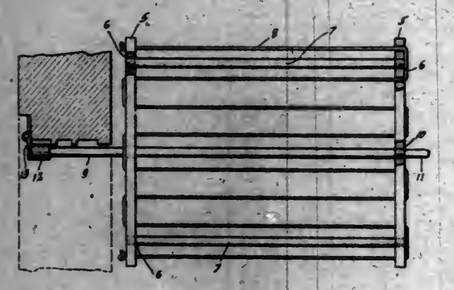


1,752,688. WINDOW REGULATOR. STANLEY W. NICHOLSON, Toledo, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Dura Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Feb. 23, 1926. Serial No. 90,106. 3 Claims. (Cl. 268—126.)



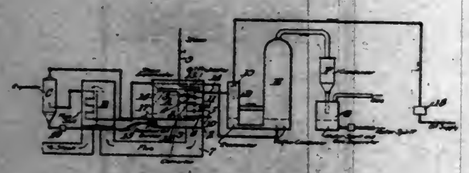
1. The combination of a frame having an opening and a chamber adjacent said opening, a metallic panel forming one wall of said chamber and having a depressed portion with a laterally offset wall, a movable closure for the opening, an arm connected to said closure and located adjacent one side of said wall, and a drive mechanism connected to said arm and located in said depressed portion at the opposite side of said wall.

1,752,689. METHOD AND TOOL FOR CLEANING SPINNERETS. OLOF OHLSON, West Newton, Mass. Filed June 17, 1925. Serial No. 37,761. 9 Claims. (Cl. 18—8.)



1. The method of cleaning the spinning orifice in a device for forming filaments, which consists in first alining a guide with the spinning orifice, and then passing a cleaning rod in conducted engagement with said guide through the alined orifice.

1,752,690. SLOT CUTTER. FREDERICK A. OST, Inglewood, Calif., assignor, by mesne assignments, to National Tool and Metals, Inc., Torrance, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed June 25, 1928. Serial No. 288,222. 9 Claims. (Cl. 266—23.)

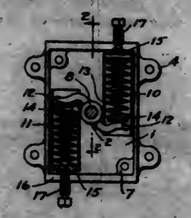


1. A device for cutting slots in a metal object, comprising, in combination, a portable carriage adapted to be adjusted astride the object to be slotted, means for holding the carriage and the object in position, an auxiliary carriage slidable longitudinally on the portable carriage, a number of cutting torches in series formation longitudinally of the object mounted upon said auxiliary carriage with their orifice tips in juxtaposition to the object to be slotted, and means for moving said auxiliary carriaage to permit the jets issuing from said tips cutting longitudinal slots in said object.

1,752,691. CLOTHES RACK. HERMAN PINTEL, Arlington, N. J. Filed Dec. 14, 1928. Serial No. 325,970. 1 Claim. (Cl. 211—96.)

In a clothes rack of the class described, a frame consisting of a pair of end bars having unthreaded alined base openings and further having adjacent their ends threaded openings, the threads of one bar extending in, reverse direction to those of the other bar, a pair of side bars reversely threaded at their opposite ends and adapted for simultaneous threaded engagement within the openings of said end bars, and means associated with said frame to facilitate the attachment of clothes thereto, comprising a flexible strand having its opposite ends anchored to the frame and its intermediate portion passed through the unthreaded opening and extending back and forth between the bars, said side bars constituting the means for tightening the strand, and an elongated supporting bar slidably extending through one of the end bars and threaded through the other end bar and terminating at one end in a reduced handle forming portion and having means at its opposite end for hingedly mounting same on a support.

1,752,692. PROCESS FOR THE PRODUCTION OF GAS AND AROMATIC HYDROCARBONS FROM HEAVY HYDROCARBON OILS. ALEXANDER S. RAMAGE, Detroit, Mich., assignor to The Ozonide Corporation, a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Dec. 23, 1925. Serial No. 77,850. 7 Claims. (Cl. 196—52.)

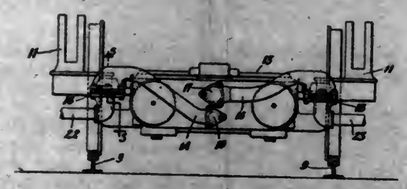


2. Process for the production of combustible gas and aromatic hydrocarbons which comprises contacting the vapors of normally liquid paraffin hydrocarbons admixed with a relatively small proportion of steam with ferric oxid at an elevated temperature, and thereafter contacting the resulting gases admixed with more steam with finely divided iron at a higher temperature.

1,752,693. OXIDIZED RESIN AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME. ALEXANDER S. RAMAGE, Detroit, Mich. Filed Jan. 12, 1926. Serial No. 80,827. 2 Claims. (Cl. 134—26.)

1. Process of making an oxidized resin, comprising subjecting colophony in solution in a liquid hydrocarbon to the action of ozonized air, the solvent being a non-aromatic hydrocarbon in which the oxidized resin is substantially insoluble.

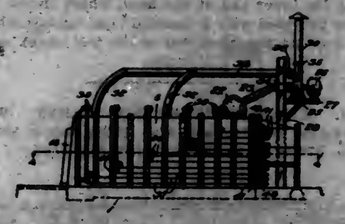
1,752,694. REBOUND ABSORBER. LEONARD G. RECCHIA, Seattle, Wash. Filed Feb. 12, 1927. Serial No. 167,666. 1 Claim. (Cl. 267—20.)



In a device for absorbing the rebound of motor vehicle springs, a case adaptable to be attached to one side of the spring, an arm extending from the casing, means for connecting the arm to the opposite side of the spring, a member with offset projections at each side in the said casing and rigidly connected to the said arm, compression springs extending from the opposite ends of the casing and engaging the offset projections at points beyond the center of the said casing, sleeves in which the said springs are mounted, washers between the ends of the springs and the ends of the said casing, and adjusting nuts engaging the said washers to adjust the compression of the said springs.

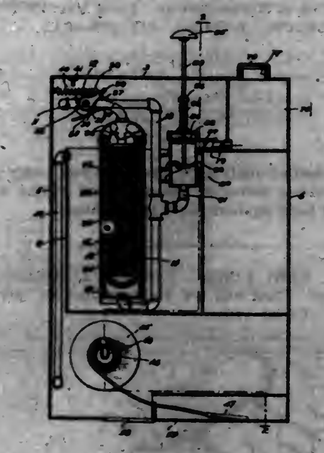
1,752,695. PACKAGED INFLATED PLAYING BALL AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. MILTON B. REACH, Springfield, Mass., assignor to A. G. Spalding & Bros., Chicopee, Mass. Filed Apr. 19, 1928. Serial No. 271,838. 2 Claims. (Cl. 206—46.)

1. A method of reducing the tension of the elastic components of an elastic inflated playing ball which consists in applying thereto a covering composed of a tape wound thereon under tension.



1,752,696. FLEXIBLE CONNECTION FOR LOCOMOTIVE BOOSTERS. MONTAGUE H. ROBERTS, Englewood, N. J., and FRANK R. PETERS, New York, N. Y., assignors to Franklin Railway Supply Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 28, 1926. Serial No. 157,512. 4 Claims. (Cl. 105—47.)

1. In a flexible connection for a booster steam line, the combination of a steam conduit secured to the rear of the booster engine and a downwardly opening socket member cast integral with said conduit through which the connection is made.



1,752,697. APPARATUS FOR ANNEALING. HARRY M. ROBERTSON, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Oct. 22, 1927. Serial No. 228,082. 9 Claims. (Cl. 263—39.)

1. In apparatus of the class described, the combination of an annealing chamber having a flooring for charged pots, a fire box disposed at one end of and above said flooring for supplying heat to said chamber and a charging opening formed at the opposite end of said chamber, exhaust conduits having their inlets in the lower portion and along the opposite sides of said annealing chamber from said fire box to said charging opening, and power driven means connected with said conduits for exhausting the products of combustion from said annealing chamber.

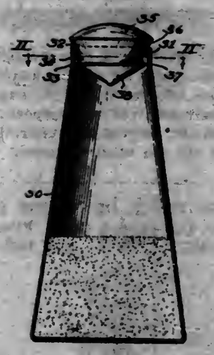
1,752,698. WATER HEATING AND DISPENSING MEANS. JOHN HAROLD ROGERS and THOMAS CONCHA, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 7, 1928. Serial No. 275,738. 3 Claims. (Cl. 128—227.)

1. A water heating and dispensing apparatus comprising a water receptacle, means for supplying water to said receptacle and for heating the water so supplied, means permitting overflow of water from said receptacle until the water in the receptacle reaches the desired temperature, outlet means connected adjacent the bottom of said receptacle and including a hose wound upon a self-winding reel, and means operable upon unwinding of said hose from said reel, to simultaneously shut off the supply of water and the heating means therefor.



1,752,699. COMBINATION SHOE AND HOSIERY STAND. JOSEPH C. ROSS, Memphis, Tex. Filed Nov. 28, 1928. Serial No. 321,417. 1 Claim. (Cl. 211—134.)

In a display cabinet, vertically disposed spaced walls, a top connecting said walls, reversely inclined vertically spaced parallel shelves also connecting said walls and defining vertically spaced compartments open at opposite ends and having closed top, bottom and side walls, said shelves extending outwardly and downwardly from the vertical center of the spaced walls for an appreciable distance beyond the opposite edges of the walls, and stops extending upwardly along the outer edges of the shelves.

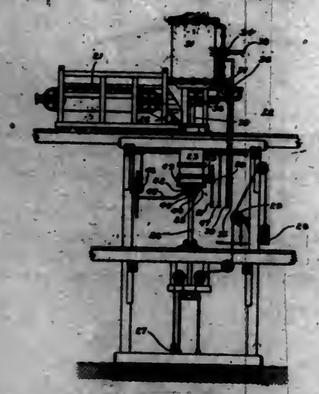
1,752,700. SELF OPENING AND CLOSING CONTAINER CAP. RAYMOND R. RUNDELL, Miami, Fla. Filed May 5, 1927. Serial No. 188,951. 3 Claims. (Cl. 65—57.)

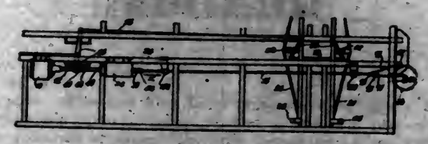


1. The combination of a container or receptacle having a circular opening with an annular edge in the top and a plurality of separated projections extending from the interior wall of said container and adjacent to and below the top edge of said circular opening, a gravity closing or opening cap or closure having an outer substantially conical surface passing within the circular opening and having its upper section adapted to be seated on the top edge of said opening and an inner substantially conical surface having its apex projecting towards the bottom of the container and its sides inclined towards the interior walls of said circular opening, and means on said cap or closure engaging said projections for retaining said cap or closure within the opening when said container or receptacle is inverted and said outer conical surface is unseated from the top edge to provide an outlet for the contents of the container.

1,752,701. AIRFOIL CONSTRUCTION. HARRY H. SEMMES, Chevy Chase, Md., assignor to Bendix Aviation Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 19, 1929. Serial No. 372,156. 18 Claims. (Cl. 244—31.)

1. An airfoil comprising a plurality of curvilinear shaped ribs having a wave-like outline, the wave outline of each rib being opposite in direction to that of any adjacent rib and surfacing material supported upon said ribs.

1,752,702. APPARATUS FOR MANUFACTURING HOLLOW TILE. ROY A. SHIPLEY, Canton, Ohio, assignor to National Fire Proofing Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed July 9, 1927. Serial No. 204,485. 2 Claims. (Cl. 25—17.)

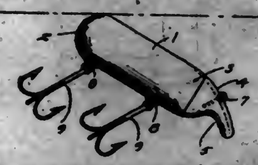


1. In a molding machine, a die, a support placed at a distance therefrom, means for forcing material through the die to fill the space between it and the support, means for controlling the movement of the support after the space is filled, and means for forcing the material confined in the space away from the die upon movement of the support.

1,752,703. HAND DRILL OR SCREW DRIVER. HERBERT E. SIMSON, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 12, 1928. Serial No. 284,868. 1 Claim. (Cl. 145—61.)

In a rotary tool of the class described, a handle provided in its forward portion with an axial bore, a sleeve seated in said bore and projecting from the end thereof, a tool shank mounted for rotation in said sleeve, the inner end of said sleeve being countersunk, a head formed on the inner end of said shank and bearing against the countersunk end of the sleeve the outer face of which head is rounded and a thrust bearing member seated in the handle at the inner end of the bore, which thrust bearing member is provided with a rounded head against which the rounded head on the inner end of the tool shank normally engages.

1,752,704. RAILWAY BRAKE EQUIPMENT. WILLIAM C. SLEEMAN, Birmingham, Ala. Filed May 9, 1928. Serial No. 276,811. 11 Claims. (Cl. 188—107.)

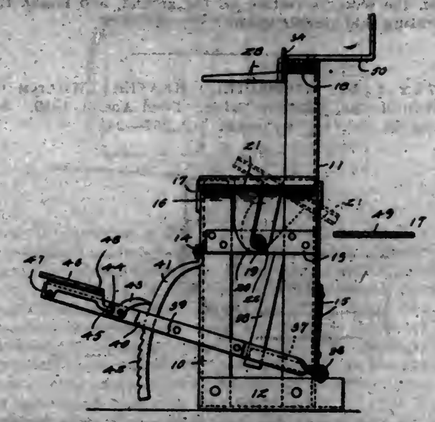


2. In combination with the brakes of a railroad car having both power actuated means and manually actuated means for applying the brakes, an automatically engageable and disengageable connection between said two means.

1,752,705. METHOD OF APPLYING LABELS TO PACKAGES. ELMER L. SMITH, Longmeadow, Mass., assignor to Package Machinery Company, Springfield, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 17, 1928. Serial No. 262,509. 5 Claims. (Cl. 216—62.)

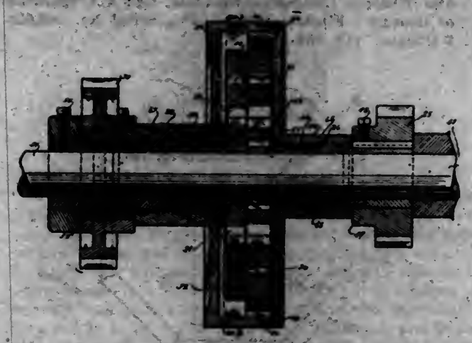
1. A method of applying a label to a wax paper package which comprises softening the wax, and rolling an adhesive coated label against the softened area.

1,752,706. FISH LURE. ANTHONY J. SOBECKI, South Bend, Ind. Filed Aug. 16, 1928. Serial No. 300,067. 3 Claims. (Cl. 43—46.)



1. A fish lure, comprising an elongated buoyant body of cylindrical cross section and substantially the same diameter throughout, said body having a head at one end in the form of a broad curved tongue having a convex surface provided with a longitudinally extending valley, the entire tongue lying in the area defined by a cross section of the body, hook members carried by the body, and means for attaching a line to the convex side of the head.

1,752,707. BOX-LIDDING BENCH. RALPH A. SQUIER, Tieton, Wash. Filed Apr. 25, 1929. Serial No. 358,105. 5 Claims. (Cl. 100—57.)



4. In treadle mechanism for use with box lidding apparatus and in combination with an oscillatable treadle, a ratchet segment associated therewith, a dog carried by the treadle for coaction with said segment and having a tail, and a pedal pivoted upon the treadle intermediate its ends and operatively engaging the tail of the dog to oscillate the same, whereby the dog is disengaged from the rack upon application of pressure to one end of the pedal and is moved into engagement with the rack upon an application of pressure to the opposite end thereof, the first named end of the pedal having a projecting arm at one side thereof, the pivotal connection of the pedal to the treadle lever being more nearly adjacent the second named than the first named end thereof, whereby the weight of the treadle normally tends to maintain the dog out of engagement with the rack.

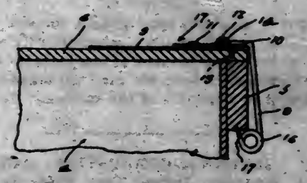
1,752,708. DIFFERENTIAL MOTION FOR ROVING FRAMES AND THE LIKE. WALTER C. STEWART, Gastonia, N. C., assignor to Emanuel Frohman, Gastonia, N. C. Filed Sept. 6, 1929. Serial No. 390,785. 4 Claims. (Cl. 118—33.)

4. In a differential motion for roving frames and the like, a housing, a sleeve mounted within the housing and having a disk supported by said sleeve within the housing, an internal gear in said housing, a sleeve and spur gear mounted within the housing and projecting outwardly from said housing, a gear mounted on the last named sleeve, a plurality of pinions mounted on the disk which is integral with one of the sleeves, a portion of said pinions being adapted to mesh both with the spur gear and other pinions, and the other pinions being adapted to mesh with the internal gear in the housing.



1,752,709. GASOLINE-FILTERING SYSTEM AND APPARATUS. BERRY VINCENT STOLL, Louisville, Ky., assignor to Stoll Oil Refining Company, Louisville, Ky., a Corporation of Kentucky. Filed Mar. 14, 1929. Serial No. 347,059. 4 Claims. (Cl. 196—41.)

1. Apparatus for producing finished gasoline comprising refining means including a still and a condenser connected thereto and having a discharge pipe, a filter having its inlet connected with the discharge pipe of said condenser whereby the gasoline will be delivered directly from the condenser to the filter, an outlet pipe leading from said filter, a mixer having the outlet pipe of said filter connected thereto, an outlet pipe for said mixer, and a storage reservoir having the outlet pipe of the mixer connected thereto.

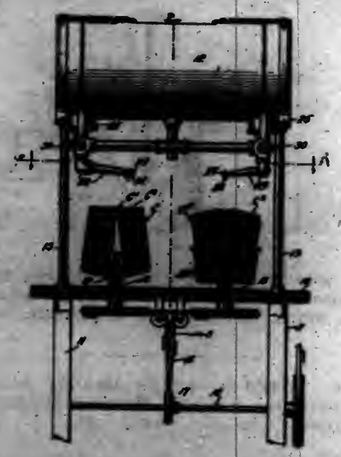
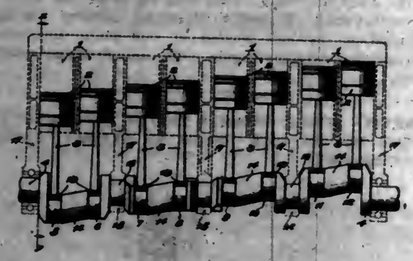
1,752,710. COVER-RETAINING MEANS. REYNOLD A. SWANSON, Montrose, S. Dak. Filed Jan. 11, 1929. Serial No. 331,940. 2 Claims. (Cl. 292—300.)



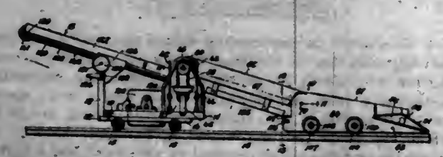
1. As a new product of manufacture, a cover fastener of the class described comprising an attaching plate and a substantially U-shaped clamping member swingably mounted on one end portion of said plate, the arms of said member terminating in coils, and resilient retaining hooks.

1,752,711. SCALE. NORMAN TATHAM, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 28, 1928. Serial No. 281,092. 5 Claims. (Cl. 265—68.)



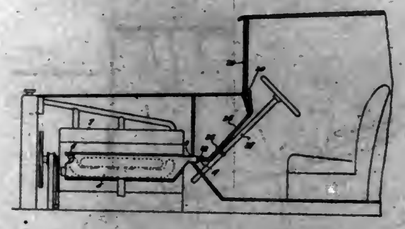
1. In a scale, in combination with a base and a platform movably mounted on the base having an upwardly extending rod movable by the platform, an indicating mechanism including a pawl, an indicating hand, and a lever operatively connected to said indicating hand having means by which the lever and the indicating hand are held in inoperative position when engaged by said pawl and adapted to move when released by the pawl so as to follow the said rod upon a downward moving of the said platform.

1,752,712. DYEING APPARATUS. LOUIS A. UTTRICH, Albany, N. Y., assignor to Eclipse Textile Devices, Inc., Elmira, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 6, 1927. Serial No. 196,654. 4 Claims. (Cl. 8—19.)



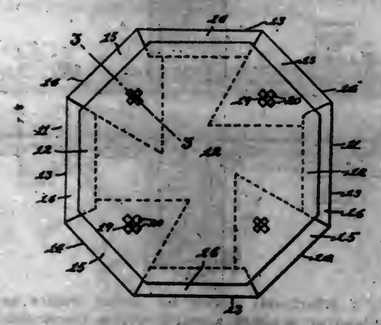
1. A dyeing machine, comprising a support for a wound mass of yarn, and means for intermittently applying dye to parts of the upper surface of the mass so that the dye applied to each part descends into the mass before dye is again applied to that part of the surface.

1,752,713. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. WILLIAM J. WHATLEY, Dallas, Tex. Filed Nov. 28, 1927. Serial No. 236,282. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—38.)



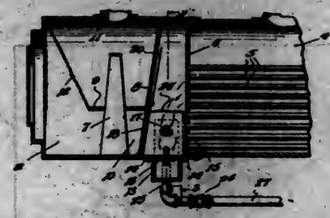
2. In an internal combustion engine, a series of alined cylinders arranged in pairs and each having a piston and a piston rod therein, an integral crank shaft having spaced pairs of cranks which latter are disposed in equi-distantly spaced progressively circular order and are connected by intermediate inclined parts, means to connect the rods to the cranks, connecting parts for adjacent pairs of the cranks extending across the space therebetween, and journals for said connecting parts.

1,752,714. COAL-LOADING MACHINE. ALBERT C. WILCOX, Bridgeport, Ohio. Filed June 6, 1927. Serial No. 196,790. 13 Claims. (Cl. 198—9.)



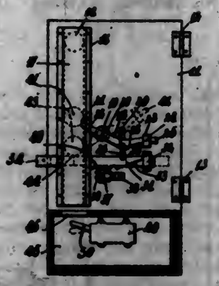
1. A loading machine comprising a wheeled truck, a carriage mounted on said truck for rotation in a horizontal plane, a wheeled scoop, a pivotal connection between said scoop and said carriage permitting said scoop to be moved vertically so as to rest either on the ground or with its wheels on track rails, tractor means carried by said scoop for moving the machine forwardly and rearwardly when the scoop is resting on the ground, and means for operating said tractor means.

1,752,715. WINDSHIELD HEATER. WILLIAM G. WOHLHUTER, Sherburn, Minn. Filed Apr. 9, 1929. Serial No. 353,818. 4 Claims. (Cl. 257—241.)



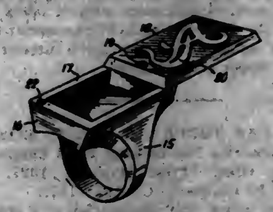
1. In a device of the class described, a stove forming a chamber for disposal over the exhaust manifold of an internal combustion chamber, the rear end of the stove merging into a cylindrical neck having an inturned terminal flange formed with a plurality of apertures, a sleeve extending to the flange, a ring mounted for rotation on the flange and having a plurality of apertures, and means for rotating the ring to control the registration of said apertures.

1,752,716. PAD FOR FRUIT CONTAINERS. JOHN H. WOODALL, Woodland, Ga., assignor to Georgia Cushion and Wrapper Company, Woodland, Ga., a Corporation of Georgia. Filed Mar. 10, 1928. Serial No. 260,620. 7 Claims. (Cl. 154—54.)



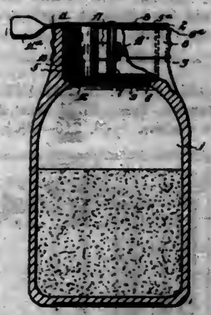
7. A cushioning pad for cylindrical fruit containers, comprising a fibrous bat of octagonal contour adapted to fit a cylindrical container and protective casing for the bat, said casing being formed of a square sheet of paper of greater superficial area than that of the bat, the square sheet of paper being preliminarily positioned on the face of the bat with the corners of the sheet in diagonal extension of opposite sides of the octagonal bat, said corners being subsequently folded over the adjacent sides of the bat to form a series of triangular folds extending over the back of the bat and those parts of the sheet between the triangular folds being folded over the adjacent sides of the octagonal bat to form a series of rhomboidal folds extending over the back of the bat in interspaced relation with the triangular folds, and a reinforcing backing extending over the back of the bat and pasted to the triangular and rhomboidal folds to close the casing.

1,752,717. SMOKE CONSUMER. ALBERT ADAMS, McMechen, W. Va. Filed Mar. 18, 1929. Serial No. 346,692. 9 Claims. (Cl. 110—50.)



1. In combination with a boiler including a fire-box and smoke box having a partition therein defining a smoke passage through the smoke box, a gate in said smoke box movable into and out of position to block the smoke passage, a manifold beneath the rear portion of the smoke box and communicating therewith through openings in its bottom, downwardly opening check valves for said openings, piping leading rearwardly from said manifold to the fire-box, and nozzles extending into the fire-box to deliver products of combustion back into the fire-box.

1,752,718. COIN-CONTROLLED CALLING-CARD BOX. GIUSEPPE ANTIZZO, Brooklyn, N. Y., and GIUSEPPE LATORRACA, Newark, N. J. Filed Nov. 5, 1928. Serial No. 317,165. 4 Claims. (Cl. 194—40.)



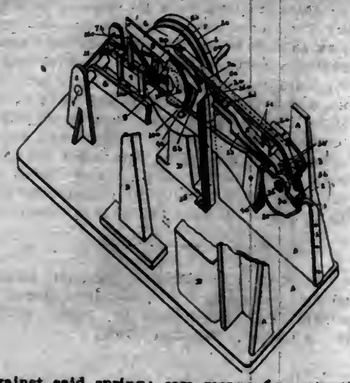
1. In a device of the class described a lever pivotally attached intermediately to a door, said lever provided with a free extremity positioned in a coin guide, said coin guide secured to the said door, a locking pin pivotally attached to a support, said support pivotally attached intermediately to the said lever, the said locking pin adapted to normally engage in a notch formed in a locking bar slidably mounted in a bracket secured to the said door and in the said coin guide, and a means for manually operating the locking bar from the outside of the said door.

1,752,719. LOCKET. LEO BAUM, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Alexander Russell Bond executor of said Leo Baum, deceased. Filed Feb. 17, 1927. Serial No. 168,863. 10 Claims. (Cl. 63—19.)

10. In a locket, the combination with a body portion, of a lid comprising a bar mounted to swivel on the body portion, the bar being formed with a groove in one of the side edges thereof, a plate formed with a tongue at one end adapted to enter the groove, a pin passing through the tongue and the groove and secured to the bar, said pin providing an axis on which the plate may turn and slide, the pin having a head at one end to limit sliding movement of the plate, the under side of the plate being formed with a rim, and a mirror secured to the plate within the rim, the latter being formed with a boss on the side opposite the tongue, the body portion being formed with a depression adapted to receive the boss when the lid is in closed position, and the lid being slightly curved so that the side carrying boss will bear with considerable pressure against the body portion when the lid is in closed position.

1,752,720. SUGAR DISPENSER. ISADORE BERGELSON, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor of one-half to Morris Rosen, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed July 21, 1928. Serial No. 294,368. 4 Claims. (Cl. 221—108.)

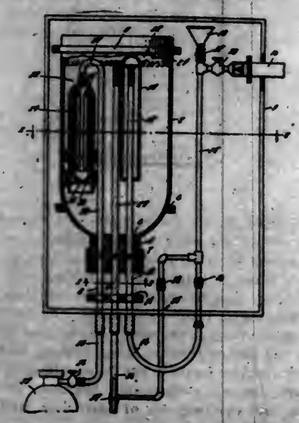
1. A dispenser device for containers comprising a housing fitting within the neck of the container, said housing having a bottom with an inlet opening from the container through the same, a retaining cap fitting over the mouth of the container and having an outlet opening out of line with the aforesaid inlet opening in the bottom of the housing, a pin extending between the cap and bottom of the housing at the center thereof, spaced apart disks rotatably mounted on the pin against the inner sides of the bottom and cap and having a dispenser chamber interposed between them and opening out of each disk, and means for rotating the disks.



1,752,721. METHOD OF PREPARING ADSORBENT MATERIALS. HAROLD E. BIERCE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 9, 1928. Serial No. 276,516. 3 Claims. (Cl. 252—2.)

1. The method of treatment of earthy materials to increase the adsorptive properties thereof which comprises mixing an earthy material with solid oxalic acid and heating the mixture in the absence of added water to a sufficient temperature to cause reaction between said oxalic acid and said earthy material.

1,752,722. SOLE STITCHER. JOHN B. BIRRER, Alhambra, Calif. Filed July 14, 1926. Serial No. 122,324. 2 Claims. (Cl. 112—61.)



2. In a sole stitcher of the character disclosed, a lever pivoted forward of its center to afford vertical motion of its arms; the forward end thereof terminating in a slotted foot adapted to co-act with a corresponding fixed slotted plate in locking action on the work; a cam mounted to rotate beneath and contact with the long arm terminal of said lever; spring means for operating said cam to raise said long arm of said lever and maintain the same in raised position; a ratchet wheel fixed to said cam; a pawl adapted to coact with said ratchet wheel to rotate said cam against said spring; cam means for actuating said pawl to rotate said first cam at predetermined times, all as substantially set forth.

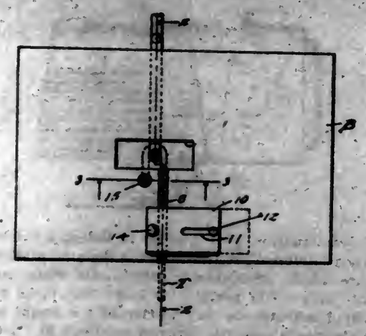
1,752,723. CHLORINATING APPARATUS. WILLIAM C. BLACKMOND, Ranger, Tex. Filed Mar. 29, 1929. Serial No. 350,975. 4 Claims. (Cl. 210—28.)

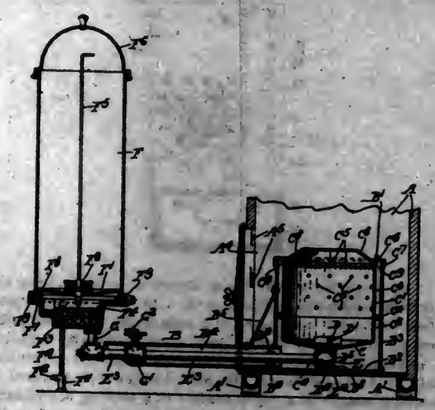
1. In a chlorinating apparatus of the class described, a support, a container on said support, a gas dispenser located within said container, a gas supply drum, a valved connection between the drum and dispenser, an effluent tube in said container, a liquid supply leading into said container, said dispenser comprising a bulbous shaped receptacle, vent tubes located in said receptacle, and an inverted shell embracing said receptacle in spaced relation.



1,752,724. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION-ENGINE FUEL. IGNACE BOUAIS, Reno, Nev. Filed Mar. 4, 1926. Serial No. 92,326. 1 Claim. (Cl. 44—9.)

A fuel for internal combustion engines consisting wholly of gasoline with a relatively small proportion of alcohol in the proportion of substantially one ounce of alcohol to from ten to fifteen gallons of gasoline.

1,752,725. MOLD WASH. HARRY L. BRADEN, Youngstown, Ohio. Filed Aug. 3, 1927. Serial No. 210,465. 5 Claims. (Cl. 22—189.)

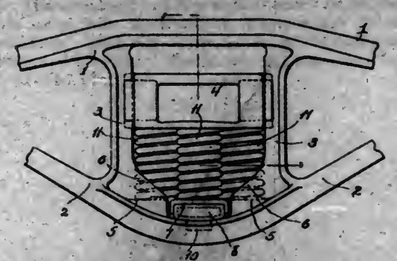


1. A mold wash intended for application to the surfaces of molds in which metal is to be cast, comprising a hydrocarbon base having a high decomposition temperature and creosote oil.

1,752,726. WIRE-TWISTING APPARATUS. ROBERT B. BRANNAKA, Roaring Branch, Pa. Filed Sept. 5, 1928. Serial No. 304,061. 4 Claims. (Cl. 140—104.)

1. A wire twisting apparatus comprising a member, a shaft rotatably supported by the member and provided with an eye forming finger, said member being provided with a recess to receive an end portion of the wire to be twisted before said wire is initially engaged around the finger.

1,752,727. HYDROCARBON BURNER. JAMES L. BREESE, Jr., Chicago, Ill., assignor to Oil Devices Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 31, 1927. Serial No. 243,782. 9 Claims. (Cl. 158—11.)



6. The combination with a hydrocarbon burner assembly including an outer drum and a perforated inner drum, of a fuel admission member in communication with said inner drum, said member having a liquid fuel inlet passage and a gaseous fuel inlet passage, said member including a portion positioned beneath the bottom of the inner drum and a portion positioned above the bottom of the inner drum and means for drawing them together about the drum bottom, including a passage member in screwthreaded relation with each, said passage member being in communication with the gaseous fuel inlet passage at its lower end and being in communication with the interior of the inner drum at its upper end.

1,752,728. CAR TRUCK. SAMUEL P. BUSH, Columbus, Ohio, assignor to The Buckeye Steel Castings Company, Columbus, Ohio. Filed May 26, 1927. Serial No. 194,353. 10 Claims. (Cl. 105—197.)

1. In a car truck, the combination of a side frame having an opening and having spring seats at the sides of the opening, a spring plank having its end inserted in the opening in the side frame between the spring seats, and a member carried by the side frame and disposed under the end of the spring plank to support the same on the same level with the spring seats, said member being interlocked with the spring plank.

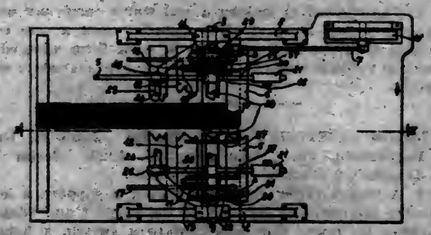
1,752,729. ICE-CREAM CONE. DAVID CANTER, Mattapan, Mass. Filed Mar. 18, 1929. Serial No. 347,989. 2 Claims. (Cl. 99—10.)

2. An ice cream cone comprising a unitary molded shell shaped to present a plurality of contiguous but definitely formed open-topped compartments, said compartments at their top portions merging with each other and adapted to receive individual fillings of ice cream and to maintain such fillings in relative independent assembly during consumption of the cone, said shell beneath said compartments extending as individual closed bottom stems of reduced diameter constituting grasping portions having their generative centers substantially inset from the generative centers of their compartments, said stems being partially separated from each other along lines disposed in substantially the vertical axis of the cone as a whole.

1,752,730. TAG-STRINGING MACHINE. FRITZ O. CARLSON, Worcester, Mass. Filed May 14, 1928. Serial No. 277,624. 19 Claims. (Cl. 93—91.)

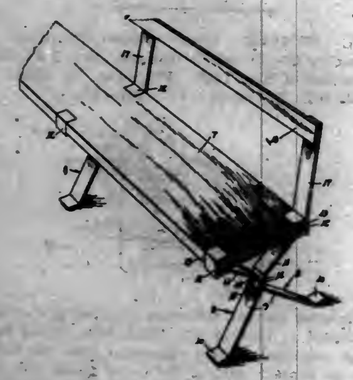
1. In a tag stringing machine, the combination of a stationary platform, with a movable support, a series of tag hoppers carried by said support and movable therewith, means for moving the tags from the hoppers into positions with their perforations exposed, a bodkin movable through the perforation in the tag and means for holding a string in a position below the perforation in the tag so as to be moved into the form of a loop by said bodkin.

1,752,731. BUMPER. LOUIS CARUSO, Irvington, N. J., assignor to The Lionel Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 19, 1929. Serial No. 333,562. 7 Claims. (Cl. 104—254.)



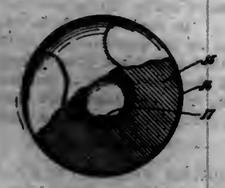
1. A bumper for toy railroads comprising a conducting body adapted to rest on the track rails of toy railroad track, an insulated contact supported from the body in a position to contact with a center or third rail, a lamp socket having one side grounded to the conducting body, and an insulated center contact connected with the first mentioned contact.

1,752,732. CUFF FASTENER. CHARLES V. CHUPRIN, Mount Carmel, Pa. Filed Dec. 28, 1928. Serial No. 328,958. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—102.)



A cuff fastener comprising a pair of spaced parallel shanks having one end turned in opposite directions, heads having spaced walls rigidly mounted on the opposite ends of one of the shanks, heads having spaced walls pivotally mounted on the opposite ends of the other shank, said shank provided with pivot pins adjacent its ends for engagement with the inner walls of the heads and shanks further depending into said heads and abutting the outer walls thereof in a manner to provide a pivotal connection.

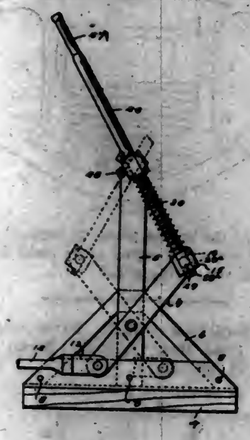
1,752,733. MACHINE FOR RUPTURING THE ENDS PROJECTING FROM WIRE HEDDLES. AUGUSTE GILBERT DAVID and PIERRE GISCLON, Villeurbanne, France. Filed July 27, 1928, Serial No. 295,811, and in France July 28, 1927. 10 Claims. (Cl. 140—72.)



1. A machine for rupturing the ends of wire projecting from wire heddles, comprising means for maintaining the heddles; guides receiving the ends to be ruptured; and means for moving said guides whereby said ends are given a number of successive flexions causing their rupture.

1,752,734. COLLAPSIBLE SEAT OR BENCH. CHARLES ANDRE DUKE, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 4, 1928. Serial No. 267,306. 10 Claims. (Cl. 155—196.)

1. A seat standard comprising sections having hooks to engage the edges of a seat board, and means connecting said sections for moving them toward one another, said sections having fulcrum portions below said means adapted to contact with one another.



1,752,735. METHOD OF MAKING BALLS. JOHN R. GAMMETER, Akron, Ohio, assignor to A. G. Spalding and Bros., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Nov. 2, 1927. Serial No. 230,493. 5 Claims. (Cl. 154—16.)

1. The method of making a ball which comprises winding a covering layer of strip material upon a core comprising a mixture of materials in solid form adapted to react to produce a gas and causing the said materials so to react.

1,752,736. SWITCH-THROW STAND. JOHN O. GILL, Barnesboro, Pa. Filed June 29, 1929. Serial No. 374,699. 2 Claims. (Cl. 246—410.)

1. A switch throw stand comprising a support, a lever pivoted intermediate its ends to the support and adapted to have its lower end connected to a switch, a handle, means pivotally connecting an intermediate portion of the handle to the support, means pivotally and slidably connecting the lower end of the handle to the lever, and a coil spring surrounding the handle between and bearing at its ends against said means and normally tending to hold the handle and lever in angular relation, said means spacing the handle and spring from said support and lever so as to permit the free compression and expansion of the spring during the movement of the handle and lever.

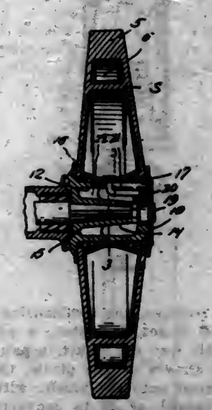
1,752,737. DEVICE FOR PLACING AND REMOVING LAMP BULBS. HAROLD D. GRINNELL, Pittsfield, Mass., assignor to The G. C. A. Manufacturing Company, Pittsfield, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 13, 1928. Serial No. 261,230. 13 Claims. (Cl. 294—20.)

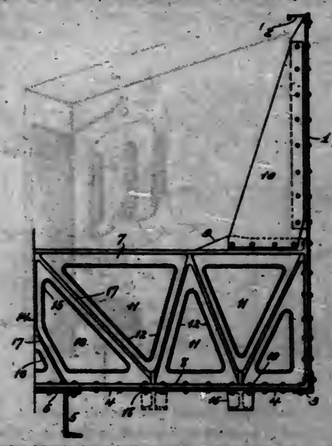
1. In a device for inserting and removing lamp bulbs in and from lamp sockets, in combination, means for gripping the lamp bulb, said means being disposed to receive the bulb by movement laterally toward it, means for actuating said gripping means, and means for rotating the lamp bulb in the gripped position, every part of said gripping means during application thereof to, engagement with, and withdrawal from, the lamp bulb being disposed wholly intermediate planes at opposite ends of the lamp bulb and transverse to the longitudinal axis of said bulb.

1,752,738. WINDING MECHANISM PARTICULARLY ADAPTED FOR PATTERN-SETTING FRAMES. BICKNELL HALL, Quincy, and EDGAR F. HATHAWAY, Wellesley, Mass., assignors to Shawmut Engineering Company, Dorchester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Nov. 30, 1926. Serial No. 151,662. 52 Claims. (Cl. 28—55.5.)



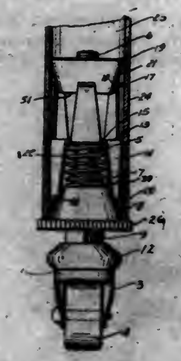
1. Winding mechanism particularly for pattern setting frames comprising, in combination, a rotatable support for a spool, a plurality of rotary members for feeding the yarn or yarns to the spool, a power-receiving element, and gearing connections between said element and the spool support, and between said element and the yarn feeding members, said last connections including automatic means whereby the rate of feed of said feeding members is increased as the spool is rotated.

1,752,739. APPARATUS FOR PUMPING LIQUIDS. FRANK A. HATFIELD, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of fifty-one per cent to Waldo H. Logan and forty-nine per cent to Edson R. Wolcott, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 22, 1928. Serial No. 279,631. 4 Claims. (Cl. 103—239.)



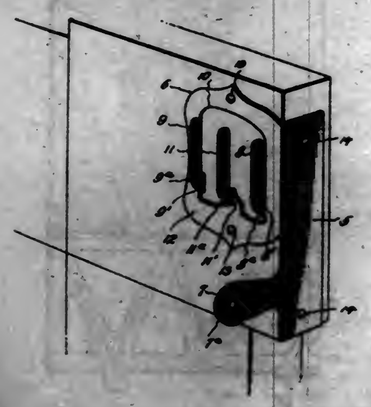
1. In apparatus for handling fluids, the combination of an outer pipe, a plurality of inner pipes extending within said outer pipe, two partition plates extending across the interior of said outer pipe and around said inner pipes and having bevelled seats at their adjacent faces and around said inner pipes, tapered gasket rings disposed around the respective inner pipes and within the spaces provided between said bevelled seats and tapering in the same general direction as said bevelled seats and clamping means on said outer pipe and operable to clamp said partition plates together and compress said gasket means and cause tight engagement thereof with said inner pipes.

1,752,740. HUB STRUCTURE FOR PNEUMATIC WHEELS. EDWIN JACKSON, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed May 2, 1928. Serial No. 274,501. 1 Claim. (Cl. 301—105.)



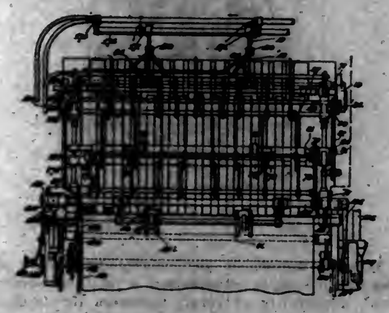
A pneumatic wheel hub comprising a hollow cylindrical body open at one end and provided with internal and external threads, an axle receiving bearing structure protruding inwardly of the body from the closed end thereof, a cylindrical flange at one end of the body, an internally threaded annulus for the opposite end of the body, said annulus being provided with a threaded opening therein through which the usual tire tube valve is accessible, an externally threaded plug for engagement within the threaded opening, a second plug for threadable engagement within the internally threaded end of the body and reinforcing ribs between the said bearing and the body.

1,752,741. BOLSTER. GEORGE T. JOHNSON and HARRY W. STERTZBACH, Columbus, Ohio, assignors to The Buckeye Steel Castings Company, Columbus, Ohio. Original application filed Apr. 13, 1928, Serial No. 269,692. Divided and this application filed Jan. 3, 1929. Serial No. 330,068. 10 Claims. (Cl. 105—230.)



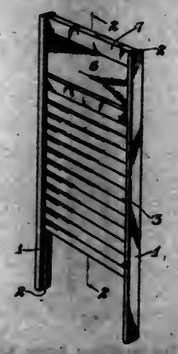
1. An inside bolster for car bodies of truss form from end to end, and provided at its medial portion with a centrally disposed strut having downwardly diverging portions united with the bottom of the bolster.

1,752,742. CASTER. WILFRED G. JOHNSON, Elyria, Ohio, assignor to The Colson Company, Elyria, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 8, 1927. Serial No. 181,992. 8 Claims. (Cl. 16—39.)



1. In a caster retainer, the combination with a caster support having a socket, a caster, a pintle supported thereby telescopable into the socket, a pair of superposed laterally tapered sleeves on the pintle, the upper sleeve being screw threaded onto the pintle, with its outer tapered surface disposed so as to converge downwardly, said other sleeve disposed at the lower end of the pintle and having its outer tapered surface converging upwardly, said last named sleeve comprising a lateral flange disposed exteriorly of the support socket, said support resting upon said flange, an integral resilient sheet metal expansible frame disposed about the pintle and interposed between the sleeves, said frame provided with a transversely extending intermediate portion, a plurality of resilient arms projecting upwardly from the border of said frame transverse portion, and a plurality of similar arms projecting downwardly therefrom, the converging surfaces of said sleeves engageable with said arms to force the arms outwardly against the inner walls of the support socket when the stem is rotated relative to the upper sleeve.

1,752,743. WINDOW FIXTURE. MYRTLE L. KALL, Alexandria Bay, N. Y. Filed Mar. 7, 1929. Serial No. 345,128. 1 Claim. (Cl. 156—24.)



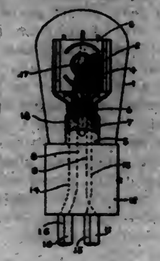
A window fixture comprising a single sheet metal plate having a flat vertical strip portion along one edge, an upper relatively large flat portion and a lower relatively small flat arm portion, both projecting from one longitudinal edge of said strip portion, and vertical rod supporting fingers stamped from said upper portion, said upper portion being bent into a plane at right angles to the plane of said strip portion, whereby one may lie against the inner side of a window frame and the other against an edge thereof, said arm portion being in the same plane as said strip portion and having an opening to receive a shade roller pintle.

1,752,744. SHEET-FEEDING MACHINE. HOWARD K. KING, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Chambers Brothers Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Original application filed Nov. 4, 1925, Serial No. 66,763. Divided and this application filed July 15, 1927. Serial No. 205,872. 15 Claims. (Cl. 192—128.)

8. In combination with a sheet feeding machine, a press feeding guide, comprising a supporting frame and a vertically extending portion provided with a slot and flanking notches in its lower end, an air escape nozzle associated with the frame, a pivotally mounted nozzle controlling element having a portion movable in the slot, a guide plate in spring engagement with the lower edge of said vertically extending portion, and horizontally extending resiliently supported rods flanking said pivoted element and spaced above said guide plate with their free ends engaging said notches.

1,752,745. WASHBOARD. EDWARD C. KLAIBER, Memphis, Tenn., assignor to National Washboard Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed June 21, 1929. Serial No. 372,722. 1 Claim. (Cl. 68—29.)

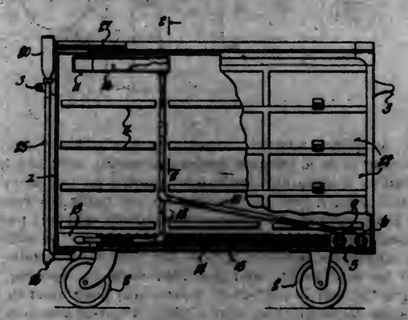
In combination, a pair of spaced side rails longitudinally rabbeted along their inner faces, a rubbing board whose ends are received in said rabbets, a soap pan whose ends are likewise received in said rabbets, the middle part of one of the faces of said soap pan shaped to present a thinned panel and to present along its top and bottom edges respectively, a top bar and an intermediate soap-support bar, the thickness of said bars being substantially equal to the width of said rabbets, for the purposes set forth.



1,752,746. COMPOSITION FOR AND PROCESS OF CLEANING METAL. JAMES D. KLINGER and CLETE L. BOYLE, Detroit, Mich. Filed June 20, 1929. Serial No. 372,530. 6 Claims. (Cl. 148—8.)

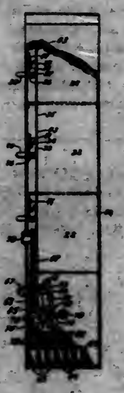
1. A composition of matter to be used for cleaning metal, consisting of a rust removing acid and the mono-butyl ether of ethylene glycol.

1,752,747. ELECTRON-DISCHARGE DEVICE AND GETTER THEREFOR. ERNEST ANTON LEDERER, East Orange, N. J., assignor to Westinghouse Lamp Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 10, 1926. Serial No. 93,792. 7 Claims. (Cl. 250—27.5.)



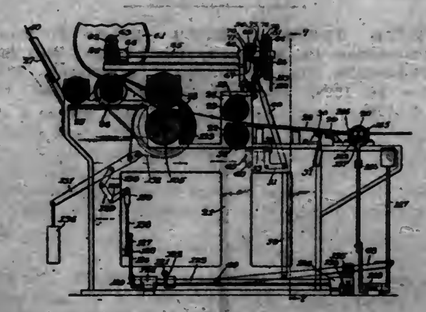
1. A getter for an evacuated container comprising a mixture of a phosphorus compound and a reducing agent which vaporizes upon heating the mixture to clear up residual gases.

1,752,748. PREVENTION OF ELECTRICAL LEAKAGE. ERNEST ANTON LEDERER, East Orange, N. J., assignor to Westinghouse Lamp Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 14, 1926. Serial No. 135,301. 6 Claims. (Cl. 250—27.5.)



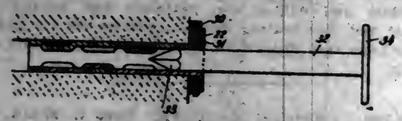
1. An electric discharge device comprising an envelope containing an alkali metal, current conductors sealed into the envelope and a coating of an inorganic salt containing oxygen on the interior surface of the envelope, between the current conductors.

1,752,749. HEATING AND HUMIDIFYING SYSTEM FOR FOOD CARTS. GEORGE A. LUECK, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Sept. 27, 1928. Serial No. 308,631. 5 Claims. (Cl. 126—268.)



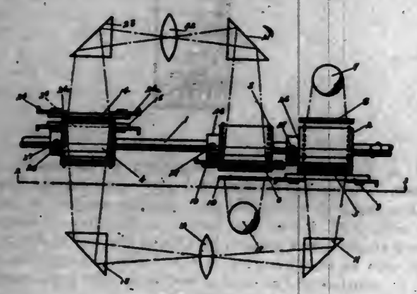
1. A food cart comprising a portable container having shelves therein and open throughout its interior portion, a heating chamber and a header located in spaced relation within and adjacent the bottom of said container, an upper tank, a riser connecting said heating chamber and upper tank, a pipe connecting said header and said upper tank, a radiator extending along the bottom portion of said container and within said container and joining said header and said heating chamber, and means for passing vapor from said upper tank into the interior of said container.

1,752,750. VENDING MACHINE. FRED L. MILLS, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Mills Novelty Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 4, 1929. Serial No. 360,367. 4 Claims. (Cl. 194—1.)



1. A vending machine comprising a commodity container, locking mechanism therefor requiring the use of both a key and a coin for the operation thereof to unlock the container, a coin box having a plurality of compartments therein, and means operable by the key to direct the coin used in the operation of said locking mechanism into one or another of the compartments in said box according to the length of the key employed.

1,752,751. MACHINE FOR MAKING ROOFING AND THE LIKE. ALBERT E. F. MOONE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Lebon Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 23, 1927. Serial No. 207,993. 19 Claims. (Cl. 164—68.)

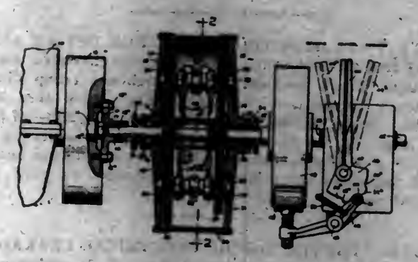


1. In a machine of the class described, roll forming mechanism, a cutter, means for feeding a continuous sheet past the latter, a measuring device driven by the sheet, means operated by the measuring device for setting the cutter in operation, and other means actuated by the cutter for stopping the feeding of the sheet.

1,752,752. EXPANSION SHIELD. RALPH E. OGDEN, Mountainville, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to J. Edward Ogden Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 8, 1923. Serial No. 636,390. 12 Claims. (Cl. 85—24.)

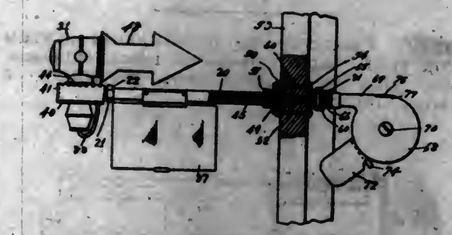
1. In combination, an expansion shield comprising a pair of sheet metal sections, each section having tabs thereon overlapping and engaging the other section and having inwardly extending embossments on the inner surface thereof formed by depressions in the shield, said depressions receiving said tabs, and an expanding element adapted to be driven into the shield from the outer end thereof and having a diameter as great as the maximum inner diameter of the shield, said expanding element being adapted to engage the embossments and force outwardly the embossments and tabs.

1,752,753. OPTICAL PRINTER. FREEMAN H. OWENS, New York, N. Y., assignor to Owens Development Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 12, 1926. Serial No. 147,980. 8 Claims. (Cl. 88—24.)



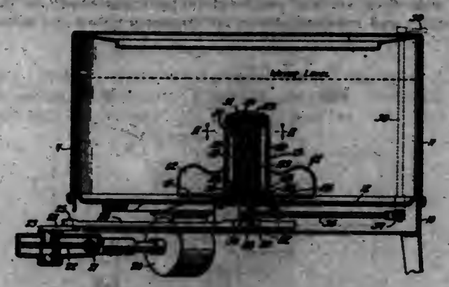
1. An optical printer comprising a rotatable shaft, a plurality of film moving devices on said shaft for engaging strips of negative film moved by two of said devices and a single strip of positive film moved by another of said devices, and optical means associated with said film moving devices arranged for projecting the images of said negative films to said positive film from opposite sides thereof.

1,752,754. THREAD CARRIER. HAROLD F. PAGET, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Haines Hosiery Mills, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 26, 1928. Serial No. 249,601. 2 Claims. (Cl. 66—126.)



1. A thread carrier for full-fashioned hosiery machines comprising a flat strip of material curved at its forward end and provided on its outer face at its forward end with a plurality of laterally spaced inclined grooves, the curved forward end having a plurality of apertures opening into said grooves and opening through said forward end, and thread carrying tubes inserted in said apertures and communicating with said grooves.

1,752,755. AUTOMATIC VARIABLE TRANSMISSION MECHANISM. WILLIAM PITT, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed July 12, 1928. Serial No. 292,144. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—34.)

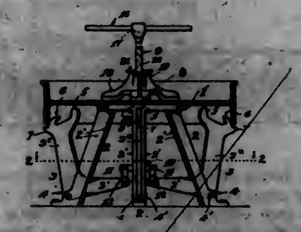


1. A variable transmission mechanism for automobiles and the like comprising a casing, a sun gear mounted in said casing, a driving shaft mounted in said casing and secured to said sun gear, planet gears meshing with said sun gear, shafts for said planet gears revolvably mounted in said casing, a second set of planet gears respectively secured to said planet gear shafts, a second sun gear meshing respectively with said second set of planet gears, a driven shaft secured to said second sun gear and rotatably mounted in said casing, said planet gear shafts including crank shaft portions, a set of centrifugal devices corresponding to said planet gear shafts, a link for each centrifugal device pivotally connecting its centrifugal device with one of said crank shaft portions and a link for each centrifugal device connecting its centrifugal device with an associated planet gear shaft.

1,752,756. TRAFFIC INDICATOR. HENRY ROHRDANTZ, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Feb. 5, 1929. Serial No. 337,549. 6 Claims. (Cl. 116—46.)

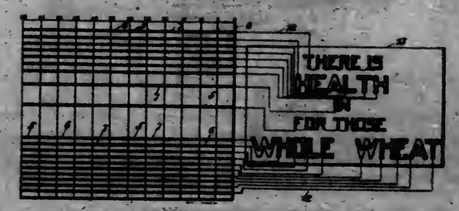
1. A traffic indicator comprising a stationary arm for attachment to a suitable support, a spring actuated index including a lamp and indicator mounted on the outer end of said arm, a belt connected with the index for rotating the same against the action of the spring, said belt passing through the stationary arm, a pulley supported adjacent the operator's position within the vehicle, a handle carried by said pulley and provided with an opening into which the belt is projected, means also positioned in said opening to secure the belt, a plate disposed on each face of the pulley, and means for forcing one of the plates against the pulley, a portion of said means also acting as an axle for the pulley.

1,752,757. WASHING-MACHINE-AGITATOR MECHANISM. SIMON E. SCHROEDER, Minier, Ill. Filed Dec. 24, 1928. Serial No. 328,216. 16 Claims. (Cl. 259—101.)



1. In a washing machine having an agitating mechanism projecting from the bottom of the tub, the combination of stationary means mounted on the bottom of the tub, oscillating means projecting through said stationary means, an agitator mounted on said oscillating means and driven thereby, and a flexible liquid-tight connection between said stationary means and said oscillating means.

1,752,758. APPARATUS FOR SEPARATING SOLIDS FROM LIQUIDS OR LIQUORS BY FILTRATION. JOHN T. SHIMMIN, Hurley, N. Mex. Filed May 4, 1925. Serial No. 27,804. 5 Claims. (Cl. 210—199.)



1. In filtering apparatus, a filtering element comprising a support having a recessed concave face, a filtering medium extending across and normally spaced from said face, and casing means cooperating with the support to form a closed cell, said concave face being provided with means for supporting and maintaining the filtering medium in a smooth concave curve when external pressure is applied to the filtering medium.

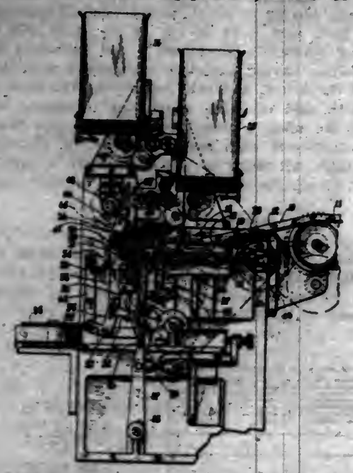
1,752,759. MACHINE FOR USE IN REMOVING TIRES FROM WHEELS AND RIMS. JOSEPH B. SMITH, Havana, Ill. Filed Dec. 7, 1927. Serial No. 238,414. 3 Claims. (Cl. 144—288.)

1. A machine for use in removing tires from wheels including in its construction a stand having a table-top and supporting legs, a series of L-shaped levers pivoted each at its angle upon one of the legs, one of the arms of each lever having a substantially vertical position, the arm of each said lever having at its upper end a ledge extending outwardly therefrom, a rod extending through the table-top, having operative engagement with the other arms of the levers, and said rod having threaded engagement with said table-top, a member to engage over the rod and lie upon a wheel resting upon the table, and means adjustable with respect to the rod to bear upon the member, all being arranged whereby a turn of the rod will clamp the wheel between the member and table-top.

1,752,760. ELECTRIC SIGN AND METHOD OF ITS OPERATION. GEORGE W. TARKINGTON, Silver Plume, Colo. Filed Dec. 20, 1923. Serial No. 681,888. 4 Claims. (Cl. 177—346.)

3. A display device comprising a word and letters additional to the letters of the word and corresponding with letters of the word, the several letters being capable of separate illumination, and means to illuminate the entire word and then extinguishing certain letters of the word and simultaneously illuminating corresponding letters outside the word.

1,752,761. METHOD AND MEANS FOR EXTRACTING ESSENTIALS FROM COFFEE AND OTHER SUBSTANCES. GEORGE W. TARKINGTON, Silver Plume, Colo. Filed July 5, 1924. Serial No. 724,383. 18 Claims. (Cl. 53—8.)



2. A device for making extracts comprising a container, a filter medium at the bottom thereof, and means to automatically maintain a pressure less than atmospheric at the opposite end of the container, in indirect ratio to a diminishing quantity of infusion in the container while the liquid in the infusion passes through the filter medium.

1. In a mechanism of the character described, an oscillatory member having a slot or pocket, the pivot of said member being disposed substantially in alinement with a portion of the pocket, means for oscillating said member through an angle of substantially 90° from receiving to discharging position and reversely through an angle of substantially 90° to receiving position, means for feeding an article and wrapper into said slot and means secured to said oscillatory member and disposed at the end of the slot for folding the ends of the wrapper.

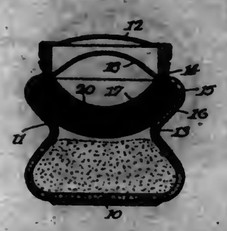
1,752,763. ELECTRIC SWITCH. HERBERT E. VAN DORN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to William E. Van Dorn, Pasadena, Calif. Filed July 13, 1928. Serial No. 292,465. 4 Claims. (Cl. 200—82.)

1. In combination, a casing, stationary contacts in said casing, an oscillatory switch member arranged in the casing and co-operating with said contacts, a rock shaft extending across the casing parallel with said member, an arm on one end of said shaft, a spring arranged between the casing and the aforesaid arm, a second arm on the opposite end of the shaft, a pneumatic motor co-operating with said second arm to rock the shaft in opposition to the spring, a third arm on said shaft, and a connection between said third arm and said oscillatory member.



1,752,764. COMBINED COUPLER HEAD AND BUFFER. HERBERT E. VAN DORN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to William E. Van Dorn, Pasadena, Calif. Filed Sept. 21, 1928. Serial No. 307,491. 1 Claim. (Cl. 213—109.)

In combination, a coupler of the swinging knuckle type having on one side a wide deep wing whose front face lies in a vertical transverse plane and extends approximately equal distances above and below a horizontal plane containing the central longitudinal axis of the coupler, a buffer element on the other side of the coupler comprising a wide deep vertical plate extending transversely of the coupler and substantially equal distances above and below said horizontal plane containing the longitudinal axis of the coupler, a bracket on the coupler behind said plate, parallel stems extending between the plate and said bracket and permitting the plate to move backward and forward, one of said stems being above and the other being below the last-mentioned plane, and compression springs lying behind the plate and between the same and the bracket.

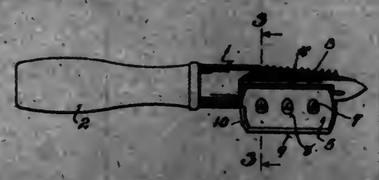
1,752,765. APPLICATOR FOR TOILET PREPARATIONS. ROBERT H. VAN SANT, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 5, 1928. Serial No. 267,575. 2 Claims. (Cl. 132—78.5.)

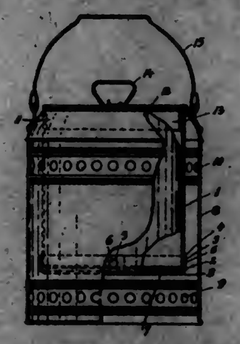
1. An applicator for applying toilet powder to shaven or clipped skin, comprising a pair of superimposed peripherally connected layers of woven material having an exterior surface of uncut loops, stiffening material between the layers of woven material, padding between the stiffening material and the layers of woven material, and a finger strap arching across one face of the device and having its ends inserted between and secured to the layers of woven material.

1,752,766. CALCULATING APPARATUS. ANDERS ERIKSON VETHE, Oslo, Norway. Filed Feb. 9, 1926, Serial No. 87,120, and in Norway Feb. 10, 1925. 2 Claims. (Cl. 235—140.)



1. In a device of the class described, the combination of indicating discs rotatably mounted on axes in spaced relation to each other, a gear connected with one of said indicating discs for rotation therewith, a finger connected with the other of said indicating discs for movement therewith, and toothed driving means rotatably mounted in operative relation to both said gear and said finger and comprising broad tooth portions with which said finger engages for rotating the driving device and comparatively longer and narrower tooth portions extending beyond the broad tooth portions adapted by engagement with said gear to drive the gear and connected indicating disc.

1,752,767. PRINTING-PRESS BED. WALLACE S. WARNOCK, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 27, 1928. Serial No. 257,407. 8 Claims. (Cl. 101—388.)



1. A printing bed having a groove formed therein for receiving the body portion of a plate engaging clamp, in combination with an elongated gear inserted within said groove, and a retaining bar inserted between the bottom of the groove and a lower portion of said gear to position such gear.

1,752,768. PEELER. PAUL F. WORST, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Jan. 20, 1927. Serial No. 162,316. 2 Claims. (Cl. 30—20.)

1. A peeler comprising a cylindrical body portion having a slot, a handle projecting from one end of said body portion, an apertured blade carried by said body portion and having an edge extending through said slot adjacent one side thereof, a plurality of tongues formed integrally with said body portion and detachably holding said blade, said body portion having channelled lips housing the edge of said blade remote from said slot and one end thereof.

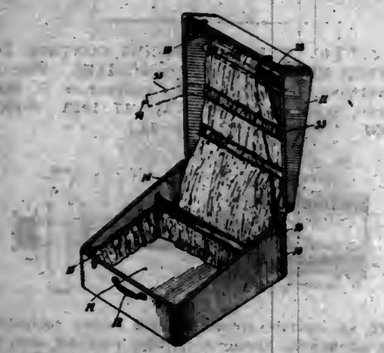
1,752,769. COOKER. HENRY A. ZIOLA, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Swartzbaugh Manufacturing Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation. Filed June 25, 1928. Serial No. 288,022. 2 Claims. (Cl. 53—1.)

1. A unitary cooking device of the character described, comprising a jacket having a heat receiving bottom opening, a vessel fastened to the upper end of the jacket and disposed within and spaced from the wall of said jacket, said jacket having means for causing a draft upwardly through said space, the base of said vessel being disposed above the base of the jacket, and means secured to the base of the vessel to prevent direct contact of a flame with said base.

1,752,770. ELECTRIC-CIRCUIT CONTROL LOCK-SWITCH DEVICE FOR AUTOMOBILES. FRANCIS J. ARMSTRONG, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to D. Stewart Craven, Salem, N. J. Filed Apr. 17, 1925. Serial No. 23,831. 7 Claims. (Cl. 200—44.)

1. In an electric circuit control device comprising a switch mechanism having a cylinder provided with an irregularly contoured opening therethrough and a shiftable disk provided with a slot registerable with one end of said opening by shifting the disk, and baffle means across the slot, a key having an irregularly contoured body portion conforming to said opening for insertion therein for passing therethrough to shift the shifting disk and having means for avoiding said baffle means for entering the slot of the shifting disk for operating the switch mechanism.

1,752,771. BATHING SUIT. CARL OTTO AST, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to Pacific Knitting Mills, Inc., Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Oct. 13, 1928. Serial No. 312,800. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—67.)



A bathing suit comprising a body of knit material having its ribs running vertically throughout its upper body portions, and throughout the front and sides of the body portion, there being an opening in said body embracing the seat portion thereof, said opening having upwardly and outwardly flaring edges; and a separate seat portion of knit material, having its ribs running horizontally, larger than and inserted and secured at its edges in said opening, there being upwardly and outwardly flaring pleats formed at each side of said seat portion to give horizontal expansibility thereto.

1,752,772. WARDROBE HATBOX. SAMUEL BALIN, New York, N. Y., assignor to United Auto Trunk Co., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 20, 1928. Serial No. 271,500. 2 Claims. (Cl. 190—18.)

1. A traveller's case comprising a rectangular container having a body and cover portion hingedly united, each being provided with handles at the front, the side edges of said body and cover being inclined upwardly from the front to the rear, a transverse partition in said body forming a main forward compartment and a rear-row rear compartment, brackets fixed to the inner side walls of said cover at its deeper front portion one of said brackets having rectangular openings and a slot having downreaching recesses in the other bracket, the recesses terminating in raised niches at their forward ends, clothes hangers having square pintles at their ends to enter the openings in the first named bracket, their opposite ends adapted to pass into the slot in the other bracket to eventually engage in the niches, resilient means to retain the pintles entered in the niches, and elastic straps in said cover to confine articles on said hangers against the inner surface of said cover, the lower ends of said articles entering the narrow compartment in said body.

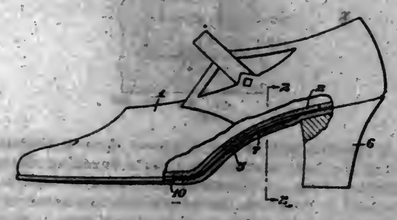
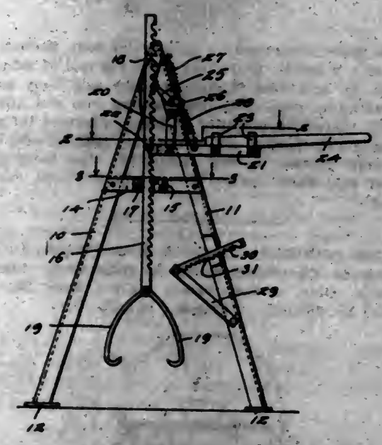
1,752,773. BALANCE FOR WATCH MOVEMENTS. BETHEL J. BATES, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor of one-half to Albert S. Gregg, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Aug. 1, 1927. Serial No. 209,845. 1 Claim. (Cl. 58—115.)



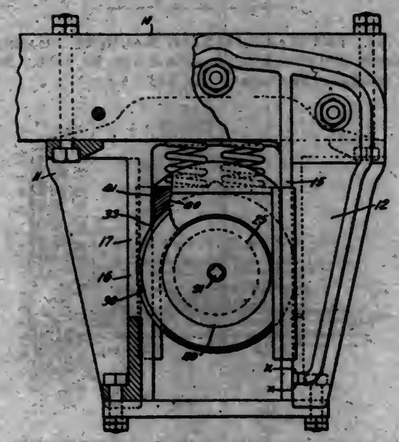
The combination of a staff and balance wheel, a collet on the wheel having a slot, the ends of the collet adjacent the slot being thickened and flattened on the inside, and a hair spring having a hook at its inner end the bend of which extends through said slot and the end of which is confined against one of the flattened surfaces and between the collet and the staff, the end of the collet acting as a wedge to prevent lost motion.

1,752,774. HEEL-COVER-TRIMMING MACHINE. LEWIS J. BAZZONI, Swampscott, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 4, 1929. Serial No. 360,529. 30 Claims. (Cl. 12—42.)



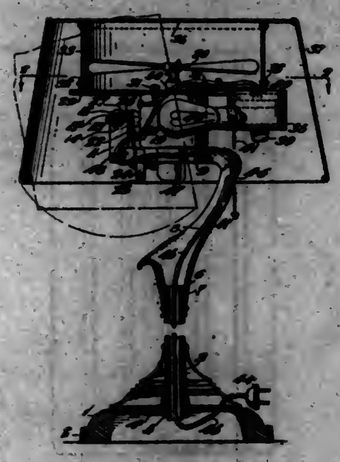
1. A machine for trimming heel coverings having, in combination, means to trim a marginal portion of a covering attached to a heel to prepare said portion for insertion in a groove in the breast of the heel, and means to position the heel and the marginal portion of the covering relatively to the trimming means, the trimming means and the last-named means being mounted for relative movement progressively to carry out the heel trimming operation.

1,752,775. BOOT OR SHOE AND SHANK STIFFENER THEREFOR. HERBERT BEE, Manchester, N. H., assignor to Woodbury Shoe Mfg. Co., Derry, N. H., a Corporation of New Hampshire. Filed June 6, 1929. Serial No. 368,797. 2 Claims. (Cl. 36—76.)



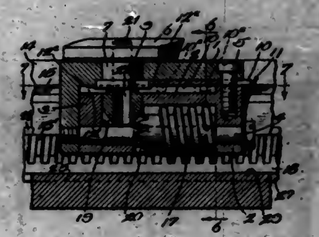
2. A metallic arch supporter of the kind described, comprising a curved body portion, and a forward end curved in a direction reverse to the curve of the body portion, the said curved end of said forward portion being beveled on its under surface to provide a sharp upper edge on said forward portion.

1,752,776. JACK. NOAH A. BOYETTE, Habira, Ga. Filed Apr. 24, 1928. Serial No. 272,515. 1 Claim. (Cl. 254—111.)



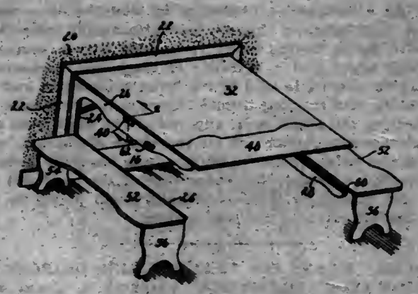
A jack comprising a standard, a rack bar, an actuating lever pivoted to the standard and adapted to engage the teeth of the rack bar with its inner end, a pawl pivoted to the standard and having a tail, a spring engaging the tail of the pawl and secured to the standard and urging said pawl into engagement with the teeth of the rack bar, and a spring connected with said lever and connectible to the tail of the pawl, said spring when connected to the tail of the pawl overcoming the tension of the first named spring to maintain the pawl out of engagement with the teeth of the rack bar until the inner end of the lever has been lowered to a predetermined extent.

1,752,777. ROLLER BEARING AND MOUNTING THEREFOR. WILHELM B. BRONANDER, Montclair, N. J. Filed June 11, 1927. Serial No. 198,111. 15 Claims. (Cl. 105—224.)



1. In combination, a pedestal having a pair of inwardly facing frame members, a roller bearing mounting comprising a one piece yoke slidably supported between said side frames and a roller bearing including an outer race having a spherical outer surface engaging and tiltably mounted in said yoke.

1,752,778. COOLING, DRYING, AND LIGHTING FIXTURE. WILLIAM ALLEN BROWN, Philadelphia, and ELBERT A. CORMIN, Jr., Swarthmore, Pa. Filed May 27, 1926. Serial No. 111,905. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—2.)

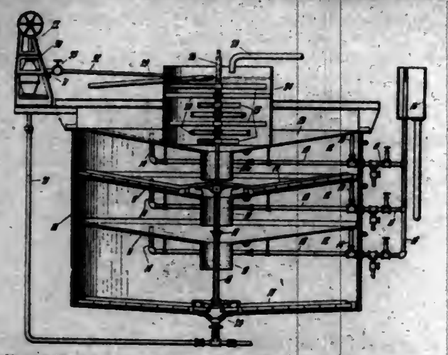


1. In a combined cooling and lighting device, a support, a blower and its motor mounted as a unit to oscillate on said support, a junction box and a light connected with and forming a part of said movable unit, the center of gravity of said unit being out of coincidence with the axis of said support in any position it can assume relatively to said support, and a shade contributing with the blower to direct heat from the light away from a person using the light.

1,752,779. PRINTING-PRESS BED. GEORGE F. BRYANT and WALLACE S. WARNOCK, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 23, 1928. Serial No. 263,984. 3 Claims. (Cl. 101—388.)

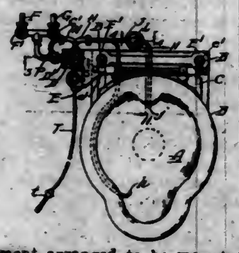
1. A printing bed having a groove formed therein for receiving the body portion of a plate engaging clamp and which has two lateral enlargements in its opposite sides extending longitudinally of the groove at the bottom thereof, the upper portion of each of said lateral enlargements having an upwardly extending mortise continuation, the lower portion of each of said lateral enlargements having a downwardly extending mortise continuation; in combination with two laterally spaced apart elongated gears having body portions formed with tenons which are received within the corresponding mortise continuations of said lateral groove enlargements, the teeth of each of said gears projecting from the bodies of the gears into position to be engaged by gearing upon the clamp body.

1,752,780. TABLE STRUCTURE. WILLIAM C. BUITEN, Lansing, Ill., assignor of one-half to Paul N. De Wit, Lansing, Ill., and one-half to Frank N. De Wit. Filed May 21, 1928. Serial No. 279,330. 8 Claims. (Cl. 155—124.)



1. A structure of the character described, comprising a casing open at one side, a wing hinged to one wall of said casing and adapted to be folded therein, a table member hinged at the top of said casing and adapted to form a closure for the open side thereof, said wing being movable out of said casing and beneath said table member to support the latter in horizontal position, and a bench hinged to said wing and adapted to be extended to operative position adjacent one end of the table member.

1,752,781. DEFECATION OF SUGAR JUICE. ARTHUR W. BULL, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Dorr Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 26, 1927. Serial No. 186,684. 6 Claims. (Cl. 127—46.)



1. In a process of manufacturing sugar in which the sugar bearing juice is treated to precipitate impurities, the step which comprises agitation of the treated juice for a period sufficient to obtain substantially complete flocculation and at a rate adequate to maintain a substantially uniform suspension of all flocs but insufficient to prevent the formation and maintenance of flocs of substantially maximum size.

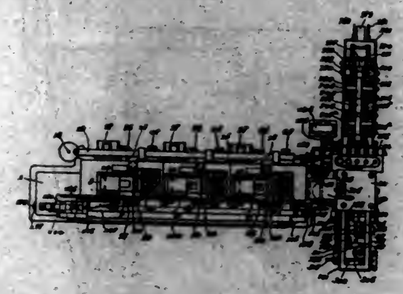
1,752,782. WATER-CLOSET ATTACHMENT. CHARLES G. BURTON, Salem, Ohio. Filed July 31, 1929. Serial No. 382,843. 6 Claims. (Cl. 4—7.)

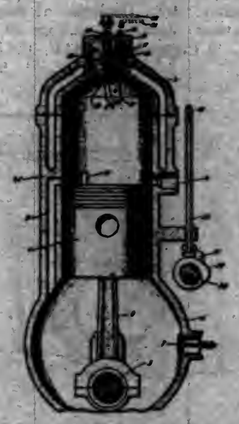


1. An attachment arranged to be mounted on a water closet bowl laterally thereof, said attachment comprising a valve fitting having inflow connection with a source of flushing water and a plurality of discharge connections, the valve member in said fitting being constructed and cooperating with the body member for adjustment therein for connecting the inflow with any one of the discharges and simultaneously cutting off all the other discharges, said discharges being arranged leading from the body member of the fitting between the upper edge of the bowl and the seat for discharge in the bowl at different points in the fore-and-aft extent of the seat opening.

1,752,783. MEANS FOR TRANSFERRING OBJECTS TO HOOK-TYPE CONVEYERS. FREDERIC R. COLBY and ARNOLD L. LARSEN, Toledo, Ohio, assignors to The Surface Combustion Company, Inc., Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 12, 1928. Serial No. 305,458. 15 Claims. (Cl. 214—18.)

1. The combination with a traveling conveyer and an object-supporting member adapted to be removably suspended thereon, of a carrier for said member movable toward and away from said conveyer, shiftable means carried by said carrier and adapted to releasably support said member, and means for releasing said means whereby said member may be shifted from the carrier to the conveyer.

1,752,784. ENVELOPE-FILLING MACHINE. HAROLD B. COLLINS, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Apr. 30, 1926. Serial No. 105,751. 14 Claims. (Cl. 133—4.)



1. In an envelope-filling machine, the combination of a plurality of note-holding containers, pneumatic devices for effecting delivery of notes from said containers, a reciprocating member for conveying the said notes to a central point, a conveyor for delivering coins to said central point, a conveyor for delivering envelopes successively to said central point, and means acting automatically for placing the said notes and coins in said envelopes, said means comprising a rotatable support for the said envelopes.

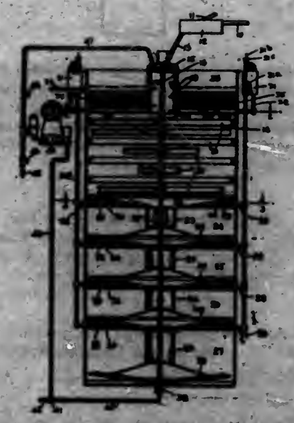
1,752,785. RADIATOR. LOUIS COURTOT, Paris, France, assignor to American Radiator Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Sept. 8, 1926, Serial No. 134,157, and in France Sept. 11, 1925. 7 Claims. (Cl. 257—151.)

5. A radiator comprising upper and lower hollow headers, a series of tubular bosses extending therefrom, relatively thin tubes associated with said bosses, each of said tubes comprising two substantially semi-cylindrical parts united along their longitudinal edges, and annular reinforcing members secured within the ends of said tubes and fitted upon said bosses, substantially as specified.

1,752,786. OIL-BURNING ENGINE. CLESSIE L. CUMMINS, Columbus, Ind., assignor to Oil Engine Development Company, Columbus, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Original application filed July 30, 1924, Serial No. 729,143. Divided and this application filed Sept. 14, 1925. Serial No. 56,213. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—32.)

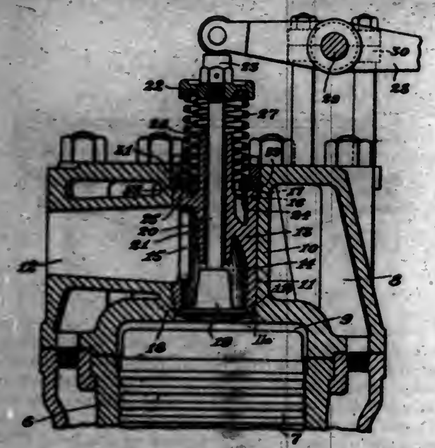
1. In an oil engine, the combination of a cylinder and a piston operable therein, and a fuel vaporizing and injecting device comprising a chamber having a convex seat and restricted communicating ports opening into said chamber approximately at the edge of said seat, means for depositing fuel at the apex of said seat, a plunger in said chamber, and means for retracting said plunger so that the air forced from the combustion space through said ports sweeps said convex seat to thoroughly vaporize and mix the liquid fuel with the air, and for advancing said plunger to eject the mixture of air and fuel from said vaporizing chamber through said communicating ports into the combustion space.

1,752,787. SHOE. DAVID A. CUTLER, Wollaston, Mass. Filed Sept. 5, 1928. Serial No. 304,113. 5 Claims. (Cl. 36—14.)



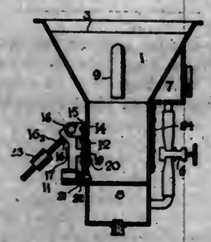
1. A shoe comprising a sole and an insole, a vamp including inner and outer layers with their margins secured between the sole and insole, and a reinforcement of sheet rubber and cork composition of substantial thickness and stiffness, located between the layers of the vamp and extending about the fore-part of the shoe.

1,752,788. BANJO. CLARENCE L. DEWEY, Elkhart, Ind., assignor to Outing Manufacturing Company, Elkhart, Ind., a Corporation. Filed Apr. 12, 1926. Serial No. 101,305. 5 Claims. (Cl. 84—271.)



1. A banjo comprising a finger board, a neck formed thereon, an upper casing section secured to said neck, a plurality of concentric ribs integrally formed on the upper portion of said casing section, a skin head disposed over said concentric ribs, means for tensioning the skin head with said skin head serving to form a dead air space between said concentric ribs, a bridge disposed on said head, strings positioned above the finger board and passing over said bridge, a tail-piece on said upper casing section to which the strings are attached, an apertured ontwardly directed flange integrally formed on said upper casing section, an apertured continuous reenforcing washer engaged against said flange, hook bolts for tensioning the skin head and projecting through said apertured flange and through said continuous reenforcing washer, a felt pad positioned against said apertured upper casing section flange, and a lower casing section removably secured in position against said pad.

1,752,789. AGITATION AND SETTLING APPARATUS. FRANK A. DOWNES, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Dorr Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 7, 1925. Serial No. 48,731. 17 Claims. (Cl. 210—55.)



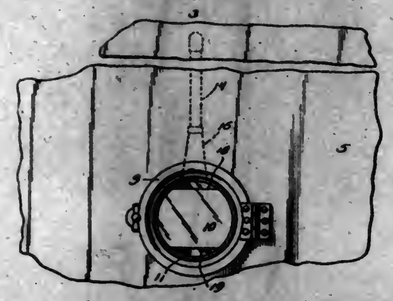
1. Flocculation and sedimentation apparatus comprising a sedimentation compartment, rotary means therein for mechanically impelling settled solids to a point of discharge and a superposed agitation chamber discharging into said compartment.

1,752,790. VALVE CAGE. ADRIAN C. ESTEP, Seattle, Wash. Filed Jan. 28, 1926. Serial No. 84,292. 17 Claims. (Cl. 123—189.)

1. A valve cage having a port formed in the walls thereof and having a portion of the said walls cut away at the upper end in approximate alignment with said port.

1,752,791. HYDRAULIC CLASSIFIER. ARTHUR WILLIAM FRERENWALD, Moscow, Idaho, assignor to The Dorr Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 12, 1925. Serial No. 62,109. 13 Claims. (Cl. 209—496.)

1. Apparatus for treating solids suspended in liquid including a container having a solids discharge outlet, a yieldable diaphragm forming a portion of a wall of the container below the normal liquid level, and means operatively connected to the diaphragm for controlling the discharge of solids through said outlet.



1,752,792. COMPOSITION FOR COATING VITREOUS ARTICLES. AARON MARTIN HAGEMAN, Bloomfield, and ALBERT FERDINAND LINDSTROM, Nutley, N. J., assignors to Westinghouse Lamp Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 27, 1925. Serial No. 5,079. 6 Claims. (Cl. 134—45.)

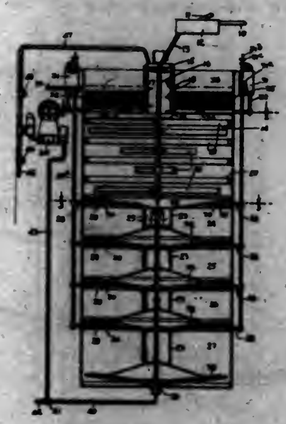
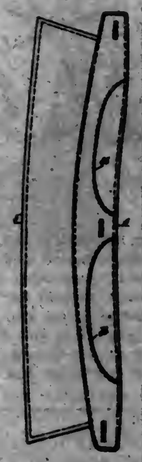
1,752,793. WELDING-ROD COATING. WILLIAM J. HAMMER, Grand Rapids, Mich., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Liverance & Van Antwerp, a Partnership composed of Frank E. Liverance, jr., and Harold O. Van Antwerp, Grand Rapids, Mich. Filed Apr. 9, 1928. Serial No. 268,313. 3 Claims. (Cl. 148—26.)



1. The herein described composition comprising, powdered oxide of iron and powdered feldspar in the proportion substantially of two parts in bulk of the oxide of iron to one of feldspar, said mixture being further mixed with a solution of sodium silicate and distilled water in the proportions substantially of 60% sodium silicate and 40% distilled water, the resultant mixture having substantially the consistency of paint.

1,752,794. VENTILATING PORT. WILHELM A. A. H. HELWIG, Detroit, Mich., assignor of one-third to Sam Dickman, Detroit, Mich. Filed July 26, 1929. Serial No. 381,292. 6 Claims. (Cl. 114—177.)



1. In a ventilated port for ships, a casing having a pair of top openings, an inverted U-shaped pipe vertically disposed above said casing and having its ends fitted in said openings, a frame in the casing having top openings alined with the respective openings of the casing, and a glass in said frame on a plane between the openings thereof to prevent the passage of water directly through said frame.

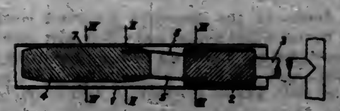
1,752,795. AGITATION AND SETTLING PROCESS. CHARLES P. HOOVER, Columbus, Ohio, and FRANK A. DOWNES, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 7, 1925. Serial No. 48,802. 24 Claims. (Cl. 210—55.)

1. A process of flocculation and sedimentation comprising the agitation of a fluid during occulation for a period sufficient for substantially complete flocculation and at a rate adequate to maintain a substantially homogeneous mixture during such period but insufficient to interfere with the formation of maximum flocs; discharging the resulting mixture into a sedimentation compartment and removing the solids by sedimentation.

1,752,796. COLLAR. RALPH HUNTER, New York, N. Y., assignor to Hall, Hartwell & Co. Inc., Troy, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 26, 1925. Serial No. 32,955. 4 Claims. (Cl. 139—385.5.)

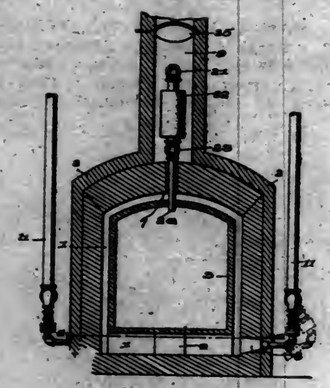
1. A fold-collar comprising an outer top ply of single-ply weave of close texture and capable of maximum absorption materially less than twenty per centum of its own weight of normal laundry starch solution.

1,752,797. DRYING CABINET. EDWARD HUTCHINSON, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Saftigard-Nudriaire, Inc., Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 20, 1928. Serial No. 307,079. 8 Claims. (Cl. 34—19.)



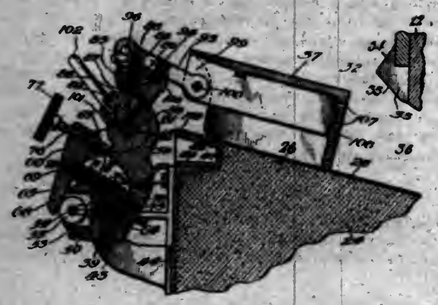
1. In a drying cabinet of the character described, a casing affording a vertical drying chamber with a door permitting access for placement of articles which are to be dried; a support beneath the chamber with spaced spring members upstanding from its bottom to support electric resistor heating bars at opposite ends, and superjacent baffle means collecting and directing drippage from the articles being dried directionally away from possibility of contact with said heating bars.

1,752,798. SLUG ELIMINATOR FOR VENDING MACHINES. ALFRED E. JOHNSON, Denver, Colo., assignor to The Weepah Manufacturing Corporation, Denver, Colo., a Corporation of Colorado. Filed Aug. 29, 1927. Serial No. 216,158. 16 Claims. (Cl. 194—9.9.)



14. In a slug eliminator for vending machines, means provided with a slot to reject all oversize slugs, means to receive all coins not so rejected and to reject all slugs undersize in diameter or thickness, manually operated means to release coins not so rejected and means depending upon the resilience of a genuine coin and including resilient means to retard its fall, and an anvil with an inclined surface whereby its fall upon and its subsequent free rebound from said inclined surface will act to segregate it from slugs of different resilience.

1,752,799. RIVETING DEVICE. HUGO JUNKERS, Dessau, Germany. Filed July 27, 1926, Serial No. 125,204, and in Germany Aug. 21, 1925. 8 Claims. (Cl. 78—46.)

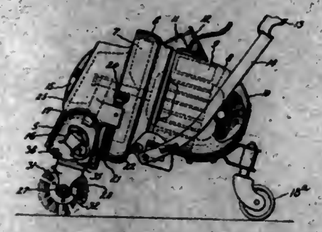


7. Means for riveting tubes and other hollow bodies comprising an anvil adapted to be displaced within the hollow body and bearing against one part of the wall thereof, an abutment connected and displaceable with said anvil and bearing against another part of the wall, resilient means for holding said anvil and said abutment applied against said different parts of the inner wall of said body and means adapted to be actuated from without for moving said anvil away from the inner wall of said body against the tension of the resilient means aforesaid rendering the anvil capable of delivering reaction blows upon said means during the riveting operation.

1,752,800. MUFFLE FURNACE AND METHOD OF OPERATING THE SAME. WILLIAM WALLACE KEMP, Baltimore, Md., assignor to The C. M. Kemp Mfg. Co., Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Aug. 29, 1927. Serial No. 216,313. 12 Claims. (Cl. 25—144.)

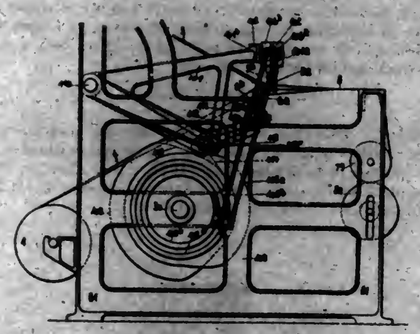
1. The herein described method of operating muffle furnaces including a combustion chamber and a refractories muffle comprising maintaining pressure in both the combustion chamber and muffle, the pressure within the muffle being such as to prevent the admission thereto of gases from the combustion chamber, for the purpose described.

1,752,801. POWER FEED STOKER. GEORGE A. KOHOUT, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 28, 1924. Serial No. 734,731. 4 Claims. (Cl. 110—109.)



3. A device of the character described comprising a furnace having a fuel hopper and a fuel inlet opening below said hopper, pusher blocks for pushing fuel from said hopper through said opening, a power driven shaft, and means connecting said pusher blocks with said shaft to reciprocate said blocks, said means including yielding means interposed between said shaft and each of said blocks for moving said blocks in fuel feeding direction, and non-yielding means connecting said shaft and blocks for retracting said blocks, said yielding means permitting operation of said shaft and remaining blocks when one of said blocks is struck in intermediate or retracted position though still connected to said shaft.

1,752,802. PAPER AND PAPER MAKING. ERNEST LIONNE, Swampscott, Mass. Filed Nov. 12, 1928. Serial No. 318,994. 19 Claims. (Cl. 92—21.)

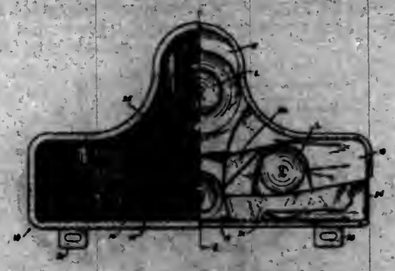


1. The method of making paper which consists in intermixing paper stock and precipitated celluloid, and forming a paper of such mixture.

1,752,803. FLOOR POLISHER FOR VACUUM CLEANERS. JOHN F. MORGAL, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Electric Vacuum Cleaner Company, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 18, 1927. Serial No. 226,972. 8 Claims. (Cl. 15—49.)

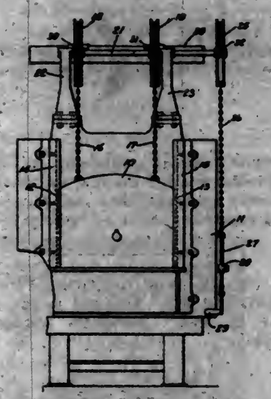
1. A floor polishing attachment for use with a vacuum cleaner having a nozzle, a motor, and a pivoted adjusting member, said attachment comprising a rotary element, independent brackets which support the element at its ends, each bracket having means at one end to engage the nozzle and a projection at the other end which is engaged by the adjusting member of the cleaner to hold the element in place, and a belt driven by the motor for rotating said element.

1,752,804. LOOM. WALTER NICOLET, Leipzig, Germany. Filed Aug. 15, 1927, Serial No. 213,035, and in Germany Aug. 16, 1926. 4 Claims. (Cl. 139—11.)



1. A loom comprising a row of needles for positively guiding one group of warp threads, two cooperating rows of needles for positively guiding the other group of warp threads, means for moving the needles guiding one group in the longitudinal direction of the needles towards and away from the needles guiding the other group and means for imparting to said cooperating rows of needles alternating substantially horizontal movements relative to each other in opposite directions at right angles to the threads, the distances which any one group of needles moves away from the needles of the other group, being less than the distance between contiguous needles.

1,752,805. AUTOMOBILE OR HIGHWAY SIGNAL. JAMES C. NORDGRAN, Salt Lake City, Utah, assignor, by mesne assignments, to C. A. Harth, The Dalles, Oreg. Filed June 23, 1924. Serial No. 721,768. 1 Claim. (Cl. 177—329.)



In a signal of the class described, a casing, a plurality of compartments in said casing, said compartments including a right, left, stop and tail light compartment, said tail light compartment being relatively small, a signal lamp in each of said compartments, said stop compartment being positioned above said tail light compartment and said right and left compartments being positioned one on each side of said tail light compartment, translucent covers for said compartments, a light emitting panel in each end of said casing, a light emitting panel in the bottom of said casing, means to illuminate both end panels and said bottom panel from the lamp in said tail light compartment, said means including tunnels formed in said right and left compartments extending from each side of said tail light compartment to each of said end panels, two additional compartments adapted to be illuminated by the lamp in said tail light compartment, said additional compartments being positioned one above each of said right and left compartments and at the side of the top compartment and separated therefrom, and a tunnel leading from said tail light compartment through said right and left compartments to said additional compartments.

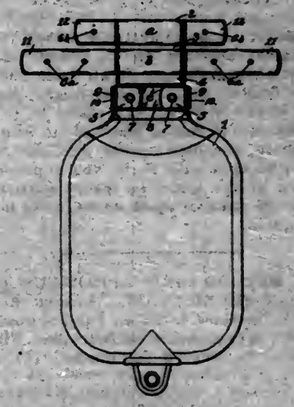
1,752,806. DOOR MECHANISM. ALBERT N. OTIS, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed July 16, 1925. Serial No. 44,105. 14 Claims. (Cl. 268—58.)

1. Operating mechanism for doors comprising a sheave operatively connected to said door, a manually pivoted operated lever arm, a chain passing over said sheave having its ends secured to said arm, and a connection between said chain and said sheave, said chain and sheave being so arranged with respect to each other that the leverage of said arm varies with the position of the door.



1,752,807. PROTECTION OF ELECTRIC SYSTEMS. ROBERT H. PARK, Scotia, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 8, 1928. Serial No. 252,914. 10 Claims. (Cl. 171—97.)

1. In combination with a power transformer having a plurality of windings one terminal of each of which is connected to a common point and a plurality of cooperating polygonally connected windings, an impedance device having a plurality of mutually inductively related windings connected alternately in series in a closed circuit with said cooperating transformer windings, said impedance device windings being arranged to provide additive magnetic fluxes for currents circulating in the closed circuit, and means for reducing the impedance of said impedance device to a harmonic of the power current flowing in said transformer.

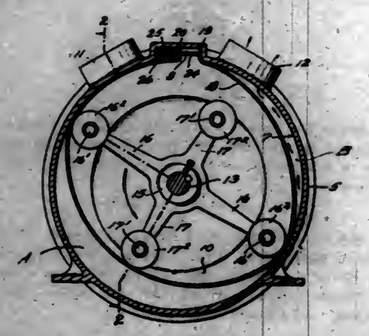
1,752,808. CLOSURE FOR WATER BAGS. MILTON B. REACH, Springfield, Mass., assignor to Stopperless Water Bottle Company, Springfield, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Jan. 26, 1927. Serial No. 163,708. 21 Claims. (Cl. 150—8.)

1. A water bottle having an elongated neck of elastic material adapted to be folded over and over upon itself in one direction and means for applying tension to the elastic material of the neck for holding and compressing the folds in folded position, said tension means connected to and applying its force to the opposite edges of the neck and in opposite directions transverse to the axis of the neck.



1,752,809. AUXILIARY MOTOR SUPPORT. JOHN M. RIORDAN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Jan. 28, 1925, Serial No. 5,290. Renewed Oct. 8, 1929. 7 Claims. (Cl. 180—64.)

1. In a supplementary support for automobile motor units, the combination of the automobile frame, a motor unit mounted therein, a supporting member extending below said motor unit adjacent the rear end thereof and secured to the frame, a support secured to said motor and passing through said member, a coil spring mounted on said support between said motor unit and said member and adapted to limit the downward movement of said motor unit and furnish a fixed support therefor upon predetermined downward movement, and a second spring mounted on said support below said member and adapted to reach its shut position to limit the upward movement of said support through said member.

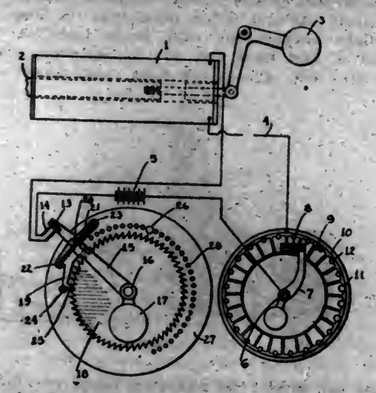
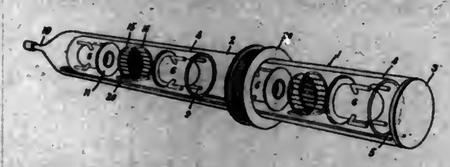
1,752,810. BLOWER. FRANK G. ROMIG, Seattle, Wash. Filed Jan. 17, 1929. Serial No. 333,138. 6 Claims. (Cl. 230—1.)

1. In a blower of the character described, the combination of a casing provided with a circular chamber and having circumferentially spaced air inlet and discharge openings, a flexible piston of less length than the circumference of said chamber, said piston being secured to the periphery of the casing intermediate said ports, an operating shaft extending axially into said chamber, a spider mounted upon said shaft, and a piston-actuating roller carried by the spider in spaced relation from the periphery of the chamber equal substantially to the thickness of the piston.



1,752,811. METHOD AND APPARATUS OF TELEPHONIC COMMUNICATION. SAMUEL RUBEN, New York, N. Y., assignor to Ruben Patents Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 8, 1922. Serial No. 550,850. 20 Claims. (Cl. 179—101.)

1. An electrical sound emitting apparatus comprising a gas filled container having a sound opening, a hot cathode and anode within said container arranged to effect ionization of the gas therein, means for discharging thermionic current through said gas, and means for varying the discharge in accordance with audio signal currents.



1,752,812. CIRCUIT CONTROLLER. JOHN J. RUDDICK, West Newton, Mass., assignor to General Street Signal Corporation, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed Aug. 24, 1922, Serial No. 584,127. Divided and this application filed Dec. 18, 1923. Serial No. 681,343. 6 Claims. (Cl. 200—33.)

1. In a circuit controller, the combination with two circuit controlling members for controlling a single circuit, one of said members being rotatable in a complete circle, and the other of said members being movable in two directions to open and close the circuit, and common motive power for both controlling members having connection with the first mentioned controlling member to move the latter in a complete circle and having connection with the second mentioned controlling member to effect the movement of the latter toward and from a closed position a plurality of times during one rotation of the first mentioned controlling member.

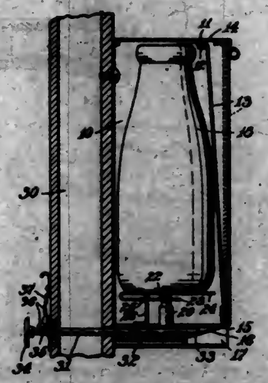
1,752,813. MAGNESIUM-COVERED CALCIUM WIRE. WILLIAM ANDREW RUGGLES, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 9, 1926. Serial No. 80,322. 3 Claims. (Cl. 29—182.)

1. A composite metal comprising an alkaline metal with a magnesium coating thereon, the alkaline metal being more readily oxidizable than the magnesium and both metals being capable of acting as "getters."



1,752,814. FRAME FOR HOLDING PHOTOGRAPHIC FILMS AND PLATES. JAMES E. SKELL, Newark, N. J. Filed Mar. 28, 1929. Serial No. 350,509. 2 Claims. (Cl. 95—101.)

1. A device of the character described comprising a frame having a front portion formed with an opening therein, and a pair of guideways each comprising side portions and an end portion disposed respectively at the sides and one end of the frame, said guideways being disposed in planes parallel to the plane of the frame and having one end open, whereby a photographic film or plate and a backing plate may be slidably inserted one into each guideway.

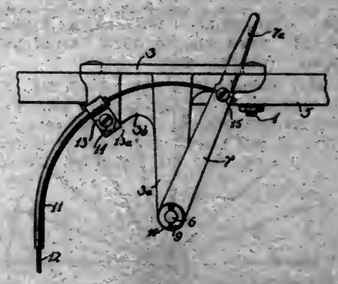
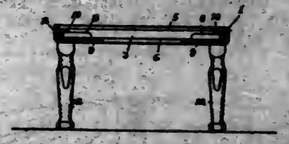
1,752,815. BOTTLE RECEPTACLE. WILLIAM T. SMITH, Muncie, Ind. Filed Jan. 14, 1927. Serial No. 161,033. 1 Claim. (Cl. 284—41.)



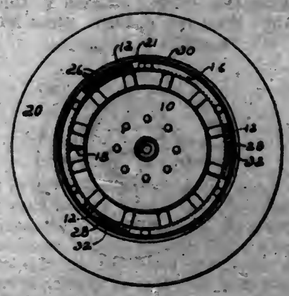
A receptacle of the character described having a movable wall, a latch for retaining said wall against movement, a platform within the receptacle for the reception of an article, means carried by the receptacle for the reception and support of a returnable article, a bolt controlled by the platform and arranged to engage the returnable article when properly placed in said receiving means, a second locking bolt arranged to co-act with said latch and to be engaged by the returnable article when in place, and latching means co-operating with said second bolt.

1,752,816. ENGINE PISTON. MANUEL HUMBERTO PÉREZ SOLOGAISTOA, San Pedro Sula, Honduras. Filed May 2, 1929. Serial No. 359,852. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)



1. In an engine, a cylinder, a reciprocatory piston, a connecting rod, and an anti-friction coupling connection between the rod and piston and to which the rod is pivoted, said connecting having bearing contact with the walls of the cylinder and sliding engagement with the piston to permit the coupling connection and piston to have relative independent lateral movement.

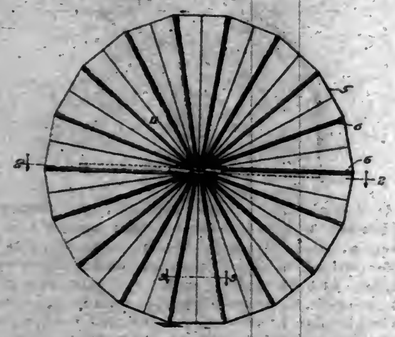
1,752,817. CARBURETOR CONTROLLING DEVICE. CARL W. SPOHR, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Williams, Camp and Bradbury, Chicago, Ill., a Copartnership composed of Lynn A. Williams, Curtis B. Camp, and Clifford C. Bradbury. Filed Jan. 25, 1926. Serial No. 83,551. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—89.)



2. In a device of the class described, the combination of a bracket, a control lever pivotally mounted on said bracket, a flexible control wire, an arcuate guide tube therefor secured to said bracket and having its curvature concentric with the axis of said lever, said lever having transverse bore therethrough having its axis tangential to the arcuate path of the lever at that point for receiving the end only of said flexible wire to hold the wire in arcuate shape to coincide with the curvature of said guide tube.

1,752,818. FURNITURE BASE. ROY F. TAYLOR, Richmond, Ind. Filed May 2, 1927. Serial No. 188,140. 5 Claims. (Cl. 45—48.)

1. A furniture base comprising a frame with a rabbet formed at the upper inner corner thereof and a like rabbet formed at the lower inner corner thereof with both rabbets extending entirely around the base, a triangular block secured in each corner of the frame with the lower faces of said blocks located flush with the horizontal portion of the lower rabbet, a triangular plate contacting with the underside of each block and fitting in the lower rabbet, and a leg extending down from each of said plates.



1,752,819. AUTOMOBILE WHEEL. ERNEST R. TIETZ, Detroit, Mich. Filed Sept. 20, 1926. Serial No. 136,476. 5 Claims. (Cl. 301—5.)

1. In an automobile wheel comprising a channel felloe having an opening in one of its side flanges, a weight provided with a plurality of apertures adapted to slide in the channel of said felloe, and means extending through the opening in said side flange adapted to engage one of the apertures in said weight to retain the latter in one of several positions.

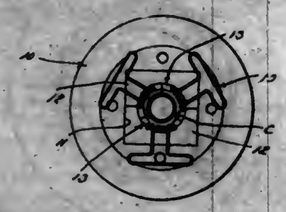
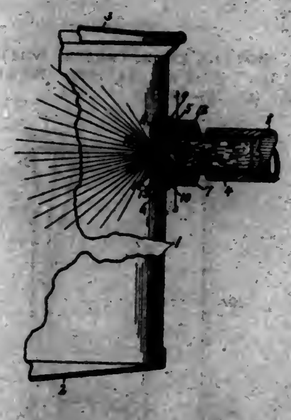
1,752,820. UMBRELLA. WILLIAM S. TIMBLIN, River Forest, Ill. Filed Jan. 26, 1927. Serial No. 163,667. 33 Claims. (Cl. 135—20.)



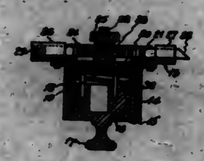
1. A folding umbrella formed of a single blank of material including a plurality of pleats, said pleats being adhesively connected to form radial reinforcing members angularly related to the top when the umbrella is extended for use.

1,752,821. UMBRELLA. WILLIAM S. TIMBLIN, River Forest, Ill. Filed Nov. 28, 1927. Serial No. 236,053. 5 Claims. (Cl. 135—20.)



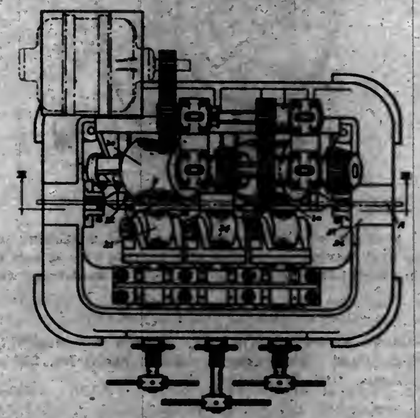
1. An umbrella including a top body portion formed of a plurality of flexible sections interconnected by contiguous integral flanges disposed at substantially right angles to the top when spread, said flanges having portions of their outer edges substantially parallel to the top portion and other portions angularly related thereto.

1,752,822. SLIP FOR ROTARY TABLES AND SPIDERS FOR HANDLING PIPE. RICHARD V. UHRIG, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed July 2, 1928. Serial No. 289,786. 5 Claims. (Cl. 24—263.)



1. A slip to operate in an opening in a rotary table including, a body to fit in the opening, and a handle on the body, the handle having a portion wider than the opening.

1,752,823. SPRAY NOZZLE. FORREST A. WALKER, Syracuse, N. Y., assignor to Walker Dishwasher Corporation, Syracuse, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 18, 1927. Serial No. 192,294. 2 Claims. (Cl. 299—107.)



1. A spray nozzle comprising a tubular nipple having its inlet end threaded externally and its outlet end provided with an out-turned flange, axially spaced partitions within the outlet end of the nipple, the partition nearest the outlet end being provided with a central restricted outlet opening and having its remaining portions imperforate, the other partitions having its central portion imperforate and convexed toward the first-named partition in axial alinement with the outlet opening, said other partition being provided with apertures arranged in uniformly spaced relation around the imperforate convexed portion.

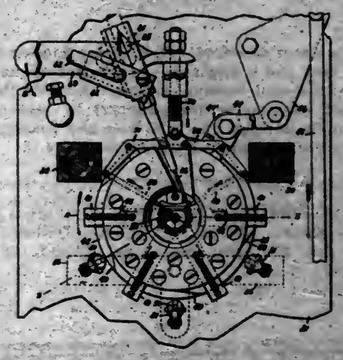
1,752,824. LOCKING DEVICE. GEORGE WATSON, Beaconsfield, British Columbia, Canada. Filed Oct. 22, 1928. Serial No. 314,252. 1 Claim. (Cl. 70—53.)

A locking device comprising, a securing bolt having a toothed rack thereon, a pinion engaging said rack, a spindle engaging said pinion and integrally extended at one end to form a circular plate whose surface is right-angular to the axis of said spindle, a base plate carrying guideways slidably engaging said bolt, a cylindrical casing secured to said base plate and adapted to revolvably receive the periphery of said circular plate, an intermediate sleeve revolvable within said casing, a second circular plate parallel to and slidable against the surface of first said circular plate and engaged revolvably with said intermediate sleeve, an inner revolvable sleeve of less length than said intermediate sleeve and provided with an external handle, said inner sleeve having cylindrical pins projecting beyond its inner face, a helical compression spring within said intermediate sleeve and abutting against said inner face and said second circular plate, both the said circular plates having similar and corresponding perforations adapted to register with each other and to receive and engage the ends of said projecting pins, partial perforations on the inwardly facing surfaces of both said plates, said partial perforations being spaced apart on concentric centre lines and adapted to receive the extremities of said projecting pins, external means for rotating said intermediate sleeve and indicating means on the adjacent external end faces of said casing and said sleeves whereby their relative angular positions may be identified.

1,752,825. GUIDE FOR STRAIGHTENING ROLLS. GEORGE A. WISE, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Sutton Engineering Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 30, 1928. Serial No. 250,375. 22 Claims. (Cl. 153—60.)

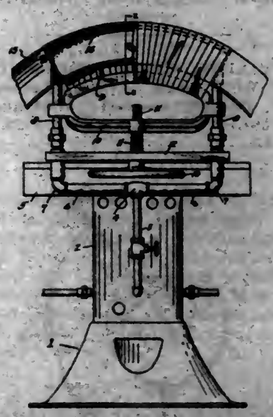
1. A guide for supporting stock between a pair of cooperating cross rolls having a guiding surface continuously supported between the cross rolls by a thin wall of metal having two portions, said portions being arranged to diverge outwardly and downwardly on opposite sides of the guiding surface, said wall portions meeting in a common vertical line at approximately the mid-point of the guiding surface and each wall portion having a vertical face at the lower and outer extremity thereof to serve as a mounting base for the guide.

1,752,826. COMPOSITION OF MATTER AND METHOD OF PRODUCING SAME. MARIE WARSCHENER and LAURENCE FARMER LOSH, Berlin, Germany, assignors to the Firm: Chemische Fabrik auf Actien (vorm. E. Schering), Berlin, Germany. Filed Mar. 4, 1926, Serial No. 92,296, and in Germany Mar. 6, 1925. 8 Claims. (Cl. 167—51.)



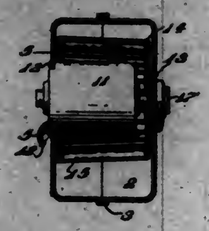
1. As a new composition of matter, a preparation emitting β-rays comprising an adsorption product of uranium X_1 free from uranium and a substance which is substantially insoluble in body liquids and has adsorptive properties.

1,752,827. ROOFING CONSTRUCTION. WILLIAM J. YOUNG, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Jan. 16, 1929. Serial No. 332,846. 2 Claims. (Cl. 108—13.)



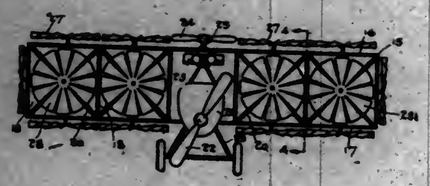
1. A roofing construction comprising metal sheathing or decking, an insulating slab or layer of material placed thereover, weather proofing material laid over the insulation material, a securing means for the insulationg slabs and the weather proofing material extending through the weather proofing material and insulation material in clamped relation thereto and secured to and extending through the metal sheathing, and an insulating covering means disposed over the inner portion of the insulating slab securing means.

1,752,828. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR MOUNTING FILAMENTS. WILLIAM P. ZABEL, Cleveland Heights, Ohio, assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 7, 1927. Serial No. 238,420. 5 Claims. (Cl. 176—3.)



1. In a filament mounting apparatus, the combination, of an anchor positioning member having slots to receive said anchors, a filament guideway disposed to receive the shaped ends of said anchors and clamping means having arms each in position to engage a portion of an anchor adjacent to said guideway.

1,752,829. TIRE VULCANIZER. JOHN Q. ADAMS, Columbus, Ohio, assignor to The Adams-Barre Company, Columbus, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Aug. 30, 1928. Serial No. 303,048. 4 Claims. (Cl. 18—18.)

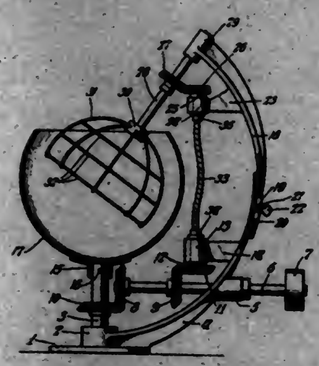


1. A tire curing attachment comprising an arcuate hollow master mold section formed from a metal possessing high thermo-conductivity, means for introducing a heating medium into said mold section, and a removable shell section telescopically positioned over said master mold section, the inner walls of said shell and the outer walls of said mold section being so shaped that said sections physically engage one another over substantially the full area thereof.

1,752,830. MOTOR-DRIVEN BLOWER. EDWARD P. BLISS, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Apr. 15, 1929. Serial No. 355,272. 3 Claims. (Cl. 230—117.)

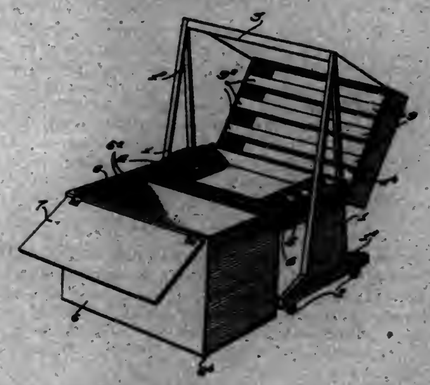
1. In a motor driven blower, a blower housing having a side air inlet and a discharge at its periphery, an electric motor within said housing, a blower fixed to the motor shaft and surrounding the periphery of said motor to cause all the air entering said inlet and passing to said blower to circulate around the motor to cool it.

1,752,831. AIRSHIP CONSTRUCTION. VICTOR AUGUSTE MARIE ERNEST BRAHY, St. Hilaire, Quebec, Canada. Filed Jan. 17, 1929. Serial No. 333,111. 2 Claims. (Cl. 244—15.)



2. In airship construction, a frame work, a plurality of wind rotors rotating in a horisontal plane and a corresponding number in a parallel plane, fore and aft rotors rotating in parallel vertical planes, transverse rotors rotating in vertical planes, a lifting propeller and a propulsion member.

1,752,832. MIXING DEVICE. WILLIAM C. BRUMDER, Milwaukee, Wis.; Thekla U. Brumder executrix of said William C. Brumder, deceased. Filed Aug. 24, 1922, Serial No. 584,103. Renewed Aug. 15, 1929. 20 Claims. (Cl. 259—85.)

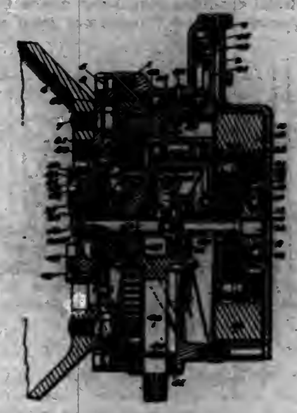


1. Apparatus of the character described comprising a pair of juxtaposed bodies rotatable upon intersecting axes, one of said bodies consisting of a framework the elements of which lie on the surface of a sphere and comprising a plurality of partially circular meridian elements.

1,752,833. MIXING APPARATUS. WILLIAM C. BRUMDER, Milwaukee, Wis.; Thekla U. Brumder executrix of said William C. Brumder, deceased. Filed Aug. 6, 1923, Serial No. 655,889. Renewed Aug. 15, 1929. 4 Claims. (Cl. 259—85.)

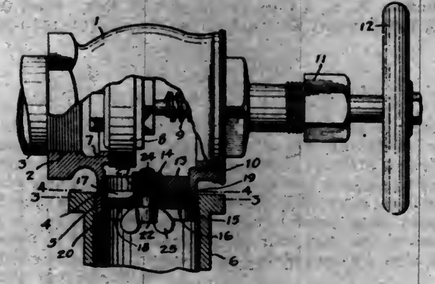
1. A beater of the character described consisting of a framework having an outline of a portion of a sphere and having meridian elements as a portion of said framework.

1,752,834. SEWING CABINET. VICTOR E. CARLSON, San Diego, Calif. Filed Aug. 4, 1928. Serial No. 297,571. 2 Claims. (Cl. 312—152.)



1. In a sewing cabinet, a pair of supports, a horizontally positioned tray supported thereby, said tray extending further to one side of said supports than to the other, a shelf support having an open side hinged to the lower edge of said tray on the the lesser extended side thereof, a deep receptacle hinged to the upper edge of said tray on the greater extended side thereof, said receptacle adapted, when closed, to be positioned bottom side up upon said tray and presenting a side surface in a plane common with said lower edge of the tray and means for securing said shelf support with its open side contiguous with said side surface of said receptacle.

1,752,835. ENGINE-STARTING APPARATUS. ROLAND CHILTON, Keyport, N. J., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Eclipse Machine Company, Elmira Heights, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 30, 1929. Serial No. 336,311. 10 Claims. (Cl. 123—179.)



1. In apparatus of the class described, a rotatable engine-engaging member, a fly-wheel, a train of reduction gearing connected to said member, a yieldable driving means carried by said flywheel and drivably connected to said train of gearing, means for rotating said member to store energy in the flywheel including said gear train, and means for axially shifting said member to engine-engaging position.

1,752,836. VALVE. WILLIAM F. CONRAN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Oct. 8, 1927. Serial No. 224,886. 9 Claims. (Cl. 277—66.)

3. In a water distribution for buildings, a valve casing having a discharge opening, an externally operable closure valve in said casing controlling flow therethrough, a disk fixed transversely of said opening and having a plurality of ports therein, a second correspondingly ported disk rotatably mounted in said opening, means for clamping said disks in fixed position with respect to each other, and a conduit member connected with said opening, said rotatable element and holding means being wholly enclosed by said valve casing and conduit element so as to be accessible only by disconnecting the same.

1,752,837. APPARATUS FOR MANUFACTURING PIES. THOMAS CORNS, Richmond, Victoria, Australia. Filed June 26, 1928, Serial No. 288,408, and in Australia Aug. 31, 1927. 7 Claims. (Cl. 107—15.)

1. Improved apparatus for manufacturing pies comprising, a plurality of tray members having openings to accommodate pie tins or cooking containers, cutting edges around said openings, means for pressing the paste into the pie tins to form the pie shells, means for severing the pies against said cutting edges, oven trays supported beneath the tray members, and means for discharging the pie tins from the openings onto said oven trays.

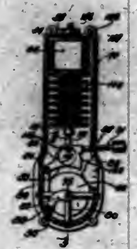
1,752,838. BINDER FOR FUEL AGGLOMERATES. FRANCIS M. CROSSMAN, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 5, 1924. Serial No. 754,201. 5 Claims. (Cl. 44—16.)

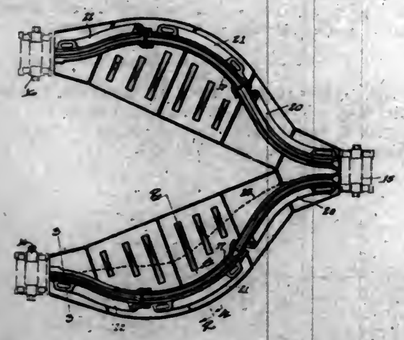
1. A binder for making briquettes from pulverulent fuels comprising a mixture of sulphite cellulose waste liquor in an aqueous starch solution together with asphaltum pitch as a waterproofing material and a small amount of sodium nitrate as an oxidizing agent.

1,752,839. AMPLIFIER. PAUL C. GARDINER, Oakland, Calif., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 26, 1929. Serial No. 342,804. 8 Claims. (Cl. 179—171.)



1. An alternating current amplifier including electric discharge devices, alternating current supply terminals, a resistance network including a potentiometer connected between said terminals, anode and grid resistors, connected between said devices and said potentiometer and a coupling resistor connected between said resistors, a cathode return circuit, and a contact movable between the terminals of the potentiometer and connected with the cathode return circuit.

1,752,840. WATER-HEATER APPLIANCE. FRANK A. GAUGER and ROY W. JOHNSON, Milwaukee, Wis., assignors, by mesne assignments, to Time-O-Stat Controls Company, a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Feb. 28, 1923. Serial No. 621,087. 3 Claims. (Cl. 161—1.)



1. A time controlled releasing mechanism comprising an operating shaft biased to a predetermined position, a handle for actuating said shaft, a cocking member connected to said shaft and adjusted thereby, a pivotally supported trigger member biased to a latching position in which it is adapted to latch the cocking member in set position, a time element, a pin connected to and operated by said time element, said trigger member having an enlarged opening in which said pin is loosely fitted and a single handle connected to the trigger member and acting when moved in one direction to set the time element and move the trigger member to latching position wherein the trigger remains until released by the action of the time element after the expiration of a predetermined time interval, said handle, when moved in the opposite direction, acting to move the trigger to released position independently of the time element.

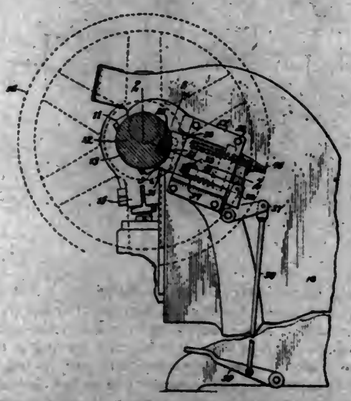
1,752,841. LOOPING TROUGH FOR ROLLING MILLS. JEROME R. GEORGE, Worcester, Mass., assignor to Morgan Construction Company, Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Original application filed May 16, 1925, Serial No. 30,857. Divided and this application filed Feb. 17, 1928. Serial No. 255,103. 5 Claims. (Cl. 80—51.)

5. Apparatus of the class described, comprising two successive stands of reducing rolls arranged substantially in tandem and adapted to operate simultaneously on a single piece of stock, and a trough for guiding the stock from the first to the second stand of rolls, said trough curving outwardly from its receiving end and then reversing its curvature intermediately to provide a path between said roll stands of substantially greater length than their straight line distance apart, a portion of the inner wall of said trough being shaped to permit the escape of the stock from said trough in the event of an underfeed of said stock by the first stand of rolls, whereby the path of said stock between said rolls is shifted inwardly of said reversely curved trough portions.



1,752,842. CONTROL SYSTEM. WILLIAM N. GITTINGS, Upper Darby, Pa., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 4, 1929. Serial No. 337,218. 5 Claims. (Cl. 171—118.)

1. In combination, a polyphase supply circuit, a rotary transformer, a control device, means normally arranged to effect the connection of said transformer to said circuit in response to a predetermined condition of said control device, means responsive to a predetermined relation between the currents in different phases of said circuit, means responsive to a predetermined electrical condition of said transformer, and means controlled directly by said current responsive means and said transformer electrical condition responsive means for effecting the disconnection of said transformer from said circuit and the subsequent reconnection thereto whenever a predetermined current condition occurs in said circuit when said transformer electric condition responsive means is in a predetermined position and for effecting the disconnection of said transformer from said circuit and for rendering said connection means non-responsive to said control device whenever said predetermined current condition occurs when said transformer electrical condition responsive means is in another position.

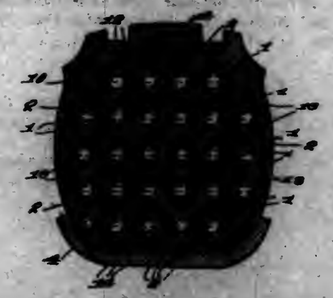
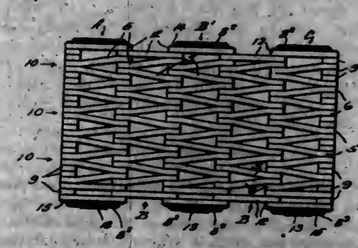
1,752,843. CLUTCH. PAUL R. HANNEMANN, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Niagara Machine and Tool Works, Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 5, 1928. Serial No. 310,565. 9 Claims. (Cl. 192—25.)



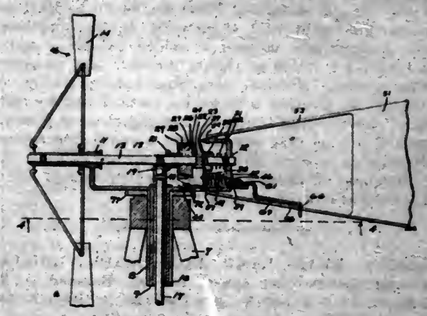
1. A clutch including a driving member, a driven member, a coupling member rotatable with said driven member and movable into coupling relation with said driving member and retractable therefrom, a cam member arranged adjacent said coupling member, stop means arranged at one side of said cam member and a spring reacting against the opposite side of said cam member, said spring urging said cam member into engagement with said coupling member to retract said coupling member and said spring cooperating with said stop means to continue the retraction of said coupling member after the driving connection between said coupling and driving members has been broken.

1,752,844. ELECTRIC SHOCK ABSORBER. ARTHUR W. HARRISON, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-half to L. D. KAY, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Dec. 19, 1928. Serial No. 327,082. 4 Claims. (Cl. 188—104.)



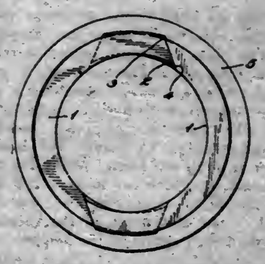
1. An electric shock absorber comprising in combination an electric generator, means to actuate said generator due to the spring motion of a vehicle, a load resistor in the circuit of said generator, the load resistor acting against the operation of the generator and retarding the spring action.

1,752,845. TIRE FOR MOTOR VEHICLE WHEELS. ERNEST HIBBERT, Goulburn, New South Wales, Australia. Original application filed Sept. 19, 1924, Serial No. 738,639, and in Australia May 29, 1924. Divided and this application filed Jan. 29, 1926. Serial No. 84,710. 2 Claims. (Cl. 152—5.)



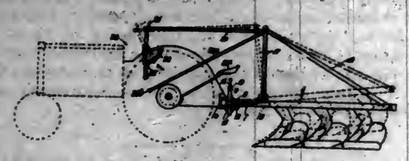
1. A tire having a core comprising a plurality of longitudinally wound concentrically arranged cell bands of elastic material each cell band extending in width laterally from side to side of the core and having compressed air filled cells spaced apart and which project from opposite sides of the band, the cells of the respective bands being arranged in staggered relation so that each cell of one band is arranged in the space formed between the cells of the next adjacent band.

1,752,846. FLEXIBLE MAT. HAROLD W. HOLLENBECK, Kirkland, Wash., assignor to Durable Mat Company, Seattle, Wash., a Corporation of Washington. Filed Oct. 20, 1928. Serial No. 313,877. 8 Claims. (Cl. 20—78.)



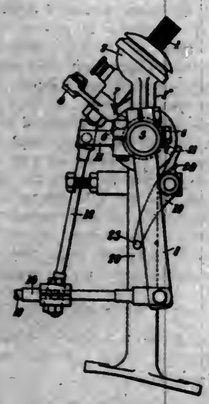
3. A mat formed of end and intermediate sections longitudinally of the mat, each section comprising a plurality of link elements with apertures at the opposite ends thereof, rods extending through said apertures to connect the links in the respective sections, one rod of each end section and both rods of the intermediate sections serving to hingedly connect the sections together, spacing elements mounted upon the other rod of each end section, said spacing elements and the links being arranged in close laterally abutting relation to one end upon the various rods and in respect to each other so as to dispose the links in angular relation to both the longitudinal and transverse axes of the mat.

1,752,847. WINDMILL. VALORUS S. HOLLINGSWORTH, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-half to Ira M. Hollingsworth, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 20, 1928. Serial No. 286,838. 8 Claims. (Cl. 170—54.)



1. In a windmill a frame mounted upon a supporting structure for rotary movement in respect thereto about a vertical axis, a shaft journaled horizontally in said frame, a wheel carried by said shaft and adapted to be rotated by an air current when said shaft is substantially in parallelism with the direction of said current power transmitting means releasably connected to said shaft, a vertically disposed rudder carried by said frame whereby the frame is moved by the force of the air current to bring the shaft into parallelism with the direction of the current, a detent carried by said frame and adapted to releasably lock the frame to said supporting structure, and means operable by said rudder for withdrawing said detent from engaging position, and means operable by said rudder for releasing said power transmitting means.

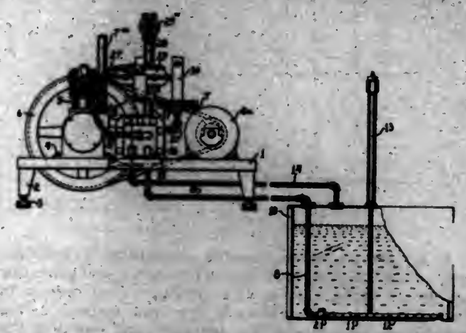
1,752,848. PISTON RING. JAMES J. HOWARD, Stamford, Conn. Filed Jan. 16, 1928. Serial No. 247,131. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—109.)



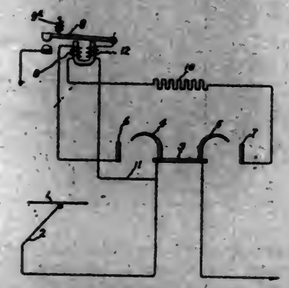
1. A piston ring having an external circumference corresponding in length to the length of the internal circumference of the cylinder for which it is designed, slightly elliptical in contour, and composed of similar sections, lapping at their ends, the laps being at the ends of the long axis.

1,752,849. TRACTOR PLOW. GEORGE HUDSON, Boongalle, Merbein South, Victoria, Australia. Filed Aug. 20, 1926, Serial No. 130,503, and in Australia Aug. 22, 1925. 1 Claim. (Cl. 97—47.)

A tractor having a chassis provided with a transverse bar and with a pair of spaced arms extending rearwardly from said bar, a U-frame secured rigidly to said transverse bar at a point between said arms, an inverted U-frame secured on said U-frame for vertical adjustment and also guided by said U-frame, a trailing implement frame, a transverse member to which the front end of said implement frame is rigidly secured, said transverse member having forwardly extending arms pivotally connected to said inverted U-frame for vertical angular movement of said trailing frame, a swinging element pivotally connected to said first named arms, a connection between said swinging element and the rear portion of said trailing frame and an operating lever mounted on said tractor and connected to said swinging element.



1,752,850. HEAD LAMP FOR ROAD VEHICLES. JOSEPH RIDLINGTON, Acton, London, England. Filed July 20, 1928, Serial No. 294,239, and in Great Britain Mar. 20, 1928. 4 Claims. (Cl. 240—61.)

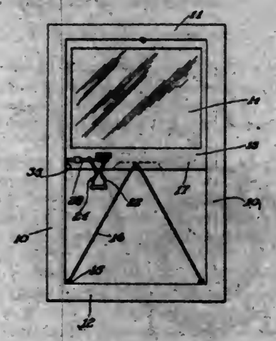


1. A mounting for head lamps of motor road vehicles comprising stems adapted to carry the lamps, a rocking shaft mounted in fixed bearings, sockets carried by said shaft in which said stems are mounted, a coupling between said two stems, a grooved cam loosely mounted on said shaft in juxtaposition to one of the lamp sockets, an arm fixed on the stem in the lamp socket adjacent to the cam and adapted to engage the groove in the cam, means for rocking the shaft, means for rotating the cam on said shaft, a device for locking the cam against rotation, and means for unlocking the cam immediately before the end of the movement of the rocking shaft to produce the complete dipping of the lamps.

1,752,851. GAS-PRODUCING APPARATUS. GEORGE R. ROESCH, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to Tolectro Corporation, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Sept. 2, 1927. Serial No. 217,138. 3 Claims. (Cl. 261—124.)

1. In a gas producing apparatus having a tank for vaporific liquid to which gaseous pressure fluid is fed through a pipe line, a gas collecting chamber, a duct leading from the tank to the chamber for supplying gas thereto, means to maintain the pressure of gas delivered from the chamber substantially uniform, and devices for providing a gas cushion in the pressure fluid line leading to the tank including a valve member in communication with the inside of the collecting chamber, thereby to prevent forcing liquid from the tank through the feed line.

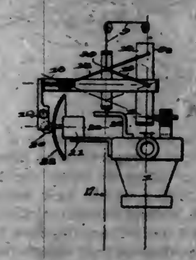
1,752,852. SAFETY SYSTEM. WILHELM ROHKOHL, Potsdam, Germany, assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 30, 1928, Serial No. 250,630, and in Germany Feb. 24, 1927. 6 Claims. (Cl. 175—294.)



1. A safety system including a safety cutout, arc-breaking members associated with said cut-out, auxiliary poles adjacent said arc-breaking members respectively and out of the path of a normal arc therebetween, and an electrical connection between said poles forming a parallel circuit to the arc when an abnormal arc jumps over to said auxiliary poles.

1,752,853. PROCESS FOR PRODUCING CELLULOSE ACETATE. ARTHUR RUSSELL, Baltimore, Md., and JOSEPH F. HEGEMAN, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 15, 1929. Serial No. 340,180. 6 Claims. (Cl. 260—102.)

1. Those steps in the process of producing cellulose acetate which consist in mixing cellulose with an acetylizing solution and acetylizing the cellulose under pressure of between 50 and 75 pounds per square inch, and adding a hydration mixture and raising the pressure while maintaining the temperature.



1,752,854. WINDOW-CLOSING DEVICE. FRED SCHIERHOFER, Mount Vernon, N. Y. Filed June 12, 1929. Serial No. 370,264. 5 Claims. (Cl. 268—123.)

5. In combination with a window frame having slidable sashes therein, a window closing device comprising a tooth mounted rigidly on said frame, a bolt normally extended to engage said tooth to retain said window in raised position, a normally suspended bar, a bracket supporting said bar in suspended position, a stud rigidly mounted on said bracket having said bar rotatable thereon, a spring, the ends of said spring being respectively attached to said stud and said locking bolt, said bar being adapted to be swung to the suspended position in a horizontal plane so that said bar does not become an obstruction in the closing of said window, a bell crank engaging said locking bolt pivoted on said bar, a moisture fracturable ring encircling the end of said bar and said bell crank for retaining said locking bolt in extended position, said ring being adapted to part when moistened.

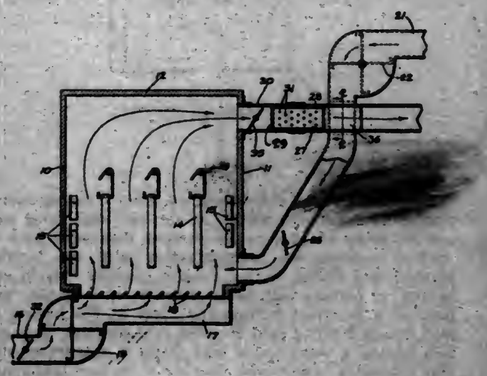
1,752,855. APPARATUS FOR MEASURING PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS OF FLOWING STREAMS OF FLUID. FRITZ SCHÖNEBERGER, Sterkrade, Germany. Filed Apr. 4, 1927, Serial No. 180,973, and in Germany Feb. 25, 1924. 2 Claims. (Cl. 73—184.)

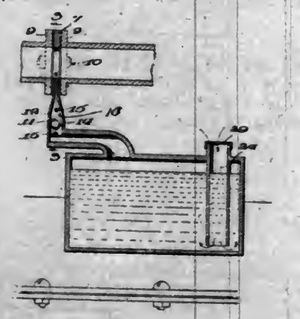


1. In a device for registering composite physical characteristics of flowing streams of fluid, the combination of meang responsive to the rate of flow of the fluid, means responsive to the difference in temperature between the fore-flow and the return flow of the flowing stream of fluid, each of said responsive means including a member movable in accordance with the characteristic to which it is responsive, a third movable member, means connected with and actuated by the combined movements of the first two mentioned movable members to impart the resultant movement thereof to said third movable member, a friction drive member actuated at a constant rate of speed by means other than those for moving the aforementioned movable members, and a counter having a friction drive in cooperative relation with the friction drive member and movable thereover by the said third movable member to drive the counter at varying speeds in accordance with the resultant movements of the two first mentioned movable members whereby to register on the counter the total units of the desired characteristic.

1,752,856. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR MAKING BASKETS. ALBERT H. SCHMIDTKE, St. Joseph, Mich., assignor to St. Joseph Iron Works, St. Joseph, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Mar. 25, 1926. Serial No. 97,220. 19 Claims. (Cl. 147—47.)

1. In an apparatus of the class described, the combination of a tapered form having a narrow extended edge around the smaller end, a folder adapted to embrace the smaller end of the form for clamping a mat against the extended edge of the form and folding an annular portion of the mat against the tapered face of the form, means for pushing the center portion of the mat within the extended edge to internally arch said portion and form a sharp bend between the center and annular portions of the mat, and mechanism for applying a confining band around the folded mat on the form to embrace the aforesaid sharp bend and retain the arched form of the portion of the mat within the extended edge of the form.

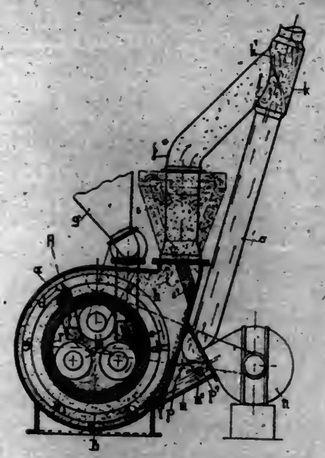
1,752,857. JAPANNING OVEN. JOHN A. SEEDS, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 31, 1927. Serial No. 243,974. 6 Claims. (Cl. 34—19.)



1. The combination with an oven, of heating means within said oven, an air inlet for said oven, an outlet flue for conducting heated gases away from said oven, means including an igniting device for producing combustion of said gases in said outlet flue, an auxiliary air intake for said oven and means including a heat exchange device whereby heat produced by said combustion is returned to said oven through said auxiliary air inlet.

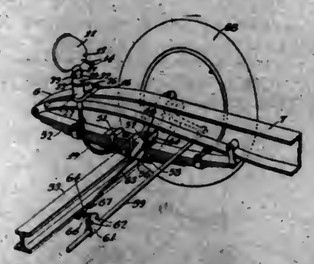
1,752,858. BROOCH-FASTENING DEVICE. GUSTAVUS A. SIEFKEN, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Aug. 10, 1929. Serial No. 384,976. 7 Claims. (Cl. 24—157.)

1. The combination with a pin guard having a hook portion and slotted opening in the shank thereof and a curved recess adjacent said opening, of a catch pivoted within said opening beneath the point of said guard and having a lug projecting upwardly to a position adjacent to the end of said guard, a spring mounted within said curved recess to engage said catch for normally holding said lug near the end of said guard and across the opening of said hook portion, and said catch having an arm forming a finger grip for tilting said catch against the tension of said spring and moving said lug to expose the opening in the hook portion of said guard.



1,752,859. AUXILIARY AIR INLET FOR HUMIDIFIERS. JERRY H. SIMUNEK, Gregory, S. Dak. Filed Jan. 21, 1926. Serial No. 82,886. 1 Claim. (Cl. 277—60.)

In a device of the class described, a valve casing having a laterally flared wall portion at one end, said flared wall portion being adapted to be clamped between a pair of conduit sections for communication with the interior thereof, said casing having a valve chamber therein and having a passage extending through said flared wall portion, a partition terminating short of the bottom of said casing dividing said chamber into sections, each section having a valve and a seat therefor, transverse stop pins extending across said chamber above and below said valves for limiting movement of the valves and said pins holding said partition in position and reinforcing the same.



1,752,860. MILL. ADOLF STEINBRÜCKNER, Duisburg, Germany. Filed Nov. 30, 1927, Serial No. 236,749, and in Germany Dec. 8, 1926. 20 Claims. (Cl. 83—9.)

1. A mill comprising a mill work having a cylindrical outer surface, a pneumatic conveyor arranged on the outer surface of said work and adapted to operate concentrically thereto and to lead off ground material from the mill, an air conduit leading to said conveyer, and an outlet in said air conduit before its junction with said conveyer to by-pass a proportion of the air forced through the conduit to the conveyer.

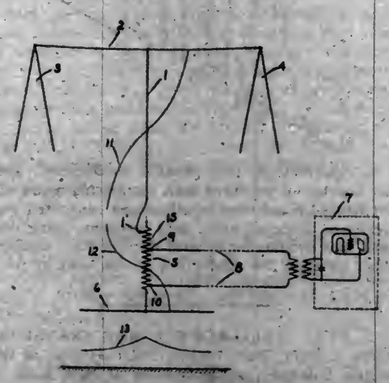
1,752,861. DIRIGIBLE HEADLIGHT. WALLACE E. C. STONE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 11, 1928. Serial No. 269,268. 8 Claims. (Cl. 240—62.)

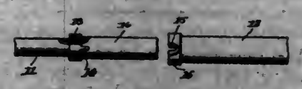
1. A headlight mounting comprising a socket member securable to a vehicle, a tapered plug member having an axial bore extending upwards from the bottom thereof, said plug member fitting within said socket member for rotary movement in respect thereto, a pin rigid with said plug and extending axially from the bore thereof through an aperture in the bottom of said socket member, a spring interposed between said plug member and socket member and disposed within the bore of the plug member, means for imparting rotary movement to said pin, and means for attaching a headlight to said plug member.

1,752,862. HYDRAULIC CLUTCH. GEORGE J. STRZYNSKI, Kingston, N. Y. Filed Aug. 12, 1927. Serial No. 212,386. 14 Claims. (Cl. 192—85.)



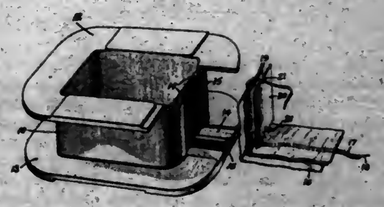
1. Apparatus of the class described comprising a driving member, a transmission shaft mounted adjacent said driving member in spaced relation thereto and having one or more gears mounted thereon intermediate the ends thereof, a clutch member operatively associated with one end portion of said transmission shaft and adapted to engage said driving member, and hydraulically operated means associated with the other end portion of said transmission shaft for mechanically causing said clutch member to engage said driving member.

1,752,863. MANUFACTURE OF CHROMATES. OMAR F. TARR, Baltimore, Md., assignor to Mutual Chemical Company of America, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 3, 1929. Serial No. 352,322. 7 Claims. (Cl. 23—56.)



1. The process of manufacturing alkali chromates which comprises roasting in an oxidising atmosphere a mixture of finely pulverised chromium ore with about half its weight of pulverised basic refractory material and an amount of alkali carbonate sufficient to combine with a part only of the chromium content of the ore, leaching the roasted product, mixing the residue with a further quantity of alkali carbonate and subjecting the resulting mixture to a further roasting operation with subsequent leaching of the roasted product to recover alkali chromate therefrom.

1,752,864. ANTENNA SYSTEM. LAURENS A. TAYLOR, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 20, 1928. Serial No. 300,727. 3 Claims. (Cl. 250—33.)

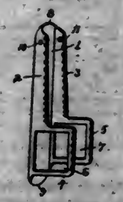


1. The combination in a radiating system, of a vertical radiating member having a length substantially equal to one half of a wave length of the waves to be radiated, an oscillatory circuit located at the base of said radiating member, said radiating member and oscillatory circuit being in proximity to but isolated from the earth whereby oscillations are produced in said radiating member having a voltage node at the midpoint thereof, and means for supplying high frequency current to said oscillatory circuit.

1,752,865. FISHING ROD. SAMUEL T. THORPE and NILS P. PETERSON, Bristol, Conn., assignors to The Horton Manufacturing Company, Bristol, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Nov. 7, 1927. Serial No. 231,718. 2 Claims. (Cl. 287—126.)

1. A joint for a sectional fishing rod, said joint comprising two sections, one section having a ferrule on one end thereof telescoped within the other section, a sleeve on said ferrule, cooperating interlocking means on said sleeve and the other section holding the two sections against relative rotation, and a sleeve fixedly secured on the other section concealing said locking means when the two sections are telescoped.

1,752,866. SOLENOID WINDING. PANFILO TROMBETTA, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 31, 1928. Serial No. 329,602. 8 Claims. (Cl. 175—21.)

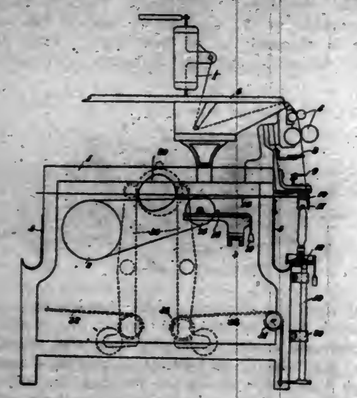


1. A spool for electrical coils comprising a winding body and a flange at each end thereof, one of said flanges being recessed on its inner side from said winding body to the outer edge of said flange to provide a passageway through which the conductor forming the coil extends to the inner layer of the coil whereby uniform winding is produced.

1,752,867. REFRACTORY COMPOSITION AND PROCESS OF MAKING REFRACTORY ARTICLES THEREFROM. LOUIS J. TROSTEL, Baltimore, Md., assignor to General Refractories Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 30, 1927. Serial No. 179,720. 5 Claims. (Cl. 106—9.)

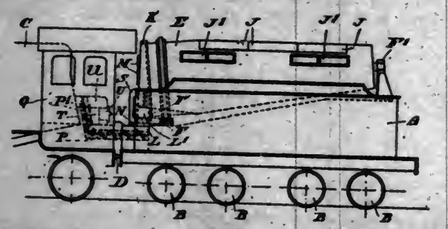
1. A batch mixture for forming refractory bodies, containing a hydrous oxide of aluminum and sufficient mullite to prevent the shrinkage of the mass during firing.

1,752,868. CASKET HANDLE. BROR A. UTTER, Richmond, Ind., assignor to McClelland Casket Hardware Company, Richmond, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Sept. 10, 1928. Serial No. 304,939. 1 Claim. (Cl. 16—112.)



A casket handle arm formed from a flat blank of sheet metal, said blank being of inverted cruciform shape with the extending cross portions thereof forming cages, said blank bent on two parallel lines to form a central portion and two side portions parallel with each other and at right-angles to the central portion with said side portions including said cages.

1,752,869. SPINNING MACHINE. JOSEPH VAN DEN ABEELE, Ghent, Belgium. Filed Sept. 11, 1928, Serial No. 305,259, and in Belgium Apr. 27, 1928. 1 Claim. (Cl. 118—51.)



In a spinning machine, in combination: a set of delivery rollers for stretching the yarn, yarn guides, a hollow disc mounted for rotation on a stationary rail of the frame, a pair of short downward projecting arms carried by said disc, the end of one of which receives the yarn coming from the yarn guide; means to rotate said disc and arms at a great speed, a separator formed with and above said stationary rail, a spindle secured to a movable rail, means to impart a vertical to-and-fro movement to said rail, combined with a gradual downward movement, the arrangement being such that at the beginning of the gradual downward movement the spindle and cop which is mounted thereon are completely engaged in the hollow disc and separator, the diameter of the central hole of the disc and of the separator being slightly greater than that of the empty cop, the difference being just great enough to allow the yarn to pass through, the cop being, on the other hand, completely disengaged from the separator, disc and short arms at the end of the gradual downward movement, means to tip the cop at this moment for removing purposes and means to brake the spindle during spinning, which spindle is not driven to rotate.

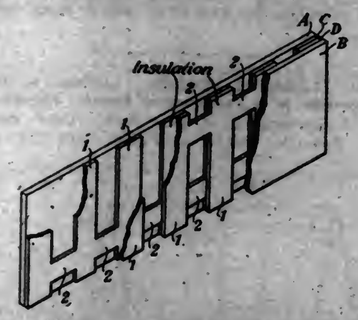
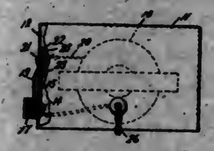
1,752,870. FUEL BUNKER FOR THE STEAM GENERATORS OF LOCOMOTIVES, MARINE AND STATIONARY ENGINES, AND PLANT. ROBERT HARBEN WHITELEGG, Disley, England. Filed Apr. 4, 1929, Serial No. 352,541, and in Great Britain June 15, 1928. 16 Claims. (Cl. 105—234.)

2. A fuel bunker for steam generators of locomotives, marine and stationary engines and plant, consisting of a closed rotary vessel or container of which the lowermost side is inclined downwards towards the fuel discharge end which is closed by a separate fixed structure or casting having a fuel delivery outlet.



1,752,871. DOUBLE-SPEED, SYNCHRONOUS, DYNAMO-ELECTRIC MACHINE. ROBERT W. WIESEMAN, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed June 21, 1929. Serial No. 372,765. 6 Claims. (Cl. 172—274.)

1. A field element for a dynamo electric machine consisting of one or more field units, each unit composed of four large salient poles and four small salient poles, said small salient poles being arranged in pairs and having magnetically symmetrical pole tips facing each other, said field element to consist of any number of field units necessary to obtain the desired number of poles.



5. A synchronous dynamo electric machine of a type having windings that may be connected for either 2N poles or 3N poles, N being any even number, said machine having a field element consisting of 2N large salient poles and 2N small salient poles, said poles being assembled alternately in pairs around the periphery, said poles being provided with windings connected in two circuit groups, said two groups so connected to a suitable source of direct current that the direction of current in one group may be reversed, thereby changing the field element from 3N poles of alternate polarity to 2N poles of alternate polarity, and vice versa.

1,752,872. INSULATION FOR ELECTRICAL CONDUCTORS. HAROLD G. WITHER, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to The Union Switch & Signal Company, Swissvale, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 21, 1929. Serial No. 334,083. 4 Claims. (Cl. 178—13.)

1. In combination, two parallel conductors; and two similar insulating members each comprising a plurality of spaced ribs adjacent ones of which are connected together by means of integral webs, said members being disposed between said conductors in such manner that passages are provided between the conductors at the webs of the members.

1,752,873. VARIABLE-VOLTAGE TRANSFORMER. ELMER J. ZELT, Fort Wayne, Ind., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 17, 1928. Serial No. 313,106. 3 Claims. (Cl. 171—119.)

1. A variable voltage transformer having a winding, a plurality of fixed contacts connected to said winding, an insulating plate, a switch member mounted on said plate and movable along one of its faces, and means at the other face of said plate for supporting said contacts in spaced relation, said plate being perforated to permit said switch member to move over said contacts.

1,752,874. FLYING BOAT. ERNST ZINDEL, Dessau, Germany, assignor to Hugo Junkers, Dessau, Germany. Filed June 9, 1928, Serial No. 284,059, and in Germany Feb. 17, 1928. 7 Claims. (Cl. 244—2.)

1. A flying boat of the monoplane twin-hull type, comprising a wing forming a continuous beam, two floating hulls adapted to carry the entire weight of the craft, said hulls being rigidly fixed to and extending below the bottom of said wing in spaced relation and substantially parallel to the longitudinal middle axis of the craft, and means spaced from said wing for bracing the adjoining side walls of said hulls against each other and for reinforcing the portion of said wing intermediate said hulls.

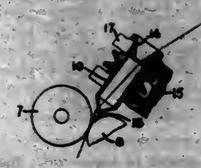
1,752,875. SOLVENT-RECOVERY APPARATUS FOR RUBBER-SPREADING MACHINES. ERNEST ARENT ABELES, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 28, 1928. Serial No. 273,629. 2 Claims. (Cl. 34—3.)

1. In apparatus of the character described, an upwardly inclined hollow cooling plate for receiving and guiding a sheet of fabric in flat condition, a heating chamber relatively long and narrow and downwardly inclined relatively to said cooling means, a guide roller intermediate the cooling plate and heating chamber, a condensing chamber communicating with the heating chamber at the discharge end of the latter and means for guiding the sheet of material from the heating chamber into and out of the condensing chamber.

1,752,876. TRANSMISSION OF PICTURES. ERNST F. W. ALEXANDERSON, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 9, 1926. Serial No. 128,266. 20 Claims. (Cl. 178—7.)



1. The method of transmitting a picture having a plurality of shades which comprises successively selecting the respective shades, transmitting code signals for the several selected shades, and causing a record to be made of the respective shades as determined by the code signals.

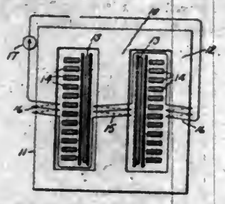
1,752,877. MACROCRYSTAL INGOT AND METHOD OF MAKING IT. HANS ALTERTHUM, Berlin, Germany, assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed July 6, 1922, Serial No. 573,193, and in Germany July 13, 1921. 9 Claims. (Cl. 148—4.)

1. The process of changing a microcrystalline body of a refractory metal into macrocrystal ingot having a substantially uniform macrocrystalline characteristic which consists in heating a body of pressed powdered tungsten for a considerable time at a temperature near the melting point of the metal in an atmosphere of a reducing gas which contains a small percentage of an oxidizing agent.

1,752,878. TWISTER TUBE FOR SPINNING FRAMES. ANTHON AMBYE, Andover, Mass., assignor to Davis & Furber Machine Company, Andover, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Sept. 20, 1929. Serial No. 393,910. 4 Claims. (Cl. 19—154.)

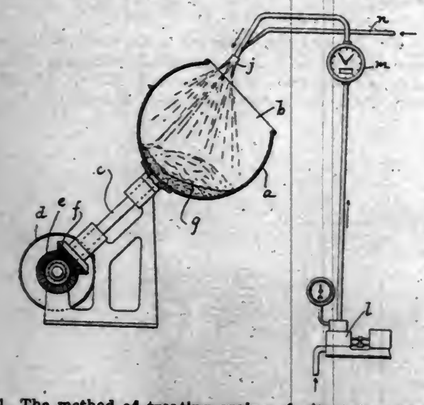
1. A twister tube for spinning machines comprising bearings and a whorl, the bore of the tube presenting an inwardly converging entering section, a spherical tip member, having a radially projecting point, and means supporting the spherical tip member at a distance from the outlet end of the tube with the point extending outward on the tube axis and with the major segment of the spherical surface centering at the point free and unobstructed.

1,752,879. RADIATOR. EDWARD L. ANDERSON, Grosse Ile, Mich., assignor to American Blower Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 15, 1928. Serial No. 306,189. 5 Claims. (Cl. 257—154.)



2. In a radiator, a plurality of steam pipes, a plurality of spaced heat radiating plates mounted thereon, said pipes being arranged in staggered relationship of streamline section, and said plates having their edges of streamline section, said edges being arranged alternately at different distances from the outside pipes, all streamline edges being so positioned that the incoming air stream between a pair of edges furtherest from the pipes may expand to its maximum before being divided by the streamline edge of the inner intermediate plate, and a plurality of spaced ridges arranged in each plate between the pipes to radiate the heat from the edges of said ridges of said plates into the air stream, said ridges being arranged in a sinuous path between the staggered pipes to follow the general direction of the air stream between the pipes.

1,752,880. TRANSFORMER. LOUIS F. BLUME, Pittsfield, Mass., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 28, 1928. Serial No. 322,415. 8 Claims. (Cl. 175—356.)



1. A transformer including a magnetic core having a winding leg and an outer section for return magnetic flux, main windings on said winding leg, an auxiliary winding on said winding leg, and a second auxiliary winding on said outer section of the core, the turns of said auxiliary windings being connected in series with the voltage of the turns on the winding leg opposed to the voltage of the turns on the outer section of the core.

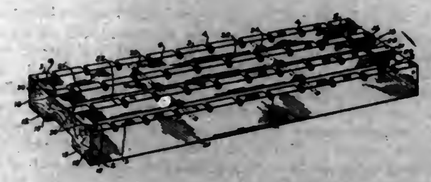
1,752,881. MANUFACTURE OF SMOKELESS POWDER. CHARLES R. BORLAND, Concord, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to American Powder Company, Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 1, 1924. Serial No. 696,202. 7 Claims. (Cl. 52—20.)

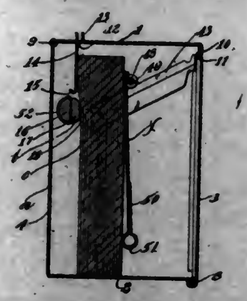
1. The method of treating grains of nitrated cotton to produce smokeless powder which consists in applying to the outer layer of a collection of such grains liquid solvent in such finely divided state that the separate particles of the solvent contain less than sufficient solvent to satisfy any single grain, and continuously changing the individual grains composing such outer layer.

1,752,882. SCRUBBING MACHINE. HARRY O. BOUTWELL, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 29, 1927. Serial No. 202,235. 2 Claims. (Cl. 15—7.)



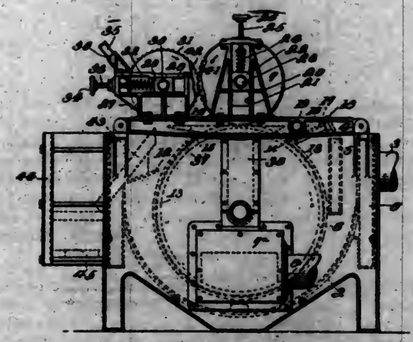
2. A scrubbing machine comprising in combination a scrubbing chamber having front, back and side walls, the front wall having a suction chamber open at the bottom, a plurality of scrubbing brushes mounted on vertical axes adjacent the front wall and at the corners of the scrubbing chamber, means to supply water to the brushes, and a pump operatively connected to the suction chamber.

1,752,883. FRAME FOR LICENSE PLATES. WILLIAM R. BUSENBARK, Akron, Ohio. Filed July 20, 1927. Serial No. 207,810. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—152.)



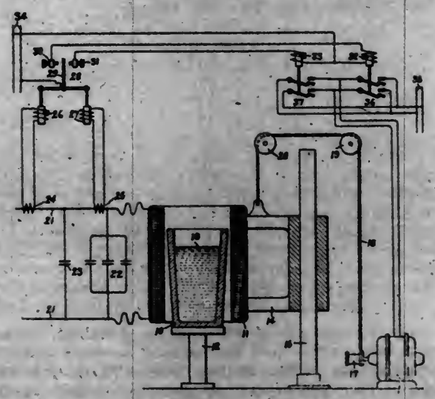
An attachment for an automobile license plate comprising a rectangular flexible elastic rubber frame whose elements are channel-shaped in cross-section to form an endless groove surrounding an opening in the frame, there being gussets in the corners to produce a widening of the frame at these points.

1,752,884. CREPE-STEAMING RACK. LANSING T. CARPENTER, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., assignor to B. G. Carpenter & Co. Inc., Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Filed Nov. 8, 1928. Serial No. 316,981. 8 Claims. (Cl. 242—130.)



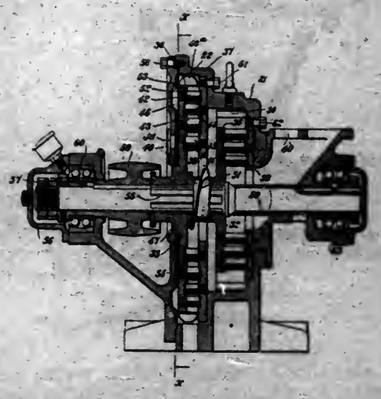
1. A sheet metal crepe steaming rack comprising a pair of hollow side bars, and a pair of box-like end members welded to the ends of said side bars, intermediate inverted channel bars supported by and welded to said end bars parallel to said side bars, said bars being provided with recesses adapted to receive and support the trunnion pins of bobbins or the like.

1,752,885. DISPENSING DEVICE. FRANK CARROLL, San Enselmo, Calif. Filed June 25, 1928. Serial No. 288,272. 1 Claim. (Cl. 312—53.)



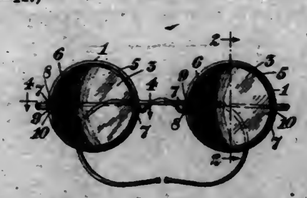
A dispensing device including a casing formed with a dispensing slot, a guide wall within said casing and communicating with said slot, inclined trackways within the casing, a follower movably suspended from said trackways, a roller beneath said guide wall, said follower normally urging a stack of papers, to be dispensed from said casing, against said guide wall and said roller, the position of said roller beneath said wall being such as to cause a bend in said stack, and said roller being formed with a frictional part and with a tread adapted to agitate said stack of papers during rotation of the roller and to move one of said papers through said slot.

1,752,886. APPARATUS FOR HANDLING PAPER PULP. FRED B. CHAPPELL, Glens Falls, N. Y., assignor of one-half to Glens Falls Machine Works, Glens Falls, N. Y., a Corporation of New York; Annie Mae Chappell and William T. Cowles executors of Fred B. Chappell, deceased. Filed Aug. 6, 1926. Serial No. 127,599. 1 Claim. (Cl. 92—42.)



An apparatus for dewatering paper pulp including a tank having an inlet for a mixture of pulp and liquid, a foraminous drum arranged in said tank and through which water may be removed from the pulp, a water outlet for removing water from the interior of said drum, a couch roll coacting with the drum to squeese water from the pulp and arranged to remove the pulp from the drum, a squeesing roll coacting with the couch roll to squeese water from the pulp, and arranged to remove the pulp from the couch roll, means for removing the pulp from the squeesing roll in a semi-fluid state and a drain pan extending along the tank and arranged beneath the line of contact between the rolls for gathering moisture squeesed out between the rolls.

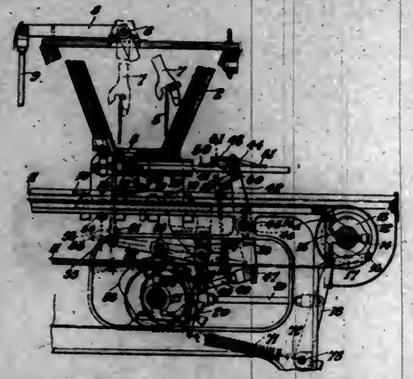
1,752,887. INDUCTION FURNACE. GEORGE A. CHUTTER, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 18, 1928. Serial No. 269,778. 8 Claims. (Cl. 266—1.5.)



7. In a high frequency induction furnace, a heat refractory crucible for containing metal to be heated, a primary winding surrounding said crucible, a vertical post, a support for said winding slidably mounted on said post, a reversible motor connected to said support so as to raise said support when operated in one direction and to lower said support when operated in the other direction, an alternating current supply for said winding, and means responsive to changes in the power factor of said current from lagging to leading or from leading to lagging for reversing the direction of rotation of said motor and consequently the position of said winding, whereby a substantially unity power factor is maintained.

1,752,888. GRINDING, PULVERIZING, OR DISINTEGRATING MILL. WALTER AMELIUS CLOUD, Chiswick, London, England. Filed June 14, 1926, Serial No. 115,975, and in Great Britain July 20, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 83—11.)

1. A grinding, pulverizing or disintegrating mill including cooperating pairs of disks, one disk of each pair being fixed and the other disk of each pair being rotary, cooperating pins on the disks of each pair for treating the material, propeller blades attached to one of the rotary disks, and a fan blade to assist in directing material from the center of the machine outwardly to said pins.



1,752,889. ANTIDAZZLE SPECTACLES. EDWIN THOMAS CORNWELL and FREDERICK WILLIAM CORNWELL, London, England. Filed Apr. 18, 1929, Serial No. 356,252, and in Great Britain Apr. 11, 1928. 1 Claim. (Cl. 88—41.)

In an eyeglass the combination with a circular supporting rim, of a second split rim rotatably mounted within said first rim and adapted to receive a light transmitting disc, means for connecting the ends of said split rim to rigidly clamp the disc therein, means projecting from and integral with a portion of said last named means by which said split rim may be rotated within said supporting rim, a false rim rotatably mounted within the circular supporting rim, a circular disc of transparent non-rigid sheet material mounted in the false rim and tinted at one side and clear at the other so as to shield a non-central portion only of the total vision through the rim, the tinted portion being vignetted off toward the central portion of said disc, and a pair of discs of glass also mounted in the false rim sandwiching face-to-face the tinted disc between them, the false rim with the discs mounted within it being adjustable by rotation in the circular supporting rim carrying it to vary at will the direction in which the vision through the latter is shielded.

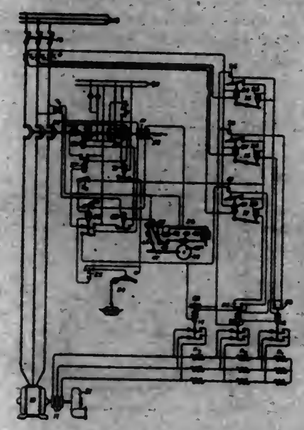
1,752,890. PLASTIC MATERIAL MEASURING AND FILLING MACHINE. WILLIAM ARTHUR COTTS, London, England, assignor to J. Lyons and Company, Limited, London, England. Filed Apr. 8, 1926, Serial No. 100,759, and in Great Britain May 14, 1925. 7 Claims. (Cl. 226—99.)

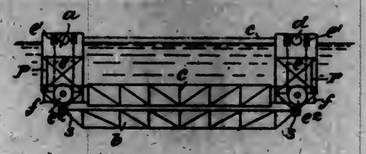


7. Apparatus for dividing off and feeding measured quantities of plastic material into receptacles, comprising a guide-way and intermittently operated mechanism for feeding the receptacles into filling position and delivering them therefrom after filling, a measuring cylinder having a reciprocating plunger, a continuously oscillating lever, two oppositely disposed pivoted pawls carried by the continuously oscillating lever one for effecting the feed and the other the return movement of the plunger, a reciprocating feeler normally extending transversely into the guide-way at filling position, a cam, a lever operated thereby, a catch lever, the catch lever being linked at one end to the reciprocating feeler and provided at its other end with a catch normally holding the cam operated lever away from the cam but removable therefrom by the feeler when engaged by a receptacle, and means actuated by the cam operated lever for causing the oscillating lever to engage the pawls with the feeding plunger.

1,752,891. CAPONIZING INSTRUMENT. CLIFFORD F. CRIDLAND, Carter County, Mont. Filed Sept. 5, 1929. Serial No. 390,607. 8 Claims. (Cl. 128—306.)

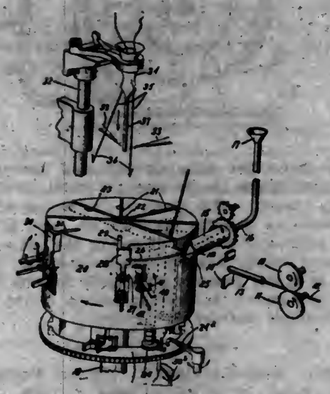
1. An instrument of the character described, comprising a pair of pivotally connected jaws each terminating at its forward end in a laterally directed finger, said fingers being adapted to be brought into side by side contacting relation, a guard member carried by one of the jaws normally overlapping the adjacent jaw, and means for securing the jaws in closed position.

1,752,892. MOTOR CONTROL. JOHN C. CUMBERLAND, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed May 18, 1926. Serial No. 109,844. 11 Claims. (Cl. 172—289.)



1. In combination in a system of motor control, line switch mechanism for the motor, motor speed regulating means, master switch mechanism for controlling said line switch mechanism to start and stop the motor, electro-responsive means controlled by the master switch mechanism for insuring immediate response of said speed regulating means to effect deceleration of the motor, and electro-responsive time element means under the control of said master mechanism for maintaining said line switch mechanism closed to insure continued operation of said motor at low speed for a predetermined time interval after operation of said master switch mechanism to effect deceleration of said motor.

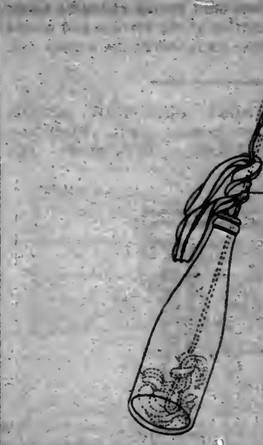
1,752,893. HAIRPIN. EDWARD D. DAVIS, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Boye Needle Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 25, 1928. Serial No. 295,289. 6 Claims. (Cl. 132—50.)



1. A clip hair pin of the character described, comprising a loop portion and hair-clasping members extending therefrom and having portions thereof in adjacent relation, at least one of said members having lock-engaging corrugations and at least one of said members having a superficially roughened inner surface adapted to engage individual hairs of the clasped locks.

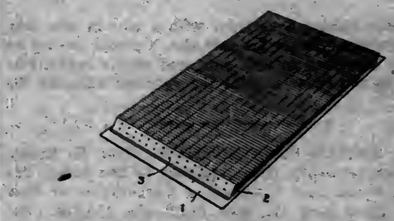
1,752,894. FLOATING DOCK FOR WATER AIRCRAFT. PAUL DSEN, Kiel-Dietrichsdorf, Germany, assignor to the Firm Howaldtswerke Aktiengesellschaft, Kiel-Neumuhlen-Dietrichsdorf, Germany. Filed May 22, 1928, Serial No. 279,827, and in Germany May 3, 1927. 4 Claims. (Cl. 114—0.5.)

1. Floating dock for water aircraft comprising a liftable bottom member, shallow floating sides, vertically extending guide means operatively connecting said bottom member with said sides, transverse members connecting said sides below the maximum depth of submergence of said bottom member, and lifting gear disposed on said sides and operatively connected with said liftable bottom member.



1,752,895. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR MOUNTING FILAMENTS. HENDRIK DE JONG, Eindhoven, Netherlands, assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 1, 1927, Serial No. 230,336, and in the Netherlands Dec. 1, 1926. 19 Claims. (Cl. 176—3.)

1. The method of mounting filaments on the support wires of incandescent lamps and similar devices which consists in positioning and holding a plurality of straight support wires in a holder with one end of each wire projecting from the holder, placing the filament transversely of said projecting ends of the support wires, bending said projecting ends about the filament, and inserting the other ends of all of said positioned support wires simultaneously in the glass arbor of a stem.



1,752,896. CLOTH HOLDER. WALTER H. DRUBNER, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Aug. 30, 1926. Serial No. 132,414. 1 Claim. (Cl. 15—141.)

A holder including, a shank and a handle secured to the upper end thereof, the other end being bent to form an elongated loop, the sides of the loop being formed into opposite arcuations with a narrow passage between the opposite upper and lower arcuations, and the free end of the wire bent to form a hook extending in proximity to the opposite side of the loop.

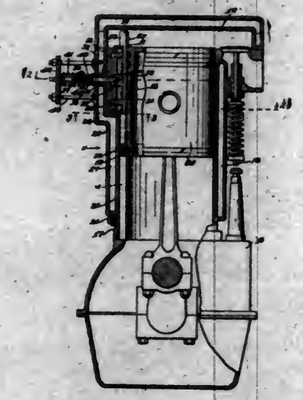
1,752,897. PLAITER. MARGARET D. DICKMAN, Duluth, Minn. Filed Apr. 20, 1929. Serial No. 356,830. 3 Claims. (Cl. 223—40.)

1. A plaiter of the class described composed of a plurality of overlapping perforated plait forming elements for the purpose described.



1,752,898. PAPER-HANGING MACHINE. MICHAEL J. DI GIACOMO, Wilmington, Del. Filed Mar. 14, 1929. Serial No. 346,895. 8 Claims. (Cl. 216—6.)

1. A paper hanging machine comprising, in combination, a supporting member, a paper supply roll carrier mounted on said member, means pivotally mounted on said member on an axis normal to the plane of the paper to press paper against a surface, said means yieldable about said pivot to follow irregularities of the surface and means to apply adhesive to the paper as it leaves the supply roll.

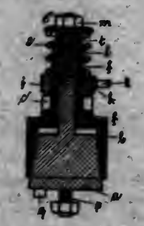
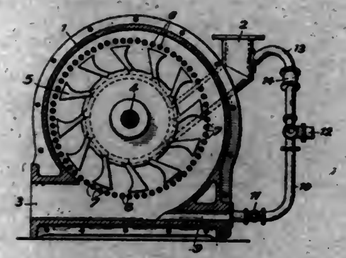
1,752,899. COUNTER-THRUST PRESSURE MOTOR. CLARENCE G. EDWARDS, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 11, 1928. Serial No. 269,087. 13 Claims. (Cl. 123—173.)



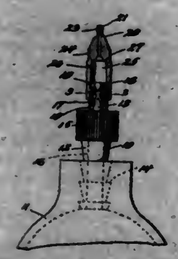
1. A motor having a cylinder with a slot in one side, a cover forming a closure for said slot, a piston having an obstruction operating in said slot, and means operatively connected to the cover to cool the cylinder adjacent the said slot.

1,752,900. SWITCH CONSTRUCTION. CARL W. EISENMANN, Nebraska City, Nebr., assignor to The Safety Car Heating & Lighting Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 17, 1926, Serial No. 116,544. Renewed Aug. 16, 1929. 8 Claims. (Cl. 171—314.)



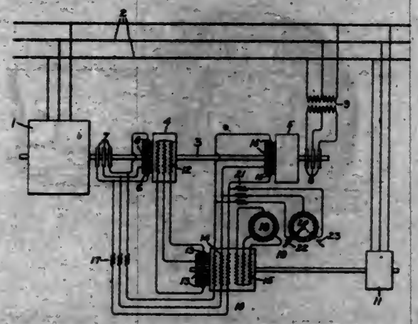
1. In apparatus of the character described, in combination, a generator, a storage battery, a switch for connecting said generator and said battery, electromagnetic means arranged to exert a tractive effort upon said switch substantially proportional to the generator voltage and tending to close said switch, and electromagnetic means for opposing a closing movement of said switch including an energizing coil responsive to generator voltage and an energizing coil responsive to the difference between generator voltage and battery voltage.

1,752,901. ROWING APPARATUS FOR GYMNASTIC EXERCISES. JULIUS FALKENBURG, Neuwied-on-the-Rhine, Germany. Filed June 25, 1927, Serial No. 201,497, and in Germany May 25, 1927. 2 Claims. (Cl. 272—72.)



2. A rowing apparatus for gymnastic exercises, comprising a friction-resistance brake, said brake characterized by two interfitting friction cones the outer of said cones having an enlarged tubular extension, teeth formed on said enlarged extension, a ring having teeth in its lower edge slidably mounted on said tubular extension above said enlarged portion, and a ball bearing on the top end of said tubular extension.

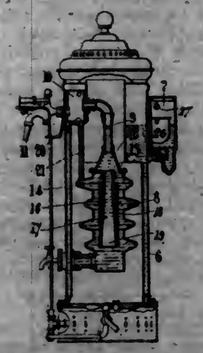
1,752,902. DEVICE FOR DISINTEGRATING AND CONVEYING MATERIALS. AUGUST FARNER, Kusnacht-Zurich, Switzerland. Filed Aug. 15, 1927. Serial No. 213,026. 4 Claims. (Cl. 83—11.)



1. A device for disintegrating and conveying materials, comprising a blower having a casing provided with a delivery branch, a fan rotor in the casing whose blades are formed as crushing members, an anvil grid of separately removable bars surrounding the rotor, said grid and rotor being mounted excentrically to the casing, means to supply pressure air to said delivery branch and means to connect the delivery branch to the eye of the rotor to admit pressure air thereto.

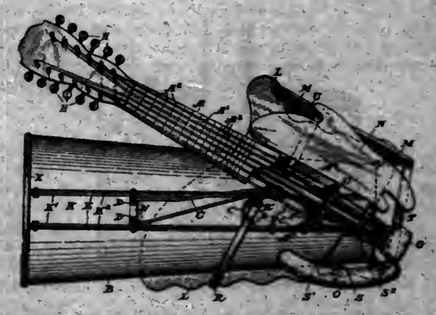
1,752,903. NEEDLE DRIER. PHILIP WESLEY FLAGGE, High Point, N. C. Filed May 3, 1929. Serial No. 360,280. 10 Claims. (Cl. 34—26.)

1. A drier for tubular instruments, comprising means for passing the drying fluid from the interior of said tubular instruments out through both ends thereof.



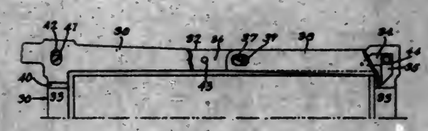
1,752,904. SYSTEM OF INDUCTION-MOTOR CONTROL. EUGEN HANDSCHIN, Baden, Switzerland, assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 15, 1928, Serial No. 299,847, and in Germany Sept. 1, 1927. 6 Claims. (Cl. 172—274.)

1. The method of operating induction motors which consists in supplying to the secondary windings thereof an excitation voltage made up of two components, one component being substantially equal to the no-load secondary voltage of the induction motor at any speed, the second component supplying an additional excitation corresponding to the output torque of the motor, and reducing said second component to zero at synchronous speed.



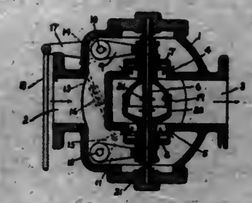
2. In combination an induction machine, an exciter connected in cascade with the rotor of said machine, means for causing said exciter to supply a voltage having two components one of said components being equal to the no-load secondary voltage of the induction machine at any speed, the second component being proportional to and determining the torque of said machine, and means for eliminating said second component at synchronous speed of the induction machine.

1,752,905. WATER BOILER. HAROLD HARGREAVES, Burnley, England, assignor to Jackson Boilers Limited, Leeds, England, a British Company. Filed Dec. 30, 1926, Serial No. 158,042, and in Great Britain Apr. 13, 1926. 1 Claim. (Cl. 126—350.)



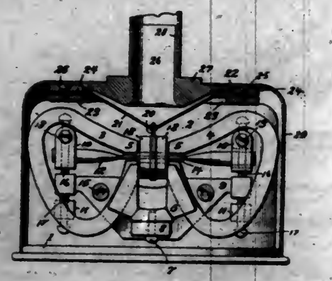
In apparatus of the class described, a boiler comprising an outer water jacket and an interiorly arranged boiling chamber, an expansion pipe leading upwardly from said boiling chamber, a collector into which the expansion pipe discharges, said collector being provided with a tap, and a duct of restricted capacity connecting the lower portion of the collector to the boiling chamber and means to supply said outer water jacket with water.

1,752,906. STRINGED INSTRUMENT. JOHAN EMIL HILLESBRANDT, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed July 21, 1928. Serial No. 294,393. 5 Claims. (Cl. 84—294.)



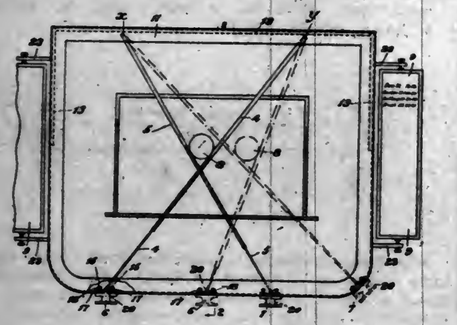
1. A stringed musical instrument comprising a metal resonator closed at one end thereof, a neck having a keyboard connected thereto adjacent said closed end and extending at an angle to the median line of said resonator, and a base-plate held in spaced relation to said resonator.

1,752,907. MOLDING FLASK. JAMES F. HINES, Lakewood, Ohio. Filed Jan. 2, 1926. Serial No. 78,795. 4 Claims. (Cl. 22—111.)



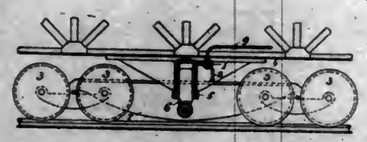
1. A flask comprising a polygonal shell having sand strip means on certain sides thereof each comprising means arranged, when advanced into the mold space, to extend into said space to a greater extent adjacent the ends of the side than centrally of said side.

1,752,908. BALANCED VALVE. PAUL HÖSEL, Charlottenburg, Germany, assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 17, 1928, Serial No. 255,181, and in Germany Mar. 1, 1927. 4 Claims. (Cl. 277—12.)



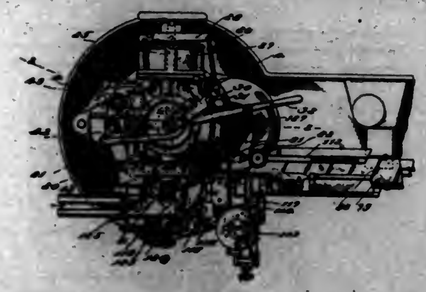
1. In a valve structure, a valve casing, walls in the casing which define oppositely-arranged valve seats, valve disks for said seats, means for moving said valve disks simultaneously toward and away from said valve seats, and balancing pistons for said valve disks.

1,752,909. LOUD-SPEAKER. CHARLES A. HOXIE, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 12, 1922. Serial No. 588,088. 34 Claims. (Cl. 179—114.)



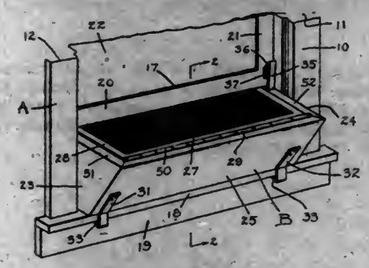
1. A sound reproducing device comprising a diaphragm actuating element consisting of a tubular member rigidly supported at its ends and flattened at its middle portion.

1,752,910. DEVICE FOR CARRYING MAPS. GEORGE PERCIVAL KENT, Grove Park, London, England. Filed Apr. 22, 1929, Serial No. 357,128, and in Great Britain Mar. 3, 1928. 6 Claims. (Cl. 88—39.)



1. A device for holding maps comprising a frame having parallel transparent sheets, a pair of telescopic cross bars maintained in pivotal and adjustable engagement with the frame to provide adjacent to their points of intersection a support for a lens.

1,752,911. HANGAR FOR AIRSHIPS. OTTO KRELL, Berlin-Dahlem, Germany. Filed June 30, 1928, Serial No. 289,486, and in Germany Apr. 1, 1927. 9 Claims. (Cl. 244—2.)

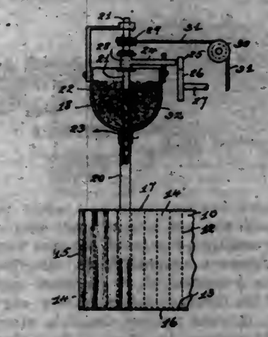


1. In a rotatable movable hangar for dirigibles, intermediate hydraulic members, consisting of a cylinder with reciprocating piston, inserted between the wheel truck and the supporting plate at the underside of the hangar platform, a hydraulic accumulator (pressure equaliser) in which a constant pressure is maintained, and pipes for connecting all said cylinders with said accumulator and one another.

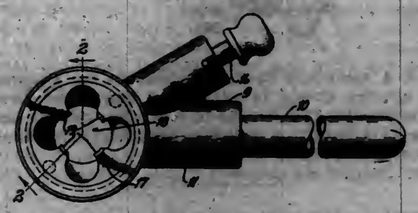
1,752,912. CAN-CLOSING MACHINE. ALFRED L. KRONQUEST, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Continental Can Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 15, 1926. Serial No. 155,017. 30 Claims. (Cl. 113—24.)

1. A can closing machine comprising a continuously rotating carrier, a series of cooperating rotating upper and lower chucks mounted on said carrier, seaming mechanism associated with each pair of cooperating chucks, means for raising and lowering the lower chuck for clamping and releasing the can body and can end, said means for raising and lowering the lower chuck including toggle levers adapted to move past dead center when the chuck is raised, whereby said toggle levers hold the chuck raised independent of the actuating means for the toggle levers, and actuating means for positively moving said toggle levers toward and away from dead center.

1,752,913. WINDOW VENTILATOR. HANNAH H. LEE, St. Paul, Minn., assignor of one-third to Frances R. Markert, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Dec. 10, 1927. Serial No. 239,121. 2 Claims. (Cl. 98—99.)



2. A ventilator for application to a double hung window comprising a case adapted to be inserted within the opening formed upon raising the lower sash, said case being open at the top, a perforate closure for said opening hinged to the case and having the movable edge thereof disposed beneath the lower sash, and means for simultaneously attaching the said case to said lower sash and restraining said closure from opening.



1,752,914. CORK-FILLED FABRIC AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME. HUGO LEIBS, Baltimore, Md. Filed Oct. 22, 1926. Serial No. 143,502. 2 Claims. (Cl. 154—2.)

2. The process of producing an insulated cork-filled fabric consisting in stitching plural plies of fabric together to form a series of parallel passages closed at the bottom but open at the top, then slipping the plural ply fabric over the lower end of a tube until the tube-end terminates adjacent to the lower closed end of one of the parallel passages, feeding granular cork through the tube to the lower closed-end of the passage to prevent frictional contact between the ingoing cork and the passage wall and causing the feeding of the cork into the passage to force the fabric from the tube as the filling of the passage progresses to effect uniform filling, then stitching across the filling ends of the parallel passages to close the latter and finally stitching the filled passages in a crosswise direction to confine the cork in cells.

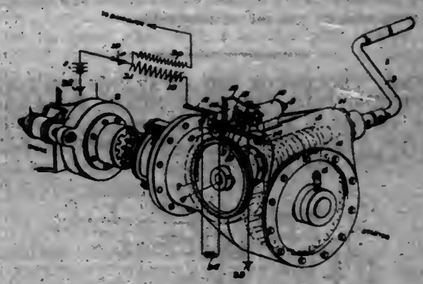
1,752,915. THREAD-CUTTING DEVICE. TIDEMAN M. LILLEBERG, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Nye Tool & Machine Works, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 23, 1928. Serial No. 272,110. 1 Claim. (Cl. 10—124.)

A thread-cutting device comprising a head having a cylindrical portion, an outwardly extending flange at one end of said portion having peripheral screw threads, an operating means journalled on said cylindrical portion and coacting therewith, a die block entirely exteriorly of said head having its base in contact with the outer side wall of said flange, whereby said operating member and die block are on opposite sides of the flange to aid in reinforcing the same, a ring surrounding said flange and screw threaded thereto, said ring extending outwardly beyond the flange and overlapping the die block whereby said flange and die block are both peripherally reinforced, said die-block having a tapered peripheral face, said ring also extending inwardly and having a tapered clamping face corresponding to and engaging the tapered face of the die-block to clamp the latter against the flange, and a pin connection detachably holding the die-block against rotation.

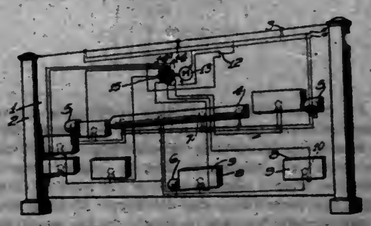
1,752,916. SOLUTIONS OF THE ACTIVE PRINCIPLE FROM ANIMAL ORGANS AND THE PROCESS OF PREPARING THE SAME. WILLI LUDWIG, Hochst-on-the-Main, and OTTO SCHAUMANN, Wiesbaden, Germany, assignors to Winthrop Chemical Company Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation. Filed Oct. 6, 1927, Serial No. 224,516, and in Germany Oct. 15, 1926. 7 Claims. (Cl. 167—74.)



2. The process of preparing efficacious and well endurable solutions of the active principle from animal organs, which process consists in treating the respective crude extracts obtained in the usual manner with diethyline and fractionally precipitating from the extract so prepared the ballast substances by means of water.

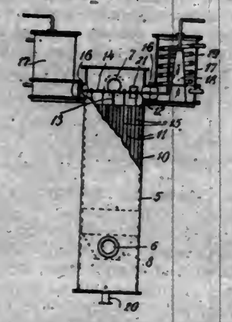
6. As new products, solutions of the active principle from animal organs in diethyline and water being free from any ballast-substances and capable of being diluted to any extent with water without showing any precipitation, said products possessing a very high efficacy and the property of being well endurable.

1,752,917. DIELECTRIC SUBSTANCE. ALAN R. LUKENS, Wyoming, Ohio, assignor to The Richardson Company, Lockland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 12, 1928. Serial No. 681,743. 4 Claims. (Cl. 106—2.)



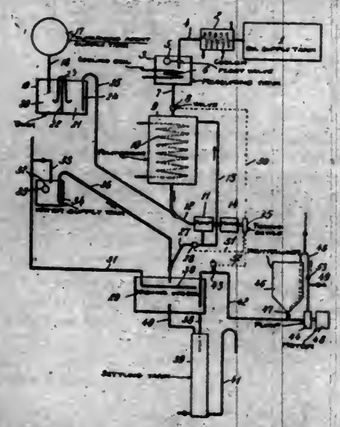
3. A molded article for use in the presence of electrolytic action comprising bitumen with finely divided acid resistant mineral matter and organic fibre, said organic fibre being in proporton of 10% to 15% of the mass by weght, and uniformly dispersed in the bitumen and coated thereby to an extent comparative to colloidal mixture.

1,752,918. IGNITION SYSTEM. CHARLES MARCUS, New York, N. Y., assignor to Eclipse Machine Company, Elmira Heights, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 12, 1927. Serial No. 232,927. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—179.)



1. In combination with an engine starter, a battery, means including a cam mounted on and actuated by said starter, contacts controlled by said cam, an induction coil having the primary thereof in circuit with said contacts, and a switch for placing said battery in circuit with said primary and contacts.

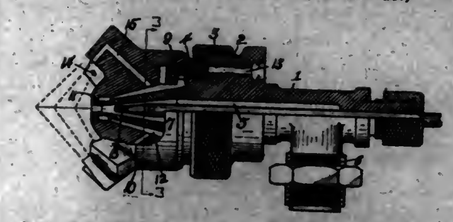
1,752,919. ADVERTISING APPARATUS. THOMAS J. MCCLEAVE, San Diego, Calif. Filed June 26, 1926. Serial No. 118,711. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—130.)



2. In an advertising apparatus of the class described, a scenic display having readily replaceable light emitting advertising portions arranged therein, an illuminating compartment arranged at the back side of said scenic display behind each of said light emitting portions, and means for variously, independently, and intermittently illuminating said compartments.

1,752,920. ELECTRICAL PRECIPITATOR. GREGORY EDWARD MCCLOSKEY, South Orange, N. J., assignor to The Barrett Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Feb. 10, 1927. Serial No. 167,388. 2 Claims. (Cl. 183—7.)

1. In an electrical precipitator, a shell having an inlet and an outlet for gases, two sets of electrodes therein and a casing spaced laterally from the shell and forming a chamber, the shell having an opening below the top thereof affording communication with the chamber and the bottom of the casing being in the plane of the bottom of the opening, whereby liquid condensed in the chamber is permitted to drain into the shell, an insulator in the chamber, and a bus-bar supported on the insulator and connected to one set of electrodes.

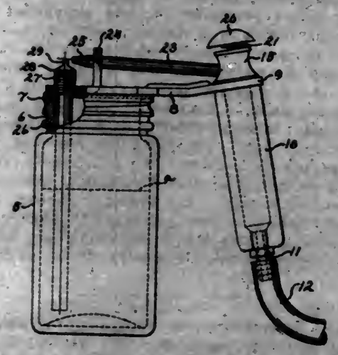


1,752,921. PROCESS OF AND APPARATUS FOR POLYMERIZING OILS. STUART P. MILLER, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to The Barrett Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Jan. 23, 1925. Serial No. 4,141. 18 Claims. (Cl. 260—7.)

7. In combination, a mixing device, a plurality of measuring tanks in communication with said mixing device, means for permitting the discharge of said measuring tanks into said mixing device, a supply line in communication with a discharge line for said mixing device, a valve for permitting the discharge of said mixing device and supply line and a single means controlling said discharge means and valve.

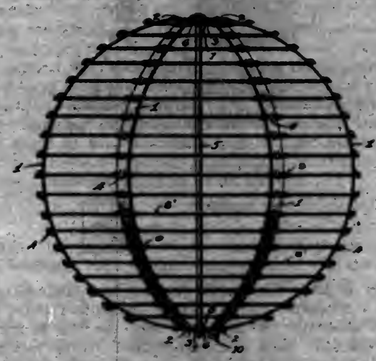
14. The process of polymerizing oil which comprises periodically introducing a definite amount of polymerizable oil and a definite amount of a polymerizing agent and agitating said oil and agent for a definite length of time, the introduction of the polymerizing agent being automatically initiated and controlled by the agitation of the oil.

1,752,922. SPRAY HEAD. GODFREY A. MUELLER, Point Place, Ohio, assignor to The De Vilbiss Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 21, 1927. Serial No. 185,884. 4 Claims. (Cl. 91—45.)



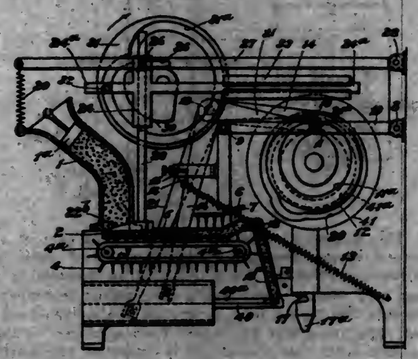
1. A spray-head having inner and outer nozzles for discharging liquid and air respectively, said outer nozzle having a plurality of sets of opposed supplemental air discharge passages adapted to be selectively placed in register with a source of air pressure supply, with the passages of the different sets relatively angled to discharge their air streams against the main stream at different points therealong to effect a flattening of such stream.

1,752,923. SPRAY HEAD. GODFREY A. MUELLER, Point Place, Ohio, assignor to The De Vilbiss Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 21, 1927. Serial No. 185,885. 11 Claims. (Cl. 91—45.)



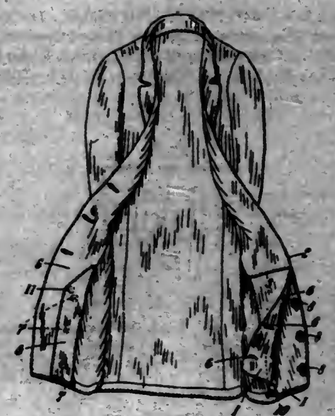
1. A spray-head having provision for the discharge of a spraying stream therefrom, and nipples for directing supplemental fluid streams in converging relation against the main stream, said nipples being angularly adjustable to vary the angles of convergence.

1,752,924. SPRAYING DEVICE. GODFREY A. MUELLER, Point Place, Ohio, assignor to The De Vilbiss Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Feb. 29, 1928. Serial No. 257,833. 5 Claims. (Cl. 91—45.)



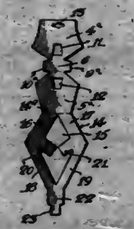
1. The combination with a receptacle for containing material to be sprayed, of a material discharge conduit leading therefrom and having a discharge nozzle, an arm secured to the top of the receptacle and having an opening in its outer end portion, a compressed air conduit, a plug having a threaded connection with the conduit and extending through said opening and provided with an outlet passage, and an air discharge nozzle leading from said passage and directed across the material discharge nozzle, said plug and conduit having cooperating surfaces to clamp them to the edge of the opening in the arm, said opening being long enough to permit adjustment of said air nozzle and conduit toward and away from the material discharge nozzle.

1,752,925. RADIOANTENNA. LEO F. NOIROT, OTTO G. NOIROT, and GEORGE C. RUPERT, Peoria, Ill. Filed Oct. 21, 1927. Serial No. 227,805. 3 Claims. (Cl. 250—33.)



1. An antenna structure including a series of strips circularly curved in the direction of their lengths, a member at each end of the strips to which the same are secured in radiating spaced relation, a series of ears struck up from the strips at their outer sides along the lengths thereof in spaced relation, and a winding of wire mounted upon the structure lodged against said ears, the windings of said wire being insulated from said strips and from each other.

1,752,926. BRUSH-MAKING MACHINE. EDWARD BAILEY PAGE, Norwich, England. Filed June 28, 1928, Serial No. 288,978, and in Great Britain July 18, 1927. 5 Claims. (Cl. 300—7.)

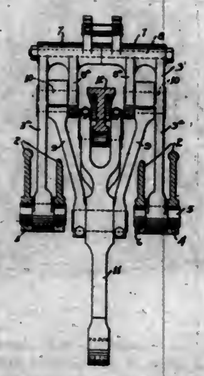


1. An automatic bristle feeding device for brush making machines, comprising a bristle feed hopper, a downwardly extending feed channel for the bristles, means for feeding the bristles from the hopper to the downwardly extending feed channel, a horisontally moving picker, a vertically reciprocating filling nozzle, and means for reciprocating the same, and means for reciprocating the picker horisontally below the lower end of the downwardly extending feed channel so as to convey a knot of bristles from the picker to the vertically reciprocating filling nozzle.

1,752,927. WEARING APPAREL. ADOLPHE ALIX PERSON, Oxford, England, assignor of one-half to Elliston & Cavell Limited, Oxford, England, a Company of Great Britain. Filed Oct. 29, 1928, Serial No. 315,778, and in Great Britain Jan. 12, 1928. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—85.)

A garment of the extending skirt type with a divided front, having one edge of the divided front formed, adjacent its lower edge, with a narrow plait, which latter extends upwards for a short distance and is secured to the inner surface of the garment by a horizontal line of stitching at a point adjacent the lowermost coat fastening, a short narrow strip attached adjacent the lower edge of the opposite divided front and means for interengaging the said strip with the plait, and securing the plait and the strip to the edges of the garment carrying them when same are not in use.

1,752,928. PROCESS OF AND BLANK FOR USE IN MAKING SLIDERS FOR SEPARABLE FASTENERS. GEORGE R. PRENTICE, Berlin, Conn. Filed Apr. 22, 1927. Serial No. 185,875. 27 Claims. (Cl. 113—116.)



1. That process of making a slider of the class described which comprises as steps preparing a sheet metal blank having parts shaped appropriately to constitute front and rear wings, a neck, and a flat rivet member, bending the blank at the junctions of the neck and wings to bring the wings into substantially parallel relation, disposing the flat surface of the rivet member in a plane which is substantially perpendicular to the wings and parallel to the longitudinal axis of the slider, and causing the rivet member to unite the wings at a point spaced from the neck.

21. A blank for use in making a one-piece slider body for use with separable fasteners of the class described, said blank consisting of a unitary piece of sheet material having wing portions united by a relatively narrow neck, an extension united to the free end of one wing, and a rivet member integral with said extension at a point intermediate the ends of the latter.

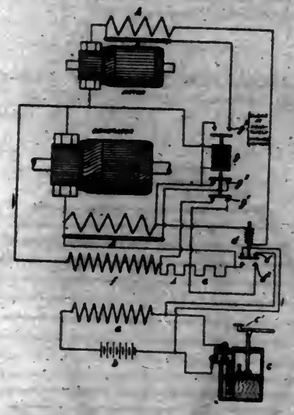
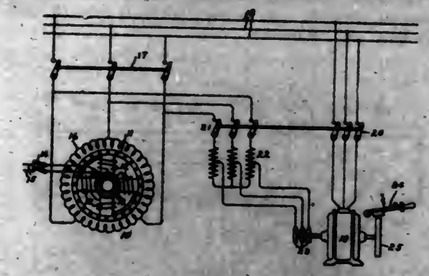
1,752,929. LOCOMOTIVE VALVE GEAR. JAY D. PURDY, Swanton, Ohio, assignor to The Pilliod Company, Swanton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 18, 1929. Serial No. 370,542. 3 Claims. (Cl. 121—168.)

1. In a locomotive valve gear, a gear frame having pairs of laterally spaced parallel side bars, a reverse yoke having vertically disposed arms, means pivotally connecting each arm to one pair of side bars, a pair of shorter arms integral with said reverse yoke, each shorter arm being spaced inwardly from one of said vertically disposed arms, a pair of radius bars, and means pivotally connecting each radius bar to an adjacent shorter and vertically disposed arm.



1,752,930. ELECTRIC SWITCH. PHILIP POLLOCK QUAYLE, Chevy Chase, Md. Filed June 14, 1927. Serial No. 198,862. 9 Claims. (Cl. 200—106.)

1. A switch comprising a shaft, an arm carried by said shaft, a terminal interposed in a circuit and adapted to be electrically engaged by said arm, balanced springs coupled to the ends of said shaft, and a latch to hold said arm under the tension of said springs.

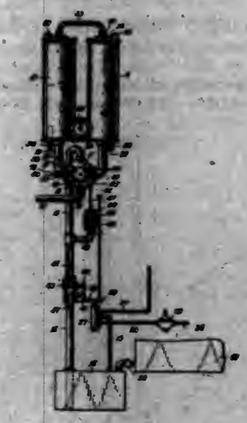


1,752,931. GAS ELECTRIC DRIVE. FRANK E. QUERNER, Teaneck, N. J., assignor to International Motor Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 11, 1926. Serial No. 140,764. 11 Claims. (Cl. 290—14.)

1. In a drive for motor vehicles, in combination, an engine, a generator driven thereby, a motor and means operable upon a predetermined excess voltage to weaken the motor field and upon a predetermined minimum voltage to strengthen the field, whereby the engine speed is maintained within a predetermined range dependent upon the voltage off of the motor.

10. In a drive for motor vehicles in combination, an engine, a generator driven thereby, series and shunt fields for the generator, a motor, a field for the motor and means operable upon a predetermined excess voltage to weaken the motor field and generator shunt field and strengthen the generator series field, and upon a predetermined minimum voltage to strengthen the first two and weaken the last, whereby the engine speed is maintained within a predetermined range dependent upon the voltage of the motor.

1,752,932. STARTING SYNCHRONOUS MOTORS. ALEXANDER R. STEVENSON, Jr., Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 3, 1925. Serial No. 12,921. 4 Claims. (Cl. 172—280.)



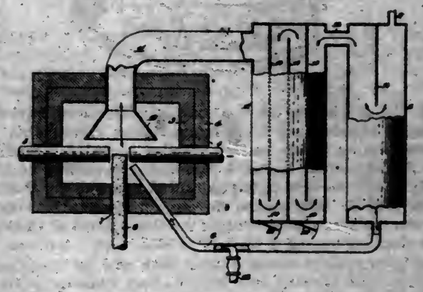
1. The method of starting an alternating current synchronous motor having direct current field poles and amortisseur windings which consists in connecting the motor to a source of substantially constant frequency to accelerate the motor to a predetermined subsynchronous speed, then energizing the motor from a source having a frequency such that the motor is operated substantially synchronously at said predetermined speed, then exciting the direct current poles of the motor to lock the same in step with said second source, then increasing the frequency of said second source until the motor is accelerated to substantially synchronous speed, with respect to said first source, and then reconnecting the motor with the field poles excited to said first source to operate the motor at synchronous speed.

3. The combination of an alternating current supply source of substantially constant frequency, an alternating current synchronous motor having direct current field poles and relatively high resistance amortisseur windings for supplying a relatively high torque for starting the motor under load and a lower torque for accelerating the motor under load to a sub-synchronous speed, a source of direct current for exciting said field poles, field switch mechanism for controlling the excitation of said field poles, line switch mechanism for connecting the motor to said source of substantially constant frequency to start and accelerate the motor under load to the said sub-synchronous speed with the direct current field poles unexcited and to operate the motor at synchronous speed when accelerated thereto with the direct current field poles excited, frequency changing means, switch mechanism for connecting said means to the source of substantially constant frequency and to said motor with the direct current field poles excited to lock the synchronous motor in step with said frequency changing means at said sub-synchronous speed, and means for controlling said frequency changing means to gradually increase the frequency supplied to said motor and thereby accelerating same from the said sub-synchronous to synchronous speed with the direct current field poles excited.

1,752,933. IMMERSION WAX. FREDERICK W. SULLIVAN, Jr., Whiting, Ind., assignor to Standard Oil Company, Whiting, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Feb. 17, 1928. Serial No. 255,189. 4 Claims. (Cl. 134—15.)

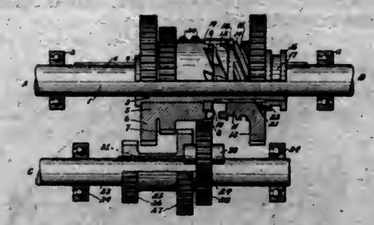
3. The method of prolonging the life of an immersion wax bath comprising adding to a bath of paraffin wax from about 0.05% to about 0.5% of an organic aromatic compound of the class including beta naphthol, pyrogallol, diphenylamine, gallic acid, hydroquinone and paraphenylenediamine.

1,752,934. LIQUID-DISPENSING ARRANGEMENT. WILLIAM S. TOWNSEND and WALTER H. PARKER, Rochester, Pa., assignors, by mesne assignments, to The Wayne Pump Company, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Feb. 19, 1926. Serial No. 89,285. 15 Claims. (Cl. 221—100.)



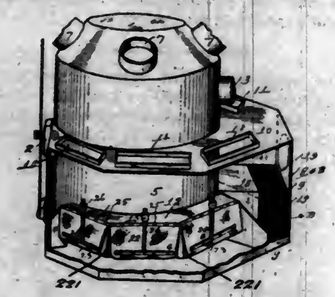
1. In liquid dispensing apparatus, the combination of a measuring container, a liquid supply line for supplying liquid to said container, means for normally reducing the pressure of the supplied liquid at a given point in the supply line, means for controlling the supply of liquid to said container, and means responsive to increased pressure on the low pressure side of said point for causing operation of said controlling means.

1,752,935. ARTIFICIAL FUEL. JOSEPH A. WYLER, Allentown, Pa., assignor to Trojan Powder Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 9, 1928. Serial No. 245,627. 3 Claims. (Cl. 44—7.)



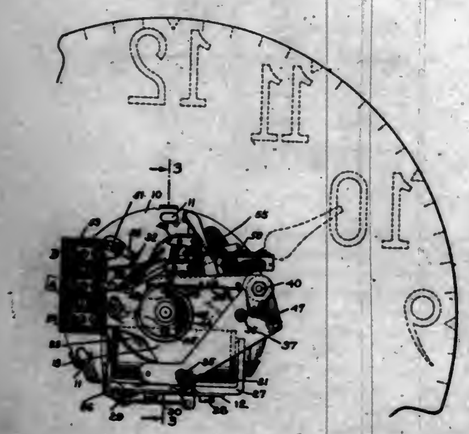
1. An artificial infusible fuel comprising a solidified mixture of alcohol and nitrostarch.

1,752,936. PROCESS FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF ANHYDROUS ALUMINUM CHLORIDE. WRAY ROBERT AUSTIN and JAMES NORMAN SMITH, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, assignors to Farley G. Clark, Toronto, Canada. Filed July 7, 1923. Serial No. 649,999. 16 Claims. (Cl. 23—95.)



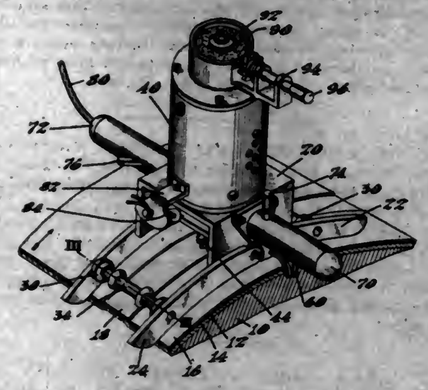
3. The process of making anhydrous aluminum chloride, which comprises heating in a furnace a charge comprising an aluminic material, carbon and chlorine, there being a localized zone within the furnace heated to the volatilization temperature of the carbon and into which the charge is fed.

1,752,937. AUTOMATIC CLUTCH MECHANISM. DAVID A. BARNETT, New Haven, Conn., assignor to Heany Laboratories, Inc., New Haven, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Feb. 24, 1922. Serial No. 538,875. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—57.)



1. In a power transmission mechanism, a shaft, a sleeve slidably and non-rotatably mounted upon said shaft, a clutch member rotatably mounted on said sleeve, a constantly rotating shaft adjacent said first shaft, selective means depending on the position of said sleeve on said first shaft for driving said clutch member at different speeds with respect to said constantly driven shaft, a second clutch member non-rotatably mounted on said sleeve but adapted to have a limited axial movement thereupon toward and away from said first clutch member, said clutch members being adapted to engage each other, whereby said second clutch member is driven by said first clutch member when in engagement, and means to cause said clutch members to separate when said first shaft tends to rotate faster than said first clutch member and to cause the engagement of said clutch members when said first shaft tends to rotate slower than said first clutch member.

1,752,938. AIR-HEATING FURNACE. CHRISTIAN BECKER, Walker Township, Kent County, and FRANK KLEINHEKSEL, Flint, Mich. Filed June 13, 1928. Serial No. 285,028. 8 Claims. (Cl. 126—110.)

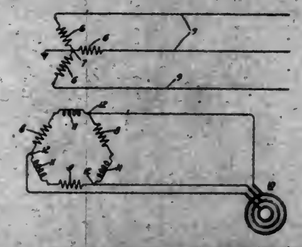


1. An air heater of the character described having a heating element, an open-bottom casing surrounding the same forming an air heating chamber provided with warm air discharge pipe means, a base casing extending horizontally about the first casing and forming a cold air chamber with cold air inlet means thereto, an intermediate casing within the base casing venting into the bottom of the heating chamber having a vertical outside wall, a top wall for said intermediate casing joining with said main casing, a bottom wall beneath said intermediate chamber provided with an air intake therethrough from said cold air chamber to the heating chamber, a normally open flexible valve means suspended in contact with the outer wall of the said intermediate casing and projecting beneath said outside wall and the flexible lower edge adapted to close against the outer wall of the base casing to shunt off the cold air chamber from the heating chamber, an air chute, and fan means for forcing air from said cold air chamber into said heating chamber and thus closing the said valve means by ar pressure therein to compel forced circulation through the heating chamber.

1,752,939. SECONDARY CLOCK. JAMES W. BAYCE, Bloomfield, N. J., assignor to International Time Recording Company of New York, Endicott, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 25, 1925. Serial No. 39,459. 6 Claims. (Cl. 58—26.)

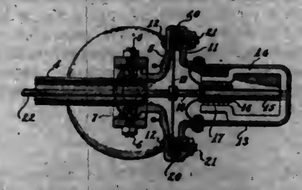
1. A secondary clock having driving mechanism, an impulse magnet, synchronizing control means, a minute shaft, and comprising in combination, a supporting structure which comprises a front plate and a rear plate, means for supporting the impulse magnet between the plates for operating the minute shaft from said impulse magnet, said minute shaft extending rearwardly beyond the rear plate, two contact cams carried on said minute shaft in accessible position beyond the rear plate, said synchronizing control means comprising one arm pivotally mounted in accessible position rearwardly of the rear plate and carrying two contact points and coacting with one of the cams and a second arm also disposed rearwardly of the rear plate and coacting with the other of said cams and carrying a switch blade, and another plate secured to the rear plate for pivotally supporting said arms.

1,752,940. PROCESS AND TOOL FOR SURFACING BLANKET CYLINDERS. ALBERT E. CILLEY, Melrose, Mass. Filed July 3, 1928. Serial No. 290,131. 18 Claims. (Cl. 144—119.)



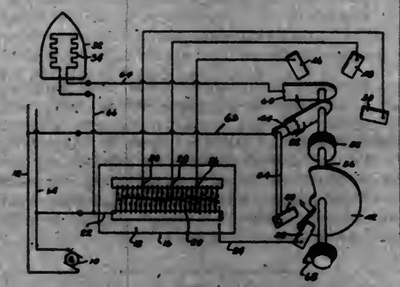
1. A bolster cutting tool comprising a driven cutter, spaced shoes disposed on either side of the cutter, curved to fit the contour of the roll to be operated upon, and serving to locate the cutter with reference to the surface thereof, and means disposed between said shoes for positioning the tools as a whole with reference to a bolster in the roll.

1,752,941. LIQUID-DISPENSING APPARATUS. ANDREW W. CLEARY, Rochester, Pa., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Wayne Pump Company, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Apr. 7, 1927. Serial No. 181,647. 18 Claims. (Cl. 21—100.)



1. In liquid dispensing apparatus of the class described, the combination of a vertically adjustable liquid level controlling conduit having a laterally movable handle, measuring stops adapted to be selectively engaged by said handle, and a laterally movable member mounted on said apparatus independently of said handle for holding said handle against a measuring stop.

1,752,942. PROTECTION OF ELECTRIC SYSTEMS. GEORGE G. CREE, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 9, 1928. Serial No. 253,180. 10 Claims. (Cl. 171—97.)



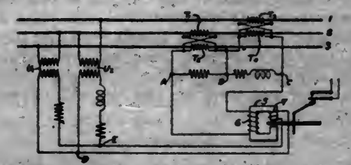
1. In combination with a transformer having windings connected in star with the neutral grounded and windings connected in delta, an impedance device comprising a plurality of mutually inductively related windings connected alternately in series with the delta connected windings.

1,752,943. ELECTRICAL REPRODUCING DEVICE. FRANK L. DYER, Montclair, N. J. Filed Dec. 22, 1924. Serial No. 757,488. 4 Claims. (Cl. 179—100.41.)

1. In an electrical reproducing device the combination of an arm, a needle arm pivoted to the same at one end, a substantially aperiodic flat spring mounted at the other end of the arm, said spring being adapted to maintain the parts in normal position, connections for transmitting vibrations reciprocally between the needle arm and said spring and telephone transmitter mechanism operated by the vibration of the needle arm, substantially as set forth.

1,752,944. MEANS FOR AND METHOD OF CONTROLLING ALTERNATING CURRENTS. AUGUST D. ETZEN, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 24, 1928. Serial No. 272,554. 7 Claims. (Cl. 171—97.)

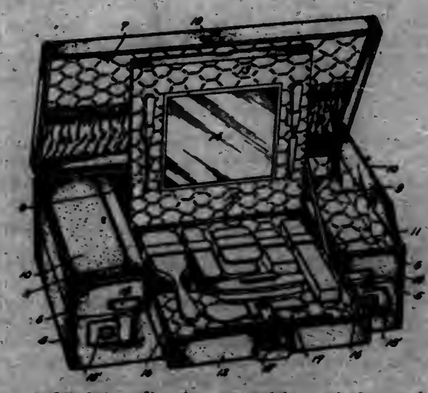
1. In a current controller for alternating currents, an auto-transformer having incoming and outgoing terminals and intermediate taps, conductors for positively connecting the incoming terminal to one main of the source of supply and to one lead of a work circuit, and a unitary switch mechanism having means for connecting the other lead of said work circuit to the other main, and then successively connecting said other lead to said taps one at a time, and means connecting the outgoing terminal of said auto-transformer with the second main substantially simultaneously with the connection of the first tap and maintaining the connection between said outgoing terminal and second main during the connection of said other lead with said other taps.



1,752,945. OIL COMPOSITION, ETC. WALTER W. EVANS, New Rochelle, N. Y., assignor to R. T. Vanderbilt Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 23, 1927. Serial No. 221,623. 6 Claims. (Cl. 87—9.)

1. An oil or grease composition comprising an animal or vegetable oil or fat and a small quantity of an alkylene diaryl diamine.

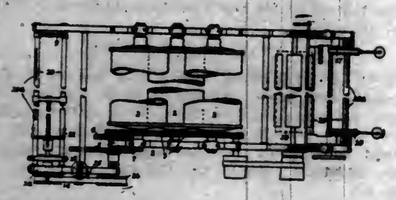
1,752,946. OIL COMPOSITION, ETC. WALTER W. EVANS, Longmeadow, Mass., assignor to R. T. Vanderbilt Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed Sept. 23, 1927, Serial No. 221,623. Divided and this application filed Dec. 26, 1928. Serial No. 328,628. 4 Claims. (Cl. 87—9.)



3. A mineral oil or grease which is intended for use under conditions tending to accelerate deterioration which contains an alkylenediaryldiamine to resist such deterioration.

1,752,947. PROTECTIVE SYSTEM. VLADIMIR GENKIN, Marseille, France. Filed Dec. 23, 1924, Serial No. 757,620, and in Belgium Mar. 21, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 175—294.)

1. In a polyphase system, the combination with an electro-responsive device, of means for energizing said device from said circuit in accordance with symmetrical phase-sequence components of voltage and also of current free of the zero-current component, including a plurality of voltage transformers in line-to-line relation and a plurality of current transformers connected in reverse relationship to neutralize the zero component.



1,752,948. FITTED TRAVELING BAG. ROBERT HERRMANN, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 9, 1927. Serial No. 166,997. 4 Claims. (Cl. 190—51.)

1. A fitted traveling bag comprising a body, an intermediate portion hinged to the body and coextensive therewith, a unitary cover hinged to the intermediate portion and coextensive therewith the intermediate portion having a centrally disposed open-topped slideway, and a removable toilet case, having a cover, slidable in and out of said guideway and removable therefrom as a unit.

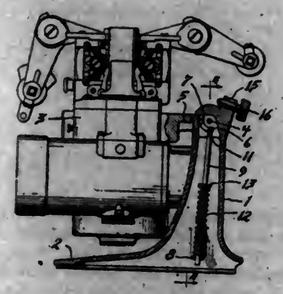
1,752,949. FINISHING MACHINE. FLORENT HINNEKENS, Paterson, N. J., assignor to Van Vlaanderen Machine Company, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Nov. 12, 1928. Serial No. 318,885. 2 Claims. (Cl. 34—48.)



1. A finishing machine of the class in which the goods are passed therethrough first in size-receiving relation to a size-applying means and then around the surfaces of a plurality of heated substantially cylindrical elements whose axes are parallel having two pairs of scales arranged one relatively forward of said means and the other aft of said elements and with the scales in each pair on opposite sides of a common plane at right angles to said axes and all the scales extending transversely of said plane and all having markings consecutively spaced from said plane and at equal intervals from each other and the markings on each scale having indices reading in regular progression from said plane and those on any one scale identical to those on any other scale.
